CONVICTED OF ASSAULT.

A Trial Arising Out of the Newfoundland Fishery Trouble.

HALIFAX, Sept. 11.—Advices from Channel, Nfld., say the grand jury found a true bill against Francois Beohet, a French captain, for assault and false imprisonment of Constable Wilcox. The trial lasted all day and the jury after 10 minutes' delay gave a verdict of guilty on the assault count. The legal question on the other count will be argued hereafter.

Married His Foster Mother.

PORT HURON, Sept. 11.—George Robinson of Fort Gratiot has surprised his friends recently by taking out a marriage license to marry his foster mother. Years ago Mr. and Mrs. Robinson adopted George Turner and gave him the name of Robinson. Mr. Robinson died some time ago and the widow married her adopted son yesterday.

Dragged to Death.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 11.—Walter Cannon, a boy about 15, was killed at Bloomfield on Friday. He was returning home from work at noon on horseback and was carrying a pail when the horse became frightened at the pail and ran away. The boy in trying to jump off slipped his leg through the trace that was tied at the horse's side. The fall of the boy caused the knot to slip till it came near the end of the trace, when it became tight around his ankle. He was dragged a few yards when the horse stopped. When he got up to unfasten the trace the horse became frightened again, kicking the boy in the breast and started off at a furious gait around the field, dragging the poor fellow after him. When the horse was caught the boy was nearly dead, a large hole in his body being, caused by striking against the fence. His face and body were badly bruised. He lived till they carried him into the house, where he breathed his last in a few moments. The funeral took place on Saturday.

A Stone for Benwell's Grave.

GALT, Sept. 11.—Scott & Martindale of this town have received instructions from the friends of the unfortunate young Benwell to manufacture a stone to mark his grave at Princeton. The stone is to be of Sutherland Falls' (Vt.) marble, and will lie on a sandstone foundation. The dimensions are 5 feet 11½ inches in length and 1 foot 6½ inches in height above the foundation, which latter will be one foot above the surface; it will thus be seen that the stone is intended to entirely cover the grave. Before the stone is laid a foundation of brick or stone will be laid six feet deep and an arch built over the coffin. The work has to be completed by Oct. 8.

Has a Competency Left.

WINDSOR, Sept. 11.—Ham Wann, a wealthy young Chinaman from San Francisco arrived here last night on his way to Montreal. He paid the $50 charged by the Government for entering Canada without a murmur, and told the customs officer that he was still worth $2,000,000.

The Creedmoor Shoot.

THE HELVETIC REBELLION SAID TO BE OVER.

Cholera Claims Many Victims in Valencia The New French Tariff Law. A Few Raw Materials Taxed. The Baltimore's Speedy Voyage.

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—A supplement to The Journal de Geneve says: All is chaos in the Canton of Ticino. The revolutionists have still the upper hand. At Ticino they occupied the prefecture and the Arsenal, expelling the officials by force, and they still hold them. No serious resistance was made by the Cantonal Government, who were unable to cope with the insurgents. The Federal Government has despatched 1,500 troops to Ticino to restore order and reinstate the local authorities. The official killed by a revolver shot last night was a Councillor of State. The outbreak is wholly local. None of the other cantons take part or have any sympathy with it. The rebellion is condemned throughout the republic and will be short lived.

BERNE, Sept. 12.—The Federals occupy the town stations on the St. Gothard Railway. A conflict is feared.

The revolt has collapsed. The troops have been well received by the revolutionists. It is now agreed that the question of the revision of the constitution be submitted to a regular vote.

DID IT BUT NEARLY DIED

Mind Reader Johnstone Accomplishes Bishop's Remarkable Feat.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. Paul Alexander Johnstone, the mind reader, whose peculiar powers have of late mystified and astonished people in Chicago, performed a feat yesterday which totally eclipsed all similar records, at least in this city. When Bishop, the mind-reader, who met a tragic fate in New York not long ago, was here shortly before his death he astounded everyone by finding a sum which a committee had secreted. Johnstone has frequently performed the same feat in Western cities and today his manager decided to attempt the same test that resulted so fatally to Bishop in New York, that of finding a name in a register and pronouncing it. A committee consisting of a number of well known newspaper men and Dr. J. G. Butler drove in a hack from the Auditorium Hotel to the Grand Pacific Hotel by a difficult route, and, going to the hotel register, selected a name, leaving one committeeman—Charles Lesterer—in charge of the register.

They returned to the Auditorium, where Johnstone had remained in the custody of one of the committee, so that there could be no possible apparent chance of collusion. They bandaged Johnstone's eyes securely. The septet was astonishing. Johnstone instantly rushed down to the carriage and drove blindfolded to the Grand Pacific, avoiding cable cars and thousands of vehicles on the way, rushed to the registrar, turned the leaves rapidly, found the name and repeated it, gave the number of page and date of month. The Grand Pacific Hotel and adjacent streets were crowded with people that all traffic was suspended.

Johnstone on his way home from the hotel was taken with a severe chill, which threw him into a cataleptic fit. Physicians at first pronounced him dead, but after working over him for two hours life was again perceptible. To-night the mind-reader is resting comfortably, but is exceedingly weak.

The feat which Washington Irving Bishop met his death in attempting to perform was similar to that performed by Johnstone. Bishop was at a dinner in the Lambs Club of New York and proposed to point out to the company any passage, word or letter they might agree upon from any book to which they alone had access until it was afterwards submitted to him for the test. He performed the exploit once and was making a second attempt, when he was stricken down with a cataleptic fit, recovering only to pass into another until death ensued.

MONEY TIGHT IN THE STATES.

Means Taken to Relieve the Present Financial Stringency.

CARSONS SPRINGS, Pa., Sept. 12.—That the President is taking a deep interest in the financial situation is shown by the fact that he devoted nearly two hours this afternoon to telegraphic correspondence with Secretary Windom at Williamstown, Mass., and Assistant Secretaries Batchelder and Nettleton at Washington as to the best means of relieving the present stringency in the money market. One of the results of the conference was an order for the prepayment of interest aggregating $5,000,000 on the currency 6's and for an advance in the rate for 4 per cent. bonds to 5125. Another question considered was the propriety of suggesting an extension of bonded periods under the proposed new tariff law, but no conclusion was reached on this point. The latest advices received by the President were to the effect that money was easier at the close of business and the outlook more favorable.

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

BRADSTREET'S AND DUN-WIMAN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Stock Speculation Demoralized—The Grain Markets Stimulated by Unfavorable United States Crop Reports—A Slight Gain in Railway Earnings—Business Failures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's indicate that in leading staple lines at the principal distributing centres the movement of merchandise and produce is seasonably active. Boots and shoes maintain the activity previously noted, but leather is quieter though firm. Cattle are in generally heavy supply at western cities, but hogs have been less fully shipped and are up 5 cents. Raw sugar is 3-16c up on good refining demand and strong statistical position. Refined is ¼c higher on active demand.

Stock speculation in New York is in a demoralized condition owing to the stringency of the money market and share values have declined sharply, the corn-carriers and some of the trusts being especially weak.

The grain markets were greatly stimulated by the unfavorable Government crop report and prices are up 3c to 6c per bushel on wheat, corn and oats. Trade calculations on the department's report as to condition and average point to a total crop of 400,000,000 bushels of wheat. Exports of wheat continue small from Atlantic ports, and if calculations as to the crop shortage find acceptance are likely to remain small except at higher prices. Shipments from both coasts this week aggregate 1,480,058 bushels, 22,025,395 bushels since July 1. This is compared with 1,426,534 bushels in a like week of 1889 and 30,465,984 bushels for eleven weeks in that year. Last week exports were 1,353,473 bushels. Indian corn shipments abroad this week equal 457,027, against 659,008 bushels last week.

August railway earnings show a moderate gain (3.96 per cent.) over the same month last year, when the general transportation movement began to increase heavily. Total earnings of 145 railroads for the month aggregate $28,857,905 on an increased mileage of 2.1 per cent. The southern and southwestern groups show heaviest gains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Dun, Wiman & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say: The past week has fully justified those who gave warning that the monetary ease caused by treasury disbursements could be but temporary. The market here has been tight with extreme rates paid in some cases. At Boston and Philadelphia monetary pressure also affects business; at Chicago the market is somewhat firmer and the demand active, at St. Louis it is stiff at 7 to 8 per cent.; at Kansas City more firm; at Milwaukee very active; at Detroit the demand is strong at 7 per cent.; at Cleveland the tightness is ascribed to the volume of business; at Pittsburg the demand is fair at 6 to 7 per cent., and only at New Orleans of all the cities reporting is the market easier. Immediate fright at New York was about supposed enormous demands for payment of duties if the new tariff should go into effect Oct. 1. The fact as officially reported is that less than $9,000,000 would pay full duties on all goods in warehouses on which the rates have been increased, but no one supposes that the entire quantity would be taken out. The pressure has caused considerable decline in stocks, the average having fallen about $2.50 per share since Aug. 25. The reports from other cities indicate no falling off in activity on account of monetary difficulties at any point west or south of Philadelphia. The reports as to collections are almost uniformly satisfactory. The crops are moving fast, prices encouraging farmers but do not go forward to consumers as rapidly.

Business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 197, for Canada 26, total 223, as compared with a total of 225 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 203, representing 170 in the United States and 33 in Canada.

RUIN WROUGHT BY RAIN.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Rivers Overflow Their Banks.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 12.—The tributaries to the Allegheny are all out of banks, and at night the Western New York & Pennsylvania tracks are covered with muddy water as the Allegheny Valley Railroad. At Newcastle the Neshannock river is higher than it has been for years and now completely covers the lower portion of that city. A hundred houses are covered on the first floor with from one to six feet of water and the families have been obliged to move to higher ground. All reports indicate great loss on mills, houses and to farmers.

Disastrous Floods in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12. Heavy rain has fallen in Northern Ohio for several days. Much damage has been caused by floods.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Sept. 12. Incessant rains for the past 48 hours have caused a land slide on the Cleveland & Marietta Railway which will delay trains a long while. The bridge on the Cleveland, Lorraine & Wheeling Railway has been washed away near the city. The whole valley is inundated.

Losses in York State.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 12.—Reports from the fertile Genesee valley are that the damage to beans, corn and potatoes will reach nearly $100,000.

Snow in Minnesota.

HARRIS, Minn., Sept. 12.—The rain which has been falling since Wednesday night has turned to snow. Farmers are afraid wheat will sprout in the shock. The raining is not over and crops will be lost in the Red River Valley.

ARNOCK, N.D., Sept. 12.—Four inches of snow has fallen here to-day.

THE LIGHTS O' HAMILTON.

Mr. Wanzer Offers His Electric Plant to the City for $300,000.

HAMILTON, Sept. 12.—Mr. R. M. Wanzer has offered to sell to the city the electric lighting premises on the corner of Catharine and King streets, and all the plant, machinery, contracts and franchises connected with his electric lighting business in this city for $300,000 or for such sum as may be determined as a fair value for the same by three experts, one to be chosen by the city, one by Mr. Wanzer and the two so chosen to choose a third.

Robbed His Employer Daily.

ALVINSTON, Sept. 11. Paul Weidmann has discovered that Duncan Macfarlane, who has managed the firm's store at Glenrar for the last three years, has been stealing from the firm daily, the total peculations amounting to about $400. Macfarlane kept a book in which he vended his thefts. He gave up what property he had and was allowed, on account of sympathy for his wife, to leave for the States.

Broke Up in a Row.

TOTTEL, Sept. 12.—The council of the provisional band of Tottawatanies held a few days ago in the reservation in Jackson county and in a row, in which three of the leaders were killed and several injured.

BARRUNDIA'S MURDER.

AN EYE WITNESS' STORY OF THE OUTRAGE.

The Stars and Stripes Insulted—Americans Ashamed of Their Flag—A Brave Man at Bay—A Coward Under the Bed.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The steamship Colon to-day brought from the Isthmus some passengers who were on the steamship Acapulco when General Barrundia was killed by Guatemalan officers. An eye-witness of the tragedy says:

When the Acapulco arrived at Acapulco, Mexico, General Barrundia, minister of war for Guatemala, came on board from the Starbuck, a sister ship. He was known to be hostile to the present government of Guatemala and it was understood he was on his way to San Salvador. He was attended by two men as body guard. When the ship reached Champerico, Guatemala, the authorities sent off two boat loads of soldiers and demanded that the General be surrendered to them. Capt. Pitts peremptorily refused to accede to this demand. An attempt was made to coerce him by withholding clearance papers, but after a detention of 24 hours Capt. Pitts persisting in his refusal to deliver Barrundia without an order from the government, the vessel was permitted to depart and on the evening of Aug. 25 she arrived at San Jose.

No sooner had the Acapulco cast anchor than two boats of soldiers were sent from shore to see that no one without proper credentials should leave the vessel for shore. Within pistol shot of where the Acapulco lay were two United States gunboats. Captain Pitts had telegraphed to their commanding officer from Champerico requesting assistance, but his despatch was not delivered. Now he made an appeal to them for help. The response was that the men-of-war could do nothing without an order from the port captain. Next day the ship was invaded by the commandant of a special force of men, accompanied by another boat load of soldiers. This time the Guatemalan officers came furnished with an "order of arrest" signed by the American minister Mizner. After being politely introduced to Captain Pitts the commandant produced his papers and made a formal demand for the delivery of Barrundia. At the commandant's direction all the cabin passengers were sent below. All the Guatemalan officers then proceeded to Barrundia's room. Captain Pitts going with them. When the room was reached Captain Pitts, after deprecating the necessity of surrendering his passenger, began to read the order for the General's arrest.

Barrundia had quietly met them at the door, but divining all was over he reached into his room for his revolvers and remarking, "Very good," fire. The ball just missed Capt. Pitts, who with the Commandant ran to his room, locked the door and hid under the bed, leaving the man hunting to the special officers. Barrundia was short sighted and being very nervous was unable to do any damage, though he emptied them in and out of the saloon, firing wildly. At last the officers got the drop on him from different points and riddled him with shot. He fell on the hurricane deck. The commandant thereupon came from his hiding place, walked up to the dead man and fired into his skull. The body was rolled up in canvas and as the general was a very heavy man the ghastly burden was bundled down the gangway into one of the boats, and conveyed ashore to be sent to Guatemala, where it was interred the next day.

The other boat conveying the perpetrators of the deed, their revolvers openly displayed, made a tour around the United States warships on their way to the shore. As they left the ship some unfeelingly waved their hands and one placed his thumb to his nose and extended the other fingers. The ship was not allowed to proceed until the baggage belonging to Barrundia had been searched, presumably for evidence incriminating others. This was submitted to—the gunboat still silent and sleepy not a hundred yards away. Indeed at the time of the tragedy an officer from one of them was aboard the Acapulco.

Gen. Barrundia's bodyguard at the commencement of the fighting had run below and been locked up for safety. About forty shots were fired in all. Finally the disagreeable affair ended and the steamer was allowed to proceed. She sailed away with drooping colors. The Americans aboard were full of indignation and shame at the whole affair. Many passengers openly expressed regret that the American flag was theirs.

BRER. SLAUGHTER NOT PASSED.

He Wanted to be an Elder, but Made Conflicting Statements.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The morning session of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Zion Church was devoted to discussing the merits and demerits of Noah Slaughter, who aspired to be an elder. The committee reported against Slaughter, recommending that he "go back and study one more year." Elder Washington said: "I wish you would pass Brother Slaughter. I need somebody to help me in taking collections, administering the Holy Communion, etc. He is a good outside worker and I need him."

Elder Chambers said the committee had rejected Brother Slaughter as deficient, and thought the conference should be guided by that report. "He has not studied enough," he said; "we should admit only those who are qualified."

The Rev. Smith Clairborne said: "Brother Slaughter is not qualified to be a preacher and will not be if he lives fifty years longer." [Cries of "Hear that, now," and laughter.]

At this point there was general confusion and cries of "Bishop, bishop, bishop." But the bishop refused to recognize any one until order was restored, and finally decided to let the applicant Slaughter be heard. Noah Slaughter is a "young man not bright in color or feature. He was finely dressed and wore a blood-red rose. Said he: "The reason, brothers, that I am deficient is that I have not had the money to purchase the necessary books. (A voice: 'Don't wear such good clothes and you'll have more money.') I promise I will study if I can get the books and you pass me. The hopes and future of the Church depend upon the young men." Grunts of disapproval were heard from the other members.

Elder Chambers: He said to the committee he did not have time to study, and now he says he can't buy the books. What kind of a way is that to talk?

Bishop Lomax: Books can be had cheaply. Let Brother Slaughter go to a second-hand book store.

Brother Slaughter was not passed.

South Dakota Gold Find.

RAPID CITY, S.D., Sept. 12.—An immense find of gold has been made in this vicinity during the last few days, but the locater refuses to indicate its exact location. Several pounds were taken to an assayer, who made several assays, the results of which far exceeded anything yet found in the hills. The prospector says he can get out without assistance $700 to $1000 daily. If this proves to be a fact a stampede of immense magnitude will occur as soon as the location is known.

Broke Baxter's New Suit.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Broker James Baxter has taken an action for damages of $300,000 against W. H. Howland and Henry Lye, liquidators of the Central Bank of Canada. The action alleges that they were never legally appointed and the case is based on their actions with regard to Mr. Baxter.

The Rio on the Rampage.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—Despatches from Texas say the Rio Grande River is on the rampage. At Eagle pass it is higher than it has been for 10 years. All the lower part of the city, which is densely populated by Mexicans, is six feet under water and much property has been swept away but no lives have been lost. All communication with Piedras Negras on the Mexican side of the river is broken and the track of the Mexican International Railway is washed out and travel suspended. The San Fernando River, four miles west of Piedras Negras, is also at flood height and has washed away all houses and improvements just erected at the mines of the Piedras Coal Company.

Five Men Killed by This Explosion.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 12.—The South Wilkesbarre shaft of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company was the scene of a violent explosion of gas this afternoon. A gang of men were at work in the mine clearing up the wreck of the fire last March and searching for the bodies of the eight men who were killed in an explosion at that time. Five men are reported to be killed and several injured.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—An explosion occurred in the Steinfurth coal pit at Loederberg to-day. Twenty persons are entombed in the mine.

THE ONTARIO CABINET.

Messrs. Dryden and Harcourt succeed Drury and A. M. Ross.

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—The Ontario Cabinet has been reorganized. Mr. John Dryden, M.L.A. for South Ontario, becomes Minister of Agriculture in succession to Hon. Charles Drury, who retires. Mr. Richard Harcourt, M.L.A. for Moosk, becomes Treasurer in place of Hon. A. M. Ross, who has withdrawn from active politics. Mr. E. H. Bronson, M.L.A. for Ottawa, joins the Administration as Minister without portfolio. Mr. Thomas Ballantyne, M.L.A. for South Perth, will be the Ministerial candidate for Speaker of the Legislature. The reconstructed Cabinet is as follows:

Premier and Attorney-General—Hon. Oliver Mowat.

Commissioner of Crown Lands—Hon. A. S. Hardy.

Provincial Secretary—Hon. J. M. Gibson.

Commissioner of Public Works—Hon. C. F. Fraser.

Minister of Education—Hon. G. W. Ross.

Provincial Treasurer—Hon. Richard Harcourt.

Minister of Agriculture—Hon. John Dryden.

Minister without portfolio—Hon. E. H. Bronson.

PARSON ARNEY ON TRIAL

He Thinks He Did Nothing Wrong in Holding a Trotting Meeting.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Sept. 12.—The session of the State Conference of Methodist Ministers to-day attracted more general interest throughout the State than any similar meeting in the history of the church in this state. Rev. Joseph W. Arney, the "sporting parson," was on trial. The parson has a fondness for fast horses, and his trotting meeting at Saranac some two months ago, the details of which were telegraphed all over the country, was the subject of discussion.

Presiding Elder Barnes of Kalamazoo presented the charges against Parson Arney to the conference. He related how Rev. Mr. Arney had conducted a horse-race at Saranac, had sat in his sulky behind his trotters and had, in fact, acted as driver, judge and general superintendent of the affair.

Mr. Arney does not regret his course. "I went into the race," he said, "with my eyes open, with a purpose in view, and have yet to entertain my first regret at the course I pursued. The race was as quiet and orderly as any camp meeting and as pleasant as any church sociable. There was no gambling or pool-selling, the horses were not abused and the best of good order prevailed throughout. There was not a single objectionable feature and nothing happened to make me ashamed of the part I had in it. I am not prepared to say I will never do such a thing again."

BIRCHALL, NOT BURCHELL.

The Wife of the Alleged Murderer Will Not be Arraigned as an Accessory.

WOONSTOCK, Sept. 12. The Standard this evening says: "The fall assizes will open a week from to-day before Mr. Justice MacMahon. While all interest is apparently centered in the trial of John Reginald Birchall for murder, there are some other criminal cases of great importance. Alfred Wright of Blenheim is charged with Sander, son of Dereham will be arraigned on a charge of rape; David Hollingsworth of East Nissouri will be placed on trial charged with killing cattle with poison and John Little will have to answer to a charge of larceny. These are a few of the more important criminal cases, and it is quite probable they will be disposed of before the sensational murder trial is taken up.

"The crown does not intend to bring up the indictment found against Mrs. Birchall for being "an accessory to the crime after the fact," and therefore if she appears in court at all—as it is likely she will—she will not be present as a prisoner, but merely as a spectator. The trial of her husband will not commence in all probability before Monday, 23d inst., as the case must go to the grand jury. He will be indicted for the murder of P. C. Benwell in the manner:

"That John Reginald Birchall.

"Many of the papers have been spelling the name 'Burchell,' which is a mistake. The accused himself spells it as above and his wife writes her signature

"FLORENCE BIRCHALL.

"As some expected would be the case, the court records will not bear Birchall, alias 'Lord Somerset.'

"Although only a week remains before the trial opens Birchall shows no signs of nervousness and is as cool and collected when discussing the case as he was at the time of his arrest. The burglaries having been removed to the Central Prison his is the only occupied cell in the western corridor. He spends his time reading and painting landscape sketches, and often discusses with the officials his chances of acquittal. He reads the daily papers and any comment on his case is criticised favorably or otherwise, as the article suits him. He says as soon as the trial is over he will sail for England with his wife to reside there in future, accepting probably a position in some theatrical company."

The crown to-day secured another witness who saw Birchall returning alone from the Swamp of Death on the afternoon of Feb. 17. He knew Birchall quite well when he passed here as F. H. Somerset.

THE CONFERENCE FUNDS.

Quadrennial Statement of the Treasurer—Routine Business Transacted.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—At the general conference to-day memorials from the Niagara Conference on the course of study for students and the petitioning of the Federal Parliament for a prohibitory law were received and referred to committee.

The treasurer's quadrennial statement ending July last of the general conference gives some interesting figures. During the four years there were received from the several conferences $8853, the contributions being: Toronto $1698, London $916, Montreal $956, Niagara $985, Guelph $921, Bay of Quinte $1034, Nova Scotia 379, New Brunswick $653, Newfoundland $445, Manitoba $56, British Columbia $1581. From the Sabbath school fund was received $5175, which, with the balance from last conference and special contributions make the total receipts $14,425. The grants of books and periodicals to the several conferences amounted to $11,851, which with expenses of $1200 amounted to $13,051, leaving on hand a balance of $1374.

Prisoner Day and His Sister.

WELLAND, Sept. 12.—Arthur Hoyt Day, held in jail on the charge of murder, is one of the most quiet prisoners in the institution. He evinces little or no interest in outside affairs, and, from outward appearances shows no curiosity regarding his approaching trial. Mrs. Quigley, the important witness for the crown held in custody, tries to make herself as much of a nuisance as possible and succeeds admirably. She considers herself a guest of the crown and intends that her accommodation shall be worthy of it if she has any say in the matter. The bill-of-fare affords her a prolific ground on which to base her complaints; nothing is suited to her fastidious taste and the seasonable delicacies she thinks are too often missing.

France's New Tariff Bill.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The National states that the new general customs tariff bill will place a slight tax on a few raw materials, but that most will be admitted free.

Brennan and McCarthy Fight a Draw.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. The much talked of ten-round bout with small gloves between the heavy weights, Mike Brennan, champion of Montana, and Tom McCarthy of Buffalo, champion of Western New York, took place to-night at a rink in a quiet New Jersey town. Neither man was badly hurt and the referee called a fair draw after 10 rounds.

Uneasiness in Argentina.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 12.—Meetings of the Cabinet are held daily. Uneasiness prevails in the provinces. The situation is so threatening in the Province of Entre Rios that further reinforcements have been sent there.

Windsor's Population.

WINDSOR, Sept. 12.—The town assessors have concluded their labors and Windsor shows a population of nearly 10,630. One-eleventh of these are colored. The assessment has been raised about $700,000.

Friday's Scores.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Pittsburg 3, Cincinnati 7; (second game) Pittsburg 1, Cincinnati 11; Chicago 17, Cleveland 2; (second game) Chicago 11, Cleveland 4; Boston 6, Philadelphia 13.

A TALK ABOUT MANTLES —AT— TURNBULL'S

Look out for this column during the Fall and Winter. It will keep you posted in dry goods news, and let you know about the bargains we offer from time to time. Our counters and shelves are now fairly groaning under the weight of new goods. Never before did we offer such an attractive stock as to-day. The new Mantle Cloths are just beautiful, the styles are so new both in black and colors. We show Black Astrachan Cloth so fine that it is a perfect imitation of the real thing. Any one thinking of getting an Astrachan or Polarian Mantle made to order this season should by all means see our stock before purchasing. Samples sent by mail if required.

We felt the want last season of a larger range of Ladies' and Children's ready-made Mantles, and have imported a well selected stock in both long Mantles and short Jackets, in plain and fancy cloths. Everybody can be suited as we import direct and mark the goods close.

A beautiful lot of fancy pantings arrived for the Gents' Furnishing Department this week. Try our tailor.

We are selling 8 pair of Men's Merino Half Hose for $1.00. Our Dress Trimmings from London, England, have arrived. As London is the best market in the world for these goods we believe the goods we are offering will be appreciated.

Drop in and see the new shades in Dress Goods; we have the full range of shades in several makes of Cloth.

See our 54 inch Wool Serge at 75 cents a yard.

BRITISH CAPITAL.

Recently the aggressiveness of British capital has challenged the attention of the world, and, particularly on this continent, has its omnipotent finger been dabbling in the industrial and commercial pie: Enormous especially are the investments of British capital in the southern states of the neighboring Republic. A Baltimore paper states that $3,000,000 of English money has just been invested in iron and other factories in Virginia; nearly $5,000,000 in Florida phosphate mines and fertilizer factories, nearly $1,000,000 in cotton and rolling mills, breweries and powder works in Tennessee; over $1,000,000 in Texas coal mines, and other large amounts in Louisiana, South Carolina and Arkansas. These states all enjoy unrestricted reciprocity with the other sections of the republic, and yet British capitalists are not deterred from starting new industries therein. They evidently take no stock in the contention that a tariff wall is necessary to keep new industries from being swamped by cheap products from old or wealthy concerns. And in Canada British gold is finding profitable employment, but to a much more limited extent than the illimitable nature of our vast resources would warrant. Untold wealth lies buried beneath our soil, awaiting only the golden key to unlock the treasure house. It is gratifying to know that Canadian minerals are attracting increasing attention. In this district English money is starting the Madoc mines into new life. In Addington county the immense deposits of marl are now undergoing development, the manufacture of the abundant raw material being arranged for. But we have room for millions, and for millions there is profitable employment, with promise of a rich harvest of wealth. The newly projected railway from the lake front, through Peterborough, northward, will be one important factor in bringing great deposits of minerals within the range of convenient transportation facilities.

THE Canadian "Tariff Log" will remain at home hereafter. The McKinley tariff bill puts a tax of $1.50 per head on hogs, and no monopolist will submit to paying taxes. His "forte" is taking in taxes and his receptivity is becoming every year more extensively developed.

THE Boston Globe remarks that Mr. Blaine's attempt to marry reciprocity and protection is poor matchmaking. The newly wedded couple will be divorced in three months on account of incompatability of temperament. Equally unsuccessful will be any attempt made by the Canadian Tories to negotiate a reciprocity arrangement that will please the combines.

DURING the past three months enormous quantities of foreign goods have been imported into the United States in anticipation of the increased duties resulting from the adoption of the McKinley Tariff. The value of the imports for June exceeded those of the same month last year by $14,217,990, and in July the imports of woolen and cotton goods, wool, tin plates, silks, glass and earthenware were valued at $23,745,128 compared with $16,952,954 in July 1889.

HOW completely the American champions of trade restriction refute the arguments of their Canadian allies. The organs of the Dominion government insist that the abolition of all restrictions upon trade between the Dominion and the United States would lead to annexation, but the Boston Journal, which favors annexation, declares that "that end will not be promoted by giving the Canadians the benefit of the American market, while they do nothing toward sustaining our government."

HON. OLIVER MOWAT has now recorded in his favour judicial triumphs over the Federal government in the following cases:—

The Insurance case;
The Escheat case;
The Rivers and Steamers case;
The Liquor License case;
The Boundary award case;
The Ownership of Timber and Minerals case;
The Pardoning Power case. It is a mere matter of opinion, but it appears that Mr. Mowat's opinion invariably secures favour with the Judges most learned in the interpretation of the law. Sir John Macdonald grew fatigued with being beaten by Ontario's Premier and turned over constitutional questions to Sir John Thompson, but the Minister of Justice has been squelched with the old time regularity.

THE Toronto Reform Club has done good service in promoting the advancement of Liberal principles and securing the triumph of the party of good government. The headquarters late at Wellington street, Toronto, have been removed to more central situation, No. 8 Adelaide street, east. The new rooms will be attractively fitted up. A first-class club service and first class club conveniences will be provided. The one object will be to make the club in all respects a comfortable home for the Liberals of Toronto and an inviting meeting place for the Liberals of the Province. The admirable location selected will doubtless gratify all the old membership attract many new patrons who were unable owing to its inconvenient location to use the club, and assure a new and greater measure of prosperity for the institution. The directors have done wisely in thus deciding to move up into the heart of the business centre, and if all the plans in view are carried out, as they will be, and that thoroughly, they will not have to wait for general and substantial approval of their action.

The Most Imposing Thing.

"Julian, old fellow, you were at the seaside last season?"

"Yes!"

"Now what was the most imposing sight you saw while there?"

"Well, about the most imposing thing that I can recollect was my hotel bill."

The most imposing sight that a good wife, mother or daughter can behold, is when a faded and soiled dress which has been worn in summer is dyed with Diamond Dyes of some fashionable shade, and made to look new for Autumn and Winter wear. This means to the true and thrify housewife many dollars of good money saved, which can be applied to other purposes. Now is the season to get to work, and thus be provided for emergencies.

Last year's fancy knit wool goods can be re colored and made to look like new. Your husband's suits and boy's clothing can be beautifully dyed and made fit for wear again. In fact your household furniture, curtains, draperies and articles of ornament can be improved and beautified by using Diamond Dyes and Diamond Paints.

If you want these things well done, be sure and use only the Diamond brand, as they are the only guaranteed goods on the market.

Woman's Estimate of Time.

Perhaps it is not too much to assert that the majority of women have very inadequate conceptions of the value and extent of time. The man of business learns to understand just what five minutes will do, and what it means. It may mark the limit of banking hours, or the departure of an important train. Promptness is so large an essential in business circles, and a few wasted moments may mean so much of gain or loss or wasted opportunity, that men are forced to learn the value of time, and less frequently than women under-estimate its uses.

The woman who, in feminine parlance, "accomplishes" much is the woman who has learned to use and save her minutes. Many women who are really industrious think nothing of squandering ten or fifteen minutes in an unmeaning unsatisfactory chat with an acquaintance, and then wonder at the close of the day what has become of the hours. A very few misspent half hours destroy the day's usefulness. Almost as deplorable as the waster of time in gossip is the woman who never has time for a pleasant chat with her friend, and whose mind is so crowded with social or household cares that she inwardly grudges the time given to a caller.

There is a happy medium between these extremes, which it is well worth every woman's while to strive for. Time means golden opportunities for so many helpful, interesting occupations. Balzac says that in Paris everybody wants to find a twenty-fifth hour among the twenty-four. In our blessed America we are looking away beyond that, and would welcome the addition of a round dozen hours to the calendar day.—Harper's Bazar.

How the President is Elected.

The mechanism of the presidential election in the Argentine Republic works as follows: The president is elected for six years, and is installed on October 12th, the anniversary of the discovery of America. The last year of a presidential term is one of elections. On February 12th are renewed a third part of the Senators and Deputies of the National Congress, which will say the last word in the election of the new President. On the 12th of April takes place in each province the election of the electors of the second degree, who, being chosen outside of the members of Congress, and in double their number for each province, meet on June 12th to designate the candidate for the presidency who has their preference. These delegates accomplish this operation in the capitals of their respective provinces, and designate the President and the Vice-President by means of signed personal ballots, which are delivered to the legislature of the province, and then sealed and transmitted to the President of the National Congress, who opens and examines them in presence of a quorum composed of at least two-thirds of the members of that assembly. In case a candidate has obtained an absolute majority for either office, he is immediately nominated by Congress; if, on the other hand, no candidate has an absolute majority, Congress selects among those who have received most votes, and in a single session appoints President and Vice-President.—Theodore Child, in Harper's Weekly.

A Machine to Scale Fish.

A. C. Ware, of Brunswick, has invented a fish cleaner. He says the smallest or the largest fish can be scaled rapidly by the use of the machine. It consists of two prongs and hooks, almost like a pair of fire-tongs, only the edges of the prongs are rough and are slightly curved forward. One end of the machine is fastened to a table, while the two prongs are clapped around the fish, and it is shoved through the rough-edged knives, taking off every scale.—Savannah News.

Pure Cod Liver Oil and Emulsions properly made from it are undoubtedly the best remedies for pulmonary complaints. Many emulsions have been put on the market but none seem to have met with the good success accorded to SCOTT'S OXYGENIZED EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL. Their laboratory at 186 West Adelaide St., Toronto, Ont., is kept constantly going and every druggist in the country is supplied with the famous remedy. w37-ws

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wilson's Wild Cherry.

For nearly twenty years this valuable medicine has been largely used for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Lungs. Those who know its value always recommend it to their friends knowing that Wilson's Wild Cherry never disappoints. The genuine is sold by all druggists in white wrappers only. dw is at Sambro, N. S., whence Mr. R. E. Hartt, writes as follows:—"Without a doubt Burdock Blood Bitters has done me a lot of good, I was sick and weak and had no appetite, but B.B.B. made me feel smart and strong. Were its virtues more widely known, many lives would be saved. 2w37d

Stick to the Right

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

A Solemn Vow.

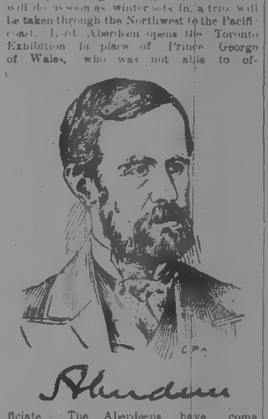
ALERDEENS OF SCOTLAND.

THE DISTINGUISHED VISITORS WHO ARE NOW IN CANADA.

They have Leased a Residence in Hamilton The Earl and Countess Noted for Their Philanthropic and Noble Work—Probably the Dominion's Next Vice-Roy.

Dorrs Hill, London, Eng., N.W. residence of the Earl of Aberdeen for some time. It was lately brought into the market, and sold for £20,000 or $150,000 The late owner is now in this country. The long looked for visit of the distinguished Scotch peer and his family to this country has at last commenced. Highfield Park, a charming residence near Hamilton Ont. has been leased by the Aberdeens for a short period. They intend to spend a quiet little holiday in the Dominion. Before returning to England, which they will do as soon as winter sets in, a trip will be taken through the Northwest to the Pacific coast. Lord Aberdeen opens the Toronto Exhibition in place of Prince George of Wales, who was not able to officiate. The Aberdeens have come here to see something of the country, to take in the bracing air and fine weather of the celebrated Canadian fall, and to get as much rest as they can. It behoves the people and press of Ontario to let them secure all this, and there trust them accordingly.



Aberdeen

Lord Aberdeen bears a name justly celebrated in the history of not only England, but of the world. The late Earl was Prime Minister of England. He formed the Coalition government, after holding an important Cabinet position under the Duke of Wellington, which was at the head of English affairs during the Crimean war. The present Earl is also well-known in political history. He is a member of the Privy Council and has held many important positions in the governments of the day. It is rumored that he will in a year or two's time succeed His Excellency Lord Stanley of Preston as Governor-General of Canada. Lord Aberdeen is one of the few among royalty and the nobility who have been distinguished by Her Majesty with the Order of the Garter. The Aberdeens have identified themselves with many great and good works in England, notably that of the London Ragged Schools and Mission Union, which is a true salvation army with the hosts of England's poor. The Earl and his gracious Countess heard the "bitter cry of outcast London" and threw themselves into the noble work with all their might. Lord Aberdeen has taken the place of the late Lord Shaftsbury, in the good work done by that Christian nobleman in the old country. He has succeeded him as President of the Mission Union, and has founded many institutions for the poor and needy. His cordial and earnest sympathy with all philanthropic and Christian enterprises has been manifested in various ways. He has found in the Countess a like-minded helper of every good cause.

The Hon. Isabel Maria, youngest daughter of the first Baron Tweedmouth, comes of an old and distinguished Scotch family—the Marjoribanks. Her marriage to the Earl took place on Nov. 7, 1877, and are long the Countess gave indication of her benevolent sympathies by identifying herself with various excellent institutions. She has won for herself position and high place among the ladies now taking an active and intelligent interest in political and social movements. She is a handsome, charming and graceful woman, and intensely popular with every body she meets. There are four Aberdeen children. The oldest is 12 years of age—Lord Haddo, the heir. Then comes Lady Marjorie and two other boys younger still. They are all here with their parents.—C. B. H.

They suspended Judgment.

All Bloody Gulch was there, and the rope had been adjusted; the victim was already standing on the fatal barrel, and Dutch Pete was preparing to haul taut the rope.

"Hold!" exclaimed a stranger who had entered the crowd. "I beg of you, men, think for a moment. This poor wretch may be entirely innocent. Calm yourselves and suspend judgment."

"That goes, stranger: that's just what we are going to do. Yank on that rope, Pete."

And in a moment a kicking body swayed in the air bearing the placard, "Our judgment. To——with hoss thieves."

The Wrong Man Found.

Citizens—"Did you go and thrash that editor for printing those things about you?"

"I did so."

"I went to the office but couldn't find him."

"Whom did you find there?"

"No one but a great big bull-necked fellow who pretended he was responsible for that article, but I knew from his looks that he couldn't write."—New York Weekly.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

Lots of Things Happen in Those Western Towns.

The last issue of the Arizona Kicker contains the following interesting items:

NOTICE—If the party who threw the brick at us last Tuesday night as we stood on the corner of Apache avenue and Greeg street will call at our office he will hear of something to his advantage. We can make him realize in about five minutes that men of his talent are wasting their time in this country. He can also make his choice of 165 eligible sites in our private burying ground free of cost. Come early and avoid the rush.

NO BOOM.—For two straight years The Kicker has persistently opposed the idea of a boom to attract attention to our town. We have watched this boom business in scores of other places, and in every instance it has reacted disastrously. Our course has aroused the ire of certain speculators, but we shall continue it just the same. We've got 200 acres of cactus pasture which we should like to dispose of to some Ohio farmer who wants to better his condition and who could be worked up to part with $5,000 in cash, but we haven't the cheek. We own half a mile of side hill, which won't even grow rattle snakes, but we haven't the gall to boom it for a peach orchard. A million years hence we may have six railroads here, but we can't force ourselves to whoop-la hurrah over the prospect. We own about fourteen billion dollars' worth of wild-cat mining stock, every mine being in the clouds, and but for our honesty we'd proceed to boom and unload. We are at the head of a company to turn the Pacific Ocean into the deserts of the west—president of an artesian well company—secretary of the Great Strawberry Growers' Association, etc., etc., but we were born honest and we can't look a tender-foot in the eye and lie to him.

No, gentlemen, this town is what it is and no more. It isn't going to be a second Chicago. It has no Niagara Falls. There isn't even good fishing within thirty miles of us. We simply have the great Arizona Kicker, 146 saloons, sixteen gambling houses, five stores and a population of 3,500 souls, most of which will take "the other road" when the judgment day arrives. That's all, and those who don't want to come can stay away.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. Judge Embro, who has been absent at Tucson for the last two weeks, returned last night, and, as usual, found the judge so drunk that he couldn't tell her from a Dagger Indian. She didn't go away for her general health, but to get over a black eye inflicted by the judge in one of his sober moments.

CALLS FOR SYMPATHY.—Maj. McKnight, our popular and efficient City Clerk, met with a sad accident last Sunday. While trying to enjoy a drunk, a hammock, a smoke and a snooze at the same time, he set himself on fire and was so badly burned that he will not be out of bed for two weeks. The major has many friends who will sympathize with him in his misfortunes.

IN THE WRONG.—"Handsome Charlie," the genial and enterprising proprietor of "The Black Swan" saloon, has called at this office and convinced us that we were wrong in stating that he had killed seven men and was a dangerous character. His list includes only four men, all laid away in self-defence, and so far from being dangerous he says that he has refused to put up fly-screens this summer out of general pity for the poor flies. He also has pictures of three different angels on the walls of his bedroom.

We cheerfully make the correction, not because the gentlemen subscribed for five copies of The Kicker to be sent to his friends and gave us a $20 "ad," which will be found elsewhere, but because we wish to do all men justice.

FAIR WARNING.—Ben Stays, the eating house man, has made public threats to wring our nose on the street. The trouble dates back to a year ago, when Ben tried to pass some cactus soup on for mock turtle.

Bonnay attempt to wring our nasal organ. He may even figure that he can succeed. We gave him fair warning, however, that he'll have to be prepared to dodge six bullets, and if he doesn't happen to be quick enough it won't make us feel very bad.

She Probably "Got There."

"An American actress has sung 'The Star-Spangled Banner' at the top of the Eiffel tower," said Boothby.

"What did she go up there to do it for? A Red Murk."

"She had to."

"Why?"

"To reach the high notes."—Chicago Times.

A Rash Knight.

Mr. Reuben Knight, of Morris, Man., states that he was troubled with a rash all over his body, which was cured with less than one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. He highly recommends it as a blood purifier of the greatest efficacy. 2w37d

A Letter From Emerson.

"I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and I think it the best remedy for summer complaint. It has done a great deal of good to myself and children." Yours truly, MRS. WHITELY, Emerson, Man. 2w37d

A Moseide Story.

I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters and pills and find them everything to me. I had dyspepsia with bad breath and bad appetite, but after a few days' use of B.B.B I felt stronger, could eat a good meal and felt myself a different man. W.H. STORY, Moseide, Ont. 2w37d

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

Make Things Bright For Winter Nights.

"THE ripening breath of Summer" warns us that the "melancholy days" and long dark nights of Autumn and Winter are at hand.

After the bright inspiring outdoor life of Summer, we must make our home so cheerful, that the contrast will not be so sharply noted.

After the wife's sunny temper, the husband's kindly mien, and the children's dutiful sportiveness, the material adornments of the home have the most brightening influence, and the most cheering form of adornment—that yields the largest revenue of pleasure and satisfaction for the least expenditure—is

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and marvelous an increase; $1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,021,400	10.29
Federal	10,056,537	16.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.38
North American	5,470,690	10.68
Temperance and General	2,954,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,966	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,285	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Orangemen's Picnic.

Friday was scarcely an ideal day for a picnic, yet the Orangemen of North Monaghan, with their families and friends, to the number of about 175, took the Golden Eye in the morning, and faced the depressing probabilities which lowered upon them. Fortune favors the brave, 'tis said, and so it was with the Monaghan Orangemen. Under the chaperonage of Mr. Archie Reynolds they spent a pleasant day at Jubilee Point and Idyl Wyld, reaching town about midnight.

Lindsay's New Station.

The Post says: The new station will be ready for occupation in a couple or three weeks, and Station Agent Matchett and staff are at present labouring under a pardonable feeling of elation over their prospective change of quarters. The new building will be a credit to the town and worthy of Lindsay's importance as a business centre. It is the intention of the company to lay out plots of ground east and west, as flower gardens, and perhaps place a fountain in each. This is an excellent idea, and we hope it will be carried out.

Another Discovery of Coal Oil.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. John Blank discovered indications of coal oil in the cellar of her house and a closer search revealed the existence of a very fine show of unmistakable coal oil. She had been searching for a packet of hawley bros'. tea and came accidentally upon the coal oil can which had been by mistake carried to the cellar. She didn't care much for the oil but she was overjoyed when she found the tea. That household and hundreds of others are out of joint unless hawley bros'. splendid tea is on the table.

Clarke & Gibson, jewellers, 126 Hunter street. The work is a great credit to the firm.

Light Weight Butter.

Mrs. Vall, of Smith township, was charged before Mayor Stevenson this morning with selling pound rolls of butter at less than the stipulated weight. A week ago Saturday a lady in town purchased a roll, which she afterwards found was two or three ounces less than the pound for which she paid. This morning she taxed the farmer's wife with the fraud, and asked her to make good the balance due her. This was refused, and Mrs. Vall also refused to sell her another roll. The customer then resorted to a ruse. She got a boy to buy one for her and on weighing it, it was found to be over an ounce under weight. Chief Keasel was notified, and he seized the whole offering of butter. The rolls when weighed ranged from 12 to 14 ounces only, though they were being sold as a pound each. Mrs. Vall disclaimed all intention of defrauding, and was let off with a fine of $1.

Another Man in the Field.

Mr. W. M. Loucks, M.A., the latest addition to the staff of St. John's church, arrived in town last night and will enter upon his duties to-morrow. He will assist at the church at the 11 o'clock service, and take charge of the South Ward Sunday School in the afternoon, and officiate at the Mission service in the evening. Mr. Loucks is a son of Rev. Rural Dean Loucks of Picton, one of the pioneer clergy of Canada, and brother of Mr. E. B. Loucks, town. He received his education at Trinity College school, Port Hope, and Trinity University, Toronto, at both of which institutions he took an exceptionally high stand. Mr. Loucks comes to Peterborough with the warm approval of the Bishop of the Diocese and we bespeak for him a hearty welcome. While assisting generally at St. John's, he will take special charge of the work in the southern portion of the town.

Our Flourishing Schools.

At a recent meeting of the town council some of the members complained of the large amount demanded for school purposes. But if the amount is considerable the people who contribute the bulk of the funds have the satisfaction of knowing that they possess excellent schools. The Collegiate Institute under the new regime is making most gratifying progress. Not only is the attendance larger than at any former period but it is increasing and it is expected that additional accommodation will have to be provided at the beginning of the coming new year. The esprit du corps on the part of the teaching staff as well as of pupils is very gratifying. The discipline is wrought up to a high point and in all departments of the school there seems to be a buoyant spirit that indicates pleasing progress in the accomplishment of good scholaristic work. There are also most encouraging reports of the healthy condition of the several public schools and altogether the outlook in educational matters is cheering.

New Mantle Rooms.

The ladies of Peterborough will be delighted to hear that the enterprise of Mr. J. J. Sheehy has taken a practical shape, and that he has added to the already excellent departments of his dry goods business, a mantle department which is domiciled in beautifully fitted up and well lighted rooms on the second floor. The rooms will be in charge of an accomplished mantle maker, who has for several years, been at the head of this department with Miss Delaney, and whose ability and knowledge of her business, entitles her to rank with the best mantle makers in the country. In addition, Mr. Sheehy carries a splendid and varied stock of mantle cloths of the newest makes and most fashionable tissue, shade and style. With a first class mantle maker, a magnificent stock of mantle goods, and a name, on the part of the proprietor, for square dealing and good value, there is no doubt that the success which has attended Mr. Sheehy's mercantile operations for the past five years, will extend to his new mantle department and secure that popularity which his establishment has earned. Ladies in need of artistic mantles for fall or winter, cannot do better than visit Mr. Sheehy's establishment, inspect and admire his selection of cloths and leave an order at the mantle department with the assurance that they will secure a perfect fit, a stylish make up and first class work.

News Nuggets.

—A project is on foot in Cobourg to erect a large summer hotel at Rice Lake.

—Joe Hess, the temperance lecturer, is announced to hold meetings in the Opera House here, November 27 to 30.

—Mr. J. J. Turner to day received an order for wagon oil-cloth covers from Ste. Cunegoode, Que.

—There was a very large market to-day. Fruit and vegetables in abundance were offered. Eggs sold at 14c, and butter 20c.

—There is a report circulating in Kinmount that Mr. Pusey's railway has again been revived, and that another section of it will be built within a moderate period.

Personal.

A Lanark Village correspondent to the Almonte Gazette says:—"Mr. Adam P. Melrose visited his family here a few days ago. They intend removing to Peterborough."

Rev. J. W. McCleary, rector of St. Luke's, will be absent from town at Muskoka Mills, the first three days of next week. He goes to perform the rite of baptism over a number of infants, the mission there being in charge of a lay-reader.

Advices received at Ottawa state that Rev. Father Chiniquy, who is now at his home at St. Anne, Ill., is very ill. He had just returned from a trip to New Eng and when he was stricken down with pneumonia. He is completing his work, Thirty Years in the Church of Christ, as a counterpart to his well-known work, Fifty Years in the Church of Rome.

"Lowlands" Latest Additions to its Stud.

Six Thoroughbred Scotch Clydesdales the Newest Arrivals.

Mr. R. D. Dundas, of Lowlands" stock farm, Springville, Ont., has just returned home, bringing with him six stallion imported from Scotland. Several of them have been prize-winners at the leading agricultural shows in Scotland, and all of them are pure-bred, pedigreed animals. The names of these splendid Clydesdales are "Belted King," "Ostrogoth," "Bishopton Boy," "Argentine," "Almondale" and "Cyclone." While all are of good blood, Cyclone is of exceptional good breeding. As practical testimony to the first rate quality of this half dozen of thoroughbred stallions, two of them "Bishopton Boy" and "Almondale," have been already sold to Mr. J. B. Head, proprietor of a large stock farm, Rapid City, Manitoba. He has the largest stud of pure bred Clydesdales in Manitoba. Messrs. Dundas & Grandy have sold their celebrated trotting gelding "Beechwood" at a handsome figure to Mr. W. S. Park, of Glasgow, Scotland. He was shipped last week and sailed on the 10th. This live reliable firm are veritable benefactors to the farmers of this county, and they deserve the thanks of the horse lovers for their successful efforts to improve the stock of the country.

Cavendish.

A correspondent writes to the Bobcaygeon Independent as follows, which is an endorsation of the wisdom of the Ontario Government in opening up this portion of this township to free grant settlement:—Since the west half of the township of Cavendish was opened for location under the Free Grant Act, there have been about forty locations in the township. The land is good, and its situation is such as to give it considerable value. In the time to come, Cavendish will be one of the leading townships of central Ontario. My farm is fifteen miles from Robcaygeon, thirteen from the Midland Railway at Kinmount, eighty-five from Toronto, 380 from Boston, in the United States. Who will say that a hundred acres of good land, in such a situation, is not going to be a fortune in the future? I am well pleased with my lot, and invite others to come and settle.

The Board of Trade

Will Work for the Edison Company's By-Law—Committees for the Year.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held last night, particularly to consider the Edison Company's by-law. The members of the board were unanimously in favour of the passing of the by-law and hope that the citizens will not fail to vote for the by-law. The board will do its best to push it through. Committees have been appointed to work to that end.

The President, Mr. W. H. Maldrum, was in the chair. There were present—The Vice-President, Mr. A. Hall, Messrs. Hay, Sherwood, Manson, McWhinnie, Dobbin, Kingan, Lewis, Moore, Phelan, Belleghem, Rev. J. C. Davidson and Fairweather.

Mr. Dobbin was appointed secretary pro tem.

BOARD OF ARBITRATION.—E. Peplow, J. Stevenson, R. Innes, W. H. Maldrum, W. Paterson, Geo. Hilliard, A. Hall.

The report was received and adopted.

THE BYLAW TO BE BOOMED.

The Edison Company's Bylaw was talked over, to which all were favourable. Messrs. Moore and Hall made brief addresses in favour of it, and hoped it would pass.

Committees were formed to work to bring out the freehold voters when the by-law was voted on, as follows:

TEAM—Messrs. Bradburn, Hay, Patterson, Hilliard and Shortly. No. 1 Ward—Messrs. Davidson, H. Winch, Bradburn T. E., Stratton, Phelan and A. Stevenson. No. 2 Ward—Messrs. Hall, E. H. D., Hall, A., Kelly, Fair, Wilson McFarlane, Brooks, Innes, Belleghem and Patterson. No. 3 Ward—Messrs. Moore, Rutherford, Dawson, McWhinnie, McKee, J., Shortly, Sherwood, W. E. Hay, Davis, A. L. T. G. Hazlitt. No. 4 Ward—Langford, Hartley, R. M. Dennistoun, Hilliard, Peplow, Dobbin, W. H. Hill, Lee, R. J., and Carnegie.

The Board then adjourned.

A Changeable Sheik.

Abdul Aziz has Considerable Trouble in Settling on a Creed.

Sheik Abdul Aziz, who was in Peterborough last spring with the Salvation Army Hindoo contingent, is a changeable sort of a sheik. He was at one time a Mohammedan, then he became a convert to Christianity and joined the Baptist church. After a period of time in that denomination he thought he saw a field for greater usefulness in the work of the Salvation Army. As a member of that body he made a tour of Canada and spoke at Peterborough among other places. A couple of months ago the sheik thought that everything was not lovely in the Army and he abandoned it to return to the church of his first love. He was accepted by the Baptist Conference of the Maritime Provinces and elected to be sent a missionary to his countrymen in India. He was to have accompanied Rev. M. B. Shaw to that country to engage in the work of the Gospel. Passage had been taken for Abdul and the rest of the party by the Damara, which sailed last evening for London, but the sheik had again changed his mind. At the eleventh hour he decided that the time for him to go back to India was not yet ripe. This will be a surprise for the mission board, who have taken much trouble and incurred considerable expense in arranging for his departure, but so it is, and the reasons are best known to Abdul himself.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Last evening a junior branch of the Association was organized for boys over eleven years and under sixteen years. The general secretary explained the plans for carrying on the work. Messrs. Smart and Mannell told how much good they had received from the boys' branch, and felt satisfied the boys would be blessed and helped by their being members of the branch. Mr. Joseph Groat, Ashford, Kent, England, then gave an excellent and instructive blackboard lesson, which was interesting and greatly enjoyed by all present. At the close a number of lads united with the Association. On and after next Friday no lad, unless a member of the Association, will be admitted to the reading or games rooms. Members shall have the privileges of the above rooms each day from 9 a.m. until 7.30 p.m. A meeting will be held each Friday evening from 7 to 8 p.m. for Bible study and other helpful instruction.

Through the kindness of Sergt.-Major Rundle, we were enabled to organise a class for physical training last evening. This class will meet each Friday evening, at present, at 8 o'clock. All members are eligible for membership, and we are satisfied it will prove a great blessing to all who will take the instruction systematically as given each week in the class. Much benefit will be the result.

Young men's meeting to-night; theme, "Samson." Mr. F. G. Saunders will lead. Come men, both young and old, and enjoy a happy hour.

Mr. Wm. Freeborn will lead the consecration meeting Sabbath morning at 9 a.m.

Open air service, Central Park, at 4.15. Short addresses by Messrs. Walltrooke, Russell and Smart. Hearty singing led by Y.M.C.A. band.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, Ashburnham, will address the Gospel and song service Sabbath evening at 8.30. Public invited.

Cold Springs, Otonabee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.—Although Thursday, Sept. 11th, proved to be a very unpleasant day, yet the annual picnic of the Cold Spring's Union Sunday School was no mean failure. Although a large number were prevented by the rain from being present, yet there were over eighty on board, and they enjoyed themselves splendidly. Jubilee Point was reached before twelve, when ample justice was done to the good things provided by the ladies. The programme of sports, which had been prepared by the committee for the occasion, was carried out, partly in the hall and partly outside. The following is a complete account of the sports, winners and the prizes:—Running 100 yards, boys 12 to 15—1 Stanley Matchett, box of paints; 2 Alex. Baptist Church Mission Band.

Annual Meeting of the Band—Officers Elected—Secretary's Report—The Children's Feast.

The annual meeting of the Mission Band of the Baptist church, held last Tuesday, was well attended there having, been about seventy-five present. After routine business the officers of the Band were elected for the current term as follows:

PRESIDENT (re-elected)—Miss Gilmour.

VICE PRESIDENT.—Miss M. Matthews.

SECRETARY (re-elected)—Miss Ada Aldridge.

TREASURER—Miss Algie Duff.

MUSICAL COMMITTEE—Miss Ella Stratton and Kathleen Duff.

BOX COMMITTEE—Misses Annie Hutchinson, Lily Jones, Miss Ellis, Masters John McDonald, John Reezel and Fred Kemp.

At the conclusion of the business of the meeting, the children were entertained at a banquet on the church lawn.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Miss Ada Aldridge presented her report as follows, for the year ending August 31st 1890:

We organized our Band four years ago. The past year is the fourth note of a broken chord. The prelude of the year was a very pleasant service and picnic, held in a pretty wood near the town, and the key-note has been active, practical work for missions.

We have held meetings every month, with the exceptions of July and August. The largest attendance was fifty-two, the smallest twenty-two, the aggregate attendance three hundred and thirty-four, and the average thirty-three.

In the month of October we sent a home mission box to the Rev. Mr. Lambert. This box consisted of toys, papers, etc.

In January Mademoiselle La Porte gave us one of her interesting talks on "La Grande Ligne Mission."

In April we gave a very successful Band concert. One of the chief features of the evening, was the presentation of two certificates of life-membership, in the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, to Miss M. Nicholls, our esteemed ex-president.

During the year one of our members has passed "beyond the shadows," and we have been reminded of the couplet:

"How should we reach God's upper light,
If life's long day had no good night?"

Ernest Kidd has gone home to God to sing the "new song" that we are yet learning.

In May our President suggested sending a box to India, and for several weeks some of our most faithful members met together and worked for the box, which was sent in August.

Another year is before us with all its hopes, opportunities and possibilities. Let us not be discouraged, for hath He not said: "Be still and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth."

ADA ALDRIDGE,
Secretary.

The treasurer's report stated that the collections for missionary purposes amounted to the tidy sum of $59 40.

To Our Subscribers.

The special announcement which appeared in our columns some time since announcing a special arrangement with Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburg Falls, Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enabled to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two-cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable, as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. Its phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for a "Treatise." w21

The Fatal Mischief Lurked in the Cup That Graced a Supper Given to Laborers Out of Work—Several Dead and Others in a Critical Condition.

LONDON, Sept 13.—Miss White, a benevolent lady residing at Fulham, Wednesday evening gave a supper to 100 laborers out of work. Hardly was the meal finished when the entire company was taken ill, many suffering extreme pain. Doctors found the whole party had been poisoned. Antidotes were administered, but three persons have died and others are still in a critical condition. The poison has been traced to a corrosive deposit on the interior of the tea urns, which had not been previously used for a long time and were not properly cleansed by the servants.

NEITHER SIDE WINS.

Justice Rose's Decision in the Great St. George Case.

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Mr. Justice Rose delivered judgment Saturday at Osgoode Hall in the famous St. George accident trials, which were heard before him and a special jury. The room in which the Common Pleas Divisional Court sits was crowded with lawyers and interested spectators to hear the judgment, which was an elaborate and lengthy document. His Lordship, among other things, said:

The plaintiffs ask for judgment on the findings of the jury in their favor. The railway company submits that it is entitled to judgment in its favor or to a non suit on a declaration that the answers do not warrant judgment in favor of either party, i.e., that there has been a disagreement. I think it will be convenient to if possible ascertain what has been found by the jury and second to see whether or not the findings are supported by evidence.

The charges of negligence may be gathered under two heads:—1. Negligence causing the actions; 2. negligence in not averting the result.

His conclusions were that the jury had found the cause of the accident to have been the breaking of the tire; the cause of the breaking to have been violence; but the source of the violence to have been unascertained, that the breaking, that is, the breaking by violence, should have been reasonably anticipated by reason of the thinness of the tire, which thinness rendered the use of the tire unreasonable, because it was reasonable to suppose that it might be subjected to such violence, and implied therefore that such violence might reasonably have been anticipated, that the running at the high rate of speed over the switch and round the curve with such a tire was not shown to have been such a condition of affairs as to have given notice of the probable breaking of the tire; that, therefore, neither the thinness nor the excessive spread, the switch nor the curve was the cause of the breaking of the tire, nor was the combination the cause; that neither the internal nor the external force or violence suggested was shown to have been the violence causing the breaking, but that the breaking was caused by some violence unascertained, and therefore of a degree unascertained, and therefore it was undetermined whether the result would have been avoided if a tire of a greater degree of thickness had been employed.

The judge then went on to show that the defendants could not be held liable for events and forces which were unascertainable, and showed that on account of the disagreement on the questions the verdict returned by the jury amounted to a disagreement.

In closing he said:

The result is that the plaintiffs have failed to sustain the charges of neglect causing the breaking of the wheel and in not providing a bridge structure sufficient to have carried over the train. The jury have disagreed on the question of negligence in not averting the result by putting on the brakes, and so no judgment can be entered on these findings for either party. In the view I have taken of the case I do not deem it necessary to further consider the motion for non suit. . . . The evidence did not enable the jury to come to a conclusion on the question and, so far, the defendants have failed also. I think the pleadings should be amended to meet the facts.

The court was adjourned until 10 o'clock on Saturday, Oct 4, when any motions which the respective counsel may choose to make will be heard, with a view to carrying the case further.

It is altogether probable that both the plaintiffs and the Grand Trunk will appeal to the Divisional Court.

A FATAL PITCH IN.

The Pacific Express on the C. & G.T. Crashes Into a Freight Train.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 13.—The Pacific express on the Chicago & Grand Trunk was running about 45 miles an hour when it crashed into a freight train at Schoolcraft, 30 miles west of here, yesterday morning. Engineer George Merigold was not aware of the danger until a second before the trains came together. He stuck to his post, set the air-brake, shut off steam and reversed the lever. The engine telescoped the caboose and wrecked three cars. The engineer was found in the cab frightfully scalded.

Fireman J. D. Williams was thrown several feet through the cab window and into the wreck ahead. He was also scalded so that he may not live. Brakeman J. C. Taylor, in the telescoped caboose, was horribly bruised and maimed, perhaps fatally. The baggage car of the express left the track but was not damaged. The first and second coaches jumped the track and the platforms were smashed by the collision. A. J. Hamilton, brakeman in the first coach, was thrown over five seats and had two ribs broken. Brakeman Conway jumped from the rear coach and his right arm and shoulder blade were broken. The train was heavily loaded but the passengers escaped with a few bruises. Engineer Merigold lived but a few hours. He was a single man.

ST. JOHN'S MYSTERY.

A Sheffield-street Tough Found Dead—Murder Suspected.

ST JOHN, N.B., Sept. 13.—This morning the body of Joseph Cameron, a tough character of the town, was found lying on the sands at the foot of Sheffield street. Two or three slight bruises were discovered on his face, and it was quite evident he had come to his death by drowning. On examination it was found that the catch of his watch chain was broken and the watch gone. The coroner postponed the enquiry and detectives are working on the case. About a year ago "Brick" Moran, another rough character of Sheffield-street, was found dead under similar circumstances, and it is now believed he was murdered through facts which have since developed.

IN A FINANCIAL FIX.

U. S. TREASURY OFFICIALS TRYING TO AVERT A PANIC.

President Harrison in Anxious Consultation With Washington—Secretary Windom Holds a Conference With Leading New York Bankers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—There was a long consultation today by wire between the President at Cresson and Acting Secretary Batchelder and Assistant Secretary Nettleton at the Treasury Department concerning the stringency in the money market, during which the whole situation was thoroughly gone over. The President, it is understood, stated that it is his desire to avert a panic in the money market and that none shall be permitted to occur if the Treasury Department can prevent it. The views of the President were telegraphed to Secretary Windom at New York, who at noon sent the following message to the President:

"Have had conference with leading financiers. There appears to be considerable stringency, but no reason to apprehend serious consequences. I am fully advised and will take such action as I think the situation requires."

The President has also been in consultation by wire with Major McKinley, chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, and others in regard to the propriety of extending the date fixed by the Senate for the new tariff bill to go into effect. The matter, it is understood, is to be the subject of a further conference.

The director of the mint announced to-day his willingness to buy largely of silver Monday if the offers are favorable, in order to assist in relieving the stringency in money.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Secretary Windom arrived at the sub-treasury at 11½ to-day and notices were at once sent out to a number of bankers to attend a conference and exchange views with him.

A proposition which met with unanimous approval of those present, including the Secretary of the Treasury, was to suspend the payment of customs duties from Nov. 1 to Feb. 1.

Secretary Windom said that the present difficulty in the money market he believed to be one that extended all over the country, and was not confined to Wall-street or even New York. He said it would require a great deal of careful consideration to settle upon the best mode of relieving the stringency, and for that reason nothing would be done hastily.

ASKING TO BE TAKEN BACK.

The New York Central Strikers Applying for Their Old Sits.

ALBANY, Sept. 13.—Supt. Bissell's offices and the hall leading to them were crowded all day with strikers wishing to return to work. They received no satisfactory answer but their names were taken and they were told they would be notified when their services were needed. During the past week according to a reinstated Knight, all of the roads employes in this vicinity have been asked to sign a paper which exacts from them a pledge that they shall not go out on strike, nor shall they belong to any labor organization which has the authority to order them out on strike in a body. Nearly all the men now employed by the road have signed the circular.

The Alleged Train Wreckers.

ALBANY, Sept. 13.—Thomas L. Cain and Arthur Boett, who were arrested at Prescott, Ont., were brought to Troy from Albany this afternoon. The prisoners were taken to County Judge Griffith's office and arraigned for the first time since their arrest on Thursday. They pleaded not guilty to the charge of being members of a party of five men who were engaged in the work of wrecking the passenger train on the Central road a few miles above Castleton on Sept 4. They were committed to jail. The five men charged with the train wrecking are now under lock and key in the Troy jail and their cases will be presented to the grand jury Monday.

CHOLERA IN OHIO.

THE PLAGUE SAID TO BE RAGING IN CARROLLTON.

Six Deaths in One Day—Physicians at First Call the Disease Typhoid Fever but Now It is Pronounced the Genuine Asiatic Scourge.

CARROLLTON, O., Sept 13.—An epidemic has been raging in the eastern part of this county for the past week and many deaths have resulted. Wednesday six deaths occurred. It was claimed by some to be typhoid fever.

Yesterday Dr. Williams of this place was called to the house of John Toole of Washington township, who was taken ill that morning. He died at 4 o'clock of cholera, after intense spasms and frequent fits of vomiting, purging and other symptoms of that disease.

Dr. Williams pronounces it a genuine case of Asiatic cholera.

Bees in His Breeks.

LINDSAY, Sept. 13.—The Warder says:

Sandy Burns of the 9th con., Howick, is perhaps one of the best known farmers in that township. By industry, straight and honorable dealings, he stands at the top of the ladder, notwithstanding the many mishaps that have befallen him during his life. About 12 years ago he nearly chopped his left hand off while hewing a wedge. A few years ago while driving a reaper his horses ran away, knocked him down and ran the reaper over him, mangling him so much that those who saw him concluded that his end had come, but Sandy did not think so and was soon to be seen at work again as usual. However, one day last week, Sandy's genuine Scotch blood was made to almost stand still in his veins, and this is how we are informed that it happened. He is a great lover of bees, keeps immaculate colonies and takes great delight in working among them. Upon this occasion he was trying to secure a fine young colony that had just swarmed and had nearly succeeded when the queen lighted upon Sandy and began prospecting for a suitable location. Now, unfortunately, there was a place on the seat of his pants where a patch should have been, and this opening the queen soon found, and in she went followed by thousands of her faithful subjects. Here was a dilemma that taxed this cool, canny Scot. He knew to attempt to stop them would be fatal, and as every second added to his trouble he shouted for help, but when the help arrived the inside of his clothes were bulged out with bees. What was to be done? Anger the bees and death was certain, and although he had received many a good sting he still stood solid as a rock, not daring to move. The assistants had wits and soon procured a pair of scissors and by gently handling the pant-legs and shirt he was soon cut out of his clothes and safely in the house, although his legs, body, face and hands were badly swollen from the effect of the many stings. Presence of mind and cool Scotch courage saved him this time as it had saved him many other times before.

Drowned While Fishing.

ALMONTE, Sept. 13.—Andrew Paul of Ramsay while fishing near Innisville fell from a boom into the water and was drowned.

COLLINGWOOD, Sept. 13.—During the recent blow on Georgian Bay two Indians were drowned while crossing in a canoe from Muskosh to Christian Island. From the position in which the canoe and a part of one of the men's clothes were found it is supposed the men were lost between Giants Tomb and Methodist Point. Both Indians are said to have been addicted to the use of liquor.

A Winnipeg Wedding.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13. At the Congregational Church yesterday, Mr. Vincent E. Ashdown of Toronto was married to Miss Hirons, who has for several years past been a resident of this city. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the near relatives of those chiefly interested being present. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the residence of Mr. Arthur Wickson, manager of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, brother-in-law of the bride, after which the happy couple left by the south train for their new home in the east.

Run Down by an Engine and Killed.

NORTH BAY, Sept. 13.—T. A. St. Cyr, a member of the town ship council of Ferris, was found dead on the main line of the C. P. R. a short distance east of Thorncliffe station. He left here at 2 a.m. and got off at Thorncliffe. It is supposed he started to walk home down the track and was killed by a freight train. He was found about 16 feet from the track with a large bruise on the shoulder and his skull broken.

Four Bodies in One Grave.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 13.—The partly decayed skeletons of a man, woman and two children were discovered on M. D. Baldwin's farm, Eagle Nest. Joseph and Robert Waunch were engaged in working at an excavation and ran across what was apparently an old grave. The four bodies, it seemed, had been buried in one grave.

Expelling a Derelict Church.

LONDON, Sept. 13. The congregation of the First Baptist Church having refused to expel their pastor, Mr. Wilman, after the charges of immorality while preaching in Charlottetown P.E.I., had been conclusively proven the church was officially expelled from the Aurora Association and that part of the church opposed to the recreant pastor recognized as the First Baptist Church.

The McKinley Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The Ways and Means Committee this morning began the formal consideration of the Senate amendments to the tariff bill. In the case of each amendment non-concurrence was recommended. There is little doubt that the consideration of the bill in committee will be concluded Monday.

Thirsting for Freedom.

PENETANG, Sept. 13.—There has been an epidemic of desertions at the reformatory lately. One of the boys got out Wednesday, four Friday and another later, making six for whom the guards are scouring the country.

Mr. Gibson and Mr. Bronson.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—The Journal says it is more than probable that in the next Ontario Cabinet change Hon. E. H. Bronson will be drawn into more active governmental work, either as Provincial Treasurer or Commissioner of Crown Lands.

HAMILTON, Sept. 12.—The Herald this evening says: In the announcement of the composition of the Ontario Cabinet many people were surprised to see the name of the Hon. J. M. Gibson in its old place as Provincial secretary. They should not be surprised, as Mr. Gibson's term of office has not yet expired. It is significant, however, that Mr. Mowat does not intend to allow Mr. Gibson to retire. If Hamilton would give him a seat it is quite evident that the premier will find a constituency which will accommodate the Provincial secretary.

When asked about his intentions this morning Mr. Gibson said: "I am not yet out of office. Perhaps I may be squeezed out. As far as I can see the protest against Mr. Gibson's election is an indication on the part of the party that they want me to represent them."

"Some of the protest fall would you seek election as a candidate another constituency?"

"I do not feel like giving up in that event. Now-a-days what I will do just a' present is—"

THE BEL-AIR RACES.

McKenzie Defeats Echo in the Steeplechase. The Other Winners.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—The fall meeting of the Bel Air Jockey Club was finished today. The attendance was small and the track very heavy, but some good sport was witnessed. Summary:

Sixth race, steeplechase, short course—Flip Flap (3 to 1) 1, Evangeline (3 to 1) 2, Joe D. (10 to 1) 3. Time 2.47½. Elphin the favorite at 8 to 5, fell.

BENWELL'S BROTHER.

To Be a Crown Witness at the Trial—Interviewed at Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Charles Benwell of Cheltenham, England, brother of the murdered F. C. Benwell, has been a guest at the Queen's Hotel the past day or two, having arrived in New York Wednesday by the City of New York of the Inman line. His object in visiting this country is to attend the trial of Rex Birchall at Woodstock next week, having been subpœnaed as a witness for the crown. The murdered man's father, Colonel Benwell, fully intended coming to the trial, but about the 20th of last month was seized with hemorrhage, either of the lungs or bronchial tubes, and for a time his life was despaired of, but when the son sailed he was considerably better.

Young Benwell was averse to talking about the case, and said he hoped that the Canadian newspapers would not treat the trial in the sensational manner in which he understood some of the New York papers purposed doing. When asked how much money his brother had in his possession, Mr. Benwell replied: "None of us know; but he could not have had much. He declined to speak of the relations between Birchall and deceased prior to their sailing for Canada or to divulge the contents of the letter alleged to have been sent to Col. Benwell by Birchall after the two men separated forever.

"You can readily understand," said Mr. Benwell, "that if I were to discuss the case with you it might prejudice the interests of the crown, in whose behalf I have been summoned."

"Have you seen Douglas Pelly yet?" asked The World.

"No, I have not seen anybody, nor have I been up to Princeton. I do not know when I will go up there. The Government officers will probably advise me as to my movements. By the way, how did you find out I was here? I never told anybody."

Mr. Benwell is apparently about 23 or 24 years of age, is intelligent looking and cultured and talks like a man who has seen something of the world. He was courteous to a degree, but firm in his determination not to talk as to the nature of the testimony he will give.

MONTREAL'S ANANIAS.

The Great American Liar's Story About Prince George.

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—The Buffalo Sunday Courier and other supposedly respectable papers in the United States under the heading:

ROYALTY IN JAIL.

PRINCE GEORGE INDULGES IN A FIGHT AND GETS LOCKED UP, printed a "special" despatch from Montreal to the effect that His Royal Highness started out Wednesday night with one of his lieutenants and a local Labob, as sailors when on shore, to do the town, became engaged in a fight in which the Prince felled three of his assailants and the lieutenant two, that two policemen arrested the entire party, that all were locked up in the station and it was only when the Chief of Police appeared on the scene in response to a telephonic message that the royal prisoner was released. In reply to an enquiry if there was any truth in the report The World's special correspondent writes as follows:

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—No truth whatever. A prominent Q.C., who was instrumental in making Prince George's visit pleasant, says he will probably take action against the inventor of the falsehood. The Herald to-morrow will say: "It is greatly to be regretted that the agreeable impression left by the visit of the Sailor Prince to Montreal should be marred by a disgusting and malicious despatch sent by one of the Bashi-Bazouks who continue to obtain the position of correspondents in Canada of American journals. Not only is the good name of reputable Canadian journalists injured by these wretched fabricators, but the facilities which are unfortunately afforded them by quasi-respectable papers in the United States for the propagation and dissemination of their cowardly falsehoods do much to justify the evil character which portions of the American press have abroad. We sincerely trust that the perpetrator of this latest villainy may be hounded down. We are glad to learn that one of the gentlemen elected by our citizens to dispense its hospitality to our royal visitor has the matter in charge. He may be trusted to bring this modern Ananias to a speedy and healthy retribution."

The story appeared in some of the New York papers with the credit line "By Dunlop's Cable Agency," which would seem to fix the responsibility on their agent here. The case will be brought before the grand jury to-morrow.

FIERCE FLAMES IN DETROIT.

Several Firemen Badly Burned by a Naphtha Explosion.

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—During a fire at Berry Bros.' varnish works at the foot of Leib-street this afternoon Edward Simons, William G. Clark and Albert Kemburg of Truck No. 6 and Ed. Murphy and John Pagel of Engine No. 9 were frightfully burned by an explosion of naphtha. The fire was extinguished with little loss of property to the firm.

GUELPH, Sept. 13.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in O'Connor & Co.'s tea and coffee store on Heaman's block. Mr. O'Connor and family, who live over the store, barely escaped with their lives. The stock was completely destroyed by fire and water, loss about $2000, partly insured; damage to building about $400, fully insured.

HAVRE, Sept. 14.—The United Stevedoreat sheds with freezing chambers, machinery and 80,000 carcases of mutton were destroyed by fire to-day.

NEW YORK'S FLOODS.

Great Damage Done in Many Sections of the Empire State.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14.—Reports from many sections of the state show great damage done by the floods. A big washout occurred on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg between Mannsville and Pierrepont Manor, carrying away the track for about 20 feet, and making a deep channel across the line, but the trains are now running regularly. There are nine washouts on the Carthage & Adirondack Railway, four of them serious. Between Benson mines and Oswegatchie, 15 rods of track has been swept away. At Copenhagen sidewalks were washed away and buildings demolished, at a total loss to the owners of over $10,000. Forty bridges have been washed away in Oswego County. The losses in the aggregate will reach many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 14.—A cloud-burst occurred Friday night at Irondale, doing great damage to property.

The Niagara Tunnel.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 13.—The contract for building the tunnel was signed late yesterday afternoon. Rogers & Clement were the successful bidders.

The Hamilton Bicycle Races.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 13.—The annual fall races of the Hamilton Bicycle Club were run off this afternoon. The races were under the patronage of Lord and Lady Aberdeen, who entered the grounds during the progress of the races, accompanied by their children. The weather was fine.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1890.

The Ontario Cabinet.

The Ontario Cabinet has been reorganised. Mr. John Dryden, M.P.P. for South Ontario, becomes Minister of Agriculture in succession to Hon. Charles Drury, who retires. Mr. Richard Harcourt, M.P.P. for Monck, becomes Treasurer in place of Hon. A. M. Ross, who has withdrawn from active politics. Mr. E. H. Bronson, M.P.P. for Ottawa, joins the Administration as Minister without portfolio. Mr. Thos. Ballantyne, M.P.P. for South Perth, will be the Ministerial candidate for Speaker of the new Legislature. These are familiar names with the people of Ontario. They are strong and popular men; clean and shrewd politicians; wise and experienced legislators. For nearly a score of years Mr. Mowat has been surrounded by able colleagues. Throughout the whole course of Liberal rule in this Province it has been conceded on all hands that Ontario has had the strongest Cabinet of all the Provinces. He has on more than one occasion lifted young politicians to Cabinet rank, and in no instance have time and developments told against his judgment. The promise he saw in the young politician has always been fulfilled in the veteran parliamentarian and legislator. Mr. Fraser and Mr. Hardy are signal examples of Mr. Mowat's unerring instinct of judgment. When they were but young men and young politicians the Premier called them to a weighty part in the administration of the affairs of the Province, and their subsequent careers have justified his confidence and honored his judgment, and their public service has been of enormous advantage to Ontario. He kept a vigilant eye upon Mr. G. W. Ross, watched his useful, active and honorable career in the Commons, recognised all his peculiar and exceptional qualifications for the office of Minister of Education, and at the proper hour put into his hands the work for which he had such exceptional fitness. The whole Province recognised the wisdom of the Premier's choice when Mr. Gibson was taken into the Cabinet. He has never elevated a man who was not thoroughly competent for the discharge of the higher responsibilities, nor one who has betrayed a trust, shirked a duty, or brought discredit upon the Liberal party or the Province of Ontario. Mr Mowat probably gives an undue measure of the unparalleled success and unequalled endurance of his administration to his associates in the Cabinet, but it is unquestionably true that he has had wise, prudent and able associates is one of the best proofs of Mr. Mowat's great ability and distinguished fitness for the direction of government and administration of public affairs. And never has Ontario had a stronger Cabinet than that which will meet the new Parliament under his invincible Premiership.

Mr. Ballantyne, who has been chosen for the Speakership, is one of the most popular men that has ever had a seat in the Legislature. He is invincible in his constituency for the reasons which give him his exceptional popularity in the Assembly. He is a fine debater, a man of broad views, a Liberal of the best type. He speaks but seldom upon questions of mere politics, but when the mind of the Legislature is turned upon the vital question of agriculture, and particularly upon the dairying industry, now one of the chief sources of wealth to the farmers of the Province, he speaks with authority and he is heard with respect. He is one of the pioneers and props of this great and developing natural industry. His personal fortunes are largely identified with its prosperity. He is always earnest in its promotion and vigilant in its defence. The partisan is rarely if ever revealed in his speeches. It is very manifest that his view is that the legitimate work of the Legislature is to conserve and build up the general interests of the Province and not to glorify any set of politicians; and that the wranglings of the stump and the sometimes fierce and prejudiced personalities of political contests ought not to come within the arena of the Assembly. It is this freedom from bitterness and partisanship which gives him his exceptional weight in the chamber, and his great popularity with both Conservatives and Liberals. No member could have greater command over the House or be more acceptable to both sides of it, or would fill the official duties with more dignity or propriety, or perform the social duties more becomingly. If his fellow representatives had been asked to vote without nomination it is hardly a question but Mr. Mowat's nominee for the Speakership would have been the almost unanimous choice of the Assembly.

Mr. Harcourt, the new Treasurer, has had an active part and an influential voice in the proceedings of the Legislature for three Parliaments. He is a native Canadian and bears a name that will not readily die out of the records of Canadian history. He ranks as one of the foremost debaters of the Assembly, and he has done good work for Liberalism from public platforms in many constituencies. His oratory is marked by an easy, graceful fluency and rare felicity of expression. He is a master of English, and upon educational questions he is one of the first authorities of the Legislature. He has a first-rate grasp of general public questions, a keen, quick mind, a safe judgment and an industry and energy that will enable him to meet boldly and master thoroughly every intricacy, duty and responsibility of his new position. He will be a strength to the Government in debate in the House and in the country. The important interests and industries of the Niagara peninsula will be brought in closer contact with the mind of the Government in consequence of his elevation. The Provincial nuances will have the careful, intelligent and ambitious care of one of the best brains of the Assembly; and to his promotion a young Canadian is appropriately and deservedly honoured, and an old, historic name marked for fresh distinction in the public records of Ontario.

In appointing Mr. Dryden, of South Ontario, to the portfolio of Agriculture the Premier has honoured that old battle ground of the giants of Canadian politics which first elected him to Parliamentary position. Mr. Dryden has sat in the Legislature for three Parliaments, but he was first choice of the Liberals of that historic old riding for Parliamentary honours long before he would allow his name to go before any convention. He has not striven for preference in the field of politics, and he has rarely spoken in the House except upon questions of which he has very special knowledge. But he is a persuasive and convincing speaker, and he has always a grasp of the facts and principles of his subject, which gives him great weight in any debate in which he intervenes. He is hardly a controversial politician, but he takes no man's insolence and runs from no man's blows. He is held in profound respect in the Assembly, and has in unusual degree the confidence and good-will of his opponents. He is most acceptable on the platform, and he seldom excites the bitter hostilities of his opponents. His qualifications for the position of Minister of Agriculture are heartily, enthusiastically recognised by that numerous and important class of which he becomes the special representative in the Government. He is a plain, practical, successful farmer. His farm is one of the best in the Province. His fame as a feeder and breeder of stock extends across the Dominion. He is in touch with all the movements for the promotion of agriculture and the live stock industry. He is a familiar figure at the local farmers' institutes, one of the active spirits of the Central Institute, and for many years maintained an active connection with the Agricultural and Arts Association. His elevation will be warmly ratified by the farmers of the Province. The Agricultural College and Experimental Farm will be maintained in increasing usefulness and efficiency. Agriculture throughout all its interests will benefit by his appointment to the Cabinet, and in the House there is no fear but he will prove a keen and vigorous champion of the institutions under his charge, and of all advanced measures and methods for the improvement of the farmer's position and the development of the agricultural resources and capabilities of the Province.

The people will learn with the greatest satisfaction that Mr. Bronson, of Ottawa, has also been invited to a place in the Cabinet. Owing to the fact that he is burdened with the management of a heavy and exacting business, he could not without grave danger to his personal interests take charge of a department. But by entering the Cabinet without portfolio the Government and the Province will have the benefit of his counsel and experience at least on questions of which he has special knowledge. And a better representative of the lumbering, timber and general business interests of the Province is not to be found in the Legislature. The general interests of Eastern Ontario will also become his special concern, and that part of the Province must derive large advantage from his admission to the Cabinet. The appointment does not carry salary. The practice of having Ministers without portfolio is recognised under the British Constitution and has been in use for some hundreds of years. Two ministers, Hon. J. J. C. Abbott and Hon. Frank Smith, sit in the Federal Cabinet without portfolio, and there are such Ministers in the Cabinets of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island. It is not necessary under the practice for Mr. Bronson to go back to his constituency for re-election. But that Ottawa would delight to approve his entrance into the Government is not to be doubted.

These, then, are the new Ministers who will be sworn in on Tuesday next. They are all men of clean lives and honorable standing in the community. Mr. Ballantyne and Mr. Bronson are Presbyterians, and Mr. Harcourt and Mr. Dryden are Baptists. Their public records are unspotted. They stand for politics at their best. The most partisan and prejudiced critic cannot find serious fault in their lives or seriously question their fitness for Ministerial responsibility. Ontario never had a stronger Government. The new appointments must give complete satisfaction to Liberals and give this most popular Government new strength and new popularity with every section of the community.—Globe.

The Grand Old Man.

[illegible] saw the Government of Gladstone still more unpopular. His Irish University Education Bill was rejected. After this defeat, of course, Gladstone resigned office, whereupon a curious difficulty arose. He was really anxious to be relieved of his duties, but Disraeli declined to accept office with a majority of the House against him, and some days later Gladstone stated that he and his colleagues had consented to resume their positions. Considerable correspondence with the Queen as to Disraeli's position was brought out in this statement, Gladstone reading an extract from one of his letters to Victoria in which he contended Disraeli's summary refusal to accept office was contrary to precedent and parliamentary usage. Disraeli then gave his version, and repeated the advice he had tendered to the Queen. He pointed out that the majority against the Government had been created by a section of Gladstone's own party with whom he, Disraeli, had no affiliation, and from his experience of office under such circumstances he was convinced that the experiment of trying to run a ministry without a parliamentary majority weakened authority and destroyed public confidence. The function of the Opposition, he added, was essentially critical and it was totally impossible for them to create a policy of government all at once. Disraeli declared that Gladstone had resigned on very inadequate grounds, and that, his honor having been satisfied by a resignation, his return to office was the best solution of the difficulty. He concluded by predicting for the Tory party a triumphant career, when other topics should press to the front. By other topics he appears to have meant questions of foreign policy.

Some who profess doubts as to the depth of Gladstone's democracy, complain that he has created more lords during his ministries than any other English premier, as if multiplying the numbers of the peerage would save that tottering House. Is it not just as significant a fact that Gladstone has refused again and again all offers of title from the Queen, preferring to sail down the centuries as the Great Commoner of the Nineteenth?

Looking back, then, over the threescore years (for if he lives two years longer, he will have served his country through sixty years of infinite variety) in which this man has trod the stage of State with firm, unfaltering step, what shall we say of him as an historic figure—what shall we give him?

The greatest orator has so few great passages—that it is hard to find a memorable or quotable saying amid the million worded Niagara of eloquence with which he has deluged England. This is true, but it is equally hard to find a speech of his, especially in the last thirty years, that is not vibrant with the living lightning of a lofty morality eager to diffuse itself into the daily life of a people. His spirit, as revealed in his speeches, is one that does not crave any glory of immediate victory, but desires only to give out its spiritual glow to others, contentedly confident of the fruition of its faith in that future, whose ripeness it aspires to hasten.

STONY LAKE CAMPERS WILL FIND AT JUNIPER ISLAND STORE

A full assortment of Groceries, Canned Goods and Campers' Supplies generally—a first class stock, fresh and reliable, and at Peterboro' high prices. The popularity of this store last year and the favor with which it was received—has induced us to enlarge the building and lay in a much larger stock this season so that campers may be saved the trouble and annoyance of bringing their supplies from town and other places, as they can be equally as well served by us. Being centrally situated, it is easy of access—the Steamer passing close to the Island both entering and leaving Stony Lake.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

W. E. GLADSTONE: THE GREATEST LIVING ENGLISHMAN.

Growing Old, but as Vigorous as Ever—His Great Work for England—Revered and Honored by All—Statesman, Orator, Writer, and Leader.

Gladstone's antagonism between Lord Beaconsfield and Gladstone may be said to have dated from the session of 1852, when first these men felt themselves pitted, though a casual observer might have seen this rivalry foreshadowed in previous debates. Disraeli as a finance minister did not shine, and his first Budget, brought forward in an exhaustive speech of over five hours, was so completely picked to pieces by Gladstone that the Ministry were defeated by a majority of nineteen and Lord Derby resigned. Aberdeen formed the new Ministry with, of course, Gladstone as the only possible Chancellor of the Exchequer, for had he not beaten down with his own Budget the retiring Chancellor? On this occasion the security of Gladstone's seat at Oxford was somewhat shaken by the obvious tendency towards liberalism, which his later actions had displayed. The first Budget brought in by Gladstone convinced the House that his oratorical ability was complemented by an equal facility in handling the most abstruse financial details.

England's internal development, her commerce, her finance, have found in him a successful champion; but whenever he has attempted to deal with anything really outside of England, it would seem as if the proverbial insularity of the Britain had become intensified in his case; had become a narrowing ring of granite round the tortured head of Britain's loftiest son. It is as a financier, a commercial statesman, a conservative of the middle-class whence he sprung, not as an extender of empire, or a helper of democracy, that his rank, as a practical statesman, it seems to me, will be finally fixed; for, if the brilliant Budgets of 1853 and 1860 had not already ranked Gladstone with the great financial ministers of the past, his statement of 1861 would certainly have put him there.

1864 saw Gladstone's rejection by Oxford, a great mistake of Tory policy: for as long as he sat for the University he must have been fettered to some extent, must have felt unable to shade off the silent but deep influence of such a connection. Freed from the fetters of his college, Gladstone now began a new career. Hitherto he had been not a statesman, but a church-and-statesman.

In 1866 he introduced his Reform Bill. Gladstone closed the debate with a speech in which, these last sentences were delivered with a moving majesty like a procession of thunder clouds. "The great social forces which move onwards in their might and majesty, and which the tumult of our debates does not for a moment impede or disturb—those great social forces are against you; they are marshalled on our side; and the banner which we now carry in this fight, though perhaps at some moment it may droop over our sinking heads, yet it soon again will float in the eye of Heaven, and it will be borne by the firm hand of the united people of the three kingdoms, perhaps not to an easy, but to a certain, and to a not far distant victory."

Yet in the division which followed, the majority of the government was only five.

In 1865, undeterred by his defeat in English Reform, Gladstone struck the first blow in the great struggle for the disestablishment of the Irish Church.

Never, perhaps, in all his career had Gladstone's oratorical and argumentative powers been put forth so grandly as in this campaign. But Disraeli's remark on the new system the ministry had adopted of vindicating their characters during this recess was only too true: "We really have had no time to forget anything. Her Majesty's ministers may be said, during the last six months, to have lived in a blaze of apology." The Gladstone ministry was only by on the defensive and there were signs during the year 1871 that its popularity was waning. A reaction had set in early. In that year a section of Gladstone's constituents petitioned him to resign his seat for Greenwich. It was indeed an eventful year; war still raging between France and Prussia, though a treaty of peace was signed in May, difficulties with the United States over the Alabama claims being adjusted; the disestablishment of the Irish Church completed on the first of January, agitation for the abolition of the House of Lords, or for their reform. Gladstone defending the Lords; and Sir Charles Dilke announcing himself a republican and in favor of that form of government, made up a whirligig that was soon to bring its revenges.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past years, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase of $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how much a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,460	10.29
Federal	10,058,587	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,317	10.36
North American	8,470,920	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,697,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,226	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

THE EDISON COMPANY BY-LAW

On Thursday Sept. 25th the people of Peterborough will have an opportunity of voting upon the most important by-law that has ever been submitted for popular approval. This most important, because it is to decide whether a gigantic manufacturing enterprise shall find a welcome in Peterborough; shall be accorded the most suitable site for consolidating into one grand whole the three manufacturing establishments of the Edison General Electric Company, now placed in different towns and cities of the Dominion; most important because, upon the adoption or rejection of this by-law will depend largely the future of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre. With the Edison Company once established here, the town will become a recognized manufacturing centure, and that will attract other large establishment as well as small ones. There is nothing succeeds like success and, if once we get a solid and firmly established nucleus of manufactories here, the others will come of themselves. It was not a money bonus—it was not tempting inducements, that decided the Edison Company upon selecting Peterborough as the site for the consolidation of its works. It was the central situation of the town—its unrivalled and complete railway facilities and other advantages pre-eminently fitting it as a home for manufacturing enterprise, and this fact has become widely known and will hereafter become more widely known if the decision of the people of Peterborough on Sept. 25th shows the world that their welcome to manufactories is proportioned, in warmth and sincerity, to the great extent of her advantages. The benefits of having such an establishment as the Edison Company settle in Peterborough are too obvious and self-evident to require insisting upon. We know that the very prospect of the company coming here has created a feeling of buoyancy that has represented new life to the people of the town generally. A prospect to our working people of employment for several hundred hands in the near future, and for immediately busy employment for our building trade mechanics has had an encouraging effect. There is no class of the community that will not be benefitted—a large portion directly, and the rest indirectly, benefitted. Of course there will be an addition, but a hardly appreciable addition, to the taxation; but there will be more than ample compensation in the increased value of property. There is not a single property in town, which if put upon the market to-day, has not an increase upon the market value of it a month ago, caused by the simple prospect of the Edison Company coming to Peterborough; and this increase in value is many times greater than the amount of taxes the increase would produce in a dozen years. There is no particular use at present insisting upon the advantages presented. There is no doubt that the new enterprise is a good thing, and there seems to be very few opposed to the proposed by-law. Of course, it will have its opponents—there are to be found persons in any community who would oppose a by-law to locate Heaven itself in Peterborough, if a free site were one of the conditions of the location. But the great mass of the people are alive to the benefits the adoption of the by law will bring, and, it is to be hoped, they will act accordingly. Being in favour of the by-law, and having an anxious desire to have the value of property raised; an anxious desire to have building operations begun at once this fall; an anxious desire to see our mechanics and labourers at works upon $40,000 buildings; an anxious desire to see Peterborough recognized by the world at large as the best, most favourably situated and most friendly site for manufactures in the Province. All these desires will avail nothing without they are expressed through the ballot. And that ratepayer will be blind to his own interests; blind to the best interests of the town; blind to his children's and children's children's interests, if, from mistaken motives, from short sighted, selfish considerations, he permits himself to be deluded into opposing the establishment of the Edison General Electric Company in Peterborough. And he will be giving that opposition to the by-law on the twenty-fifth if he votes against it, and even if he refrains from voting. Now is the time for the people of Peterborough to shew their mettle, if they want manufactories here—now is the chance of a lifetime dependent upon their decision. The result of the voting on the twenty-fifth will show to the manufacturing world of the Dominion, the United States and Great Britain whether Peterborough is willing to surrender her unrivalled and recognized superiority as a manufacturing centre to outside enterprise and outside capital and a development that will ere long make the town one of the leading cities of the Dominion; or, by a dog-in-the-manger policy subject our advantages to profitless idleness—neither making use of them ourselves nor permitting others to do so. On Thursday, September 25th, the town of Peterborough will establish for herself a character that will either make or mar a magnificent manufacturing future.

The Late Patrick Buck.

An aged resident of Ashburnham died today, in the person of Mr. Patrick Buck. Deceased came to Canada in 1825, his parents settling in Otonabee township, where he resided till about 15 years ago, when he gave up farming and moved to town. He never married but passed a quiet, industrious and useful life. He possessed many good qualities of head and heart, and his death will be sincerely regretted by his many old friends. The funeral takes place from the residence of Mr. M. LeHane, Sophia street, Ashburnham, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

She didn't care much for the oil but she was overjoyed when she found the tea. That household and hundreds of others are out of joint unless hawley bros' splendid tea is on the table.

The Late Canon Liddon.

Before his sermon Sunday morning Rev. C. B. Kenrick made a feeling reference to the death of the late Canon Liddon. He said he could not occupy the pulpit on that occasion without referring to the great loss which the church had sustained during the past week. Only a few months before they had had to lament the death of the church's greatest scholar, Bishop Lightfoot, and now the cable had just told them that the church's greatest preacher was no more. He too might have been a Bishop, having been nominated on different occasions to the sees of Edinborough and St. Albans, but he preferred to work in a humbler sphere. Canon Liddon was Ireland Professor of exegesis at Oxford and Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, and his time was divided between those two places. But great as were his literary labours, he would perhaps be best known as a preacher. For many years Canon of St. Paul's, he never failed to attract the crowds which filled the vast building and marvelled at the eloquence which made him one of the greatest orators of the English language. But, said the speaker, it was not mere oratory. It was the great learning and the deep spirituality of Canon Liddon which were the secrets of his success, and made his name a household word throughout the Christian world. Preachers there might be, in the opinion of some, who were his equals as public speakers, but nowhere could there be found one like him who to his gifts of eloquence added such great learning and such marvellous spirituality of life. Spirituality which, the speaker said, shone in his very countenance which was like that of an angel, and was echoed in the very tones of his voice, so that to hear Canon Liddon preach was a thing never to be forgotten. But God had called him to another sphere of work and now he was with saints and angels in Paradise.

The Secret of Methodist Success.

An Able Address by Rev. Mr. Locke—Salient Features of Methodism—Rev. Mr. Davis Touches on Faith Cure.

The George Street Methodist Church was crowded Sunday evening. Some were regular attendants, some were attracted by the music, and others by the special sermon which, it was announced, would be preached by Rev. Mr. Locke upon the subject of Methodism.

The opening services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Davis. The choir of thirty voices rendered a couple of choice anthems, displaying excellence of training and well balanced parts.

Rev. Mr. Davis read a portion of the ninth chapter of Acts, recounting the healing of Æneas by Peter, and the raising of Dorcas; and, in commenting thereon, pointed out that in neither of these cases was the work done by faith. Æneas had been sick eight years of the palsy and his faith had not been able to heal him. Peter heals, not by faith, but by the power of Jesus Christ. That the apostles effected no cures by faith, Mr. Davis argued, was shown by the fact that they sent for Peter to revive the dead Dorcas. They had faith, doubtless, but they realized that it was insufficient, and so sent for Peter, who had the power of healing.

Rev. Mr. Locke's sermon was practical and interesting, to Methodists at least. He said that in view of the great quadrennial conference now being held at Montreal, a sermon on the subject of Methodism, its prominent characteristics and some of the elements of its success, would not be out of place. He pointed out the remarkable success which had attended the movement inaugurated by John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist church. The once despised sect of that name had grown into a large and honorable body, numbering 35 000 ministers, six million members and between twenty-five and thirty million adherents. The Methodist church claimed one-fifth of the inhabitants of Canada, and of Ontario. In view of this, they might well say in the words of the text (Isa., lx 22), "the little one has become a thousand, and the small one a strong nation." Then the preacher pointed out the causes for this greatness. First was the missionary spirit infused by John Wesley into the church's operations at the very beginning—a movement which had always been one of the chief features of Methodism. It had spread to other churches; but among the hundred mission fields being worked by the Christian church, the Methodists claimed a third of the converts. Missionary work was an essential feature of Methodism. Another prime element of success was their system of itinerancy among the ministers, as opposed to the system of permanent appointment adopted by other churches. This system, the speaker claimed, had built up Methodism; and he hoped no proposal to change it would ever be touched. It was essential to the continued success of the church. A chief cause of the growth of the church was the peculiarity of its teaching. No novel tenets were introduced, but they clung to the doctrine expounded by John Wesley. They were the foundations of the church. The Methodist church was characterized by its strong condemnation of worldly amusements—of exciting, dissipating amusements, which were destructive to divine life in the soul. Among these he classed the ball-room, the social dance (no matter how select the company), circus and theatre going, horse races, card playing, etc. A chief factor in the success of the church was the purity of its doctrine, a ministry who strictly adhered to the moral law, and an enthusiastic membership. On each of these points the preacher enlarged, urging the necessity of

A CONSECRATED, WORKING MEMBERSHIP

to carry out the intentions of the founder of the church. Another feature was the great facilities afforded for Christian fellowship, the class meeting being emphasized as the heart of the Methodist church. The church's great essential is always, everywhere, deep, spiritual life, fervency of soul, inward piety, the white heat of divine love in the soul. The Methodist doctrine was peculiarly calculated to give the consciousness that God is within. The church must, he said, retain the feature of divine sanctification in order to fulfil its mission. A characteristic of Methodism was the extent to which it found a sphere of work for each member. In no other church, perhaps, was the organization for work so complete. Each member had some distinct work to do. Methodism would not be successful without a general work of evangelization among its members. Their's was eminently a system, as it had been described, "to get hold of the people by the people." In all these things lay the secret of the great success of the Methodist church. In conclusion the pastor urged his hearers to endeavour to carry out the divine will, to become sanctified in Christ and spread the Gospel to all men.

While the collection was being taken up a beautiful duet, "Rock of Ages," was sung by Mrs. Seward and Mr. W. H. Manning. It was a charming selection charmingly rendered.

What is "Forestalling?"

Does a Truthful Answer to a Business Question Constitute a Breach of the Law?

A case of special interest to commission merchants transpired at the police court today, when a charge of forestalling on the market Saturday was preferred against Mr. W. H. Wrighton. To adjudge rightly upon the evidence offered required a fine legal distinction. Mr. Weir conducted the prosecution.

The first witness was the woman from whom it was alleged Mr. Wrighton purchased a basket of eggs before eleven o'clock on Saturday. She stated that Mr. Wrighton came and looked at the eggs. She opened the conversation by asking him how much eggs were. Mr. Wrighton replied that he was paying 14c. at the shop. Then he passed on, and nothing further occurred between them. Afterwards she went to Mr. Wrighton's store, but did not sell the eggs.

Constable McGinty, on whose warrant the information had been laid, stated that he asked the woman if Mr. Wrighton had bought her eggs, and she replied that he had offered her 14c. for them at the shop. The constable was positive she said the eggs were sold to Mr. Wrighton. A few minutes later the woman left the market and went to Mr. Wrighton's store, leaving the basket of eggs on the floor. The witness understood the eggs were sold later on by the woman's sister to Mr. Wrighton.

Mr. WRIGHTON asked the constable if he was watching him Saturday.

P. C. MCGINTY—No, I wasn't.

Mr. WRIGHTON—How did you happen to pitch on this particular woman, then?

P. C. MCGINTY—A fellow told me about her.

Mr. WRIGHTON argued in his own behalf that no purchase was proven. The woman had asked him a question, which he answered. Was he to tell her a lie, or not answer a civil question, because there was a by-law in force?

Mr. WEIR contended that the negotiations had all the effect of a sale, because the woman immediately acted upon the information and took her eggs to Mr. Wrighton's store. If the by-law could be evaded in this way, he argued, every buyer could break the law in spirit, if not in letter, with impunity. Mr. Wrighton might have answered the woman's question, to the effect that he was not buying eggs till after eleven o'clock.

Mayor STEVENSON said that, upon the evidence, he could scarcely make a conviction, and discharged the case.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting on Saturday evening was well attended. Mr. J. G. Saunders gave a talk on the turning point in the life of Samson.

Consecration meeting was a season of much joy and blessing to all on Sabbath morning. Mr. Wm. Freeborn led the meeting.

The open air service was attended by an immense crowd on Sabbath afternoon. The attention was good. Messrs. Walbrook and and Smart gave pointed and telling Gospel addresses. The Y.M.C.A. band rendered good service in leading the singing.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, Ashburnham, addressed the Gospel and song service last evening. The address was excellent, being very thoughtful, instructive and impressive, on "Law." All present were much pleased and helped.

Requiem High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral—For the Repose of the Soul of Sister St. Mary of Loretto, Congregation de Notre Dame.

A solemn requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral at 8 o'clock this morning for the repose of the soul of the late Sister St. Mary of Loretto. The deceased sister died at the Convent of the Congregation, at Gloucester street, Ottawa, on Sunday, September 7th. Her family name was Annie Rossiter. She was a sister of Rev. Father Rossiter, of Malone, N.Y., and aunt of Sister St. Margaret of the Sacred Heart, of the congregation in Peterborough. She was born 53 years ago at St. Johns, P. Q., and was a member of the community of the Congregation de Notre Dame for 31 years. The deceased sister was six years at the convent in Peterborough, during five of which she was superior—from 1880 to 1885. She was transferred from here to Kingston as superior of the convent in that place. She was subsequently transferred in the same capacity to the convent at Bathurst, New Brunswick.

Her assiduous devotion to her duties began to tell upon her bodily powers, and, her health failing, she went to Gloucester street convent, Ottawa. She was here only two weeks when, on Wednesday, September 3rd, she was stricken with paralysis, and did not recover consciousness before death, which took place on Sunday, September 7th, the good sister, after a third of a century spent in doing good, passing peacefully away to her reward, leaving behind her the memory of a life devoted, in all its energies, to the promotion of the cause of education and the moral and mental welfare of the pupils of the several convent schools over which she had charge from time to time. She was open-hearted, generous, untiring, counting no exertion a sacrifice, so long as she was able to further the interests committed to her care.

She was held in high respect and greatly beloved by the clergy and sisters with whom she had been associated during the long years of her devoted life.

On the Monday morning following the death of the venerable sister St. Mary of Loretto, a requiem High Mass was celebrated in the chapel of the Ottawa convent. The remains were then followed to the railway station by the sisters and pupils of the convent, and taken to the Ville Marie Convent Montreal, where another solemn requiem High Mass was given by her brother, Rev. Father Rossiter. The large attendance of the clergy on this occasion testified to the high esteem in which deceased sister was held. Her mortal remains were laid at rest in the vault of the mother House of the Order.

So highly was she regarded in Peterborough by the clergy that the solemn high mass celebrate this morning, was offered by Rev. Father Rudkins, Rector of the Cathedral. Sister St Aubert, of the convent, had charge of the musical portion of the services and invitations were sent to all the present and many of the past members of the choir, most of whom responded by their presence. The church, especially the high altar was, solemnly and appropriately decorated for the occasion. Rev. Father Wibbs was celebrant, Rev. Father Dubie, deacon, and Rev. Father O'Brien, sub-deacon. Mrs. W. J. Morrow, at the organ, played the Dead March in Saul at the beginning of the service and Mendelssohn's March at its conclusion. Miss Eland presided at the organ during the celebration of the mass, which was tant harmonized by Mons. Boucher, musical director of the Chapel of the Jesuits, Montreal. The solos had been arranged as quartettes, which were taken by Messrs. Ball and LaBerte and Mrs. W. J. Morrow and Miss Annie Dunn. The latter sang in her usual excellent manner the "De Profundis," at the offertory. The large attendance, including the pupils of the convent, was a tribute to the memory of the deceased sister, practically expressive of the veneration and respect which her beautiful Christian character and devoted life had begotten.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Bell, of Bethany, preached in the Charlotte street church Sunday.

Two Redemptorist Fathers will begin a mission at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday after next.

Wednesday evening at eight o'clock a harvest thanksgiving service will be held in St. John's church. Special address, music and decorations.

Personal

Mr. J. W. Crosby is convalescent and will, it is expected, be out in a day or two.

Miss Nettie and Miss Ruby Paterson have returned after an extended holiday trip through Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Ontario.

Capt. Jones and wife and Lieut. LeBar have left the local corps of the Salvation Army. Their successors are expected in a few days.

Mr. John Milne, representing the Waterous engine works, Brantford, and formerly of Peterborough, was in town over Sunday. Mr. Milne's many friends in Peterborough were pleased to see him.

M'KINLEY WINS THE DAY

DEBATE ON THE SENATE AMENDMENTS CUT SHORT.

Democratic Protests Against the Application of the "Gag Rule" Unheeded—The Changes Non-Concurred in by a Vote of 120 to 82.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—In the House today Mr. McKinley, Rep., O., from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported back the tariff bill with Senate amendments, with the recommendation that the amendments be non-concurred in. The report was referred to the Committee of the Whole. Mr. McKinley then offered a resolution from the Committee on Rules for the immediate consideration of the tariff bill in the House, providing that after two hours' general debate it shall be in order to move to non-concur in the Senate amendments in gross and agree to the Committee of Conference asked for by the Senate, and it shall be in order without further delay or motion pressed to vote on the motion. The previous question on the motion was ordered, 166 to 72.

Mr. Breckinridge, Dem., Ga., protested against the adoption of the resolution. Mr. McMillin, Dem., Tenn., also opposed the resolution, but it was adopted, 164 to 72.

Mr. McKinley gave a brief statement of the Senate amendments, but entered into no argument as to their propriety or impropriety.

Mr. McKinley said there was not a single paragraph in the bill that was sectional. The Mills bill was sectional. It protected southern sugar and rice and then put the agricultural products of northern farmers on the free list. The pending bill took care of every product of the south unless sugar be excepted and it gave to the producers of sugar a bounty equal to the duty they had been enjoying. Mr. McKinley continued: We propose to go right on protecting the South as we have done for 25 years in spite of themselves, in spite of their representatives we propose to go on giving them such protection as will still further increase their industrial prosperity and development. (Applause on the Republican side.) During the 12 years that the Republican party had control from 1865 we wiped from the statute books $245,000,000 of annual taxation, and we propose by this bill to roll away $60,000,000 more. (Applause.) There is the record of a party that has method; but the Democratic party has no method except the methods of obstruction and badness. (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. Flower (Dem., N.Y.) said the estimated revenue for the year was $140,000,000. This Congress had appropriated $166,000,000. What was the need of this tariff bill? Why not leave the present law as it was, with an amendment for reciprocity which meant reciprocity and not one of these jumping jacks, the string of which the President could pull at any time? He charged the Republican majority with demoralizing business.

Mr. Farquhar (Rep., N.Y.) on behalf of the millions of people who inhabited the states on the northern lakes, hoped the Senate amendments in regard to the duty on fish would be voted down.

Mr. Tyson (Rep., Ill.), favored the Senate amendments placing twine on the free list. He was a Republican and believed in protection, but he did not believe in a theory of protection which put upon the dutiable list an article the raw material of which was free of duty and the manufacture of which was in the hands of a combination which could be indicted under the act passed by the present Congress. He protested against placing works of art upon the free list and hoped the House would stand by its sugar schedule.

Mr. Vaux (Rep., Penn.) said the country was looking to the House for an intelligent discussion of the tariff question. He rose to inform the people that the Republican party forbade the right of representation in this House. He wanted the people to understand that free speech was gone in the House of Representatives. The empire was coming fast, but not fast enough for him to consent to give up his right to speak for his constituents. Two hours were given for the discussion of 400 Senate amendments. This was done because the majority wanted to veil itself behind a secret combab. He wished to say to the farmer and to the laborer that the tariff bill was a cheat. Two thousand people were enriched by the tariff bill and sixty millions were impoverished. The majority believed in every trust save one—the trust in a righteous and just God.

The discussion was continued by a number of members.

Mr. McKinley said that if the Committee on Rules had erred in reporting the resolution it had erred in giving too much time for debate. Not fifteen minutes of the two hours had been devoted to discussion of the Senate amendments or to the tariff question at all.

The Senate amendments were then non concurred in, 120 to 82.

Speaker Reed will not announce the House conferees until to-morrow. He has not as yet decided on the list.

CHICAGO'S GAS COMBINE.

A Bill Filed by the City to Forfeit All the Companies' Charters.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A bill to forfeit the charters of the Chicago Gas Light and Coke Company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, the Consumers' Gas, Fuel and Light Company of Chicago and the Chicago Gas Company was filed yesterday in the Circuit Court clerk's office by Corporation Counsel Hutchinson on behalf of the city of Chicago as complainant. The charge is that they illegally combined, under the title of the Chicago Gas Trust, the name of which was subsequently changed to the Chicago Gas Company, for the purpose of suppressing competition and creating a monopoly, with the result that the city and individual consumers are charged exorbitant rates for gas, and the quality of the latter is inferior. The court is asked to forfeit the charters granted by the city to the four companies and the trust.

Justice Cheapji "Vindicated."

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—There was another surprise in store yesterday morning for those who have taken any interest in the Cowles-Hall case. The counsel for the prisoner said he wished to withdraw the plea of not guilty of shooting with intent to kill and substitute a plea of guilty of aggravated assault. The opposing counsel accepted the plea and said they were unwilling to prosecute. Judge Davis summed up the case, and in vindication of Cowles said he would impose a fine of $50, which was promptly paid.

FOR COLLEGE FEDERATION

THE CONFERENCE REAFFIRMS THE VOTE OF 1880.

A Proposition for the Independence of Victoria Lost by 83 to 165. The Members Decide, 171 to 76, in Favor of Federation.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—The Methodist General Conference resumed work this afternoon after an intermission since Saturday. Rev. Dr. Sutherland of Toronto presented the missionary report, in which he dealt with the whole work throughout Canada. He spoke of the work among the Indians and entered fully into all the details of their missionary efforts.

In the evening the question of the federation of Victoria College occupied the attention of the conference and the decision of 1883 was reaffirmed, recommending the federation of Victoria with Toronto, by a vote of 171 to 76.

An amendment was offered in favor of independence, but it was lost, 165 to 83.

MUST HAVE BEEN A DREAM.

Young Fred Leslie, Who Said He Saw Benwell Killed, Now Says He Didn't.

HAMILTON, Sept. 15.—Young Fred Leslie is making a name for himself. His unlikely story of the Benwell murder has caused a good deal of excitement around the country. A letter also of his—A. F. Leslie, 148 Victoria street, Toronto—also tried to make capital out of the story, but failed. The Toronto Leslie calls himself a private detective and, according to a morning paper, he sent the following letter to Detective Bluett, who is acting for Birchall:

"TORONTO, Sept. 12, 1890.

"Chas. Bluett, Esq., Woodstock:

"DEAR SIR,—Having seen in one of the Hamilton newspapers Fred Leslie's statement in Birchall's case, and having seen Fred Leslie the same day he left Hamilton to go to Guelph and Woodstock, and seen him the same day he returned from Guelph and Woodstock and spoke to him, and having known Fred Leslie for 12 years, I am of opinion I can assist you in this case, providing you will pay me all my expenses. I would expect $200 per day and other expenses. If this is satisfactory please communicate with me at once. I remain, yours very truly,

"A. F. LESLIE, private detective,
"148 Victoria street."

Detective Bluett came to Hamilton on Saturday to interview the man who said he saw Benwell killed. He went to the temperance dining rooms and had a talk with Leslie, who became frightened and disclaimed any knowledge of the story. Birchall's detective feels rather sugry over the affair and spoke of having both Leslies arrested. The Hamilton Leslie, however, is thoroughly frightened and won't talk any more about either Benwell or Birchall.

Mr Ball's Letter From a Maniac.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 15.—Mr. F. E. Ball, Q.C., prosecuting attorney in the Benwell case, has a well-written letter he recently received from one who gave his name and address, and who was at one time a minister of the gospel duly ordained and claims to be a minister still, but who is undoubtedly a monomaniac on the subject of Freemasonry. This man imagines that the Freemasons are seeking his life and that they will get Birchall clear and then engage him to kill him the preacher in such a way that no one will know what has become of him.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Canadian Knock-Down With a Different Sequel to His Story.

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—William Holliday, a Lanark County farmer, died in 1876, leaving an estate valued at $4,000. One of the heirs was a son named Stephen Holliday, who in the summer of 1875 left his family to go sailing on the lakes and was supposed to have been drowned on the Ada Drake, lost off Cleveland the following year. A few years later Mrs. Holliday, supposing herself a widow, married a Toronto man named Darusha and the grass left to Stephen Holliday was on the order of the Master at Perth kept in court pending positive proof of Holliday's death. Last week Mrs. Dorris a died. Two years after his disappearance Holliday put in an appearance at the [illegible] homestead and stated that he had secreted himself on a spar and was picked up by a passing sailor, but with out acquainting his wife and family as to his safety proceeded to Central America, where he has remained ever since. These facts were brought out by an application made at Osgoode Hall yesterday by Mr. Douglas Armour for payment out of court of Stephen Holliday's share of the estate, his surviving son and a number of former neighbors swearing that he was the long-missing man.

Yesterday was citizen's day at the fair and the receipts for the day were over $15,000.

THIS ARTIST WAS A THIEF.

An Alleged Torontonian Does Up a Guelph Boarding House.

GUELPH, Sept. 16.—On Friday last week a young man named Cowter, who said he came from Toronto, made application at Mrs. Charles Smith's boarding house for board and was installed as one of the household. He claimed to be an artist and stated that he was going to form a class in this city. A sample book of exquisite arsaene work was produced to show what he could do. The man thus created a very favorable impression and no particular notice was taken of him. He passed in and out of the house several times on Saturday. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he told the landlady that he expected his baggage to arrive in a short time and requested her to have it taken to his room, as he was compelled to go down street. He then left the house. About 6 o'clock P. Ridley, one of the boarders, missed $9 from his room, also a watch-chain and seal valued at $8. He made his loss known to the other boarders and a general examination of pockets followed with the result that Henry Oldman discovered that his purse containing about $5 which he had left in his room, was gone. Suspicion at once rested on Cowter, and the police were notified of the circumstances. They traced him as far as the C. P. R. station, but there lost track of him. No doubt the man boarded a train and left for pastures new. He is about 25 years of age; medium height red face; slightly sandy mustache, light hair, and wore a checked coat and vest with dark pants.

WHAT WISE DOCTORS SAY.

KOCH'S RESEARCHES FOR A CONSUMPTION CURE.

Reason to Hope That the Chicken Bacillus Tuberculosis May Ultimately Be Protective for Man—The Value of the Solar Rays—Combating the Parasites.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The paper on the inoculation cure for consumption read at the Berlin Congress by Dr. Robert Koch is discussed by a Paris physician in The Herald. The paper of the widely-known bacteriologist opened up a new horizon, promising great things for the future. No subject deserved more attention at Berlin.

In the first place he finds that the bacillus of tuberculosis in man and in chickens is very similar, but he confidently infers that the latter is a special species of the organic matter supposed to be at the root of pulmonary consumption. If this inference is correct there is reason to hope that the chicken bacillus may ultimately be protective for man. While this modest and conditional promise will not satisfy the multitudes who suffer from consumption, the research on which it is based is a decided step toward the discovery of means for effectively combating a disease which has long been and is increasingly becoming the chief scourge of humanity.

But the German physicist goes further than this announcement would indicate. He finds that the direct action of solar light on the bacillus tuberculosis destroys in a certain length of time, varying from a few minutes to several hours, the virulence of this microbe when placed on the edge of a window. Diffused light also, though much more tardy in its action, is none the less thoroughly efficacious.

The importance of this new fact is obvious. As The Herald's medical correspondent points out, it gives a strong support to the open air and sunshine treatment of tuberculosis. The solar rays seem to have a therapeutic value otherwise than that due to the warmth and energy they impart and their good effect on the general health, though it is not yet explained how they affect the germs of tuberculosis. Though more exposed to tuberculous infection than man, the lower animals are less subject to tuberculosis. Is not this in itself a proof that their life in the open air affords a certain degree of immunity from the disease?

Dr. Mays of Philadelphia has recently shown from statistics that "physicians constantly exposed to consumption are much less subject to it than butchers, coopers, blacksmiths, &c., who rarely come in contact with it except by chance." May not this difference be most partially explained by the fact that the routine of a physician's life takes him more into the vivifying out-of-door sunshine?

But it is certain that the most effective and successful method for retarding or arresting the progress of human tuberculosis has been judicious climatic treatment. This resource of medicine promising so much in phthisis has never been utilized as fully as it might be. Its employment demands that the practitioner shall be both an able physician and an able climatologist—two things rarely, if ever, found in any one man. Dr. Copeland Taylor of England, who has recently written a valuable work on health resorts for invalids, based upon his own travels and observations, implies want of knowledge and judgment in the [illegible] frequently given by physicians as to the localities to which phthisical patients should go. Dr. Koch's discovery of the action of sunshine on the tubercle bacillus therefore suggests that much more may be done for consumptives by judicious climatic treatment than has ever yet been done.

The third branch of Dr. Koch's new researches, which are still incomplete, aims at combating the parasites. They show that several substances, as aromatic compounds, mercurial vapors, aniline dyes and especially the cyanides and cyanates of gold, in exceedingly small doses, check and lessen the development of the bacilli in man, and that certain drugs render guinea pigs refractory to tuberculosis and even arrest the disease after it is in full course. Almost simultaneously with the announcement of this result M.M. Grancher and Martin of Paris report that they have found a method of protecting rabbits from tuberculosis by vaccination.

As yet the report of Dr. Koch on this part of the subject is so meagre that no definite idea can be formed of the extent and value of his new contributions to the pharmaceutical treatment of phthisis. But it seems evident that his researches will very materially aid in the counteraction of tuberculosis, if they do not furnish a cure.

The experiments of the German bacteriologists are so important to mankind that scientific men of all nations should as far as possible co-operate with him in the effort to find some method of reducing the world's great mortality from tuberculosis.

HOW THEY WERE CAUGHT.

A Detective Tells the Story of Cain's and Buett's Capture.

ALBANY, Sept. 16.—It was learned last night from one of the detectives who have been working on the train-wrecking case how it was that Cain and Buett were caught at Prescott, Ont. It seems Buett's wife formerly lived and now has relatives living at Prescott, while Buett's own relatives live in a hamlet about 11 miles from Prescott. Detectives were immediately sent there, and their first move was to watch the ferry which plies between Ogdensburg and Prescott. These detectives learned that the two men had crossed on the ferry just before their arrival and immediately sent over to the Canadian side, when they tracked them to the barber shop in which they were caught. Previous to their capture the services of the local police were called into requisition, but when wanted it was found that the chief was over in Ogdensburg attending a fair while the only police on the force was out in the woods cutting his winter firewood.

The men then had to be taken by the American officers and they agreed to accompany the detectives across the river without a requisition if they would let them buy a bottle of whisky, and also because Buett wished to get away quickly so as not to let his relatives know of his disgrace. The men were willing to be detained in Albany jail on condition of being well fed, but did not want to go to jail accompanied with the customary prison fare when they were told they were to be brought there. This same detective says the whole fight when the wreckers are brought to trial will be to save Kiernan.

He said Kiernan was a shrewd fellow and had been admitted to all the councils of the Knights and knew all their secrets, while the other men were only the tools of Kiernan and acted under him. All but Kiernan have, it has been learned from a reliable source, made written confessions which implicate the five men now in custody as being the wreckers.

The Wages of Strikers Are Low.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The promised financial aid for the men who took part in the now defunct strike arrived to-day. Each man received a munificent sum. Some received $1.25 and others as much as $2.50. The ex-strikers are thoroughly disgusted and it may be readily believed that if they should ever strike again it will not be as members of the Knights of Labor, because there will be no railroad men in the organization. The pittance they have received for five weeks' idleness has caused them to lose all faith in their leaders. The latter say the sum distributed to-day is only a starter.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—The roadmasters of the United States and Canada who have been holding a convention in Detroit, made a flying trip over the Michigan Central Railway yesterday. The train consisted of five cars and they made the run to St. Thomas—511 miles—in 11h. 50m., including 5 stops.

Not so Bad as Reported at First.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 12.—Gilbert A. Mollis' planing factory and the W. H. Plummer Lumber Company's lumber yards were destroyed by fire early this morning. The total loss is about $14,000; insurance, $10,000; cause of fire unknown.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—Mr. W. A. Webster, Dominion immigration agent, has returned from a trip to South Dakota. He reports that the Canadians who settled there are in a half-starved condition. They are penniless owing to the failure of their crops, but will settle in Manitoba as soon they sell their live stock and other effects.

LONDON'S BOY MURDERER.

He Kills an Artillery Officer for Intimacy with His Mother.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A horrible and unusual murder startled the residents of Conway-road, Plumstead, last week. The circumstances are so peculiar and the motive of the deed so remarkable that the most widespread interest has been aroused in the case. A widow by the name of Lyons living on Conway road, which is a highly respectable residence street populated by the middle class of people with means to live beyond the needs of business, has been known to the neighborhood for the past five years as an unusually attractive and somewhat vivacious woman. She is a plump and pleasing blonde of the quiet but effective type, whose goings and comings have never been sufficiently unreasonable to attract adverse remark, but whose evident popularity with the officers of the garrison at Woolwich led some of her acquaintances to criticise her method of living.

The family of the widow consisted of a son, Walter, a clerk in the Royal Arsenal, a morose, unhappy youth, aged 20, who had a mediocre education and an abnormal respect for whatever he considered to be right. He had frequent quarrels with his mother. On Thursday night about 12 o'clock he returned to his home, and mounting the stairs to his own room heard voices coming from the chamber occupied by his mother. Entering to see who it might be he found his mother had retired, and sitting on the side of the bed was a non-commissioned artillery officer named Stewart partly dressed. The boy stopped at the door an instant, and then striding to the bedside with a clasped knife in his hand he had hastily drawn from his pocket, he shouted at his mother: "What does this mean?" and his mother replied: "My son, I intend marrying this gentleman."

Walter, without a word turned and left the room, closing the door violently behind him. He went down to the kitchen, found a large carving-knife and then left the house. Not long after this Stewart started for his home. As he stepped into the street the son, who had been concealed in the shadow of the doorway, sprang at him and with a savage thrust of the knife, plunged the weapon into the officer's breast, killing him instantly. As if not satisfied with the deed the boy sprang upon the prostrate form and hacked it with the knife, all the while crying at the top of his voice: "I said I'd do it, mother, the first time I caught you."

Mrs. Lyons was looking from the window and witnessed the crime. She screamed and ran to the door as quickly as possible, but could do nothing. She threw herself on the body of the officer and then took his head in her lap, striving vainly to bring him back to life. Crowds assembled, attracted by the noise, and the young boy was locked up.

JUST LIKE THE YANKEES.

A Pugilistic Encounter in the Portuguese Cortes—General Cable News.

LISBON, Sept. 15.—The reassembling of the Cortes to-day caused great excitement throughout the city as a strong debate on the Anglo-Portuguese treaty was expected. Shops and offices were closed and thousands of citizens of all classes wended their way to the Parliament buildings, which were besieged by an enormous crowd clamorous for admission hours before the session opened. Soon after the opening of the Cortes Senor Ribeiro, Minister of Foreign Affairs, moved the adoption of the Anglo-Portuguese treaty. He began to read the modifications which the Government had adopted in order to assuage public hostility to the treaty, but before he had gone far he was silenced by the Progressist minority hissing and hooting so vigorously that the minister could not make himself heard.

Amid the tumult Major Serpa Pinto shouted to the Progressists: "Hold your tongues!" Upon this a Progressist priest named Brandas assaulted Serpa Pinto and a lively pugilistic encounter ensued. The President was utterly unable to restore order and finally suspended the sitting.

When the Cortez reassembled Senor Ribeiro introduced the English convention with certain modifications which produced an excellent impression. The convention was referred to a committee and the sitting was concluded in an orderly manner.

Russia Scents Powder.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 15.—The Official Gazette says the renewal of the triple alliance for seven years will encourage Austria in her anti-Russian policy, and oblige Russia to cast aside her peace illusions and redouble her vigilance.

Moussa Bey Recaptured.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 15.—Moussa Bey, the Kurdish Governor of Armenia, who was sentenced to exile for outrages perpetrated upon Christians, and who escaped from custody, was captured to-day near Brousa. He broke a leg in attempting to escape from the police.

Four Killed in a Collision.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Four persons were killed and 14 hurt in a railway collision between Montjoi and Kaltenberg. A station master was arrested for causing the disaster through negligence.

SUICIDE AT LINDSAY.

Contractor John Milburn Drowns Himself in the River.

LINDSAY, Sept. 16.—John Milburn, a contractor aged 50, rushed from his residence at 5½ yesterday morning, threw himself into the river and was drowned. His son saw him running toward the water but could not overtake him. Mr. Milburn suffered occasionally from an affection of the brain, resulting from a severe illness several years ago. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Strange Sickness of a Crew.

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 16.—After five years in the Antarctic seas the whaling bark Petrel, Capt. Edwin J. Reed, is once more in port. Captain Reed says that while off Patagonia several months ago a gale came up from off shore, during which large quantities of fine white powder came on the ship, choking those who inhaled it. Next day one of the crew was taken sick and his feet began to swell. The swelling continued until his whole body was affected. One after another of the crew was similarly taken until thirty-four had the disease. Each swelled to almost twice his usual size, and the flesh assumed a yellowish hue. With nine men mortification set in and they died. Two others of the crew were washed overboard in the gale and drowned. Physicians here report the epidemic as beri beri. It is the first case on record of its having come on board a ship in a gale.

Fell Into the River and Was Drowned.

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Sept. 16.—Sunday afternoon the little son of C. Pelletier, in trying to pick some berries from trees near the river, lost his balance and fell in. The body has not yet been recovered.

To Relieve the Money Market.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The offers of 4½ per cent. bonds to-day for the entire country aggregated $802,150. The interest prepaid on 4 per cent. bonds amounted to $402,564.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

The tonnage of the New York canals for the week ending Sept. 14 was 145,431 tons against 173,421 tons carried during the corresponding week last year.

Mrs. Eva Hamilton was informed in her prison cell of the death of her husband, Robert Ray Hamilton. One report says she swooned when she learned the news. Another report says she showed no emotion whatever. Reporters were not allowed to interview her.

The strike of the firemen and seamen at Southampton is ended, the advance by the men having been conceded.

A TALK ABOUT MANTLES —AT— TURNBULL'S

Look out for this column during the Fall and Winter. It will keep you posted in dry goods news, and let you know about the bargains we offer from time to time. Our counters and shelves are now fairly groaning under the weight of new goods. Never before did we offer such an attractive stock as to-day. The new Mantle Cloths are just beautiful, the styles are so new both in black and colors. We show Black Astrachan Cloth so fine that it is a perfect imitation of the real thing. Any one thinking of getting an Astrachan or Polarian Mantle made to order this season should by all means see our stock before purchasing. Samples sent by mail if required.

We felt the want last season of a larger range of Ladies' and Children's ready-made Mantles, and have imported a well selected stock in both long Mantles and short Jackets, in plain and fancy cloths. Everybody can be suited as we import direct and mark the goods close.

A beautiful lot of fancy pantings arrived for the Gents' Furnishing Department this week. Try our tailor.

We are selling 8 pair of Men's Merino Half Hose for $1.00. Our Dress Trimmings from London, England, have arrived. As London is the best market in the world for these goods we believe the goods we are offering will be appreciated.

Drop in and see the new shades in Dress Goods; we have the full range of shades in several makes of Cloth.

See our 54 inch Wool Serge at 75 cents a yard.

Canadian Velvet Chaff Wheat.

Descriptive Qualities and Origin of a New Variety of Fall Wheat

The Canadian Velvet Chaff Wheat is a variety of fall wheat of unusual excellence in respect of hardness, yielding and milling qualities. It is coming into prominence, and promises to be exceeding popular. It was originated by Mr. J. B. Stone, of Percy township, Northumberland county. A contribution to the Toronto Farm and Fireside says of this wheat:—

I have on my table a dozen heads of Canadian Velvet Chaff, a new white fall wheat which is as pretty as a picture. The discovery of this variety is almost tinged with romance, so strange does it appear, and yet it teaches the lesson that farmers should always go about their fields with their eyes open, as they never know when they may be entertaining an angel unawares. Mr. J. B. Stone discovered this variety under peculiar circumstances, which can be best stated by quoting his own words:—

"I got one-half bushel of splendid Martin's Amber; I had from that just ten bushels; I sowed it the next season, and in this second crop, though it was not heavy, I found one beautiful stool of wheat, I thought it the finest I ever saw, and in sowing the produce of that one stool I got, thirteen bushels the second time. I sowed a piece 14 by 18 feet, and had 19 lbs 4 oz. I sowed 18 lbs, 12 oz., on one quarter of an acre and had 13 bushels. I have sown about all of the hardy varieties introduced within the past forty forty years and have never found one more hardy than this."

The thirteen bushels were subsequently sown on five acres, and yielded 170 buanels of cleaned wheat. That this is a hardy variety, and well suited for our climate is now an established fact, and not a mere assertion. Mr. John Dryden, of Brooklin, a well-known farmer, says: "It is hardy, early, a good producer, grows stiff straw, and seems to withstand rust well. I estimate my crop this year (1890) at fully 35 bushels to the acre."

Mr. Gibson, while attending the last meeting of the Dominion Farmers' Council, thus referred to this wheat;—"I have examined a field of the Canadian Velvet Chaff Wheat grown on Mr. McEwen's farm, and am highly pleased with it. I can speak emphatically of its merits for the production of the best description of pastry and biscuit flour. I have known 40 per cent above the price of ordinary baker's flour to be paid in some cases for the best brands of pastry flour, and the Canadian Velvet Chaff is a sort that is now much enquired for by millers, who would pay a higher price for it."

Some of our leading millers have declared in emphatic terms as to the superiority of Canadian Velvet Chaff for milling purposes, claiming that it produces a quality of flour which will command the highest possible price, being especially adapted for bakers or those who require fine flour for pastry purposes.

An examination of the heads shows that they are of good length. The chaff is mottled, brown and white, has a soft, downy appearance, and when rubbed in the hand is free from the sharpness that is usually connected with wheat chaff. The grain is white and plump, and not unlike the Delhi variety, which was so popular here some years ago. The straw is bright, stiff, and peculiarly free from rust. In my opinion Canadian Velvet Chaff is one of the most promising varieties ever offered Canadian farmers.

In an editorial article the Farmers' Advocate says:—"The productiveness of this variety, its hardiness to withstand the thawing and freezing, its adaptability to the winter wheat sections in Ontario are now fully borne out by the testimonials of Middlesex and Northumberland farmers. Mr. J. B. Stone, the originator, has made arrangements with Messrs. Steele Bros., Toronto; Wm. Rennie, of Toronto; J. Bruce, Hamilton; and Messrs. J. S. Pearce & Co., London, to supply wheat to the public generally." * * Mr. John Dryden, the well-known farmer, of Brooklin, Ont., (now Ontario Minister of Agriculture), writes as follows respecting this wheat:—

"DEAR SIR,—The Canadian Velvet Chaff Wheat has done remarkably well, and seems to possess the essential qualities to ensure success in this climate. It is hardy, early, stiff in the straw, free from rust and apparently a heavy yielder. There is but little difference in quality over the entire field. None lodged of any consequence, and, I think, promises to yield 35 bushels per acre. It is well filled and contains no small grains. I will harvest it the end of this week if all is well. Yours truly,

"JOHN DRYDEN."

A meeting of the Dominion Farmers' Council was held on July 19th, President Little in the chair. After a number of members who had examined fields of the Canadian Velvet Chaff wheat had spoken of its merits, Mr. Gibson spoke as follows:—

"I have examined a field of the Canadian Velvet Chaff wheat grown on Mr. McEwen's farm, and am highly pleased with it. I can speak emphatically of the merits of the wheat for the production of the best description of pastry and biscuit flour. I have known forty per cent. above the price of ordinary baker's flour to have been paid in some cases for the best brands of pastry flour, and the Canadian Velvet Chaff Wheat is a sort that is now much enquired for by millers who would pay a higher price for it. I offer the following resolution:—'Moved by R. Gibson, seconded by F. Shore, That the Velvet Chaff Wheat examined by us is very promising while growing, and it is calculated to elevate our flour in the market, especially for pastry and biscuit purposes, more nearly taking the place of the old Scole and Dethi varieties.'

For the last three years the average yield per acre of this wheat has been much greater than that of any other sort. Mr. Dryden's letter shows what it promises in his section. His farm is not situated in a locality where fall wheat is generally successful and 35 bushels per acre is probably double the average fall wheat yield in that section.

The weather is all that could be desired after the recent rains, and the fall harvest is saved.

Walter Redpath is doing a splendid business in his foundry. C. Whittaker, late of the Massey works, Toronto, is one of his leading machinists.

Mr. Jackson, of Peterborough, manufacturer and agent for organs and pianos, is bound to get a fair share of the trade from around here.

The news that the Edison Electric Light Company is about to be established at Peterborough will attract still a larger number of farmers from these parts, with a hope of disposing of their farm products when three or four hundred employees are to be supplied.

Mr. Baldwin, recently of South Monaghan, preached to a large audience acceptably in the Presbyterian church.

Salvation Army Anniversary.

The members of the Salvation Army in Toronto are engaged this week in celebrating the eighth anniversary of the introduction of the army's work into Canada. They started in 1882 with a mere handful of officers and few adherents, while to day there are 1,014 officers and thousands of members in every town and village in the Dominion. The record of the past year's work in Canada is as follows:—Open air meetings, 65,848; indoor meetings, 128,960; hours spent in visiting, 245,368; families visited, 300,976; number who attended Sunday night meetings, 3,160,250; number who professed penitence, 13,000. With such figures it is natural to suppose that great good must have been accomplished. The special services at Toronto, are being conducted by Col. Elijah Cadman, of London, Eng., who has the honor of being the first captain of the army. He manages all the property schemes of the army at the International Headquarters. The meetings are well attended and are conducted with great enthusiasm.

ELOPED IN HER WEDDING DRESS.

Lizzie Bennett Changed Her Mind and Married Voorhees Instead of Monroe.

ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 12.—The little hamlet of Crawford's Corner, midway between Keyport and Holmdel, N.J., is all torn up over the sensational elopement of Miss Lizzie Bennett and George Voorhees, which occurred yesterday. The elopement of itself would probably not have created such a profound sensation were it not for the fact that Miss Bennett was engaged to Mr. Frederick Monroe and was to have been married to him yesterday.

Miss Bennett is a comely young maiden of about nineteen summers. She is of medium stature and of fair complexion and is the belle of the village. About a year ago she made the acquaintance of young Monroe, who lived near by. In a short time their engagement was announced. Had they been married then all would probably have been well, for it was at this time Voorhees, who had previously been a silent admirer of Miss Bennett, began paying her marked attention.

Monroe did not like this, and it is said the rivals had words together and even blows.

At the hour fixed for the wedding the officiating clergyman was awaiting the arrival of the bride and groom at the home of the bride's parents.

Monroe was among the first of the arrivals, and shortly before the time set for the ceremony went up stairs to escort his prospective bride into the presence of the clergyman. She was not in her room, and it was not until an hour later that he learned that she had been married to Voorhees by the Rev. Dr. Wheeler, of Holmdel, N.J.

The newly married couple are supposed to be in New York.

WANTED TO DIE TOGETHER.

After Cutting His Wife's Arteries a Despondent German Kills Himself.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—A sad and bloody tragedy was enacted here this morning. Adolph Jordan, proprietor of a little saloon and grocery store, has for some time been nearly crazed with business troubles. About 3 o'clock this morning he determined to kill himself. His wife saw him with a knife and he told her his object. She threw her arms about him and asked if he would leave her alone. He persuaded her that the place would support her alone, but she maintained that if he died she wanted to die, too. There Jordan stood looking at her for the moment.

"So you want to die with me," said he.

"I do," replied the wife, as she bared her left arm and extended it towards him.

Jordan was like a statue. For several minutes he was powerless to act. Then he drew the keen blade across the wrist, severing the artery and veins. She fell at his feet with the blood gushing from the terrible gash. Then he drew the knife across both his wrists and threw himself at her side.

"We will die together," he said. Then he became unconscious. About daylight he came to, and believing his wife to be dead he picked up the knife and plunged it into his breast below the heart. He sank back unconscious, and both of them lay on the floor until 1 o'clock this afternoon, when they were discovered. The wife is not yet dead, but her chances of recovery are slight.

COWLES WANTS A DIVORCE.

He Blames Miss Kate Rathbone for Estranging His Wife.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., Sept. 12.—The latest sensation in the Cowles-Hale scandal is the suit for absolute divorce brought by Eugene H. Cowles of this city against his wife, Alice Hale Cowles, of Cleveland, daughter of the wealthy banker, E. R. Hale, of that city. This, following so closely on the withdrawal of Mrs. Cowles' suit for divorce and the substitution of one for separation and alimony, puts a different light on matters. The papers in Cowles' suit against his wife will be served by publication to-day. A great part of the complaint has reference to the influence Miss Kate B. Rathbone of Detroit, who has been a constant companion of Mrs. Cowles for several years, exerted over the defendant. Cowles tells of the strange intimacy of the two women, and dates the cause of all his troubles to the fall of 1888, when he forbade Miss Rathbone the house.

Cheaper to Buy than Steal.

Gough Bros. have the ready-made clothing trade of the town in their own hands now. Opposition can't touch them. They bought the Kidd bankrupt stock at 67½c. on the dollar. They're selling it at prices that make it cheaper to buy than steal. The great sale is now going on at the Kidd stand and at Gough Bro.'s stores. Go and see them. Gough Bros. can rig you out in such style that your grandmother won't know you—and all for less than it would cost you for a suit of underclothing at some of the high-priced stores. Come now, and you'll never regret it, as they say at the Salvation Army. Gough Bros. will make you happy with their fine goods and low prices. dw

BY-LAW No.

A By-law to aid the Edison General Electric Company by Acquiring and Conveying to the said Company certain lands in the Town of Peterborough, and in other ways.

Passed ...., 1890.

WHEREAS, by an Act of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, passed in the 53rd year of Her Majesty's reign, Cap. 99, it is enacted that the corporation of the Town of Peterborough may by By-law to be passed under the Act passed in the 35th year of Her Majesty's reign, Chaptered 71, to aid the promotion of manufactures in the said Town by assuming and paying the rent of any building or buildings to be used for such purpose, or by erecting any building or buildings, or acquiring any lands or buildings, and granting the same or the use thereof, to any person or persons or body corporate for manufacturing purposes.

And, whereas, by the Act of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, passed in the 52nd year of Her Majesty's reign, Chapter 71, it is enacted that:

"It shall and may be lawful for the Municipality of the Town of Peterborough, to aid by way of bonus, the promotion of manufactures in or about the said Town of Peterborough, by granting such sum or sums of money not exceeding in the whole, the sum of forty thousand dollars, to such person or persons, or body or bodies corporate as to such municipality may seem meet, and in aid of such branch or branches of industry as the said municipality may determine upon and to pay such sum or sums either in one sum or in annual or other periodical payments, with or without interest, and subject to such terms, conditions and restrictions as the said municipality may deem expedient."

And, whereas, it is by the said Acts provided that the By-law or By-laws therein referred to shall have been submitted to and approved by the majority of the qualified electors of the Town of Peterborough voting thereon, in the same manner as with money By-laws requiring the assent of the electors:

And, whereas, the Edison General Electric Company have agreed to erect brick or stone buildings of the value of at least thirty thousand dollars on the lands to be conveyed to them as hereinafter mentioned, for the purpose of carrying on the manufacture of the said Company in the said Town on condition that the said Company receive the aid hereinafter mentioned:

And, whereas, the corporation of the Town of Peterborough desires to aid the said Company in the establishment and promotion of its manufactures in the said Town, by acquiring and conveying to the said Company Lots Numbers Fourteen, Fifteen and Sixteen, in Lot Number Thirteen in the Twelfth Concession, formerly in the Township of North Monaghan, now in the Town of Peterborough, excepting thereout the northerly fifty feet of said Lot Number Sixteen to be purchased and used as a street, and by conveying to the said Company that portion of Townsend street lying between said Lots Numbers Fifteen and Sixteen and by providing the necessary money as a bonus to the said Company for enabling it to construct a ten-inch water pipe and a six-inch sewer pipe, from the lands so to be conveyed, to the River Otonabee;

And, whereas, the entire cost of the said lands will amount to the sum of eleven thousand dollars or thereabouts, and the cost of constructing the said water and sewer pipes will amount to the sum of four thousand dollars or thereabouts;

And whereas it is expedient to borrow the said sums of eleven thousand dollars and four thousand dollars respectively, and for that purpose to issue debentures of the said Corporation for the said sums of eleven thousand dollars and four thousand dollars respectively to bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum and to be payable in thirty years from the date of issue thereof;

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the Town of Peterborough according to the last revised assessment roll, being for the year One thousand eight hundred and ninety-is the sum of four millions sixty-five thousand three hundred and fifteen dollars.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said municipality is the sum of two hundred and five thousand, five hundred and fifty dollars and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

And whereas no greater sum than the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars has heretofore been granted by the said Corporation by way of bounties under the said Act 35 Vict. Cap. 71,

And whereas the amount required to be raised annually in respect of the said sum of eleven thousand dollars is the sum of four hundred and forty dollars for interest and the sum of one hundred and ten dollars to provide a sinking fund in respect thereof; and whereas the amount required to be raised annually in respect of the said sum of four thousand dollars is the sum of one hundred and sixty dollars for interest and the sum of forty dollars to provide a sinking fund in respect thereof as by the said act 53 Vict. Cap. 98 required.

The Corporation of the Town of Peterborough by the Council thereof therefore enacts as follows:—

1. This By-law shall take effect on the thirtieth day of September, One thousand eight hundred and ninety.

2. The Mayor and Treasurer of the said Corporation are hereby authorized to borrow the said respective sums of eleven thousand dollars and four thousand dollars and for that purpose to issue debentures of the said Corporation to be sealed with the Corporate Seal and to be signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation for the said respective sums of eleven thousand dollars and four thousand dollars. Such Debentures shall be made payable at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation in Thirty years from the date of issue thereof, and shall bear interest at the rate of Four per centum per annum, payable half yearly on the Thirtieth day of June and the Thirty-first day of December in each year, and shall have coupons attached there to respectively for the payment of such interest.

3. There shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of said Debentures the respective sums of four hundred and forty dollars and one hundred and sixty dollars for payment of said interest sums and the sums of one hundred and ten dollars and forty dollars respectively, as sinking funds for the payment of the said debts, special rates sufficient therefor upon all ratable property in the said municipality, in addition to all other rates levied in said Municipality.

4. Upon the sale of the said Debentures the moneys received therefor shall be applied to the said purposes respectively in the preamble hereto set forth in these sums down and to no other purpose, and in case the whole of the said sums shall not be required for said respective purposes no greater amount of Debentures shall be issued than shall be required therefor respectively, but the purchaser of any such Debentures actually issued shall not be obliged to inquire or see as to the necessity of such issue or as to the application of the proceeds of such Debentures.

5. The votes of the duly qualified electors of the said municipality shall be taken upon the said By-law on the commencing at the hour of Nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at Five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers:

Twenty-fifth Day of September, 1890,

NUMBER ONE WARD.—At the Mission School House, Dalhousie street. Joseph Lundy to be Deputy Returning Officer.

NUMBER TWO WARD.—At the New Market Building, Charles Cameron to be Deputy Returning Officer.

NUMBER THREE WARD.—At Metheral Bro.'s Shop, George street, John Irwin to be Deputy Returning Officer.

NUMBER FOUR WARD.—At William Lee's Shop, Smith street, William Lee to be Deputy Returning Officer.

6. That the Twenty-sixth day of September, eighteen hundred and ninety at the hour of Twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the Clerk of the said Town, are hereby fixed as the time when, and the place where the Clerk of the said Town Council shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-law, and the Eighteenth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, at the hour of Twelve o'clock, noon, and the office of the Clerk of the said Town, are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk, respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passage of the By-law.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration, and which will be finally passed by the Council in the event of the assent of the Electors being obtained thereto, after one month from the first publication in the Daily Evening Review and Daily Examiner newspapers, the date of which first publication is the second day of September, 1890, and at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the Electors, the polls will be held.

JAS. G. MACDONALD,
Town Clerk, Returning Officer.
Peterborough, September 2nd, 1890.

NOTE.—The sum of $2500, referred to in the recital of the above By-Law as having been granted by way of bonus under the Act 35, Vic. Cap 71, does not include the sum of $5000 referred to in By-Law No. 603 of this Corporation, entitled a By-Law to aid, by way of bonus, the Brooks Manufacturing Company, confirmed by the Act 53, Vic. Cap. 98, and which sum of $5000 has not yet been paid to the said Company, and for which sum no debentures have been issued.

THE BOLD BURGLAR BAFFLED.

An Awful Story of Crime and Retribution.

"Hark Cyrus! What was that?"

"Nothing, Emily. Let me go to sleep, will you?"

For a few moments silence reigned in the sleeping chamber.

"Cyrus Winterbottom, there's somebody in the house! I hear a noise in the kitchen! Cyrus—sit up and listen! I insist!

"It's the cat, he grumbled, drowsily.

A cat doesn't wear boots and go around opening doors. Hark!

The baby stirred, and Mrs. Winterbottom soothed it to rest again.

"I don't see what anybody wants to get into our kitchen for," growled Cyrus, with a yawn. "There's nothing to begin to to steal in that part of the house, is there?"

"Nothing to steal!" There's a plateful of tarts, a pan of doughnuts, and a sponge cake."

"Some of yours—heigh-ho—your own confection, Emily.

"Yes, some of my own making. Then there's all the silverware, and——"

"He'll never get to the silverware Emily, if he tackles the doughnuts first. You will find his horribly distorted body in the morning——"

"Hark! Hark!"

He listened again. All was quiet. But presently an unmistakable sound as of somebody moving about on the floor below aroused even Cyrus' dulled senses. Steps seemed to be approaching the stairway. Cyrus took his revolver out from under his pillow, climbed softly out of bed, went to the door of the room and got behind it, first having cautioned his wife in a whisper to make no noise and leave matters entirely in his hands.

Softly and stealthily came the steps up the stairway, and in a few moments the dim light of the night lamp on the dressing-case fell up on the stalwart form of a man whose face was concealed by a mask.

Mrs. Winterbottom screamed at sight of him, the baby woke up and howled, and before the burglar could recover from the momentary confusion into which this unexpected reception had thrown him Cyrus confronted him with the revolver.

"You infernal scoundrel!" he hissed, "don't you move a muscle or I'll put a ball through you!"

The revolver hadn't been loaded for a year or more, and Cyrus knew it, but the burglar didn't.

The pitiful wretch stood perfectly still.

"Take off your mask!" sternly commanded Cyrus.

The burglar complied. With ashen face, and mean, hangdog look he stood there and said not a word. Mrs. Winterbottom had recovered her self possession, but the baby continued to howl.

"It would serve you right, you sneaking contemptible villain," said Cyrus in a deep, tragic voice, "if I should shoot you where you stand. I believe I'll do it, anyhow."

"Mercy! Mercy!" pleaded the trembling wretch. "It's the first time I ever broke into a house. I'll never do it again. Please let me go."

"It's the first time you were ever caught at it! It'll be the last. Down on your knees!"

"Don't kill him, Cyrus!" begged his wife. "Think of the carpet."

"Listen!" said Cyrus, coming closer to the kneeling burglar. "Hold up your hands!"

While the fellow's hands were up Cyrus rifled his pockets. He took therefrom two loaded revolvers, a bowi knife, a dagger, a sling shot, a bottle of chloroform, and a sandbag.

"Your first offense, is it?" said Cyrus. "For a burglar who goes in the business you carry a pretty good kit of tools. Stand up."

The burglar obeyed.

"Are you a man of family?"

"Yes, sir; O, please——"

"Stop your whining."

A look of hard, stern, relentless purpose settled on Cyrus' face. He pointed the revolver at the abject scoundrel's head again.

"Go and take that baby!" he commanded.

"Wh-what for?"

"Never mind what for! You go and take that baby!"

"Cyrus!" exclaimed Mrs. Winterbottom in dismay, "what do you mean?"

"I know what I am about, Emily. Pick up that squalling infant, you villain!"

The man obeyed.

"Handle it carefully."

"Yes, sir."

"Now walk the floor with it!"

For four long hours Cyrus Winterbottom held that empty revolver leveled at the head of the miserable man and compelled him to walk up and down the room with the crying, squirming infant in his arms.

At daybreak the cringing, crawling villain was permitted to sneak away from the premises, a broken hearted man.

It's raven hair had turned gray in that one night.

It was a horrible retribution, but who shall say if was not deserved. And thus we learn, my children, that crime sometimes brings its own punishment, and that the way of the transgressor continues to be hard.—Chicago Times.

Britain's Fast Yachts.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The British yachting season is now successfully closing, the contests having been of more interest than during recent years.

The Thistle, Iverna, Valkyrie and Yarana have raced at all the leading regattas, and the result has been that the Thistle has secured in 40 matches 15 first and 7 second prizes of a value of £1015. The Iverna, sailing 36 times, has 12 first and seven second prizes of a value of £960. The Valkyrie in 34 matches has three first, eight second and one third, value £521. The Yarana in forty matches has nine first and eight second prizes, value £565. The Iverna did but little in her matches until her American centreboard was taken out, and then she proved herself the best yacht in English waters. Some new clippers have been ordered for next season and some valuable prizes are to be offered for all comers. Yachtsmen are in hopes that some American boats will cross the Atlantic and enter for them.

Make Things Bright For Winter Nights.

"THE ripening breath of Summer" warns us that the "melancholy days" and long dark nights of Autumn and Winter are at hand.

After the bright inspiring outdoor life of Summer, we must make our home so cheerful, that the contrast will not be so sharply noted.

After the wife's sunny temper, the husband's kindly mien, and the children's dutiful sportiveness, the material adornments of the home have the most brightening influence, and the most cheering form of adornment—that yields the largest revenue of pleasure and satisfaction for the least expenditure—is

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase ($1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,874,923	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,937	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,220	10.63
Temperance and General	2,864,972	17.94
Citizens	2,067,956	22.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Illegal Liquor Selling.

Police Magistrate Edmison was called on Monday to adjudicate upon several liquor cases. Harry Brault, keeper of the Albion in Ashburnham, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling liquor on Sunday, and was fined $10 and costs. A similar case against Geo. Lipsett was dismissed. Three young men, Patrick Coffey, Simon Clancy and James Wall, were fined $5 and costs each for having been drinking in the bar of the Albion on Sunday.

The public will find at this store always the finest goods, the best selections and the most moderate prices.

Boys on the Track.

Two thirteen-year old boys had a narrow escape from death on the C. P. R. track last night. The youngsters were gathering waste above the diamond for the purpose of making a bon-fire. The Montreal train, which was late, almost ran them down. The second boy did not get off a moment too soon. They were so interested in their occupation that they did not heed the approaching engine, and had not the driver's attention been pointed to the lads' danger by a passer-by in time to blow the whistle, they would have been killed or seriously hurt.

Another Discovery of Coal Oil.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. John Blank discovered indications of coal oil in the cellar of her house and a closer search revealed the existence of a very fine show of unmistakable coal oil. She had been searching for a packet of hawley bros'. tea and came accidentally upon the coal oil can which had been by mistake carried to the cellar. She didn't care much for the oil but she was overjoyed when she found the tea. That household and hundreds of others are out of joint unless hawley bros'. splendid tea is on the table.

Canada's Veterans.

Mr. Geo. Merrill, of Belleville, has undertaken to urge the claims of Canada's veteran soldiers. He is securing a list, as complete as possible, of the survivors of the rebellion of 1837, and so far he has the names of 266. Several members of Parliament have promised to advocate their claims in the House of Commons. The majority of the veterans live along the front in the early settled districts. Among the veterans in this district are Wm. O'Neil, John C Rogers, Timothy Collins and Mr. Hill, Hastings; John Alexander, Roseneath, and Arthur Williams, Hoard's Station. If there are any other survivors of the '37 campaign in or near Peterborough, they should correspond with Mr. Merrill and receive their rights.

New Ice Business.

Messrs. Frank Bardette and Archie Craig, two enterprising young residents of Ashburnham, several months ago decided to embark in the ice business, and began the erection of a large building on the shores of Little Lake. It is now about finished, and is the largest ice-house in the district. It is 40x80 feet in size and 25 feet high. Messrs. Bardette & Craig will stock it this winter with ice cut from the middle of the lake. The ice will be run up a slide from the water to the building on an endless chain gearing, for which an engine will furnish the power. Messrs. Bardette & Craig promise satisfaction to their customers next summer, and will place three wagons on the road, or as many as are required to fill orders. A perusal of their advertisement will be of interest to all parties requiring ice during the summer.

Building Operations at Minden.

Minden is fast recovering from the effects of the disastrous fire which devastated the village last July. The Echo says:—"The town rises daily, the progress of the building operations is rapid, considering the broken weather we have had lately, and we hope in another month to see all the buildings approaching completion. Messrs. Williams and Scroter are now working at the roof of Mr. Noice's building. Dr. Carry's stone wall is progressing steadily in the hands of Mr. John P entice. Mr. Morrison's store is being very neatly fitted up by Mr. Daniel Corbman, of Kinmount, and although small, it now presents a very neat appearance. Mr. Austin has the new hotel partly raised, the stone wall of the main building being completed by Mr. Dartnell, who also has the "Echo" foundation well under way. Mr. Rogers, Sr., is erecting a very neat and commodious residence for Mr. Wm. Eastman. Altogether the prospects of our town are looking up; the place showing more signs of vitality than our neighbors usually give it credit for."

Deteriorated Milk.

The Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association is after dishonest patrons of cheese factories with a sharp stick. Some time ago an Inspector was plac d in this district, and he found that wholesale fraud was being perpetrated by numbers of farmers who sent their milk to cheese factories. Prosecutions were made right and left, though little of it was made known through the press. Still patrons continue to be dishonest, and still the fines are being imposed. Yesterday a farmer hurried into town to anticipate the case which he had heard was to be entered against him. He asked Police Magistrate Edmison to make out the information against himself (the farmer), and pleaded guilty, in the hope that his fine would be made lighter. To-day a country widow was fined $20 and costs, the usual amount, for indulging in the practice of sending impure milk to the cheese factory. County Solicitor Edwards has the cases in hand. The statutory term is "deteriorated" milk, which covers both skimmed and diluted milk. It is said there are other cases of this nature to be pushed. The Dairymen's Association is determined to stamp out such practices on the part of the few dishonest patrons, in order to protect the honest majority, as well as improve the quality of the cheese.

The Late James Pollie.

The Kingston Whig says:—"James Pollie passed away this morning, quietly and resigned, ready for the transfer of spirit to the great unknown, but which he saw with the eye of faith. In him Kingston has lost one of its best young men. He was kind, sincere, truthful, and industrious in the fullest meaning of the words. After having finished his public school course he entered the service of R. M. Horsey, whom he served faithfully as an apprentice, and continued some time after in the same employ. He then went to Chicago, where he got some experience in business, and, returning, he entered into Mr. Horsey's employment, where he remained until a more remunerative situation was offered him in the establishment of J. Muckleston & Co., and which, after consulting Mr. Horsey, he accepted. There his course was upward and onward, and when Muckleston & Co. started a branch of their business in Peterborough he was given the management. His work was successful, but not of many year's duration, for the fell disease that only a year ago claimed his brother, Hugh, for a victim, soon marked him also and the end came this morning. A friend visiting in Peterborough, for the past few weeks, remarked that when it was known she was from Kingston, every person enquired after James Pollie and hoped he would regain his health. He stood high in the estimation of all the people of that town. He leaves a wife, whose affliction is very great. Several years ago their only son died after a very brief illness. Mrs. Pollie will have the sincere sympany of many. Mr. Pollie's many friends in Peterborough, while not surprised at his death, will none the less dreply deplore the sad event. He was highly esteemed here. His mourning widow will receive the warm condolences of scores of friends in Peterborough.

Personal.

Miss Cumming, daughter of the late collector, was appointed collector of taxes at the council meeting last evening.

Mr. Geo. E. Gray, of Coldwater, the champion heavy shot putter, was in town last night on his way home from Ottawa. He registered at the Olympic club rooms.

Lieut. Jas. Snyder, Corpl. R. A. W. Hay, and Bomb. W. Kennesley (Keene), members of the Durham Field Battery, leave for Kingston in the morning to take part in the annual battery competition.

Mr. John Archer and his sister, who have been in Peterborough for several weeks, left for their home in England last night, Mr. Archer to resume his studies at Oxford.

Miss Walmsley and Miss Farley, of Lisham, Devonshire, Eng., are spending a few weeks in Canada. Miss Farley is stopping at Mr. A. Clegg's. Miss Walmsley came out with her parents (who are visiting their son near Stirling), and is visiting her friend, Miss Farley.

The Port Hope Times says:—Miss H. E. Hagerman, of Peterborough, who has been visiting friends in Port Hope for the past two weeks, returned home on Saturday evening, accompanied by Miss H. Wilson, of Toronto, who has been spending her vacation at home.

The Calgary Tribune says:—T. W. Robinson, of Peterborough, and Messrs. J. and S. Morgan, of Scarborough, Ont., arrived in town this morning and are at the Royal. Mr. Robinson visited Calgary two years ago, and persuaded his friends, who have been looking over the greater portion of Manitoba, to come Calgary before returning. Unfortunately the stormy weather of to-day prevented them making a trip to the country.

News Nuggets.

—The EXAMINER is indebted to the Lindsay Central Exhibition, which takes place on the 23rd, 24th and 25th inst, for complimentary ticket.

—The Ennismore pic-nic takes place this afternoon, and quite a number drove out from Peterborough.

Her Nose Was Too Long!

If the nose of Cleopatra had been shorter, said the great Pascal, in his epigrammatic and brilliant manner, the condition of the world would have been diff-rent. It can also be asserted, that if Diamond Dyes had been known in Cleopatra's time, the people would have been much happier than they were. Modern skill and science has done much for the present generation, to make them contented and happy. Modern science applied to the dye trade, has produced the favorite Diamond Dyes so universally used in all households throughout the world. By their use and without unnecessary loss of time, and with little trouble, mothers, wives and daughters are enabled to renew old and faded garments, and thereby save a great amount of money every year. At this season, light colored dresses, wraps, boating shawls, jerseys, jackets, silk sashes and ribbons, can be recolored in any of the beautiful dark shades that will be fashionable this Autumn.

This can only be done well and thoroughly by Diamond Dyes, as they are the only really guaranteed dyes in the market, and give the most brilliant and most durable colors.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

Special Meeting—Special Business.

A Halt Called in the Payment of the Beans—A Tax Collector Appointed—An Action Against the Town Threatened—No All-Night Electric Lights—After the Street Railway Monopolists.

The special meeting of the town council was attended by Mayor Stevenson, Councillors Hartley, Langford, Moore, Dawson, A. Hall, E. H. D. Hall, Kelly, Winch and Davidson.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, suggested to the council the advisability of passing a by-law providing for the payment of costs in police court cases which were discharged. Witnesses were often put to great inconvenience and expense to attend trials, and in case the police failed in their prosecution they were able to draw no fees. The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

A letter from Messrs. Stratton & Hall was read on behalf of John H. Stevens, jr., complaining that the powder magazine in the south ward had greatly depreciated the value of his property, and its close proximity to his residence rendered life dangerous. They had been instructed to enter an action against the town. The solicitors asked what the council intended doing about the matter.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. C. W. Sawers applied for permission to open out a street in certain property in the south ward, which he intended laying out into town lots.—Granted.

THE NEW TAX COLLECTOR.

Mr. Moore read the following report:—

Your Committee on appointments beg to recommend the appointment of Miss Elizabeth Cumming as the Collector of Taxes for the current year at a salary of $600; the same to cover all services necessary to be performed in connection with the office of Collector.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. MOORE,
Acting Chairman.

The report was adopted.

NO ALL NIGHT LIGHTS.

Mr. A. Hall read the following:—

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report that they cannot recommend the all night electric lamps this year. All of which is respectfully submitted.

ADAM HALL,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

BETTER INSURANCE RATES.

Mr. Davidson enquired of the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee if any steps had been taken towards having Peterborough placed in class A by the Insurance Underwriters' Association.

Mr. A. Hall replied that owing to his having been out of town and other interruptions nothing had yet been done by the Committee; though they hoped to attend to it in the near future.

On motion, the Fire, Water and Light Committee was instructed to correspond with the Underwriters' Association with this object in view.

THE BROOKS CO. BONUS.

Mr. Langford moved, seconded by Mr. E. H. D. Hall, that the resolution of this council passed on the twenty-third August last, authorizing the payment to the Brooks Manufacturing Company of $6 000, and accepting the security offered by that Company for the proper carrying out of their agreement with the town, be rescinded; and that this council declare that the said security is not such that the council can accept, but this council is quite prepared on the said Company carrying out their agreement with the town to pay over the said sum.

Mr. HALL said that in seconding that resolution he did so, not wishing to place the Brooks Co. at any disadvantage, but it seemed from appearances that the Company was not as certain of success as they should be, nor was the security such as would be satisfactory to the town. He did not think the second mortgage offered by the Company was of any value, as in case of insolvency the first mortgage held by the Central Canada would cover all their assets. Then personal security was never considered good, and in this instance, in case of insolvency, the bonds being personal and not joint, the town might not be able to get any redress. If the Company was going to be successful, the withholding of the money for a little while could do them no injury, and it would only be guarding the public interests.

Mr. MOORE thought Mr. Hall had not stated the matter fairly. He had said the Brooks Co. had given a first mortgage for $15,000 to the Central Canada upon their property, but he did not say it was with the stipulation that it covered only the land, buildings and engines. It did not cover fixtures or plant introduced by the Company, which was valued at eight or ten thousand dollars, and which was distinctly covered by the town mortgage. Then he thought the personal bonds were quite satisfactory. At the meeting at which the bonus was agreed upon they were so considered, and the decision was almost unanimous. He enquired what Mr. Langford intended to do.

Mr. LANGFORD—Wait until they offer security satisfactory to the council.

Mr. MOORE—The council at its last meeting accepted the security as satisfactory.

Mr. LANGFORD—I ask the council to rescind that motion.

Mr. DAWSON said that the matter of security has been referred to the town solicitor, and until his opinion was given the talk of Mr. Langford and Mr. Hall would do them injury. He thought the company was doing its best to succeed and should not be blocked.

Mr. LANGFORD said he did not wish to injure the company, but he did not consider the security satisfactory; and any company which was willing to mortgage its whole property was not, in his opinion, very solid.

Mayor STEVENSON said that, as he understood the matter, the town solicitor had found fault with the security, and the members of the company were making arrangements to meet his demands for better security.

Mr. E. H. D. HALL said, in reply to Mr. Moore, that even his explanation did not enhance the value of the security; as the town solicitor understood that the council endorsed the security, and he, as town solicitor, had simply to decide upon the form and legality of the documents.

Mr. LANGFORD said that his motion was not intended to convey the impression that the town wanted to back out of paying the money; it was simply to withhold it until the security was made satisfactory. Mr. Langford thought the council should be careful of the peoples' money.

Mr. A. HALL understood Mr. Langford's resolution to mean that the payment of the money was simply delayed for a time; whereas the company could demand the money to-morrow if the town solicitor should give a favorable opinion.

The motion was finally amended, the last clause being entirely struck out and the first one changed to read that the previous resolution be "reconsidered, and be not acted upon until further resolution of the council." The motion then carried.

STREET RAILWAYS.

Mr. LANGFORD introduced the matter of street railways. He referred to the application recently made by local men for a charter, and to the fact that there had been some public discussion concerning it's being a monopoly. In order to learn the rights of the town in reference to street railways, he secured Town Solicitor Edwards' opinion, which he read. Mr. Edwards stated that the council could not prevent any company building, but more than one individual or company could apply for a charter for a railway. The council had control of the route and regulation of all street railway companies.

On motion of Mr. Langford, seconded by Mr. Dawson, the town solicitor was instructed to watch the town's interests in the matter.

STREET EXTENSION.

Moved by Mr. Davidson, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to interview the property owners interested in the extension of George and Aylmer streets to the boundary and report to the council the probable cost of same, if any.—Carried.

MORE LIGHT DEMANDED.

Mr. MOORE called the attention of the council to the fact that the 29 additional electric lights passed in council several months ago had not been put up. He moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the 29 lights recommended to this council by the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee on June 2nd, 1890, be erected, and the Peterborough Electric and Power Co. be directed to proceed to place the same and that the Mayor and Clerk enter into a proper contract with the Company for said lights.

Mr. A. Hall moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the matter of electric lamps be referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.

Mr. Hall thought it better to adopt this course and have a re-arrangement of the whole thing. He thought a more economical arrangement could be made.

The amendment was carried, and the council then adjourned.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Utica reports: The cheese market experienced another boom yesterday. Business was not particularly good until the closing hour. Then two or three buyers commenced making offers which were higher than any one had asked for. They said they wanted cheese and would pay whatever it might cost to fill their orders. Bids of from 9c to 9¾c were made and in one or two instances the latter figure was obtained. Most of the purchases made at 9 cents and over were to supply the home trade, which continues quite active. The cheese now marketed is August stock. September cheese will be on hand now within a short time. Transactions—6 lots, 53 boxes, 8⅝c; 58 lots, 531 boxes, 8¾c; 6 lots, 904 boxes, 8¾c; 19 lots, 1767 boxes, 9c; 18 lots, 1344 boxes, 9¾c; 20 lots, 1930 boxes, 9¼c; 4 lots, 195 boxes, 9¾c, 4 lots, 420 boxes, private terms; 9 lots, 650 boxes, commission; total 144 lots, 12,484 boxes, ruling price 8¾c. Transactions same day last year aggregated 14,644 boxes, ruling price 8¼c.

A Blind Sprinter.

An officer of the Brantford Blind Institute was in town to-day, having in his charge a young man named Taylor whom he was taking back to his parents near Keene. Young Taylor is partially blind, and was sent to the Institute several weeks ago for treatment. The authorities thought he was of unsound mind and have sent him home again. Taylor gave his custodian considerable trouble. At the Union Station in Toronto he would obtain hold of every person who passed him, and while crossing the market square to-day the young man, who can see to some small extent, started to run away. After a lively chase the fugitive was captured, and taken on the 1.30 train to Keene.

RECIPROCITY PROTECTS.

MR. BLAINE FURTHER ELUCIDATES HIS TARIFF POSITION.

The Democrats of Connecticut Join the Republican Secretary of State in Denouncing the McKinley Bill as Infamous—The House Conferees.

BOSTON, Sept. 16. The Journal will publish to-morrow a letter to its editor from Secretary of State Blaine in which the latter very fully explains his views in regard to reciprocity. The letter was written in response to an invitation to attend a banquet of the Boot and Shoe Club of Boston, which is to be given next month. The letter says:

I am glad to hear that the members of the club are interested in a system of reciprocal trade with Latin America. They can do great good by counteracting a certain phase of New England opinion entertained at times as well as in Washington—an opinion which I must regard as in the highest degree unwise and hurtful to New England interests. New England is to receive in the new tariff the amplest protection for every manufacturing industry within her borders, both great and small, and it will, in my judgment, be both unjust and injurious for her representatives to disregard a measure which will promote western interests.

Mr. Blaine proceeds to elaborate his ideas of what constitutes reciprocity, and says: The object lesson immediately before us is the treatment of the sugar question. Shall we make Latin America a gift of that trade? When we have studied that lesson we shall be prepared for the second.

The worst proposition of all is put forward by those who say: "Let us put sugar on the free list now and next year we will take up the subject of reciprocity." If I understand their logic it is to make sugar free this year without condition and next year to ask Spain if she will not kindly consent to grant us reciprocal trade. Holding the complete vantage ground ourselves, the proposed policy transfers the vantage ground to Spain. Instead of granting a favor to Spain to-day we are to ask her for a favor to-morrow. * * *

The many forms in which our business interests will be promoted by reciprocity cannot be known until the active commercial men of the United States shall have developed those forms by investigation and experience. We shall not realize the full benefit of the policy in a day or a year, but shall we therefore throw away countless millions of trade in addition to the $600,000,000 we have already thrown away and then ignominiously declare without trial that the system won't work.

Finally there is one fact that should have great weight with protectionists. Every free trader in the country cried against the reciprocity provisions. The free trade papers throughout the country are showing determined hostility to it. It is evident that the free trade senators and the free trade papers throughout the country are showing determined hostility for a specific reason. They know and feel that with a system of reciprocity established and growing their policy of free trade receives a most serious blow. The protectionist who opposes reciprocity in the form in which it is now presented knocks away one of the strongest supports of his system. The sentiment of reciprocity is the safeguard of protection. The defeat of reciprocity is the opportunity of free trade.

The House Conferees.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The Speaker announced the appointment of the following conferees on the Tariff Bill Messrs. McKinley, Burrows, Bryce, Dingley, Mills, McMillin and Flower.

A PANIC-BREEDING BILL.

Connecticut Democrats Denounce the McKinley Measure as Infamous.

HARTFORD, Sept. 16. The Democratic State Convention met here to-day with 367 delegates in attendance. The mention of Mr Cleveland's name by the chairman called forth great applause, which was particularly vigorous when the ex President's tariff policy was referred to. A platform was adopted which reaffirms the national platform. It declares for such a revision of the tariff as shall admit crude materials of manufacture free and lighten the burdens upon the necessaries of life, and charges the decline of over one half in farm values in Connecticut to the Republican tariff policy. The platform continues:

"We denounce the radically unjust and panic breeding McKinley Bill, which will increase the cost of living and reduce the cost of luxuries. It is the most outrageous measure of taxation ever prepared in the American Congress. We accept James G. Blaine's interpretation of it as infamous."

Luzon B Morris was nominated for governor.

FIGHTING FOR CRONIN'S SLAYERS.

Bills of Exception to be Filed With the Illinois Supreme Court.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16. Attorney Daniel Donohoe has filed the bill of exceptions and the certified copy of the record in the Cronin trial in the Supreme Court on behalf of his client, Patrick O'Sullivan, the woman, Mr. Forrest also has a bill of exceptions in behalf of Dan Coughlin and Martin Burke, but it has not been filed.

Mr. Forrest already has his brief prepared, and when he gets ready doubtless will file it together with his bill of exceptions and the certified copy of the record. In Attorney Donohoe's brief, which probably was prepared jointly by himself and Forrest, there are 30 pages of closely type written matter, or over 10,000 words, devoted to the examination of Juror Clarke, who was made foreman of the jury. One of the main fights before the Supreme Court will be made on the point that Juror Clarke was not qualified to sit on the case, and it will be claimed that Judge McConnell made an argument to Clarke in order to convince him that he was qualified—that he might have an excuse for remaining on the jury.

Cigarettes Fined.

TROY, Sept. 16.—Gutt, Coon & Co., the largest collar and shirt manufacturing company in Troy, were to-day fined $50 in the police court for violation of the factory law in working women overtime. The factory inspectors say they are preparing suits against other parties in the county for overworking minors and women and employing children under 14 years of age.

Montreal Printers Indicted.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—The grand jury has found a true bill against William Kydd, Thomas W. Reune, Charles Beattie and Silas Read, the printers charged with conspiracy in connection with the recent strike in The Herald office.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

THE NEW ONTARIO CABINET MINISTERS SWORN IN

Meeting of the Central Farmers Institute Executive—A Kent Farmer Blows Out the Gas and is Asphyxiated—The City and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—The title "M.P.P." is falling to innocuous desuetude. It never has had any real significance and Sir Alexander Campbell, the present popular Lieutenant-Governor, recognizing that fact has since his advent to Government House invariably in his invitations, etc., used the initials "M.L.A." which exactly express the official position, member of the Legislative Assembly. There is no "Provincial Parliament" known to the law and His Honor's innovation is correct and bound to prevail.

The new members of the Ontario Ministry were duly sworn in yesterday before His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Sir Alexander Campbell, as follows: Hon. Richard Harcourt, as Provincial Treasurer; Hon. John Dryden, as Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. E. H. Bronson as Minister without portfolio. The proceedings took place in the Attorney-General's office, and were followed by luncheon at the Reform Club, at which all the members of the Cabinet and numerous prominent Reformers were present.

The Executive Committee of the Central Farmers Institute met at the Walker House yesterday at noon, Vice-President T. Lloyd Jones, presiding in the absence of the Chairman, N. Awrey. Prof. Shaw, of the Guelph Agricultural College, suggesting how the sphere of influence of that institution might be extended, recommended that the Government obtain ten acres say in three or four parts of the province, where feed experiments could be carried on under the conduct of the officers of the college. The results received from the various parts of the province would be much more useful than those obtained from one.

An elderly man named James Buchanan of Harwich, in the county of Kent, came to the city to visit the fair and applied at the Wilson House in York street for a bed. He then went to 142 York street and went to bed about 8 o'clock. Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock a friend called to see him and he was not up. His room was opened by a policeman and the man was found lying dead in bed. He had apparently blown out the gas and been suffocated.

An arrangement was practically concluded yesterday between the city and the Canadian Pacific Railway which gives over to the citizens the Esplanade front between Yonge and Bay-streets for a public park.

Young Jim McLean was yesterday convicted of the abduction and seduction of Nellie Howell, aged 15, on May 21 last.

The exhibition receipts up to Tuesday night aggregate $56,333, an increase of $4691 over last year.

Professor Saunders, who is now in the city in company with Hon. John Carling, has just made an official tour through Manitoba and the Northwest. Besides visiting the farms along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Professor Saunders went into Southern Manitoba and visited the wheat fields between Manitou and Brandon. He believes the crop in that part will be about 20 bushels to the acre, but north and south of Brandon and in the Portage district it is much heavier, averaging from 25 to 30 bushels to the acre.

"So far as I have been able to ascertain," said Prof. Saunders, "the injury from frost, if any, has been very light. In the Northwest the greener wheat fields have been injured, and it is said that some frost has occurred in the northern part of Manitoba, but I cannot speak positively as to this district, not having visited that section of the province. He believes, however, that the yield of grain will be very large, and with the good weather a large portion of it will grade well.

A STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Missing Heir Supposed to Have Perished in the Shuswap Rebellion.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—Lawyers are sometimes called upon to listen to a statement of fact that is more romantic than true. W. H. Walker, Q.C., this morning moved the Surrogate Court here on letters of administration upon the estate of William Seymour, who from his long absence is presumed to be dead. It appears from the statement filed that in 1857 a Joseph Fowlks, known otherwise as Joseph Seymour of the 5th Regiment shortly afterwards stationed with his regiment in Toronto, died leaving a will dividing his property among his three children, then mere lads.

One son, James Seymour, became the publisher of The St. Catharines Constitutional and before his death was appointed to the Inland Revenue office in St. Catharines, and was known throughout the province as a prominent Freemason. Another son is Joseph Seymour, now publisher of The News, Hagersville, but the third son, William, was placed in the care of a Mrs. Joyce of Toronto, now of Bronte, when about 8 years of age, at the time of his father's death. He was afterwards adopted by a farmer named Archibald of Bolton township with whom he lived until about 21 years old.

About that time the American civil war broke out, and as there were agents throughout Ontario inducing young men to enlist in the northern army it is supposed that William enlisted. At all events he suddenly disappeared from Mr. Archibald's care and he has never been heard of since, although, as documents filed show, for years his brothers made every enquiry for him. The fund to which William or his representatives are entitled has been accumulating for about 40 years in England and now amounts to a considerable sum.

On these facts Mr. Walker asked the court to presume that William was dead, and that letters of administration should be granted in favor of Joseph Seymour and his application was granted. Mr. Walker expects, on the grant here, to receive the fund from England, which will be divided equally between Joseph Seymour of Hagersville and Mrs. Seymour, widow of the late James Seymour, St. Catharines.

Skipped to the States.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—A young man named Lamontagne, son of a St. Lawrence-street merchant, has forged the name of Architect Larivere for $150 on the City & District Savings Bank. A warrant has been taken out for his arrest and the young man has skipped for the states.

300 SHOTS A MINUTE.

INVENTOR GIFFARD'S LIQUEFIED GAS WEAPON.

A Rifle Which Promises to Revolutionize Modern Warfare—The Queen's New Banqueting Hall at Osborne—Emperor William's Alleged Grievance.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—M. Paul Giffard claims to have again given the world something new and more powerful than anything that has yet appeared. In a word he substitutes for the expansive force of powder gas, the projective power contained in liquefied gas, which he claims to be far superior to powder, with or without smoke.

The result of an examination by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Saint-Etienne is to the effect that the gun possesses a cartridge or metallic receiver containing liquefied gas. Each time that the piece is fired a drop of liquefied gas, larger or smaller, according to the force that it is wished to give the projectile, comes out of the receiver and propels the projectile with a regularity and accuracy very much superior to other types of arms in actual use. The absence of fouling is the cause of the improvement in the regularity of the fire. The gas receiver on the gun experimented with was able to fire 300 shots a distance of about one hundred feet. Had it been desired to fire a greater distance a larger drop could have been drawn from the receiver, and it would then have been possible to fire 150 or 200 shots at the greater range. The size of the drop is regulated by a spring which checks the hammer and prevents it pushing a piston that is in the passage of the feed pipe any farther than is required.

The rifle looks very much like an ordinary gun. At the side it carries a little handle about as large as the thumb catch which is frequently seen on breech-loading fowling pieces. Under the stock is the reservoir, large enough in the experimental gun to hold 100 grams of liquefied gas. The receiver is connected with the chamber of the gun by a small pipe, in which is a valve, and the regulating of this valve seems to constitute one of the greatest difficulties to be overcome. Something in the nature of a gas check is an other of the requirements, and it will be very hard to make an efficient gas check for small calibres, as there is as a rule not sufficient room to be obtained for the necessary expansion; at least, that has been the great trouble with powder guns. Two surfaces coming in contact, neither of which has been renewed after a discharge, generally results in an escape of gas and a consequent reduction of velocity. The use of fluid ammunition is on this account such a great improvement, as each fresh cartridge presents a new surface to the walls of the chamber, and the checking of the gas is more readily accomplished.

The two or three hundred shots contained in the magazine of the Giffard gun can either be fired in succession as soon as the gun is adjusted or they can be kept stored there for a month. In other words the gun is always ready. When one receiver is empty the only delay is occasioned by the few seconds necessary to replace it by a full one. It is proposed to have an extra one on the person as part of the necessary equipment of the soldier.

The bullet after each fire is put in the gun through the breech, as is ordinarily the case with magazine guns, and the operation can be easily, quickly and surely accomplished.

YATES' ROYAL FRIENDS.

The Great Gossip's Latest Budget—The Kaiser "Real Angry."

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Edmund Yates cable to The Tribune says: The Queen was very anxious that the new banqueting hall at Osborne should be completed and ready for use by December, but I hear it has been found quite impracticable to finish the work this season; operations will therefore be suspended at the end of November until the middle of February, and when they are resumed after the Queen's departure on the conclusion of her winter residence on the Isle of Wight, they will be carried on without interruption, as Her Majesty will not visit Osborne again until the middle of July. It is now estimated that by the time the hall and other buildings are decorated and furnished nearly £2,000 will have been expended, and nobody knows what is to be done with this costly addition which the Queen appears to have decided upon without due consideration. The original cost of Osborne was upwards of £100,000.

The Queen has invited, or is about to invite, the Queen of Roumania to pay her a visit at Balmoral, and I hear the Prince of Wales has written to Queen Elizabeth expressing great regret that he and the Princess cannot have the pleasure of entertaining her at Sandringham, as they will not be there during Her Majesty's stay in England.

It is said that the Empress Frederick after all has no intention of paying another visit to the Queen this year. Her Majesty is now staying at Venice in the house of Mr. Mitchelson on the Grand Canal, where she will remain until the end of the month and will then go to England to superintend the preparation of marriage of her daughter, Princess Victoria, which will take place in Berlin during the third week in November.

Emperor William has intimated his intention of appointing the Duke of Connaught to the colonelcy of a Prussian regiment. It is odd that a son-in-law of Prince Frederick Charles should be the only member of the royal family who has not a position in the Germany army.

I hear from Berlin that Emperor William is much annoyed because the Queen did not offer any order to Chancellor von Caprivi, who, His Majesty expected, would be created G. C. B., and his discontent will have been increased by the fact that the Queen has just conferred this distinction upon Baron Francois Lambermont, Minister of State to the King of Belgium.

35 Miners Killed.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—Twenty-five miners were killed by the explosion in the colliery at St. Hendel. The other men in the pit to the number of 325 were rescued.

An Austrian Warship Lost.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Austrian warship Taurus with a crew of 60 men and 4 officers has foundered in the Black Sea.

The Swamp of Death.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 16.—The scene of the Benwell murder is a point of interest as the trial draws near and the swamp is visited daily by scores of people. Yesterday there were over 50 rigs in the lonely swamp from all parts of the country—Guelph, Galt Hamilton, Paris and Woodstock. At one time the string of carriages was nearly half a mile long and the narrow roadway was blockaded until nearly dark.

A Mail Robber Sentenced.

QUEBEC, Sept. 17.—Hyienarque Lancier, the young man who was accused of stealing several registered letters from the St. Lamour postoffice kept by his father, was found guilty yesterday morning under the Speedy Trial Act, and sentenced to five years in the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary. The condemned prisoner, who is only 19 years of age, when the sentence was being pronounced carried an indifferent air, but never uttered a word.

A Fashionable Quebec Wedding.

QUEBEC, Sept. 16.—Miss Josephine Taschereau, daughter of Hon. J. T. Taschereau, late judge of the Supreme Court, and Mr. E. Hecker, a Montreal merchant, were married yesterday morning at the private chapel in the palace by Cardinal Taschereau. The bride is a niece of His Eminence. There was a large gathering of friends of the family at the residence of Judge Taschereau in St. Louis-street after the ceremony, where the wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple left for Montreal.

A TOO VIVID IMAGINATION.

Correspondent O'Brien's Exuberant Fancy Leads to His Arrest.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—Mr. R. K. O'Brien, the agent for Dunlap's Cable News Agency, to whom is attributed the sending of the scurrilous despatch about Prince George's arrest, was this morning placed under arrest. It was stated that Mr. O'Brien was arrested last night, but this is untrue, and he promises to take an action for libel against the papers who published the statement. He appeared to-day before Judge Dasnoyers and pleaded not guilty. He was at once released on bail, himself in $800 and two sureties of $500 each. He has retained the services of leading criminal lawyers here. Mr. H. C. St. Pierre and C. J. Doherty will contest the case. The despatch sent, as it is alleged, by Mr. O'Brien was as follows:

FELL BEFORE ROYAL FISTS.

PRINCE GEORGE SAID TO HAVE BEEN ACTUALLY ARRESTED IN MONTREAL.

[Dunlap's Cable News Service.]

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Prince George showed his British pluck right before last, but he got into a serious scrape. The story has been carefully kept from the public and all questions are met with official denial.

After the Academy reception on Wednesday night Prince George returned to his hotel, change his dress-suit and started out with one of his lieutenants and a rich Montreal gentleman to see the town.

While passing the corner of St. Constant and Lagauchetiere-streets they were accosted by a number of ruffians, who asked for money. Before they had time to comply with the request the Prince and his friends were attacked. Just how it happened is not known, but in a moment the Prince and his friends were engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight with six of their assailants.

The Montreal gentleman was soon disposed of and for a few moments things looked badly for the Prince and the officer.

Six to two are big odds, but the Prince and the lieutenant got back to back and, handling their fists with true pugilistic skill, treated the roughs to a surprise. Three of them fell before the scientific hitting of Royalty alone, while the officer despatched two and the other took to flight.

Had the affair ended here the story of the adventure would probably never have been told. But it did not. Along came two policemen, who, seeing six men prone on the sidewalk and two others landing over them, arrested and took them all to the station, in spite of the protests of the Prince. They were all considerably battered and dilapidated as a result of the fracas. No protests or requests could obtain their release, and the officer locked up the royal prisoner.

Finally, the Sergeant of Police consented to telephone for Col. Hughes, the Chief of Police, who came to the station in great haste, recognized the prisoner and immediately released him. Then there was a trembling lot of policemen, each expecting prompt dismissal, and somebody would have gone had it not been for the request of the Prince that no such harsh measure be taken. Humble apologies followed, however, and a hack was called for the Prince and his friends, who, accompanied by an escort, were driven back to the hotel.

This evening the Prince entertained his friends aboard the "Thrush." He will sail to-morrow at daybreak.

MRS. LARGE AT HAMILTON.

The Widow of the Murdered Missionary Addresses the Methodist Ladies.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—Yesterday afternoon the parlors of the Centenary Church were crowded with ladies who had gathered to hear Mrs. Large, widow of the missionary who was murdered in Japan some months ago. It was a meeting of the Mission Band of Centenary Church, to which had been invited the ladies of the other Methodist churches, and it was to be expected that the attendance would be great.

Mrs. Large gave a very interesting address on mission work, touching upon that in which she had been engaged before her return to this country, and showing the possibilities which the ladies had of achieving a good work for the Master. Mrs. Large is possessed of taking presence and a very pleasing style, and her remarks were listened to with deep interest by all.

A Two-Edged Sword.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—An order which has recently been issued, or re-issued, from Washington to the United States customs authorities is regarded as quite a hardship by Canadian importers of goods which come through United States territory. The order is that all goods bonded through the United States for Canada must be corded and sealed by the United States customs officials at the first American port of entry.

For this corking and sealing a charge of 10 cents per package is made, which in the case of tea, a deal of which is still sent to the Maritime Provinces through the States, would amount to as much as the freight from New York. The records show that a similar order was enjoined on United States officials in 1886. One effect of this regulation will be to stimulate direct trade with the countries of production by Canadian routes.

Losses Caused by Flames.

HALIFAX, Sept. 16.—Fire in T. G. McMullen's steam mill at Ryan's Creek, five miles from Shubenacadie, completely destroyed the mill with all the machinery, including two saws, between 7000 and 8000 feet of lumber. It is supposed the fire started from the smokestack of the mill. The loss is estimated at between $10,000 and $12,000.

A Horse Thief's Sentence.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 16.—This morning Robert Henderson, sr., was tried before Judge Hughes for stealing a horse from Jonas Stoner of Malahide in July, 1888, found guilty and sentenced to 23 months in the Central Prison after completing the term of three months which he is now undergoing in Woodstock jail for larceny. The son, Robert Henderson, jr., was acquitted.

A TALK ABOUT MANTLES —AT— TURNBULL'S

Look out for this column during the Fall and Winter. It will keep you posted in dry goods news, and let you know about the bargains we offer from time to time. Our counters and shelves are now fairly groaning under the weight of new goods. Never before did we offer such an attractive stock as to-day. The new Mantle Cloths are just beautiful, the styles are so new both in black and colors. We show Black Astrachan Cloth so fine that it is a perfect imitation of the real thing. Any one thinking of getting an Astrachan or Polarian Mantle made to order this season should by all means see our stock before purchasing. Samples sent by mail if required.

We felt the want last season of a larger range of Ladies' and Children's ready-made Mantles, and have imported a well selected stock in both long Mantles and short Jackets, in plain and fancy cloths. Everybody can be suited as we import direct and mark the goods close.

A beautiful lot of fancy pantings arrived for the Gents' Furnishing Department this week. Try our tailor.

We are selling 8 pair of Men's Merino Half Hose for $1.00. Our Dress Trimmings from London, England, have arrived. As London is the best market in the world for these goods we believe the goods we are offering will be appreciated.

Drop in and see the new shades in Dress Goods; we have the full range of shades in several makes of Cloth.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1890.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

The EXAMINER takes another opportunity of reminding its readers of the Central Exhibition which is to be opened here on Wednesday, Sept. 25th, by Rt. Hon. Sir John Macdonald, premier of the Dominion of Canada, with imposing ceremonies. All those who have not seen this great man, who has filled so large and constant a place in Canadian history, will be glad of an opportunity of seeing and coming in personal contact with the best known politician in Canada, and hundreds of others who have seen him will be glad of another opportunity of warming under his genial and expansive smile. For very many it will be the first time of seeing Sir John and for many others the last time of meeting him. And the exhibition itself is full of intrinsic merit. The indications are that the exhibits this year will (judging by the way the entries are already coming in) be, by far, the best of the series. The prize list has been largely augmented, and the exhibits will be larger in proportion. The farmers by this time must be fully aware of the immense benefits their agricultural exhibition is to their interests, and it is to be hoped that there will be few who will not on one day or other visit the show. It is to the farmers the grand object lesson of the year, the grand social gathering when everybody may meet his friends and indulge in those reunions and social enjoyment that should constitute so pleasant and permanent a part of the farmer's too largely self-contained life. The best grains and fruits, the best stock, the best farming machinery produced in the district will be available for the farmers' inspection and improvement. There will be abundant amusement and means for relaxation. The speeding in the ring, the Caledonian games, and above all to the ladies the great baby show under the auspices of Gough Bros., which will this year be made the most attractive and exciting contest ever held in this county. There will be a large number of competitors and, as every woman thinks her own baby the finest in the world, the rivalry will be keen. Altogether the Central Exhibition will present numerous attractions well worth seeing, and it is to be hoped the farmers will take a universal holiday and hold a grand reunion at the Central Exhibition on Sept. 24th, 25th and 26th.

GOOD CROP PROSPECTS.

Below we copy a reliable crop report for the United States, also, an extract from a letter to Mr. Clurton from Toledo, Oslo, under 13th inst.

So far as we can judge, these show that this will be a profitable year for Ontario farmers, and that prices will rate considerably higher than during the last few years.

We cannot recommend farmers to sell barley at present, as there is not time to get it over the border before the new prohibitory duty comes into force—30 cents per bushel—on 1st October. Owing to this change, markets are unsettled, and much lower in the States than they will be later on. It is a great pity our farmers are going to be shut out from that market, which has been such a good stay for so many years.

TOLEDO, O., Sept 12th 1890.

MR. WM. CLURTON, Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Yours of the 10th received. The clover seed that is coming in here at the present time and of which we sent you a sample is not as dark in color as we expected to get later in the season. Our market is rather firm and at the presents outlook the tendency is to higher prices. Receipts are all Mammoth. Medium seed has as yet not commenced to move. Sales of Prime Mammoth Seed to-day $4 40 to $4.45. White for Oct. delivery sales at $4 40 and that was bid at the close. For Dec delivery $4 50 and that bid at the close. We will see if we cannot get some darker seed for you and send you a sample. The bulk of the choice samples we have seen so far are the same as we sent you. We have seen some complaints from Europe that England would be a little short. This country's crop seems to be a failure in everything.

The only good crop the United States has is hay. Grains of all kinds are short. Awaiting your further favors, we remain etc.

Government Crop Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—The natural crop reports for September show that the injury to the corn crop reported last month was intensified by continuance of drought in August, until the rains came to its relief, but too late for full recovery. The average is 70.1, against 73.3 last month. It is the lowest average since 1881. The reports of condition of winter wheat, at the time of harvesting, are less favorable than those of the 1st of July. So far as threshing has progressed, the results are generally disappointing. The July average was 76.2; the present average 73.5.

The general average of spring wheat has also been reduced from 83.2 to 79.8. The average for wheat of both kinds is 75.5. In 1888 the September average for both wheats was 77. It was 73 in 1881. The yield of spring wheat is unusually variable in the Dakotas, ranging from high yields to five bushels and less per acre. The progress of threshing will develop the extent of those differences.

On the coast from New Jersey to Maryland, and in North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Missouri, as also in Northern New England and Florida, there is improvement in corn since August 1. In Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana, and in Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas, the condition is unchanged. A decline has occurred in New York, Ohio and Indiana, and in all the Northwestern states, and in some others of less importance. The crop is late in the Eastern states, requiring maturing weather throughout September. It is also late and variable in development in New York and Pennsylvania. The Atlantic coast states return relatively high condition, impaired locally by the effects of midsummer drought and later storms. In Tennessee and Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas, drought more or less severe from the 20th of June to Middle of August, reduced condition too low for subsequent recovery, as the crop was maturing or ripe before rains came. The Ohio valley Missouri valley report protracted and low condition. While the last two weeks of August have been beneficial nearly everywhere, they have not always restored the losses of the first half of the month. In the bottom lands where growth was maintained, the recent rainfall will make a good crop, while the drier uplands were beyond recovery. The lowest condition is in Kansas, though some of the Eastern counties make good returns. The Dakotas and Nebraska are a little higher. The crop is late and will require as much time to mature on the latitude of 40° as for the earlier varieties grown on the line of 42°.

OTHER PRODUCTS.

Rye yields less than was expected and the condition was reported reduced to 85.5.

The September condition of oats is the lowest ever reported having fallen 70.1 to August to 64.4. The rate of yield will be the smallest in 20 years.

The condition of barley is not very seriously lowered—from 82 to 78.6.

Buckwheat has fairly maintained its August condition, the average being 90.5 against 90.1.

The figures for potatoes have fallen since August 1, from 77.4 to 65.7, the lowest average ever reported, that of 1887 being, 87.3.

Beerbohm's London Corn Trade List of Aug. 38:

RUSSIA AND ROUMANIA.—The Russian crop reports presented at Vienna Congress were fairly in accordance with previous reports, but the latest official account is perhaps less favourable, several of the most important wheat growing governments being described as below an average. It would indeed have been very surprising if, after the abnormal winter, and the excessive heat in June, the crops had turned out any other than ordinary ones. The shipments of new wheat from Russia are proceeding very slowly, and there are general complaints with regard to the quality. On the other hand Roumanian wheat is of unusually good quality this year, and is moving forward very freely, there being at present as much Roumanian wheat afloat for the O. K. as there is of Russian. According to latest advices from Russia, growers were not pressing forward their new wheat very freely, whilst old is pretty nearly exhausted. The high rate of Exchange and the comparatively high freight rates, keep the price paid to the consumer very low, and unless the prices improve there is not much fear of pressure of supplies this Autumn. According to indications, Russia will not be able to spare more than 11 million quarters this season, and Roumania about 4½ million quarters, which is rather less than the two countries exported in the past season, during which the reserves of old wheat were largely drawn upon.

FRANCE.—Paris, August 28.—The weather remains unsettled, and the complaints from the North are rather serious regarding the damage done by the persistent rains. The supplies of new wheat are getting more important, but millers requirements are also pressing, and prices rule very firm. Oats tend downwards, but rye is firm. In our ports foreign wheat is firmly held but not active.

GERMANY.—The rye crop in Germany is not turning out by any means so good as the recent official Prussian crop estimate indicated, the quality especially being defective. Wheat, however, appears to be a very good crop, and barley is a bulky crop, but of defective quality. Potatoes are the worst crop of the year, being extensively diseased. The trade for both wheat and rye has remained very firm this week, mainly owing to the short stocks of old grain in the country, and there has been a large business for distant delivery at higher prices.

ENGLAND.—The weather this week has been cold for the time of year, with heavy rainfalls in various parts of the country, delaying the harvest, and injuring the condition of what in many of the principal districts are very bulky crops; this latter fact is confirmed by one who spent a few days this week amongst the wheat fields of Nottinghamshire, Lincolnshire and Yorkshire. New wheat will therefore not be available in quantity for some time to come, and everything in good condition is realizing very good prices. Barley perhaps has suffered most injury in respect of quality, and is now pretty certain that there will be comparatively little really good barley. Oats are turning out a large crop, and beans are also good.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S GOSPEL.

Reciprocity, Retaliation and Revenue the Farmer's Watchwords.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 16.—Chauncey Depew made an address at the State Fair today, in the course of which he said: "In the present condition of the world organization is the necessity of existence. The farmers' organization should inscribe upon its banners the three "Rs," "Reciprocity, Retaliation and Revenue." So long as we maintain the protective policy we cannot object to any tariff which may be imposed equally and impartially by other governments, but when Great Britain pretends to discover pleuro-pneumonia in our cattle, when France and Germany claim that there is trichinosis in our pork, and by these subterfuges keep our live stock and our provisions out, while they freely admit those of other countries, the duty becomes imperative for us to show them the application of the familiar rule, "One good turn deserves another."

To Extend the Bonded Period.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The Chamber of Commerce to-day adopted a resolution urging that the McKinley Tariff Bill be amended so as to extend the time for removing goods now in bond to Feb. 1, 1891. It is understood the Secretary of the Treasury is in favor of this extension and that the bill will be amended accordingly.

Drowned.

KINGSTON, Sept. 16.—George Newman of Portsmouth was accidentally drowned Monday. He was sitting on the edge of the tannery wharf, when he slipped in and before assistance could arrive his was extinct. Mr. Newman was also 60 years of age and was employed in the Portsmouth tannery. He was a prominent Orangeman.

PERSONALS.

A genuine portrait of Columbus, painted by Lotte in 1501, has been discovered.

Fraulein Johanna Maestrick, a German girl of remarkable beauty has made her debut in Lisbon as a bullfighter.

Miss Mollie E. Seawall, a recently successful novelist, who took the $500 prize offered by a Boston periodical, is a niece of President Tyler.

Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, is an omnivorous reader of American newspapers. He recently said that he liked the snap of the American writers.

Fanny Davenport is said to have brought two asps home with her. One, of course, has an important role in her "Cleopatra" and the other is its understudy.

Gen. Mitre is mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency of the Argentine Republic. The rumor that he comes from the notorious Dinah Mitre stock is probably incorrect.

The Count of Paris, it is reported, will visit America this fall. He will be accompanied by the Duc d'Orleans, Duc d'Uzes, Marquis de Lasteyrs, a grandson of Lafayette, and by a member of the Becanier family.

There is a prospect that somebody will make a mint of money out of Stanley's lectures in America. The lecturer and his wife will be carried from point to point in a palace car now building for that special purpose. Meanwhile Herbert Ward, whose lectures in this country were interrupted by his marriage, has given up a cherished plan to extend his lecture tour to Australia and South Africa.

Miss Sarmiza Bilcescu, the first woman to be admitted to the practice of law in France, is only 25 years old. She is pretty, and belongs to one of the richest families in Roumania. Having overcome the obstacles put in her way by the professors of law in Paris, she will return to Bucharest and seek admission to the bar there. She does not care to practice herself, but wishes to pave the way for the granting of higher privileges to her sex in Roumania.

Each Time the Wind Blows.

Each time the wind blows, up I look and see
A swarm of blossoms rising in the air.
And of its week old flakes the hedge left bare.
And apple-boughs deserted by the bee,
And the one tardy blossomed, slim peach-tree
Blown like a flame against the stone wall there.
But nay, not you; still empty climbs the stair.
Yet, by sure signs the new year gives to me.
By daffodils aging upon their stalks,
By purple of the lilac turning gray,
And by the last of bloom the long day through,
Housed in the roads, and whiten all the walks
Full well I know you speeding this dear way,
Can June return once more, and sweet not you?

—Lizette Woodworth Reese, in Traveller's Record.

The Extending Sphere.

"The sphere of woman is constantly extending. It will never stop until it reaches the furthermost limits of human activity. If need be men shall be swept one side by the ponderous force as the wood is tossed by the torrent," exclaimed Mrs. Grundy, the eminent reformer.

"But, John, what do you think of that?" whispered Mrs. Heavyweight to her little spouse.

"Well, I guess she's right," replied John.

"Guess! Don't you know she's right?"

"Yes, Celestina, yes. I do know it. I saw in the paper the other day that housekeeping were becoming fashionable, it are. Chicago Times.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurances written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $313,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.67
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,059,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 84
Citizens	2,097,956	23.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The public will find at this store always the finest goods, the best selections and the most moderate prices.

A Stoning Case.

There are some promising young ruffians around Peterborough. Last night a party of townspeople were driving home from the Emmemore picnic, when, at the corner of McDonnel and Reid streets, they were assailed by a shower of stones from the hands of five large boys, who stood on the sidewalk. Some of those in the carriage were hit and bruised. The vehicle was stopped and chase given to the young miscreants, two of whom were captured. Their names were learned and they were allowed to go. They will probably be called upon to answer for their offence before the police magistrate.

Another Discovery of Coal Oil.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. John Blank discovered indications of coal oil in the cellar of her house and a closer search revealed the existence of a very fine show of unmistakable coal oil. She had been searching for a packet of hawley bros.' tea and came accidentally upon the coal oil can which had been by mistake carried to the cellar. She didn't care much for the oil but she was overjoyed when she found the tea. That household and hundreds of others are out of joint unless hawley bros.' splendid tea is on the table.

The Late Robert Huston.

Robert Huston, a well known and highly respected resident of Monaghan and Otonabee township, died on Saturday at the advanced age of 71 years. Deceased was a native of Cavan County, Ireland, and emigrated to Canada when eleven years old. He settled in North Monaghan, on the gravel road, but afterwards removed to Otonabee river road, where he remained up to the time of his death. Mr. Huston married in 1846, while he lived in Monaghan, Miss Sarah Campbell. Their union resulted in the birth of six children—three boys and three girls all of whom are living but one, and all married but one. Deceased lived a quiet, industrious and useful life, beloved by all his neighbors, and careful of his family's interests. He had many warm friends in the town and county. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He was buried Monday. The family of the deceased will be heartily sympathized with.

The Bird Had Flown.

Police Magistrate Edmison went to Norwood yesterday to try an assault case, in which one Geo. Kemp was the defendant. Kemp had, however, left the town, and, it was said, took the morning train for Toronto. He was some time ago convicted of assault, and allowed to go on suspended sentence. He got wind of this new case, and, thinking his punishment would be heavy, he deemed it wise to clear out.

Zion Foresters Excursion.

The members of Zion Court of Foresters held their excursion and pic-nic Tuesday, and it was highly successful. Accompanied by a few brethren from town, the Foresters and their families took the steamer Beaver and scow at Hanbidge's, and sailed down the river and out into the Lake, stopping at Gore's Landing and Idyl Wild, taking dinner at the latter place, and tea at Jubilee Point. A pleasant day was spent.

Battalion Notes.

At a meeting of the officers of the 57th Battalion last night it was decided to resume regular drill Tuesday evening, Sept. 30th. The inspection will probably take place Thanksgiving Day.

The staff-officers of the Battalion have challenged teams of the Captains and Lieutenants respectively to a rifle match Monday, the 29th—the date of the annual battalion matches. The losers are to set up the oysters.

A Distinguished Visitor.

It is expected the Governor General of Canada and his party will spend a couple of hours in Peterborough Wednesday or Thursday evenings of next week. His Excellency opens the Lindsay exhibition Wednesday, and may leave for Ottawa that night, or remain over till the following night. It is said a banquet is being gotten up in his behalf. In any case, the vice-regal party will arrive in Peterborough at nine o'clock either night, and take the half past eleven train for Ottawa.

New Consulate Office.

Mr. A. V. R. Young, United States Consul, has removed his business office to the elegant new premises at 374½ Water street. The interior is fitted with a front office for the transaction of general business, a large vault of Goldie & McCulloch's make occupying the middle apartment, Mr. Young's handsomely appointed private office being in the rear. A feature of the interior decoration is the paper hanging. The remarkably fine paper was procured from the Peterborough Bookstore. Mr. Young is district agent for the Standard Life Assurance Company. His business has grown to such an extent that larger and more commodious quarters were required, hence his removal.

The Harvest Service To-night.

St. John's looked a picture of exquisite beauty this afternoon, the elaborate decorations for the Harvest Thanksgiving being all in position. The different products of the garden, the flower bed and the field are all represented, and the effect is certainly striking. The service this evening will be almost entirely of a musical character, Dr. Davies having made special preparations for it, including a Thanksgiving Anthem. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Canon Davidson, of Colborne. The Thanksgiving offertory will go towards the church debt. The St. John's congregation would be pleased to have their outside friends join them on this bright and joyful occasion. The service will begin at 8 p.m.

Fight with a Quill Driver.

A young man from town who attended the Zion Foresters' excursion Tuesday, had a rather painful experience on his way home. While driving along the road in Otonabee he observed the form of an animal resembling a coon lying on the fence. He struck it with a stone and knocked it over into the field, and then gave chase. He soon overtook the animal, and began kicking and jumping on it. He felt sharp stings in his legs, but attributed them to thistles. It was quite dark and he could only see the form on the ground without being able to distinguish its species. He tried next to catch it by the tail, but received such a handful of quills that he drew back instantly. Then the fact dawned upon him that he had to deal with a porcupine, and he left the animal at once. On reaching the road he found that he was fairly bristling with quills, which penetrated even the leather of his boots. His trousers below the knees were stuck full of quills, and it took some time to remove the small forest of little darts which punctured the flesh and rendered it very sore. Porcupines are said to be plentiful this year.

A Double Barrelled Assault Case.

An assault case, in which several Ashburnham residents were interested, was disposed of by P. M. Edmison this morning. Two charges of assault were prefered against Wm. Frith, one by Mrs. Haus and the other by Mrs. Vought. They alleged that last Saturday he caught hold of them, threw them down and kicked at them and struck at them. The cause of the assault was this: Mr. Vought, sr., had possession of a lot belonging to Mr. Dumble on Concession street. One end was let to Mrs. Haus' husband for a potato patch. On the other end were some apple trees, the product of which Mrs. Haus claimed also was given them. Mr. Frith had the use of the ground and plowed between the trees for a crop of vegetables. He also claimed the right to the apples. At any rate, the right of ownership was never settled, though Mrs. Haus' boys were in the habit of helping themselves. Last Saturday one of the Haus' boys went to the orchard, but was set upon by Willie Frith, and he ran home leaving his hat in the enemy's possession. His mother started off to recover the head-gear, and was joined by Mrs. Vought and Mrs. Richardson. They did not touch Master Frith, they averred, but the defendant in this case rushed down upon them, ordered them to leave the ground and quit stealing his apples, caught first one and then the other by the arm, threw them down, made attempts to strike them, and after partly dragging and forcing them to the fence, assisted them through with his foot as they were crawling beneath the wires. Mrs. Haus is Mrs. Vought's mother. Mr. John Burnham Q.C., defendant's counsel, raised the question of title regarding the apple trees, and Mr. Edmison reserved judgment.

The Edison By-law.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR, One matter as to this By-law appears to me not to have been made sufficiently clear, namely, the result to the ratepayers from the standpoint of what it is going to cost them should it pass. It has been stated that the amount of taxes per year required to pay interest and sinking fund will on an assessment of $1600 be about eighteen cents—surely such a small sum that no ratepayer would object to pay it considering the benefit to be derived by the town from the location here of the company. But I think it can be shown that it will not cost the ratepayers even this small sum, but on the contrary will be a source of revenue to the town.

The company are to employ 300 hands next year. Of these, taking the usual proportion, one-third will require houses. On an average these houses will pay at a low estimate say $10 per year in taxes, making per year $1,000

Say 100 of the other employees do not rent houses, but will have to pay a poll tax of $2 per year each, making per year 200

This leaves 100 more employees who will be taken say from present residents of the town and will not pay any taxes.....

Additional revenue $1,200

The amount of interest and sinking fund required to pay off the debentures will be per year $750

The present taxes paid on the land to be granted to the company is about 65 ..... $15

Total gain in annual revenue ..... $ 385

This is the direct gain, without taking into consideration the indirect gain which must occur by reason of the rise in value of lands in the neighborhood of the property—the expenditure of $3000 per week in wages and of the money necessary to erect the buildings required by the company; and it must also be recollected that after ten years the company's property will also be assessed and help to pay the taxes of the town.

Yours truly,
OBSERVER.

The Central Exhibition.

Promising Prospects—The Caledonian Games—Interesting Features.

While the Toronto fair is having a great run the prospects for the Peterborough Exhibition which opens here next Wednesday and continues three days are encouraging to the management. Visitors this year will see a show unsurpassed in the history of the association. Citizens never before spoke in so enthusiastic terms of the show as they do this year, and their substantial interest is shown by the manner in which the space is being taken up. Truly this is a sign of the times.

Space in the Exhibition building will be allotted to-morrow (Thursday.) Secretary Collins will be on the grounds after two o'clock for the purpose.

Entries are now pouring in. The Secretary will be in his office every day until the show to receive entries.

Mayor Stevenson, M.P., went to Ottawa last night to urge upon Sir John Macdonald the acceptance of the invitation to open the Exhibition here. It is hoped he will succeed. The presence of the premier would draw a large crowd.

The Caledonian games will be the principal amusement feature of the Exhibition. The St. Andrew's Society has the sports in hand and will make them a success. The usual speeding in the ring will also take place.

A large portion of the exhibition building will be taken up by the Manitoba exhibit, which is bigger and better than ever. This department will be particularly interesting to farmers.

The baby show, the exhibition of physical drill by a company of red coats, the dancing contest, the music by the band and other attractions offered are all worth coming miles to enjoy.

Cheap rates have been procured on all the railway and steamboat lines. Let there be a large attendance.

Rain or shine, the exhibition will be well worth visiting.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

It is so encouraging to see the growing interest and attendance at the weekly meeting on Tuesday evening for the study of God's Word. We trust before long we shall be crowded out of the parlours and will require more room.

The many friends of our Association will be pleased to see that our boys, although away from home, have not lost their interest in the work, as the following clippings from the Y.M.C.A. Recorder, of Victoria, B.C., shows:—"The band, under the leadership of Mr. Wm. Manu, is making good progress, and at no distant day will do their part in making the rooms and services popular. Mr. Wm. Dee, one of our active members, also of the reception committee, has gone to Winnipeg to take a position in the C. P. R. telegraph office. We regret to lose him."

Boys' meeting on Friday evening at 7 p.m., enrollment, &c. All boys over 11 years and under 16 will be welcomed.

Physical training class on Friday evening at 8 p.m., conducted by Sergt.-Major Randle. All members who desire to join this helpful class should hand their names to the general secretary.

North Smith.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In the last issue of your weekly it was announced that the Northern Stars would play a game of ball with the Chemongs for blood. As to playing at all, no specified time was arranged by our club. We would gladly have played according to notice, only it is an entire impossibility on our part. But in the near future—of which due notice will be given—we will meet with our red brethren, when, with fair judgment and strict adherence to baseball rules, we will "bury the hatchet," and that without blood. We do not wish to cast reflections on the judgment of our last umpire. We may be wrong, and, therefore, would not presume to criticise, but, at the same time, we hold our own opinion. However, the earth must not have been wiped very clean with such a close score as was published. We trust to be able to notify (through your columns) all interested in the game when the return match will come off. We ask the Chemongs to kindly wait for a week at any rate.

Yours truly,
THE SECRETARY,
North Star Club.

Ennismore.

THE PICNIC.—The efficacy of the old axiom, "if at first you don't succeed, try again," was forcibly demonstrated in the success of the annual Ennismore picnic on Tuesday, which had been postponed on account of rain. The weather was all that could be desired, and the attendance was large and enthusiastic. The people drove in from all parts of the township, while quite a number from Peterborough added their presence to the throng. The picnic took place in Ina grove, near the church. Proceedings were begun by the serving of the dinner from 12 to 2 o'clock, which fully sustained the culinary reputation of the Ennismore ladies and gave every satisfaction to the numbers who partook of it. Dancing was kept up unremittingly all afternoon upon the spacious platform erected for the purpose. The young people found great enjoyment in this pastime. An interesting programme of sports was run off, of which we are, however, unable to give the results this week. Among those present at the picnic, besides the parish priest, Rev. D. O'Connell, (who did his best to make the picnic a success) were Rev. Fathers Rudkins, O'Brien and Cote, of Peterborough, and Rev. Father Keilty, of Duro. The picnic was a success in every way.

In the evening the Ennismore minstrel troupe gave their entertainment in the town hall, which drew a large crowd. It reflected great credit on the boys.

Heman Hazen Called Back.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 16.—About ten years ago Heman Hazen, who was then collector of the town of Dickinson, went west, leaving his accounts short about $450, which his bondsmen were compelled to pay. His whereabouts having become recently known, requisition papers were secured from Governor Hill about three weeks ago and George Ketchum started from Malone for Sanborn, Ia., to secure the man and bring him back for trial under the indictment which has ever since been pending against him. He found Hazen working at the carpenters trade on a new depot about 30 miles from Sanborn. The necessary papers were furnished by the governor of Iowa, and last Saturday night Mr. Ketchum arrived in Malone with his prisoner, who will probably be tried at the next term of over and terminer. This is a new version of "Called Back."

An Ex-Torontonian's Ambition.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—James Harris Gilbert, who has just been nominated by the Republicans for Sheriff of Cook County (an office which pays the incumbent over $40,000 per annum in fees), was born in Toronto, Canada, of American parents June 30, 1844. He attended the public schools and subsequently the University of Toronto and was admitted to the bar in 1865. He immediately came to Chicago, when he entered into partnership with Robert C. Givins, which was in November of 1867, and a regular law and real estate business was conducted for many years. From 1876 to 1879 Mr. Gilbert was a member of the Reform Council of Chicago, and in 1878 was acting mayor during the months of August and September under Mayor Heath's administration. For many years Mr. Gilbert has been Clerk of the Criminal Court.

The Penitentiary Electric Lighted

KINGSTON, Sept. 16.—For over two weeks the electric light system at the penitentiary has been in existence, and is giving satisfaction. There are 600 cell lights for male and female convicts. There are thirty night lights in the wings and female prison and fifteen in the yard. The wardens residence and grounds are also illuminated. There are two lights in the piggery and four or five lights in the head farmer's residence.

Murdered with an Umbrella.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16.—Crile Pearson, a young Frenchman, died yesterday at the city hospital, his death being caused by injuries received at the hands of a farmer named Howard, who lives at St. Norbert. Last Thursday night at St. Boniface while a drunken row was in progress Howard forced the point of an umbrella into Pearson's eye, breaking a blood vessel and fracturing the bones, causing almost immediate lockjaw.

Fraserville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

I must inform the readers of the EXAMINER and others that the Frenchman, or tramp, who was killed here on Wednesday is not dead, nor was he laid up either. Any man using the language he did to either man or woman, deserves more than he got. However, I do not think our two neighbors deserve any credit for the abuse they gave him. The boys who ran him out of the village did well. He was a bad one.

The Springville reporter gave us great praise last year on his fly to Port Hope, for fat babies and large potatoes; but I am sorry to say the potatoes are nearly all rotten. Other crops are very good—I don't mean the babies.

The Grange excursion was good, although the day was dull.

The merchant is learning bird stuffing; so look out for your fancy fowl.

A Good Recommendation.

"Are these complexion powders warranted fast colors?" "Well, madame, I cannot say that they will wash like the natural complexion, but they won't rub off on a coat sleeve."—Life. The manufacturers of Diamond Dyes warrant every package of their dyes to be perfectly fast, whether the colors used are for silk, wool or cotton. This guarantee cannot honestly be given by makes of inferior or crude dyes. The ordinary day light is sufficient to obliterate every trace of color in less than a week, from any material dyed with these imitation package dyes.

When Diamond Dyes are used permanency of color is assured; pure and bright colors are obtained, and the material not damaged by any strong acids. With all these great advantages, Diamond Dyes are certainly the cheapest and best.

A NEW TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

TEMPERANCE LEADERS FORM A POLITICAL LEAGUE.

The Maritime Prohibition Party, the Dominion Alliance and Canada's New Party Unite for Campaign Purposes—The Basis of the Union.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—An agreement was reached to-day between the Maritime Prohibition party, the Dominion Alliance and Canada's New Party uniting them in political action. It was signed by Messrs. J. T. Bulmer, R. Daugh, John J. Maclaren, William Ryan, J. H. Carson, R. F. Hatton, W. A. Dunnett, A. M. Fentress, C. E. Legend, J. N. Lavingston. The following is the basis of united action on the part of the whole temperance party of Canada as voiced by their representatives:

1. That it is desirable to unite all prohibitionist voters for the purpose of united political action.

2. That it is desirable in all constituencies where it is possible to put forward a prohibitionist candidate, who has the confidence of all prohibition voters irrespective of party, and who can be counted on actively to promote prohibition in Parliament in entire independence of party allegiance.

3. That failing this as far as possible to unite the prohibition vote in favor of such trustworthy prohibitionists as may be otherwise in the field, as against those who cannot claim the prohibition support, or at least that prohibitionists be urged to withhold their votes from anti-prohibitionists as against prohibitionists.

4. That the prohibitionist voters in every constituency should organize immediately so as to be prepared to take early and independent political action in connection with the coming elections.

5. That in view of the need of more effective means to control provincial legislation it is necessary to meet with a delegate convention to organize as far as possible on common action.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

Resignation of the Portuguese Cabinet—The Anti Treaty Agitation.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A despatch from Lisbon to The News says that the Portuguese cabinet has resigned and Chrystovao Alves has been entrusted with the formation of a new ministry.

The Paris Liberte correspondent says that the excitement over the Anglo-Portuguese treaty continues and there have been several riotous demonstrations. In one instance a mob attacked a police station and resisted all the precautions.

The Lisbon correspondent of The Times says that in view of the agitation in the country it is believed it will be impossible for the Cortes to ratify the convention with England.

The Revival of the Slave Traffic.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 18.—Travelers from the east confirm the report of the seizure of the Arab station of Tabora by the Wahehe natives. The district was governed by the German Commander of the respective stations and was posted at Jaganeyeo and Dar-es-Salaam. The slave dealers expelled from Zanzibar have established themselves at Jaganeyeo and are doing a thriving business. It is reported that the Sultan has telegraphed to Europe for assistance. Lookouts are stationed full of slaves having been established under German license. Permits to recover runaways will only be issued at the shipping of free natives. The news of the proclamation has spread over the whole coast and traffic has received a great increase in exports.

WOOED AND WON IN TEN MINUTES

The Shortest Courtship, Followed By a Marriage, on Record in South Jersey.

MAYS LANDING, N.J., Sept. 17.—Two days ago Amos Lewis of Somers Point, who is a widower about 55 years of age, possessing considerable wealth, and Miss Annie Risley of Atlantic city, a handsome blonde, were strangers. Miss Risley is 25 years of age and is considered by all who know her to be a beautiful woman. She is a head saleswoman in a fashionable millinery establishment in Atlantic City. She arrived at Somers Point at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and attended a dinner party given by Mrs. George Anderson.

At the dinner Mr Lewis and Miss Risley were introduced and soon were engaged in conversation. They were mutually pleased, with each other and the conversation was kept up for several minutes. At last Mr Lewis remarked that he was grateful in need of a good housekeeper, to which Miss Risley jokingly answered:

"How would I answer"

Mr Lewis replied that he would be well pleased but more so if she would become his wife. The lady was startled by this abrupt proposal, but was evidently not displeased. She asked for time to consider the question, and it was granted. Within two minutes she returned and accepted him. This brief courtship all took place within the space of 10 minutes.

Mr. Lewis's ardor pressed his suit that she agreed to have the ceremony performed at once. A single hour only was consumed in travelling. Miss Risley is highly connected. The groom is very wealthy.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury on the Lockport Railway Fatality.

LOCKPORT, N.Y. Sept. 17.—The Coroner's jury, which has had under consideration the railway disaster in this city on the morning of Sept. 8, when two excursion trains collided at the central depot causing the death of Baggageman W. A. Fuller, this morning rendered a verdict charging Conductor Arthur Kopp and James Collins with culpable negligence. They also censure the Central Railroad for employing incompetent and ignorant men, thereby placing in danger the lives of their passengers, and the coroner warrants were issued for the arrest of Kopp and Collins. The probable charge against them will be manslaughter in the second degree.

A NEW CANADIAN BISHOP.

British Columbia Made a Diocese Right Rev Paul Durieu at Its Head.

NEW YORK Sept. 17.—The Rome correspondent of The Catholic News cables that the vicarate apostolic of British Columbia has been made a diocese with the Right Rev. Paul Durieu, O.M.I., as its first bishop. The seat of the See is New Westminster, from which city the diocese takes its name. In June last Right Rev. J. D. D'Herbomez, head of the vicarate apostolic, died. Bishop Durieu, who succeeded him and who is the new diocese's first bishop, was his coadjutor.

A NEW ENGLAND TRAGEDY

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., THE SCENE OF A QUINTUPLE TRAGEDY.

Fred Heine Shoots His Three Daughters and the Alleged Betrayer of His Wife—The Murderer Then Commits Suicide—Harvey's Crime Rivalled.

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., Sept. 17.—A terrible tragedy occurred here to-night and there is great excitement. A mob of several hundred people surrounded the house where the bodies of three dead persons partially attest the extent of the crime.

Fred H. J. Heine, aged 45 years, a cooper in the employ of the Eldridge Brewing Company, has a family of three daughters, the eldest, Carrie, aged 17 years keeping house for him, his wife, who it is said was unfaithful, having left him several months ago. Since she left it is reported the girl Carrie has become wayward. Heine's trouble preyed upon his mind until he resolved to end the matter and remove from temptation the three female members of his household. Two of them and the murderer himself he died in his home, while at the hospital the third daughter lies dying with a bullet in her neck, and at his home Charles W. Taylor, a well known hardware merchant whose name has been connected with that of Mrs. Heine, lies with two bullet holes in his back.

Before the discovery of Heine's dead body officers and citizens were scouring the city in search of him and had he fallen into the hands of the mob he would have been lynched.

The story of the murder is: Charles W. Taylor while entering his residence about 7 o'clock tonight was rushed upon by Heine, who fired two shots, both of which took effect in the small of his back. He is still alive, but will hardly live. Shortly before 8 o'clock people in the vicinity of Heine's house heard five pistol shots fired in rapid succession and Maud, the 15 year old daughter of Heine, ran out of the house and down the street. She proceeded but a short distance when she fell, saying:

"Father has shot me."

The girl was taken to the hospital where she now lies in a critical condition. Three shots were fired at her, all taking effect.

The lower part of Heine's house was the scene of the murderer's most horrible work and it shows evidence of a horrible struggle. The kitchen was covered with blood and everything was in great disorder. Just outside the back door of the house lay two bodies, Carrie, the oldest girl, lay with her face covered with blood, the bullet having entered the left side of the face, passing upward towards the brain. Death resulted instantly. Across her prostrate form lay Bertha, the youngest daughter. When found she was unconscious and expired in 10 minutes the bullet that caused her death having entered her back just behind the left ear. In the front chamber was found the dead body of Heine on the floor. A bullet had passed through his head from the revolver which lay by his side.

MOTHER AND SON GORED.

They Fought Bravely to Save One Another and Both Were Badly Hurt.

FRANKSVILLE, N.Y. Sept. 17.—The 3-year-old son of Henry Gardner, who lives at Crosby Hill, 3 miles southwest of here, on Saturday evening led an ugly bull from his father's stable to water by a stick inserted in the ring in the animal's nose. The bull turned upon the boy and threw him down.

The lad's mother responded to his cries for help. She grabbed an ax and struck the brute twice or three stout blows on the nose, whereupon the bull turned upon the woman and threw her violently to the ground.

By this time the boy had got up and he turned in to rescue his mother. He grabbed the ring in the bull's nose, when he was again set upon and downed. The furious beast jabbed his head and horns into the boy's chest with terrible force.

The mother again tried to assist. She grabbed the bull by the horns and attracted his attention, so that he left his first victim and again plunged at her, and throwing her down jumped over her. The bull again pitched in on the boy, who was caught by the bull's horns and tossed up.

Just then the brute spied a hay cart, which he set upon and battled. This gave the boy and mother a chance to escape, and they did so. The boy received a bad gash in his right arm and was terribly bruised. The bad leg received a bad gash in the upper and lower thigh about four inches long and went down, besides being otherwise injured. The doctors of both boy and mother report them from their bodies. As yet no case of any internal injuries are apparent and the patients are doing well.

REUNITED IN OLD AGE.

A Divorced Pair After Being Remarried and Widowed Twice Marry Again.

NEWPORT, Ark., Sept. 17.—Jackson Thom as married 40 years ago a handsome young woman about 22 years his junior. After a few years they concluded that they were not intended for each other and were divorced. Both found new and presumably more suitable companions. Death robbed each in a short time of the happiness thus found. Each found a third matrimonial venture about the same time several years later and the new relations continued until recently, when again, in a singular coincidence the visitation of death separated them in the world. The bereavement of the one was within a few weeks of that of the other.

Uncle Jack, as he is called, is now 81 years old. The lady who was his first wife is 67. Old targets for Cupid, surely. But the little archer knew that under the dead ashes of a double bereavement in the old man's heart there was still a smoking inflammable, so he aimed an arrow, a fiery arrow so to speak, at the ancient breastworks, and the old flame of 40 years ago burst forth again. It was carried by him back to the woman from whom he separated 40 years ago. The flame caught and spread.

Now the fire on the household altar is burning again, after a brief courtship.

Unlocky Lock 18.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 17.—The head gates at lock 18, which were carried away a short time ago by the barge Stimson, were again carried away to-night. The repair staff are at work, and it is expected the break will be repaired soon.

PROHIBITION IN POLITICS

THE METHODISTS TO PUSH TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION.

General Conference Members Put in a Busy Morning in the Various Committee Rooms—The Oka Question Discussed—Talk About Deaconesses.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—The committees of the Methodist conference met this morning. The Education Committee were busy with the question of division of the funds among the several district conferences for the purpose of aiding poor students for the church. At present three-fourths of the amount collected goes for division among the different colleges and the other fourth is retained by the district conferences for the education of those whose means are not sufficient to carry them through a regular university course. Some of the conferences have had for years past no students desiring to follow a ministerial career, and their fourth of the fund has been accumulating and lying idle, while other conferences had more students than they had funds for. Hence the question of putting the whole of the funds retained by the district conferences into a general fund and spending the money among those conferences most in need of it was raised.

The Civil and Religious Committee had the famous Oka question up for discussion. It is reported that the most vigorous action will be taken by the Methodist Church and its members to compel the Government to protect the rights of the Indians of Oka, who are at variance with the Seminary.

The Itinerancy Committee, it is said, have compromised on the three years' station of ministers, and intend to report recommending that appointments be made for four years.

The Committee on the State of the Work had before them the question of "deaconesses." The debate at one time threatened to become stormy. There seemed to be an opinion that such an order savored of Romanism and high Anglicanism.

The committee on temperance took action, which when carried out, will startle the political parties and force the question of prohibition into the practical politics of the Dominion. On motion of Rev. J. Kines, seconded by Rev. D. L. Brethour, it was unanimously resolved that a powerful deputation wait on the Government and on the Opposition.

The conference met again this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr Carman presiding. The Board of Governors and Senate for the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, for the ensuing quadrennium were appointed.

The committee on motions concurred in the recommendations in the report of the Wesleyan Ladies' College, Hamilton, in re the Board of Governors and recommended that the report be published in the Journal.

Upon motion it was resolved to recommend:—That each conference treasurer shall report in his annual statement the number of notes held by him and their net value. 2. That in case of the maker of a note being transferred to another conference it shall be forwarded to the treasurers of such conference. 3. That it be recommended that probationers of the British Columbia and Manitoba Conference be sent to Wesley College, Winnipeg, those of the Maritime Conferences to Mount Allison University. In the case of probationers in Ontario and Quebec action was deferred as to the form of recommendation concerning their appointment to college. 4. That annual conference treasurers forward their annual financial statements not later than July 1. One-fourth shall be held for a loan fund to students, and to defray expenses of examinations and payment of fees of $20 to each student, which fees shall be a grant and not a loan.

A deputation from the W.C.T.U. waited on the conference and presented an interesting memorial.

In the evening a resolution that the use of tobacco was morally and physically injurious to young people was taken up. It was referred to a special committee.

The committee on tithes reported that the system was an advisable one to adopt, but the report was sent back to the committee to eliminate the preamble, as it was considered more Jewish than Christian in its effect.

STRANGE STORY THIS.

How a Chicagoan Said He Could Influence Two Judicial Officers.

BUFFALO, Sept. 17.—Two of Chicago's best known judges are brought in a strange manner into a peculiar suit that is now before Judge Sawyer in the County Court. The facts brought out in the trial are most interesting.

Charles G. Priest, better known as "Cully" Priest, once lived here with his mother, Mrs. Ann Priest. Two years ago the police here ordered him to leave town. He went to Chicago and was arrested for burglary. A man named Rudbourn was induced to go his bail in the sum of $2,500. The case came to trial before Judge Grinnell and Prosecuting Attorney Longenecker of Chicago was appointed for the people. The second day of the trial Priest failed to appear, and the police could not locate him.

The prisoner gone Rudbourn became anxious for his $2,500. The trial went on and Priest was sentenced to five years in prison. Rudbourn then started out to find the missing man. He learned that Mrs. Priest lived in Buffalo, so the middle her come here, and, according to Mrs. Priest through fraud and misrepresentation he induced her to give him all the ready money she had—$200—and a mortgage on her real estate to the amount of $500. Rudbourn claimed, so Mrs. Priest says, that with the $700 he could use his influence with Judge Grinnell and Judge Longenecker and have her son go free. When Mrs. Priest testified to that in court it created a sensation.

By her testimony it was shown that Rudbourn also used Ogleby's name rather freely. After getting all he could from Mrs. Priest Rudbourn left for the west. A short time after he found Priest in a mining town of Northern Michigan, married and doing well. He was arrested and taken to Chicago, but he had been elected to an important position in the town and the citizens made a big fight for his release. Mrs. Priest was sent for and again, it is said, was induced into signing a mortgage on her home for $500, thinking that the document she was signing was a paper which would release her son.

During this time it had come to the ears of the Chicago police that Rudbourn reporter, that the $500 secured from the prisoner in Michigan was in securing their election, Mark Sullivan was brought to bear and Rudbourn's sentence was changed from five years to one year. Rudbourn sold the mortgage to J. W. Taylor of this city, who attempted to [illegible] but instead inaugurated a suit.

Missions Board of Relief Officers.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—The Masonic Board of Relief of the United States and Canada elected these officers tonight: J. Ross Robertson, Toronto, president; George Moore, St. Louis, Mo., 1st vice president; J. C. Williamson, Washington, 2d vice president; Dr. Pennington, Baltimore, secretary. Thomas Pennington, New York, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of E. B. Hungerford, London; Col. James Fyfe, Montreal; Charles B. Rudolphy, Hoboken, N.Y.; T. J. Newton, Washington, D. C.; Michael, Albany, N.Y.

Eloped with a Red Cross Sister.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Simon Obermayer filed a suit for divorce today. She alleges that her husband eloped to Chicago with Sister Sophia, of the Red Cross Society, and married her. This creates surprise because it was not known that Mr. Obermayer was married previous to his exhibition of gratitude by marrying Sister Sophia, who had nursed him at the Red Cross Hospital.

The Tariff Bill Conference.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The conferees on the tariff bill were in session today an hour but did not make much progress. One of them said after separation that it would not be possible to agree on all questions at issue in the bill by Monday next. This afternoon the Republican conferees were in session two or three hours.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Resignation of Medical Health Officer Canniff—A Successor Advertised For.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—At a special meeting of the local Board of Health yesterday a communication was received from Dr. Canniff, Medical Health Officer, resigning the position on the ground of being unable, through brain disease, to fulfil the duties of the office satisfactorily. The resignation was accepted and it was determined to advertise for a successor. The salary will be $2,500.

William Hart, aged 41, of Tecumseh, came to the city Monday to visit the exhibition, and has been imbibing ever since. Yesterday morning while in a state bordering on delirium tremens he left his boarding house, half-clad, proceeded to the waterworks wharf at the foot of Peter-street and threw himself into the Bay. Several witnesses of the attempted suicide went to Hart's assistance but he declined their aid and was just losing strength when dragged ashore. He was conveyed to No. 3 police station, where he became raving mad, and fearing that he would again attempt self-destruction Inspector Johnston had him removed to the jail.

O'BRIEN IN COURT.

The Prince George Despatches Shown to Have Been Sent by Him.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—R. N. O'Brien, the newspaper correspondent charged with sending the false despatch to American papers stating that Prince George of Wales had engaged in a street brawl and was arrested in consequence, did not appear in court this morning when his case was called. The accused's counsel stated that O'Brien was ill, but in a few minutes Judge Desnoyers received a telephone message from him stating that he was on his way down. After waiting until his patience was exhausted the court issued a bench warrant for O'Brien's arrest, but before it could be executed the accused appeared and the case was set for this afternoon.

Mr. McGibbon testified that he believed he was the "Natsek" referred to, that the report was calculated to do him injury, as the row was said to have occurred in a place frequented by loose and disorderly persons.

Mr. Hall of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company appeared and produced despatches sent by O'Brien to The Boston Journal, Cincinnati Enquirer and Philadelphia Press, but he had no despatch to The New York Morning Journal, the paper complained of in the information. The case was then adjourned until to-morrow.

A fund of $1000 has been subscribed to prosecute O'Brien.

GETTING RID OF THE SURPLUS.

U. S. Treasury Disbursements for 32 Days $65,000,000 in Excess of Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—In reply to the treasury circular of Sept. 15, inviting proposals for the sale of $16,000,000 four per cents, the Treasury to-day received offers aggregating about $25,000,000, of which $16,853,800 were purchased at prices ranging from 125 to 125.4. A number of other offers were made at prices below the highest price paid but they were rejected because they were received after noon. Including the purchase of bonds to-day the disbursements by the treasury in 32 days have exceeded the receipts by $65,000,000.

Trying to Find If It's Cholera.

CARROLLTON, O., Sept. 17.—No more deaths from the epidemic have been reported from the eastern part of this county. The total number of deaths last week was nine, of which seven were reported as typhoid fever, but as the victims were all buried the day of their death by orders of attending physicians, it seems that something more dreaded than the fever caused them.

Dr. J. R. Williams, a graduate of Bellevue Hospital Medical College, who attended the last victim, John Tool, says Tool had all the symptoms of cholera—spasms, cramps in arms and legs, large lumps on his legs, etc.

His body began to stiffen before death. Dr. Williams to-night telegraphed a description of all the symptoms and facts to the State Board of Health at Columbus. The reply will settle all doubts in regard to the nature of the disease.

Tool, the latest victim, was working on his farm Friday. He hastened to the house and informed his wife that he was very sick. He was almost instantly taken with intense spasms and fits of vomiting, which lasted until a few minutes before his death.

To Make the Dumb Speak.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf was incorporated to-day by the Secretary of State. A. Graham Bell is named as president. The association will locate its principal office in this city, and is formed to aid schools for the deaf in their efforts to teach speech and speech reading by providing schools for the training of articulation teachers and by the employment of agents who shall, by the collection and publication of statistics and papers relating to the subject and by conference with teachers and others, disseminate information concerning methods of teaching speech and speech reading, to the end that no deaf child in America shall be allowed to grow up "deaf and dumb" or "mute" without earnest and persistent efforts having been made to teach him to speak and read the lips.

Marie Williams Succumbs to Drink.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Marie Williams, who a few years ago was one of the leading burlesque actresses in England and America, and who, when she first came to this country created a great sensation, was to-day before Police Justice on a charge of chronic alcoholism. Miss Williams had a ticket for New York and promised to sail in the City of Berlin Saturday. She had British engagements which detention here would cancel her license, and she made all kinds of promises for the future. She was sent to the Martha Washington Home.

The World's Fair Site.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The World's Fair commission met to-day, and President Palmer announced his selection of the Executive Committee. This committee will make a director-general and will be the most important in connection with the exposition. Salaries are fixed as follows: President $12,000 a year, secretary $10,000, director-general $25,000. It is believed Georg Davis of Illinois will be made director-general.

A TALK ABOUT MANTLES —AT— TURNBULL'S

Look out for this column during the Fall and Winter. It will keep you posted in dry goods news, and let you know about the bargains we offer from time to time. Our counters and shelves are now fairly groaning under the weight of new goods. Never before did we offer such an attractive stock as to-day. The new Mantle Cloths are just beautiful, the styles are so new both in black and colors. We show Black Astrachan Cloth so fine that it is a perfect imitation of the real thing. Any one thinking of getting an Astrachan or Poiarian Mantle made to order this season should by all means see our stock before purchasing. Samples sent by mail if required.

We felt the want last season of a larger range of Ladies' and Children's ready-made Mantles, and have imported a well selected stock in both long Mantles and short Jackets, in plain and fancy cloths. Every body can be suited as we import direct and mark the goods close.

A beautiful lot of fancy pantings arrived for the Gents' Furnishing Department this week. Try our tailor.

We are selling 8 pair of Men's Merino Half Hose for $1.00. Our Dress Trimmings from London, England, have arrived. As London is the best market in the world for these goods we believe the goods we are offering will be appreciated.

Drop in and see the new shades in Dress Goods, we have the full range of shades in several makes of Cloth.

See our 54 inch Wool Serge at 75 cents a yard.

The Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1890.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE ENTERPRISE.

A few days ago the EXAMINER pointed out a few reasons why the Edison Company by-law should be carried, and owing to the importance of the subject it will not be amiss, in the interests of the town, to revert to the subject. The establishment of the company's establishment in the town must be of great importance when the mere prospect of it has had such an influence. The increase in the value of property is very striking. A short time since a certain lot was offered for $250; the buyer declined to give that. When the by-law to assist the Edison Company was proposed the buyer wished to buy and was willing to give the $250 but the price had gone up to $1,000, and the buyer missed his chance, though he went in the way of offer as high as $500 on property he had refused a few days previous for $250. This is mentioned as showing that business men regard the establishment of the Edison Company here as a very important matter, and of so much public benefit as to very largely increase the value of real estate. Again, a correspondent in yesterday's issue points out that there would be no increase of taxation, actually, but on the contrary an actual gain. But he only showed part of the picture in this respect. For ten years the property to be granted to the company will be exempt from taxation. At the end of that time the whole property of the company will be liable to taxation. That is, land that at present only brings $65 in the way of taxes, will then have taxable buildings on them worth at, least, $50,000. the plant and machinery will be worth as much more, and the thirty acres will certainly be of double assessable value. An easy computation will show that the property of the company, will pay every year in taxes many times the amount of interest and sinking fund on the debentures issued to provide the purchase money. The debentures have a life of thirty years and for twenty years (the first ten being exempt) the company will be paying yearly taxes many times larger than the interest and sinking fund required to wipe out the debentures in the year 1920. Then in addition to the payment of taxes for those twenty years the town would be receiving the benefit of the expenditure of the large sums of money paid every year in wages. The pay roll of the Edison Company will probably equal the combined pay sheets of three of our most important manufacturing establishments—that of the Wm. Hamilton Company, the Lock Works Company and the Auburn Woollen Mills Company. What would be the effect upon Peterborough and its prosperity if these three establishments were removed and our town should be deprived of the expenditure of the $150,000 of wages now annually laid out in the town? A very little reflection will show what a seriously injurious effect their removal would produce. By similar reasoning, a little reflection will show what a loss the town will sustain if the Edison Company does not establish its works here. Under the proposed by-law, to provide funds to purchase a site for the company, the town will, in the end, have to pay not one cent. The additional taxes to be paid by the employees of the company, for the thirty years during which the debentures will run, in addition to the large taxes which will be paid by the company for the twenty years, after the expiry of the exemption, will amount to many times the amount paid for the site, which the by law provides for giving them. Besides, it is probable that the works will be growing in size and extent of operations. We are only fairly entering upon the electric age of the world. The uses to which electricity will be applied will continually increase. Scientific observers say that its use will extend rapidly to all the departments of manufacture. One shrewd railway man says that in a few years all the locomotives on this continent will use electricity as a motive power. So that the Edison works will be an establishment that will grow. And it will be no small thing for Peterborough to be the centre of supply for all the electrical machines that the next thirty years will require in increasing quantities. Our ratepayers are asked to consider the question dispassionately, and consider the importance of the issue to be decided by the vote on the by-law on September 25th.

A Trying Experience.

Perhaps the most trying experience in the career of a maiden who has passed the first blush of romantic girlhood, is when she braces herself to meet the shock of a proposal of marriage from some man, and the shock doesn't come. We readily admit the truth of this statement; but here, let us say that our experience relating to the matters in which the weaker sex is concerned, leads us to believe that there is a shock much more difficult to withstand by the average maiden, wife or mother. It is when a dyeing operation is begun, and the operator discovers that she has been using some of the many worthless package dyes which some storekeepers sell.

Then it is that her wrath is difficult to appease, and at this time neither the persuasive powers of angels or men cannot induce her to try such dyes again.

Ladies, all this trouble, disquietude and shaking up of of the nerves is avoided by using the popular "Diamond Dyes." No matter what the material is, you are sure of success, if you only follow the simple directions on each package. This success consists of comfort, dispatch and an easy mind, as well as work well done.

Percival's Patent Plough.

The New Self tilting Colter, and Other Exhibits

The Ottawa Evening Journal says:—Messrs. R. C. Percival & Co., plough and stove manufacturers of Merrickville, have one of the finest exhibits of ploughs at the exhibition. They secured first prize in the competition for exhibit ploughs, and first prize for general purpose plough with self-tilting colter. Had the plough exhibits been properly classified Mr. Percival says his firm would have three first prizes. The directors however allowed a prize for only one class of ploughs in which Percival & Co. took first. The firm had however three classes of ploughs on exhibition. The new tilting colter, which is the Percival company's patent, is a new and most useful invention. The object of it is to prevent roots and stones from catching on the colter, thus doing away with the necessity of the ploughman leaving the handles of his plough. Farmers visiting the exhibition should not miss this exhibit which is one of the best ever made in Canada.

This is the plough for which Mr. Albert Cook, corner Water and Simcoe streets, has the agency in this county. Mr Cook to day received word that the Peroival plough, No. 7, was awarded first prize at the Midland Fair in Kingston on Wednesday, 3 d inst. 2w37

RACING BULLOCKS IN INDIA.

They Are Speedy, but Can't be Taught to Run in Straight Lines.

In India the favorite animals, both for speed and for indurance, are the native bullocks. The animals are small, wiry, muscular, and swift. They are trained to race and run well, not only under the saddle, but in harness. The Indians are fond of racing their beasts, and the sport is encouraged by the English part of the population.

The animal is guided by a cord through the nose, but the driver places more reliance on whip and voice than on the cord. The Indians are natural gamblers, and will bet their last rupee on the result of a race, taking so much interest in it that a penniless native has been known to wager his liberty and that of his family for an entire year, and sell himself into voluntary slavery as the result of losing a bet. The races are frequently attended by serious accidents, from the fact that, although the bullocks may be trained to great swiftness, it seems almost impossible to teach them to run in a straight line. They will bunch together, and thus frequently smash one or more of the vehicles.

Exciting as are the bullock races when the beasts are harnessed and driven by native drivers, they are far more so when the bullocks are ridden by European soldiers or sailors. The chief danger in a race of this description lies in the falls which are the almost inevitable result of an attempt to ride these awkward animals.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Proverbs of the Sea.

The sea refuses no river.
The ocean is made of small drops.
It is a great way to the bottom of the sea.
It is but a stone's throw to the bottom of the sea.
He that would sail without danger must never come on the main sea.
He sets his sail to every wind.
Hoist your sail when the wind is fair.
Being at sea, sail; being on land, settle.
He who goes to sea must sail or sink.
It is easy to sail with the wind and tide.
A big ship needs deep water.
A mariner must have his eyes on the rocks and sand as well as the North Star.
He that will not sail till all dangers are over will never put to sea.
He that will not sail till he have fair wind will lose many a voyage.
Many grains of sand will sink a ship.
Better lose an anchor than a ship.
With broken rudder the vessel is soon lost.
He who can steer need not row.
The first in the boat can choose his oar.
He goes the best without oars.
To have an oar in every man's barge.
Good sailing at last makes us men have told.
For if one fail the other will hold.
Do not trust all in the same boat.
Too many sailors will sink a ship.
Ships fear fire more than water.
To cast water in the sea.
He cannot find water in the sea.
He seeks water in the sea.
Helping the unworthy is throwing water in the sea.
As true as the sea burns.
As welcome as water in a leaky ship.
The water that supports the ship is the same that sinks it.
Large fish live in deep waters.
By the small boat one reaches the ship.
Who embarks with the devil must sail with him.
The soul is the ship, the mind is the rudder, the thoughts are the oars and truth is the port.
Women are ships, and must be manned.
A ship and a woman always want trimming.
A ship and a woman are always repairing.
Give a woman luck and cast her into the sea.
Who won't be ruled by rudder must be ruled by rock.—American Notes and Queries.

HAMILTON'S PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Earl of Aberdeen Formally Opens the Institution.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—The Hamilton Public Library, in which is located also the Hamilton Art School and the Hamilton Association, was opened to-day with appropriate ceremony. Among the visitors present were Hon. G. W. Ross, Sir Daniel Wilson, Dr. May, James Bain, librarian of the Toronto Library, A. R. Boswell, E. F. Pearson and John Hallam of Toronto, and James Innis, M.P., of the Guelph Library Board. The Earl and Countess of Aberdeen were present, and Lord Aberdeen in a very neat and appropriate speech announced the library open. Addresses were also delivered by Sir Daniel Wilson, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Mayor MacMahan and others.

ONLY ONE SUPERINTENDENT.

The General Conference Decide Not to Appoint a Successor to Dr. Williams.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—The Methodist General Conference did not assemble to-day till 8 p. The only business transacted was to decide in favor of appointing only one superintendent instead of two. Formerly there were two, but the death of Dr. Williams left a vacancy which it has been decided not to fill. To-night a fraternal meeting was held and speeches delivered, the principal one being by Rev. Dr. McMullen, representing British and Irish Wesleyan churches.

THE LOVER'S RETURN.

He Missed the Sweet Face at the Window and Was Ready to Die.

"I—I—that is, you will excuse me," he stammered as he entered a store on upper Broadway yesterday and was accorded an interview with the proprietor.

"What did you wish, sir?" was the cold but polite rejoinder.

"Well, you may think me foolish, but I must run the risk. About a year ago you had a girl over there behind the railing—a typewriter and private secretary, I presume."

"Yes, sir."

"She was a handsome girl—very handsome and her speech and demeanor showed good blood."

"Yes."

"Well, I—I fell in love with her."

"Did you? Well?"

"She was very coy and shy, but after a time I thought I could detect signs that my feelings were reciprocated."

"Ah! indeed! Look at you in a tender way."

"I thought so. For weeks I made it a practice to pass your store at 2 o'clock daily, so as to get sight of her. She got so she looked for me at that hour."

"Indeed!"

"That is, I thought she did. I thought her eyes lighted up as she caught sight of me. I suppose the proper way would have been to come in and ask you to introduce me, but—but one hesitates over those things, you know."

"Yes, I know."

"About a year ago I was suddenly called to Chicago. While there I met with a bad accident, and only yesterday returned to New York. I wanted to write her, but under the circumstances I could not."

"I follow."

"But I thought of her daily, aye! a hundred times a day."

"That was correct."

"And now that I have returned I called to catch sight of her dear sweet face once more but I don't see it. Is she with you yet?"

"Oh, yes."

"Is she ill?"

"Oh, no."

"Absent temporarily?"

"Yes; over at the house."

"Your house?"

"Yes. Perhaps you'd like to walk over? I married her about a year ago, and this is the hour when the baby is asleep, and she is at liberty."

The next bell. With a groan of anguish on his pale lips the returned lover walked on of the store in a blind, staggering way reeled down the street as if drunk, and uttered no word until he reached the drug store on the corner. Then he made a great effort, pulled himself together, entered, sat down on a stool before the soda fountain, and hoarsely whispered:

"Give me lemon and vanilla with plenty of froth on it, for I calculate she'll earn enough to support us both!"—New York Sun.

The Last Straw

They were standing by the window looking out at the golden sunset. His arm was around her slender waist and her head rested confidingly on his manly shoulder. Life looked rosy to the youthful pair, and not a visible cloud obscured the bright firmament of their hopes.

"Perseus," she murmured, "it seems almost impossible that we never met until three weeks ago."

"It does, indeed, Andromeda," replied the youth. "We have had hardly time to become acquainted with each other's peculiarities and prejudices. Yet it seems as if we must have known one another always."

"And that reminds me, Perseus," rejoined the lovely New England girl, thoughtfully adjusting her spectacles, "that I have never heard you express your opinion of theosophy."

"My opinion of theosophy, love," the young man said, breaking it to her as gently as he could, "is that the system as thus far developed hardly meets the requirements of an exact science."

It was a severe shock, but the maiden did not flinch. She only heaved a little harder on the young man's shoulder.

"You find much to admire in Emerson and Thoreau, do you not?" she ask hopefully.

"I cannot say I do. The one seems too transcendental, the other almost atheistic."

"Surely, Perseus, you like Ibsen?"

"Ibsen, my darling, makes me ill—he wearies me."

"Does not the Delsartean idea appeal to you favorably?"

"Hum! This Delsartean business, dearest I regard as a harmless kind of thing, suitable for 12-year-old school girls who have no roller skating facilities."

"Well, Perseus," she said, with a happy sigh, "what difference does it make after all if we love each other? These little differences of opinion shall not separate us."

"No, Andromeda, they shall not. We will not speak of them. They are trifles. Look at the roses in this beautiful vase."—

A very of horror broke from the lips of Andromeda. She sprang from his embrace.

"What is the matter, dearest?" exclaimed the young man, with the utmost concern.

"Don't touch me!" she panted, sinking on a sofa. "Don't come near me!"

"What have I—"

"Mr. Grigson," she said, recovering herself by a powerful effort and standing erect, "I can overlook your lack of appreciation of the great names in our literature. I can forgive your want of sympathy with the great movements in the world of thought that possess my soul and move all my powers to action. But"—and the proud Boston girl pointed sternly to the door—"I can never look with anything but utter abhorrence on a man who does not know how to pronounce the word 'vase.' Go!"

APHORISMS.

We may mend our faults as easily as cover them.—Dekeyn.

An industrious and virtuous education of children is a better inheritance for them than a great estate.—Addison.

Cunning leads to knavery, it is but a step from one to the other, and that very slippery lying only makes the difference, add that to cunning and it is knavery.—La Bruyere.

True glory consists in doing what deserves to be written, in writing what deserves to be read, and in so living as to make the world happier and better for our living in it.—Pliny.

True courage never exerts itself so much as when it is most pressed, and it is then we most enjoy the feast of a good conscience when we stand in the greatest need of it.—Philip du Plessis' Letter.

Nothing so cements and holds together in union all the parts of a society, as faith of credit which can never be kept up unless men are under some force or necessity of honestly paying what they owe to one another.—Cicero.

The detractor may, and often does, pull down others, but he never, as he seems to suppose, elevates himself to that position. The most he can do is maliciously to tear from them the blessings which he cannot enjoy himself.—Johnson.

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. WM. T. GLYNN, Wilfrid, Ont. 2w37d

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

ROOF PAINTING

Hear What We Have to Say.

TO ALL THE LAND LEAGUERS OF PETERBOROUGH.

Do not be humbugged any more with ROVING ROOF PAINTERS but try the BEST PAINTS in the world—those made and used by DESAUTELL & McCLELLAN, practical and experienced roof painters. They are not ashamed of their work, which will look nicer and wear longer than any other; they allow any engineers to inspect their work. Also, TAR and FELT ROOFING. This firm are the only real roof painters in Canada that may be thoroughly relied upon. All their work guaranteed first class.

As we reside in the town and spend our money here we can confidently solicit a share of public patronage.

Orders sent to Peterborough Post Office will receive prompt attention.

As the Gun Season

will be soon on hand, I wish to inform the public that I have imported from England and Belgium a fine lot of double barreled breech loading guns, from $10 to $60. Also a lot of single barrel breech loaders equally cheap, all of the best makers, such as James W. Richards, R. Richards, Clarborough, Bonshill and Greener.

I am selling single and double muzzle loaders at cost. Rifles of different makers on hand at the lowest figures.

In the Revolver line, I have nearly 50 different makers, all of the best quality.

I continue to do all kinds of new work and repairing in the best style of workmanship, also altering old gun locks into rebounders, and shot boring barrels. All these works are done in the best possible manner and warranted.

Gun Stocking also done in style to suit customers.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	5,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.84
Citizens	2,067,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20 12
London Life	1,644,285	20 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

This is the highest position ever conferred on a Canadian Oddfellow, and Dr. Campbell as well as members of the Order in general will be proud of the honor conferred upon Ontario's representative.

Delayed by Dead Engine.

Conductor Stanton brought a "dead" train to town this forenoon. Upon arriving from Belleville he was despatched to Lakefield instead of Chemong, which latter route was supplied by the stage. Conductor Morris' train, due from Lakefield at 8:15, was lying disabled at the northern terminus. Just as the train started out at the usual hour this morning one of the tubes of the engine broke and rendered further progress impossible. Conductor Stanton went up at half past eight and brought the train to town. Conductor Morris' Belleville train was supplied with another Conductor and ran as usual.

Joe Hess in Town.

Mr. Joe Hess, rotund and jolly as ever, is in town to-day, the guest of Dr. Stephenson, V.S. Mr. Hess is accompanied by his son Henry, a young man who is engaged in active temperance work with his father. They go to Bobcaygeon to-morrow morning to undertake a three days' series of meetings. Henry Hess is quite a singer, and conducts the musical portion of the services. Mr. Hess and his son will be in Peterborough the last three days of November. They will probably be at the "Y" reception to-night.

Monday's Field Sports.

The annual fall sports of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association take place next Monday, and they promise to even excel previous occasions in interest and enjoyment. Entries are now being taken, and for every event there are already a number of good starters registered. The bicycle races will be especially interesting. Fifty Toronto wheelmen are looked for on that day. They will make a lively appearance and run some good races if they come. The best amateur athletes in the town and county are making preparations to take part in the sports.

A Coming Treat.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church is an enterprising and active body of Christian workers. The ladies have, with commendable energy, procured the services of Principal Grant, of Queen's University, for Tuesday evening, 30th September. Principal Grant is one of the foremost minds in literary circles, and is known all over Canada for his rare talents. He recently performed a voyage around the world, and his lecture on the subject will be intensely interesting and instructive. He will, no doubt, be greeted by a large audience in St. Paul's Church.

A Sea Serpent Seen.

Joseph Covert, a farmer, who lives near the head of Big Island, Bay of Quinte, the Intelligencer says, brought to town the intelligence that a marine monster, supposed to be a sea serpent, had, last week, been observed in that locality. The creature, which has been seen by four persons separately, is described as being as large as a saw log, with a head as big as a tea kettle, and it travels with great speed. A girl who was driving her father's cows on a road near the water, saw the monster within forty feet of her. It was swimming very rapidly, and made a rushing noise in the water, above which it elevated its head. Another said it seemed to be very bulky for about eight or ten feet of its length, which he saw, thence it apparently tapered, but what its total length was he could not say. Mr. Covert is firmly impressed with the truth of the statements made to him, and sought to get some ammunition for a Snider rifle, with which he will take a shot at the animal if he is lucky enough to see it.

Drawing to a Close.

The counsel of the Edison Company arrived in town from New York to-day and has been in consultation with the Manufacturers' Committee of the town council for the purpose of closing up the negotiations for the establishment of the company's works here. The counsel had in his pocket the contract, signed by the Edison Company, which he is authorized to deliver to the town as soon as a few verbal preliminaries are settled. There is not the slightest dispute or disagreement between the company and the committee. Everything is being arranged without a hitch, and the counsel of the Edison Company simply wishes details so disposed that there can be no possibility of difficulty afterwards. He states that the company will begin operations as soon as the by law is passed by the town. He has seen the plans of the proposed buildings and the architect's certificate, which provides for buildings that will cost $60,000. The counsel will probably return to-night or to-morrow.

Campbellford's Burglars.

The Campbellford Herald says:—Two young men named "Larry" McCormick and Edward Frederick are off forming the acquaintance of Mr. Culver at the county jail in Cobourg. They were accommodated with a free ride thither in company with constable Bell on Monday morning last, for being too familiar with the "restaurant" at the station. A couple of weeks ago Mr. Bute, the owner, discovered that some one had entered the premises during the night, and a watch was kept with the hope of meeting with the parties. Early on Friday night while he and two or three others were keeping guard in the station and outside, they were rewarded by the return of the two young men, one of whom gained access within the building by going through over the door. Upon finding themselves detected, they endeavored to escape but were soon captured and taken to the lock-up. On Saturday they were brought before Magistrate Gillespie on a charge of breaking into the "restaurant" with intent to steal, and pleaded guilty. They will remain in jail until the fall Assizes which opens at Cobourg on the 20th of October. McCormick came here from Hastings, last fall, and Frederick has lived here for many years. Both are fond of a glass, and it is believed they broke into the "restaurant" with the intention of carrying off a stock of cigars and liquor.

Provincial Ploughing Match.

An Interesting Event to Farmers—Twelve Counties Open to the Competition.

It will be interesting information to the farmers of this district to learn that the Provincial ploughing match is to be held in Peterborough county this fall, probably some day next month. This is an important agricultural event in which every farmer should take a lively interest.

Through the exertions of Mr. Robt. Nance, a member of the Council of the Agriculture and Arts Association, as well as by the efforts of several leading agriculturists of the county, the Provincial match has been secured for Peterborough. Three provincial districts, comprising twelve counties, are open to the competition. The date and place have not yet been selected but will be made known in due time. Enterprising friends and followers of agriculture have guaranteed the necessary amount of money to secure the great match. Peterborough county possesses as good ploughman as are to be found in Ontario, and it is to be hoped they will not be backward in entering the contest and doing their level best to carry off most of the prizes.

More information concerning the match will be published from time to time as the promoters of the affair succeed in completing arrangements.

O Give Thanks Unto the Lord

For He is Gracious, Because His Mercy Endureth Forever — Thanksgiving Service at St. John's Church.

The congregation of St. John's church last night rendered public thanksgiving to the Creator of all good things for the blessings of a bountiful harvest and abundant prosperity. The interior was beautifully ornamented with choice floral, vegetable and cereal products, artistically arranged and conspicuously displayed upon every vantage point. The decorations of the church were exceedingly effective and appropriate. Every department of soil culture was very fully represented—the field, the garden, the orchard, and the pasture. The entrance arch was decked with wreaths, intertwisted of foliage and grains. The capitals of the pillars were twined with the vines of the humble humulus, and the effect of the drooping tendrils was exceedingly graceful. The sills of the windows were carpeted with green moss and leaves, and on this, all around the church, were disposed abundant fruits of all kinds. The litany desk bore, upon a groundwork of green moss, a beautiful floral cross. The pulpit was richly decorated, the chief materials being graceful and delicate scathings of the Canadian clematis, with the scarlet of barberries and mountain ash glowing amongst the feathery depths of its silver plumes. The lectern was magnificently adorned, the pedestal being a mass of cut flowers splendidly arranged. The reading desk was festooned with clematis intermingled with grapes. The entrance to the chancel was and the chancel wainscoting and choir stalls were beautified with festoons of scarlet berries, grain and evergreen. The altar bore four large vases of cut flowers and miniature sheaves of wheat grapes and ferns. In the four angles of the body of the church were splendid trophies of fruit and flowers and the font was magnificent with a graceful garniture—foliage, flowers and fruits. The decorations throughout were really magnificent and reflect great credit upon the artistic taste of the designer, and the fair executants of his design. The large amount of fruit and vegetables contributed by members of the congregation will be devoted to the use of the poor. The decorations, such as will keep, will remain in position over Sunday. The effect, beautiful as it was at night, is much better in daylight.

FLANKED BY TROPHIES OF FRUIT,

These fruits of the ground were "placed before the Lord," and the large congregation assembled did honor to His name in grateful remembrance for the manifold blessings which He has showered upon them.

The service was sung by Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. C. B. Keerick, Mr. Loucks being the reader and Rev Canon Davidson of Colborne, delivering the address. A special printed form of thanksgiving as set forth by the Lord Bishop of the diocese was used by the congregation. The service was fully choral, Tallis' Festal Responses being used. The Psalms were chanted to a Gregorian tone, and the Magnificat and Nunc Dimmittis Tours in F. Special Harvest Hymns were also used. The service was one of unusual solemnity and interest.

Rev. Canon Davidson, before beginning his address proper, said he wished to express the pleasure he felt at being present, and to see the pains taken to and to see all the people assembled to thank God for another year's prosperity. We should, he said, look forward to this service more and more as an opportunity of raising our hearts in thanksgiving. Referring to the cultivation of the field, the reverend speaker said it was observed day by day a growing disinclination to agricultural pursuits; services such as these tended to set forth the nobility of labor, and of the husbandman in particular. The people of this church had, he said, done well in thus beautifying the structure. It was the speaker's pleasure during the last year to attend a number of similar services in the old country, and he could say, without speaking anything more than was due, that he never witnessed a better thanksgiving preparation. He hoped when another year was past the congregation would again see the advantage of holding a similar service.

Rev. Canon Davidson took for his text Jer., v. 24:—"He reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of harvest." In seeing the multifarious fruits of the field, he said, man was apt to consider too much his own share in the product, and indulge in a little self-gratification which was subversive to all true worship. We should realise that, though man may plant and sow seed, yet it was God gave the increase. The reverend speaker went on to point out God's systematic goodness to man, which was sometimes attributed to Providence. Let no one, he said, say that these offerings placed before the Lord are mere form; rather let us so attune our hearts so that we can truly say it proceeds from to the Lord God. The speaker compared this harvest to another spiritual harvest in which the angels would be the reapers. The grain was ripening and the weeds were growing. Which were we in the spiritual harvest? Now was the time for pruning and weeding, and seeking the showers of His grace, the softening influence of His spirit. As the harvests of this world are being reaped and gathered, the speaker concluded, according to God's appointment, so may we go on increasing in His holy strength and growing in His wondrous power until the final harvest, so that when the harvest of the world is ripe and the reapers are ready with their sickles, we may be among those who lift up their heads with joy, knowing that their salvation is drawing near.

While the offertory (which was to be applied to the reduction of the church debt), was being taken up the choir rendered an anthem appropriate to the occasion. The anthem was entitled "The Lord is great in Zion," composed by Mr. Best, of St. George's Hall, Liverpool.

Dr. Davies presided at the organ and under his direction the music was gratifying success.

An Adept at All Sports.

Mrs. Buermeyer's Remarkable All-round Athletic Attainments.

Mrs. H. E. Buermeyer, wife of the ex-champion amateur heavy-weight boxer, would have little difficulty in winning the women's all-round athletic championship of the country, if such an event could be held, to embrace all outdoor sports. Everybody knows Herculean Harry Buermeyer and has heard of his enormous strength, but few know that his comely better half is as superior in strength to the average woman as he is to the ordinary man. Mr. Buermeyer is over six feet tall, and his colossal frame is an indication of the power he possesses. But Mrs. B., with her five feet of trim womanhood, would not suggest to the ordinary observer any unusual strength, although her colour and compact form—she scales 135 pounds—would indicate robust health and outdoor exercise.

But if there is any woman in the country that can equal her in strength, endurance and all-around athletic ability she is yet to be heard from. As President of the ladies' division of the Fresh Air Club, Mrs. Buermeyer often accompanies the members of the club on their pedestrian tours, and peacemaker William B Curtis has no occasion to modify his speed when she is with them, for she can turn off thirty miles over the rough roads at a 3½ mile-an hour gait with as little discomfort as the average city woman climbing three flights of stairs. She can, and has done so when occasion arose, increase the pace to four miles an hour for several hours, performances that would break up ninety out of every 100 men, who grow fatigued if, perchance, they walk to and from their offices.

At mountain climbing Mrs. Buermeyer is as spry as an Alpine fraulein. She has overcome the Storm King, Hunter Slide, and other mountains, having but lately returned from a three days' pedestrian tour through the Catskills. She is a long distance skater and, on her "Safety" bicycle, a day's journey on rough roads, up and down hill, is but of small moment to her. When she rides or drives, the horse knows his master is holding the reins.

It is perhaps on the water, at rowing and swimming that Mrs. Buermeyer excels. In the summer she lives at Bensonhurst L.I., and her time is largely spent on Gravesend Bay. She handles a pair of sculls with such skill, power and masculine action that but for her dress she would be taken for one of the sterner sex when in a boat. Two sailors were sitting on a dock adjacent to the Fresh Air Club's headquarters one morning, when Mrs. Buermeyer, enveloped in a rubber coat, came pulling in from the bay. The tars watched her stroke critically, and when the boat got abreast of the dock one of the men jumped to his feet and cried:

"By the Lord, Jack, it's a woman!"

"I thought it was," returned the other. "No one but a Cape Cod woman could ever row like that, for I have been to the Cape two often to be mistaken," and he actually offered to wager that Mrs. Buermeyer was from that section. Mr. Buermeyer overheard the conversation, and often teases his wife, but she says she's proud to have been mistaken for one of the hardy fishermomen.

"Better Than Best."

What can we say of Her? What can we do for Her?
Woman the Conqueror! Woman the King!
Why should we kneel in submission and sue for her?

'Tis of her victory manhood must sing!
Equal to man? She has risen superior!
Daughter of Pallas Athene confessed!
Lifted to triumph who once was inferior.
Better than Best!

Was she not best in the world when we cried to her?
Woman, the Mother! who gave us our life!
Helpless, and hopeless, and feeble we sighed to her.
Helped by maternity out of the strife!
Who can repay the fierce pangs she endured for us?
Giving herself from her bountiful breast
Manhood and muscle, 'twas Woman secured for us
Better than Best!

Has she not given us Love for our covering?
Love for our shelter, and Love for our fare!
Love for our comfort in suffering, love that is hovering,
Soothing our sorrows at home or afar!
What would this world be without her who loveth us?
After our wandering, woman's the Nest.
Ah! the reward she can give when she proves it us
Better than Best!

Calm in her confidence! Proud of her Purity!
How she has soared on her wings to the blest!
Rest in for her help and her heart for security.
What is there left for a Woman to do?
Classic and Wrangler! deep science and art
with her.
Proudly she stands and submits to the test.
Man can but love her the more, and not part
with her.
Better than Best!

A Boston Bank Failure.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—S. Gardiner, Chase & Co., bankers and brokers at 146 Devonshire-street, have failed and an assignment for the benefit of the firm's creditors has been made to James Phaps, general agent of the National Life Insurance Co., 159 Devonshire-street. The firm was one of the most prominent in that line of business in Boston and the failure is a surprise. No exact figures of the liabilities can as yet be given, but the assignee states that they will amount to $2,000,000. The Herald is informed that a prominent broker said that the failure would not probably involve any other firms.

Fought Over Mrs. Spies' Pension.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Louis Ziller, a cigar maker, and well known in labor circles, was brutally assaulted and kicked in the head late last night by two men, one of whom Ziller identified as Adolph Spies, brother of August, who was hanged in 1887. Ziller's left eye was almost kicked out by Spies and his nose all but broken, while his forehead was cut in several places. The assault was the result of a dispute the two had had as to the pension now being paid to Mrs. Spies by the anarchists. The police are looking for Spies.

THE CURTAIN RUNG UP

ON THE DRAMA IN WOODSTOCK'S TEMPLE OF THESPIS.

The Stage Set for a Great Court Scene—Rex Birchall's Trial for the Killing of Benwell to Begin Monday—Judge MacMahon's Address to the Grand Jury.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 18.—The little Town Hall in this genteel community also serves the purpose of an opera house, but never in its history has a play been placed on the boards at all approaching in subtlety or plot, dramatic situations or nicety of detail the drama in real life which will be enacted in the trial of Rex Birchall, the alleged murderer of F. C. Benwell of Cheltenham, Eng. Pending the completion of the new county buildings the hall is utilized as a court house, and it was here that the Oxford Fall Assizes opened at 1½ o'clock this afternoon.

Notwithstanding the presence of Court Crier M'Kay and the staff-encumbered constables, it is hard to dissociate the idea of a theatre from the place. The scenery has been relegated to the wings and the stage for the nonce converted into the judge's "bench." Good-natured Justice MacMahon has been provided with the loan of the Mayor's chair, brought up from the council chamber for the purpose, while a four legged table does duty as the "bench" proper. The drop curtain hangs suspended over his head like the sword of Damocles. In front of the stage on a raised dais Sheriff Perry, in cocked hat and sword, alternately smiles benignly or draws comfortably alongside Clerk Canfield. Immediately in front of these are the lawyers engaged in the several cases.

In a prominent place sits Charles Benwell, brother of the murdered man, who has come all the way from Cheltenham to see that justice is done, his dark, stern face never once changing except for a second or two when the judge is addressing the grand jury.

Ample accommodation is provided in the way of desks to the east and west of the dock and on the stage for the reporters of the provincial press, few of whom have yet arrived, but the seating capacity of the hall, less than 400 including the gallery, is taxed to the utmost limit.

The court room is not untidy by any means, on the contrary, it has been made as clean and comfortable as possible. The "dressing rooms" have been converted into counsels' and judge's rooms. The only thing suggesting the court room as the clock, a high pane recentacle that has done duty for several decades in the old court house. The "jury room" is located down stairs in the council chamber.

The fact that the case would not likely be called until Monday prevented a larger attendance in court to-day, less than 100 persons outside the jurors and those engaged in the case being present. The admittance-by-ticket regulation will not come into force until the opening of the Birchall trial, which will begin on Monday and will be completed by the end of the week, as Judge MacMahon has to be in Walkerton on Sept. 29. B. B. Osler, counsel for the defence, and Country Attorney Ball were present, but Mr. Blackstock has not yet arrived.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE

The grand jury selected Mr. J. H. Farrington, dentist, of Norwich, as foreman. In charging that body Judge MacMahon said:

"One of the charges on the docket is that of murder. The person said to have been murdered is a young man by the name of Benwell, who came here from England, it is said, for the purpose of engaging in agricultural pursuits, and the person accused of the crime is the one under whose auspices Benwell is said to have come to Canada. The facts have been pretty well circulated through the country, but with the facts as they have appeared in the newspapers or with anything that you have read or heard appertaining to this particular charge you have nothing to do. What you have to do is to have regard only to the evidence that comes before you.

His Lordship here defined murder as an unlawful homicide with malice aforethought. In this case, where it is said that the deceased was killed by having two pistol shots fired at him which entered his brain and death resulted from the pistol shots so fired, there will be no difficulty in reaching a conclusion by the jury that the person who fired the shots, if it can be said who the person is, was guilty of murder, so that your minds need not be exercised by the question as to whether it was murder or manslaughter in the person who did the act. As a general rule all homicides are presumed to be malicious and amounting to murder, until the contrary appears from circumstances, and excuse or justification must be made by the accused.

His Lordship emphasized the necessity of secrecy with regard to the deliberations of the grand jury and cited a case in Elgin where a petit juror who had approached a grand juror was severely punished. Should it be made apparent to him that any man had approached either a petit or grand juror he would deal out for no flagrant an offence the punishment deserved. If there was one thing which should be kept pure it is the fountain of justice, and there is no way of bringing it into contempt more than to allow any man to approach a juror in regard to the sacred duties he is sworn to perform.

The question of the abolition of the grand jury system—which he did not favor, the explanation of the ingredients of the crimes of rape and poisoning cattle, which are also on the docket, and the changes in the laws making incest a crime and allowing evidence on infants to be heard in cases of assault, occupied the balance of the charge, which took an hour in its delivery.

The grand jury returned true bills against Alfred Wright and George Sanderson to rape.

A large quantity of additional testimony has been secured and the crown will be able to prove by a person who accompanies "Lord Somerset" to the "swamp of death" that Birchall was familiar with the locality. A witness has also been secured who hears shots fired in the clump of bushes about the time the murder is supposed to have been committed, and a witness brought from Nevada will divulge startling facts.

TRIAL TRIFLES.

The Birchall case will be given to the grand jury to-morrow.

It is reported that a Selkirk farmer has already written offering to officiate as executioner in the event of Birchall's conviction for $50 and "find" the rope.

Government Officer Young of Niagara Falls arrived to-night with the witnesses from that section.

Accommodation has been secured for the Birchall jury at the O'Neill House.

Birchall has grown considerably stouter since his incarceration.

The prisoner's love for display is still uppermost in his mind, and he has ordered a stylish suit of clothes in which to appear in court.

Birchall talks cheerfully of his approaching trial and expresses pleasure that it will soon be over.

It is worthy of note that every one of the grand jurymen summoned put in an appearance and one had to be excused. Judge MacMahon commented on the remarkable fact.

Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright has arrived, but Detective Murray is absent summoning witnesses.

Miss Alice Smith, the crown witness whose alleged disappearance furnished a sensation a few days ago, is here in charge of a constable.

There were no ladies in attendance at the court to-day. Neither Mrs. Birchall nor Mrs. West-Jones put in an appearance, nor were any of the female witnesses present.

O'BRIEN STRIKES BACK.

To Sue a Montreal Paper for Heavy Damages. The Trial Goes Over Again.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—The case of R. N. O'Brien, charged with circulating an untrue story about Prince George being arrested here in a questionable quarter of the city, was continued to-day before Judge Desnoyers. The only evidence heard was that of Mr. Hall of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, who was cross examined and failed to prove that the despatches in question were those of Mr. O'Brien, as witness did not see them written, though he had no doubt that they were sent by the accused. Mr. O'Brien has retained the services of seven leading lawyers in Montreal, Messrs. Greenshields, Mackie, Poirier, St Pierre and the Messrs. Doherty. High Constable Bissonnette to-day affirmed definitely that Mr O'Brien was not arrested Monday as stated in several papers and to-morrow O'Brien's solicitors will enter an action against The Gazette for $20,000 for making this and other assertions. Mr. O'Brien also states that he intends having Mr. McGibbon arrested for perjury in deposing that he sent the despatches to The New York Morning Journal.

The Prince is said to have regarded the whole affair as a joke, though the Queen has sent a despatch to Lord Stanley enquiring about its truth.

It is believed the proceedings will fall through.

BANKS AND LOTTERIES.

A Bill to Put a Stop to Their Business Connection in the States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. Mr. Hopkins of Illinois introduced in the House to-day a bill prescribing the penalty of the forfeiture of its charter for any national bank to do business for a lottery company. Mr. Hopkin was one of the most active of those instrumental in closing the mails to the lottery companies, and has prepared this latest measure as supplemental to the bill already enacted into law.

The bill passed yesterday will be sent to the President and signed at once. The post office authorities are confident that under its provisions the lottery business can, in the largest measure if not entirely, be suppressed.

THEY WANT TO TRADE WITH US.

Massachusetts Democrats Declare for Reciprocity with Canada.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept 18. The Democratic state convention to-day nominated William E. Russell of Cambridge for governor. The platform opens with more emphasis, in view of the approaching passage of the Republican Tariff Bill, former declarations in favor of free raw materials—particularly wool coal and iron ore; demands lower duties on the necessities of life; favors wider markets for American products; emphasizes the importance of reciprocal trade with Canada, as a means of promoting the commercial and industrial welfare of Massachusetts and condemns the McKinley Bill.

DION BOUCICAULT DEAD.

The Celebrated Playwright Falls a Victim to Pneumonia.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Dion Boucicault, the celebrated playwright and actor, died a 5 p.m. to-day at his residence. He caught cold, which developed into pneumonia, o Tuesday afternoon. He rapidly became worse, although he was conscious up to the time of his death.

Sent Up for Ninety-nine Years.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 18.—In the Posey Circuit Court to-day Elso Webb was arraigned on a charge of murder in the second degree, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by Judg Richardson. Webb about a year ago waylaid, killed and robbed William Trainor, a railroad man of Poseyville.

Asphyxiated in a Bath Tub.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 18.—Carrie Dodd, 15-year-old daughter of H. B. Dodd, agent for the American Express Company in this city, was found dead in a bath tub at her home this morning. Death was caused by carbolic acid gas poisoning, the result of using the gas heater in a bathroom without any ventilation.

A Lenient Judge.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 16.—George Levis, who committed an indecent assault upon a little girl named Hannah Quillan, was this morning brought before Judge Lazier, who gave him a suspended sentence, the boy being compelled to secure bail for his good behavior.

O'Brien's County Cork Speech Which Placed Him in Bonds. Michael Davitt Talks—The Prisoners Released on Bail—Comments of the London Press.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—There was no abatement of interest throughout the day in the Irish arrests. Up to 7 o'clock this evening no definite information had reached London of the specific utterances of Dillon and O'Brien on which the warrants for their arrest were based, neither had the Government given out any official explanation which would throw light upon the sudden and unexpected resort to a vigorous Irish policy. It is commonly supposed to-night that the ostensible grounds for O'Brien's arrest are to be found in a very plain speech he made last Sunday to an assemblage of peasants at Schull in County Cork. He dwelt upon the failure of the potato crop and spoke of the gloomy outlook for widespread distress which Ireland must face this winter. Warming to his theme he said:

"For tens of thousands of small farmers through Ireland it will become a question this winter whether they are to have food or their landlords."

Confronted with such an alternative he thought there should be no hesitancy as to a choice. He advised the tenants on every estate to meet and consult as to what proportion, if any, of their rent they could honestly pay. When that question had been determined they should all abide by the decision. If the farmers, he said, should give to the landlords money which was needed to buy bread for their children, the Irish leaders would not dare to appeal to the world to come to the rescue of such a nation of slaves, but if tenants would absolutely refuse to pay a penny of rent until every family that tilled the soil was placed beyond the reach of starvation then if the Government evicted starving people from their poor homes it would be swept out of existence by a torrent of English indignation and the whole civilized world would send money and assistance for the benefit of the tenants.

Michael Davitt was interviewed this afternoon in regard to the arrests. He took a very hopeful view of the situation and thought the effect would be entirely favorable to the Irish cause. "If Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien," he said, "had deliberately set out to devise plans for increasing the popularity of the plan of campaign and heightening the prestige of the Land League they could not have accomplished their purpose in any way more successfully than by inducing Mr. Balfour to take precisely the step that he has taken of his own volition. It is just what they wanted. There had begun to be a feeling in Ireland that the plan of campaign had been carried far enough. These arrests will be sure to rouse public sentiment in its favor again. Mr. Balfour has not made a greater mistake since he has been in chief authority over Ireland."

Admitted to Bail.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—In the Tipperary Court formal evidence of the arrest of O'Brien was given before Magistrate Irwin. Mr. Ronan, who conducted the prosecution, asked that O'Brien be remanded until Thursday. Counsel for O'Brien cross-examined Inspector Ruffor with the view of showing that although O'Brien had committed the alleged illegal acts in June no steps had been taken for his arrest until it was heard that he was going to America. The inspector denied that the mission to America had anything to do with the case. Mr. O'Brien here remarked that the whole world knew the Government's motive for making the arrests.

Mr. O'Brien was admitted to bail. Canon Cahill being the surety. On the application of Mr. Ronan warrants were issued for the arrest of other members of the National League.

Dillon also was bailed, giving £1000 in security. He was remanded until Thursday. The warrant mentions offences occurring between March and September.

There was a slight disturbance outside the Court House.

A constable served a summons on Mr Sheehy at his residence, but did not arrest him.

O'Brien's Dublin Reception.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—Mr. O'Brien and wife arrived at Tipperary at 9 o'clock to-night. The public lamps were not lighted. The people were enthusiastically cheered during their passage through the town. Canon Cahill and other friends met them at the court house.

Tay Pay is Coming.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18. T. P. O'Connor, M.P. and James O'Kelly, M.P., will probably take the berths on the steamer Teutonic which Dillon and O'Brien had secured.

London Press Comments on Balfourism.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The News says: "Balfour has met Ireland's famine appeal after his fashion and has committed an act of stupendous folly. We are slow to believe him stupid enough to desire to prevent their mission to America, because others are going in their stead and will meet with a splendid reception. It is difficult indeed to assign any rational motive."

The Chronicle says: "The Parnellite taunts regarding Balfour's indifference have at last drawn the badger. He probably intended to avert disorder in Ireland, for it is unlikely that he wanted to prevent Dillon and O'Brien from going and so send Parnell or others to America."

The Telegraph justifies the arrests. It says the Parnellites are becoming mordaring in the face of the supposed supineness of the Government.

The Times says the only cause for surprise is that the arrests were delayed so long. The resolute action of the Government will be eagerly welcomed by all clear headed friends of civil order.

The Standard says: "The prosecution has nothing to do with speeches delivered elsewhere than in Tipperary. The coup was admirably managed and prevented the arrestes from exercising their well known skill at opportune disappearances.

A Challenge to the Toronto Police.

BUFFALO, Sept. 18.—Lieut. Regan, in charge of No. 7 police station, thinks he has a tug-of-war team on his force, with Patrolman Hooley (395 lbs.) for anchor, that can beat anything in the world. The aggregate weight of his team is 950 lbs., and Regan is particularly anxious to put them against the Toronto police champions for any amount.

AMBITIOUS CITY NOTES.

A New Sewing Machine Company—To Raise the Price of Whisky.

HAMILTON, Sept. 18.—The deal is about closed for the sale of the Wanzer sewing machine factory in Barton-street to the Brosius Manufacturing Company of Atlanta, Ga. The new firm will manufacture the Brosius motor sewing machine, which is now being manufactured extensively in Atlanta. A company is being formed in Canada with a capital of $300,000, and it is contemplated that in this city 1000 men will be employed at the manufactory.

A largely-attended meeting of the wholesale and retail grocers who are liquor dealers was held in the Board of Trade rooms this afternoon. The object of the meeting was to combine to prevent the adulteration of liquor by retailers and to guard against the cutting of prices. The liquor dealers are also anxious that the saloonkeepers should be charged a higher price for their supplies. The movement is expected to result in bar whisky being raised from 5 to 10 cents a glass.

Pinkertons Still on Guard.

ALBANY, Sept. 16.—Robert A. Pinkerton said to-night that the Pinkerton men would be withdrawn to-night from patrol duty on the Central road in the city, but that there are still 200 of his men at West Albany and 100 at East Albany.

A SHORT LESSON IN LAW.

BUFFALO'S COLLECTOR KNOWS MORE THAN HE DID.

How a Fresh Official in the Bison City "Punished" Canadians Who "Evaded" the Contract Labor Act—The U. S. Treasury Department's Ruling.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The Treasury Department is in receipt of a letter from the collector of customs at Buffalo, N.Y., in regard to a complaint of William Russell that duty was assessed on certain tools brought by him into that port on April 26 last. The collector says it is the practice of the office to pass free of duty all the tools, household goods, and personal effects by bona fide emigrants to this country, but at certain seasons of the year large numbers of Canadians come to the United States to work a while and then return, and it has been the practice of his office to make this class of evaders of the contract labor law pay duty on their tools.

In reply the department has informed the collector that the law exempts from duty the "professional books, implements, instruments and tools of trade, occupation or employment of persons arriving in the United States," without reference to the fact that they may or may not be bona fide immigrants, and the right of such tools, etc., to free entry is in no way dependent on the contract labor law. If persons come to the United States in violation of the contract labor law, that law provides a remedy, and the tariff laws are in no sense adjuncts thereto. The collector is therefore directed to cause his practice in admitting tools of trade free to conform strictly to the requirement of the law.

BOTH MEN ARE IN THE RIGHT.

Queer Legal Complications to be Untangled in a Wisconsin Court.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Sept. 18.—Judge John R. Bennett of the Circuit Court has to decide between two men, both of whom, under the laws of Wisconsin, are clearly in the right. A divorce caused all the trouble. In 1886 Lelia Hurd was married to Andrew Ingle, a well-to-do farmer. They did not live happily together, and in 1884 Ingle sued for a divorce. He proved that his wife had deserted him 18 months before and a decree of divorce was ordered. Three months after this Mrs. Ingle was married again. Her second husband was Alex Shuman, who had worked for some time on Ingle's farm. Mr. and Mrs. Shuman were blessed with two children. The elder was born eight months after Mrs. Shuman's divorce from Ingle and five months after her second marriage. By the death of her father Mrs. Shuman was made the possessor of $30,000, but she did not live long to enjoy her wealth. She died and left her money to be held in trust for her two children. Here comes the rub. As to the younger of the two children there was no contest, but as to the older it was different. Both Ingle and Shuman claim it as their offspring. In behalf of Shuman was cited the provision that any child born in wedlock, no matter how short the time after the marriage, is the lawful offspring of the husband. Which of the contestants is to be given the custody of the child and management of its property will be left therefore for Judge Bennett to settle. The case will come up for trial at the November term of the Circuit Court.

THEY HAVEN'T CONFESSED.

The Alleged N. Y. Central Train Wreckers Before the Grand Jury.

TROY, N.Y., Sept. 18.—John Reid, Thomas Cain and Arthur Buett, who it was said had confessed to the wrecking of the Montreal express on the New York Central road near Castleton, on the night of Sept. 4, were brought before the grand jury here to-day, but the indictment could not be returned until to-morrow. It is understood that they will be indicted not for train wrecking but for interfering with a switch over a mile north of the wreck. This weakens the force of all allegations about confessions. The cases of John Kiernan and John Cordial, the other two of the alleged wreckers whom the detectives claimed were implicated by the confession, were investigated and it is understood that no evidence was found by the grand jury to implicate them and that they will be discharged when court convenes to-morrow.

Miners Demand a Raise.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 18.—Forty thousand Illinois and Indiana miners will strike Nov. 1 for an advance of from 7½ to 10 cents a ton if the operators refuse the raise.

Germany's Attitude as to Slavery.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—The Reichsanzeiger, recurring to the slave trade question, says: "Determined as it has hitherto been to relentlessly oppose slave hunting and professional trading in slaves the German Government reserves to itself the choice of the proper moment to further restrict slavery."

Herr Schmidt telegraphs officially from Zanzibar that neither at Darressalaam nor at Bagamoyo has any proclamation with reference to slave trading been issued, that no licenses have been granted to dealers, that no actions against freed slaves have ever occurred on the coast, that the statement that Zanzibar dealers have gone to the coast to engage in the slave trade is unfounded and that the recent malicious and mendacious reports were spread for the purpose of injuring the Germans.

A TALK ABOUT MANTLES —AT— TURNBULL'S

Look out for this column during the Fall and Winter. It will keep you posted in dry goods news, and let you know about the bargains we offer from time to time. Our counters and shelves are now fairly groaning under the weight of new goods. Never before did we offer such an attractive stock as to-day. The new Mantle Cloths are just beautiful, the styles are so new both in black and colors. We show Black Astrachan Cloth so fine that it is a perfect imitation of the real thing. Any one thinking of getting an Astrachan or Polarian Mantle made to order this season should by all means see our stock before purchasing. Samples sent by mail if required.

We felt the want last season of a larger range of Ladies' and Children's ready-made Mantles, and have imported a well selected stock in both long Mantles and short Jackets, in plain and fancy cloths. Everybody can be suited as we import direct and mark the goods close.

A beautiful lot of fancy pantings arrived for the Gents' Furnishing Department this week. Try our tailor.

We are selling 8 pair of Men's Merino Half Hose for $1.00. Our Dress Trimmings from London, England, have arrived. As London is the best market in the world for these goods we believe the goods we are offering will be appreciated.

Drop in and see the new shades in Dress Goods; we have the full range of shades in several makes of Cloth.

See our 54 inch Wool Serge at 75 cents a yard.

HIS FIRST OFFICIAL UTTERANCE.

At an official luncheon at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition Wednesday afternoon, the health of the new Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, Hon. John Dryden, was proposed by the chairman, who, in his remarks, eulogized Mr. Dryden as a successful farmer who had done a great deal to promote the interests of agriculture in Ontario.

The toast was honored with loud cheers, and Hon. Mr. Dryden, on rising, was greeted with loud applause. He said:—

Mr. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN,—I am sincerely thankful to you for your kind words in reference to myself and for the manner in which my name has been received. It is very gratifying indeed to anyone who undertakes new duties and assumes new responsibilities to be able to realize that he has the sympathy and hearty cooperation of those in whose interests he labors. (Applause.) The Legislature to which I have had the honor of belonging so long is composed of able men, chosen from different classes of the community, and I think we may fairly say that they represent all classes. (Hear, hear.) But I have this to say—the Legislature will be all the better for being watched. (Hear, hear and laughter.) The members will be able to perform their duties all the better if they are able to listen to the free and frank expression of opinion of those who sent them there. I believe that our Legislatures are largely what we make them, and if the people speak out their views will be listened to by those who represent them. A statesman in England once, sitting with other gentlemen at the festive board, was asked what he considered the great object of legislation. He replied that the great object was to bring about the greatest good to the greatest number. When asked what he regarded as the greatest number, he replied, "Number One." (Laughter.) I am afraid some of us are sometimes disposed to think that the legislation is carried on with that idea. Speaking for myself, if the doctrine of Number One is to be accepted, I want to associate with myself the thousands of farmers we have in Ontario. (Applause.) I am sure that no position in which I am placed will ever separate me from the farmers with whom I have been associated ever since I reached manhood. (Applause.) I have lived among the farmers all my life, and I expect to live among them and to be known as a plain, practical farmer. (Hear, hear.) I think I know something of their needs. I think I know something of the difficulties they meet in fighting life's battle. I think I know something of the value of the industry they represent in this country, and I am sure, in the position to which I have just been called, it will be my highest ambition and earnest effort to do what can be done to assist men all over the country to produce the best quality and greatest quantity of the products of the soil. No one born in this country or intending to make this his home can go from department to department in this exhibition without feeling instinctively an emotion of pride at what has been done. Not one of us will feel like holding down his head with shame at a meagre display. We are proud to show these exhibits to those coming from any other country, whether Britain, the United States, France or elsewhere. We are proud of the products we see here, and the products, I am bound to say, express fairly the best efforts of some of our best men following agricultural pursuits in this country. But some of us feel that we would be rejoiced all the more were we able to realize that the average product of our country came fairly up to what we see here. I think what we ought to aim at in this country is to so educate our farmers that the great mass of them will be able to come up somewhat to what we see at exhibitions such as man in any pursuit having an ideal—some high purpose and object. A man may achieve a little success by accident, but to continue in a successful course he must have some ideal before him. (Hear, hear.) Where is the mass of our people to get their ideals? I say largely they must get them at the exhibitions. The man who goes to the exhibition cattle shed or the horse ring or among the grain or vegetables will be able to see what his ideal ought to be, and will be able to copy it. The difficulty is that a great many people say, "That is well enough for these men, but I can never accomplish the same." I would like to inspire our young men who are following agriculture with the idea that what one man has done he, under like circumstances, can do also. Let us have ambition to excel in those matters, and so educate the farmer that the bulk of our products will fairly equal those which we see represented on exhibition grounds such as this. There are two or three institutions in this country which are accomplishing this object. I think we owe a great deal to these institutions, to one or two of which I wish to refer more particularly. One is the Agricultural College and

EXPERIMENTAL FARM AT GUELPH.

This has been in the past a useful institution, but I hope it may be made be made still more useful and efficient in the future. I hope our farmers all over the country will stand by our institution at Guelph, and that the experiments carried on there will give practical value to what is being done. This institution is educative. We educate not only the young men in the college, but those coming out become educative forces in the community, and not only that but the information scattered over the country by frequent bulletins from this college is intended to instruct our farmers. We have another institution which we ought to encourage. I refer to the farmers institutes. I have great hopes of what will be done in the future through these institutes. They are in their infancy in this country, but I trust we may be able to make them still more efficient than in the past. It is wonderful what our farmers can learn from one another when they come together. The farmer lives a secluded life and has very little opportunity to copy except from his immediate neighbors. I have heard of farmers who doubted the utility of these institutes, but who, after attending one of them, declared themselves delighted so that they would not have missed the meeting for a great deal. I think that the object of the Government and of all should be to make these institutes still more efficient in the future. As farmers we are interested in one another's welfare. Once in a while we come across men who seem to think it is their duty to be selfish in this matter, and, if they have more knowledge than their neighbors, to keep that knowledge to themselves. He thinks: I must not tell my neighbor how I feed my steers, how I grow such good fruit, how I manage with my wheat crop, because he will be able to do the work as well as I do and, perhaps better. I think that is false doctrine. I always say what I can against it. I believe that, as a farmer, I am interested not merely in what is done on my own farm, but in what is done on every other. It is foolish for me to think, because I grow 600 bushels of the best wheat, therefore I can do better by not having my neighbor grow wheat of equal quality. A gentleman interested in the exporting industry said to me: "I could give you more for your sheep if your neighbors had as good. I must put yours with a thousand others of low quality I have to sell at an average price. You help to raise the average, but I could give you better prices if all were better." It is to my interest therefore to induce my neighbors to produce the same quality of sheep that I do myself. And it is so with every department. We can help each other. Let us not feel that it is necessary for us to keep our information to ourselves, but that we ought to help each other in every possible way. I don't want to sit down without saying a word in reference to this exhibition. It is a successful institution. There are some people living in remote districts who say that Toronto is swallowing up everything. But I believe I express the honest sentiments of a large majority of the people of the Province when I say that we are glad we have the City of Toronto. (Cheers.) I know I speak the sentiments of the majority when I say we that we are delighted that we have a number of men residing in Toronto who are public spirited enough to give their time and talents to carrying forward such an exhibition as this (Applause.) I am not saying too much when I say that this exhibition has become the leading exhibition in this Dominion. I am not saying too much when I say that in a few years it will be the leading exhibition on the Continent of America. (Cheers.) It will not be excelled by any exhibition in the United States, and every one of us as a farmer is interested in the success and prosperity of this institution. (Cheers.) I think we ought to be very grateful instead of finding fault, for the labors of the gentlemen put forward in the furtherance of this exhibition. Some of us who are among the common people cannot understand how it is though there is land alongside that seems to comparatively unoccupied, yet you cannot get more space for the purpose of this exhibition. (Hear, hear.) There seems to us to be

SOME RED TAPE, AS WE CALL IT.

For my part, I feel indignant to think that persons who ought to be interested in the progress of our country should stand in the way. You must have more room somehow, and I trust the authorities will be able to give it to you in the ground adjacent. Now, Mr. President, I have only this to say in conclusion:—I am rejoiced to appear before you as a farmer. A good many of you are not farmers. You need not be ashamed of the farmers of Ontario. (Cheers.) They are as plucky, as enterprising, and as energetic a lot of men as you will find in any country. I am not afraid for them if you will give them a fair chance. Let us get rid of any shackles that hold us and have an equal chance. We have a good climate, a good soil and a good country, and it is filled with good men, and we have reason to be proud of our agriculture and of our agriculturists. (Loud applause).

Hon. Edward Blake followed with an address in which he complimented the Ontario Cabinet as being composed of an exceptionally fine body of men, well becoming the banner province.

THE Toronto Globe has taken a step in advance which further demonstrates its superiority over all other Canadian journals. The Globe has always been recognized as the leading newspaper of the Dominion, and another stride forward has been made in the erection and occupation of a magnificent new building on Yonge street south, in the business portion of Toronto. May the Globe continue its successful career. It occupies an unrivalled pre-eminence in Canadian journalism. Its editorial columns are marked by a liberality of thought, power of expression and steady advocacy of the great principles of Reform which must commend themselves to all right-thinking and progressive men. In its new quarters the Globe will be able to expand still more, and further enhance its reputation as the peer of all Canadian newspapers.

RELIGION WAS ONLY A COVER.

Charles Lytton Confesses That He Attended Church Mainly to Steal.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Charles Lytton, 43 years old and a member in good standing in the Shady-avenue Baptist Church, an officer in the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the same church and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association, according to his own confession is a professional robber. For some time the police have been at work on a series of robberies—evidently the work of the same person—that have been reported from the East End.

First Mrs. Lytton, the mother of the young man, was chloroformed and robbed of a small amount of money and some jewelry. A number of houses were skilfully entered soon afterward, the robber leaving no clue. Last week the dressing rooms of the East End Gymnastic Club were entered while the members of the club were at practice, and several gold watches and other valuables were carried off.

Descriptions of the watches were given to the police, and it was discovered that young Lytton had pawned one of them. He was arrested yesterday, and to-day confessed that he had committed all the robberies. He says that in addition to his other offences he picked the pockets of his fellow-members in the Young Men's Christian Association Building and made the Shady-avenue Baptist Church the receptacle of these stolen goods.

Lytton commenced his career as a thief, he says, by chloroforming his widowed mother. Then he robbed his employers and finally branched out and stole whenever he had an opportunity. He is good looking and noted for his neatness. He confessed to having betrayed several East End girls who belong to the circle of young people in which he was a general favorite.

Two Fashionable Weddings.

STRATFORD, Sept. 17. Mr. W. K. Pearce of the Dominion Bank, Toronto, and Miss Emma J. Hoare, daughter of Dr. Hoare, were married at St. John's Church to-day, Rev. L. Desbrisay officiating.

HAMILTON, Sept. 17. At the Church of the Ascension this afternoon was celebrated the marriage of Miss Jessie Parker, daughter of Manager John E. Parker of the Meriden Britannia Works, and Robert Simpson Morris of the Bank of Montreal.

ROMANCE OF MARRIAGE.

GREAT MEN WHO HATED OR LOVED THEIR WIVES.

Southey Had to Borrow the Ring and the Money for His Wedding—The Thorn Tree Planted by Request on Pretty Lady Cornwallis' Grave.

To count no man happy till he was dead was a maxim of the ancients. To count a man happy till you have examined into his married life may also have an element of practical wisdom in a world in which matrimonial unrest is not so uncommon, and so common as it is. Everyone can recall a host of instances in which married couples have not kept up a decorous life. Among the married men counted happiness we find at best but a moderate share, not much. Dr. Arnold took the rod and the picture of him is one we are all more or less familiar with from the writings of Dean Stanley.

Lord Byron carried dismay into the household of Sir Ralph Milbanke when he married his daughter Annabella. He was great and he was moderately rich, he was an intimate of princes and his wife opened the door of success, he was imitations of success in his verse and his wife sympathized keenly with him, and at least did not hamper him. He was grateful, he was faithful, he was kind, he was everything that a gentleman ought to be in such a case to a woman who calls herself his, but perhaps his conduct of mind was not, after all, happiness. Writing to his sister in 1813 he said: "As for love, all my friends who married for love and beauty are either beating their wives or living apart from them. This is literally the case. I may commit many follies in life, but I never intend to marry for love, which, I am sure is a guarantee of infidelity." He was not favorably impressed by Mrs. Lewis when he met her the first time. "I was introduced, by particular desire, to Mrs. Wyndham Lewis, a pretty little woman, a flirt and a rattle, indeed gifted with a volubility I should think unequalled and of which I can convey no idea. She told me she liked silent, melancholy men." I answered that I had no doubt of it. . . . Yet he was to marry her, and to find in her society a life of success and of high content at least. On April 12, 1815, when he defeated Mr. Grattan's motion for the reform bill, the younger members of the party extemporized a supper at the Carlton and begged of him to join them. But, as Lady Bessborough's field was never tired of repeating, Diz came home to me. . . . And she would add how he ate half the raised pie and drank the whole of the bottle of champagne which she had prepared in anticipation of his triumph. She was truly proud of him, and he was fond of telling her in joke that he had married her for her money, to which she would reply: "Ah, but if you had to do it over again you would not do it." A statement to which he always soothingly assented. Indeed he never lost an opportunity of eulogizing his wife in public, and on one occasion at a bar yet hotter Hughendon he spoke of her as "the best wife in England."

In dealing with the romance of marriage it was impossible, of course, to omit the story of Lady Sarah Lennox and George III. Need I add at all, if George had had his own way he would have made Lady Sarah his queen. He used to ride past the house in which she lived every day, and during the harvest Lady Sarah was often to be seen making hay on the lawn in a bewitching costume. When the king finally married the German princess, Lady Sarah was one of the bridesmaids. On this occasion an old nobleman, who had not been to court since the accession of the house of Hanover, paid his respects to the king. He was very old and almost blind, but struck by the beauty of Lady Sarah, and mistaking her for the queen he grimly held out his honest old decrepit knees to kiss her hand. Lady Sarah, very much confused, bade him rise, saying, "I am not the queen, sir." George Selwyn said of the old nobleman, "He was always partial to pretenders," a slap at Lady Sarah which deserved revenge.

Two of the remarkable men of the last century were unfortunate in their love affairs. Gen. Wolfe was rejected in his first love affair, and as every one knows, he was killed before he married Miss Lowther, to whom he was engaged, and who subsequently married some one else.

Lord Cornwallis made a love match, but his wife was so much attached to him and so good after his return to his absence during such long periods, that she fell into a jaundice and died a few weeks after her husband had flung up his command and come home to see her. She directed that a thorn tree should be planted over her grave and that her name should not be graven upon the headstone. It was after her death that Lord Cornwallis returned to service in America, the end of which was also, for him, melancholy enough.

We read with a good deal of amusement of the country and passionate attachment of young Bride, afterwards the historian of Greece, to Harriet Lewin, who is described in the letters as being, of course, very lovely, but who, in after days at least, was eccentric, strong featured and masculine.

Among the runaway matches mentioned is that of Henry Fox, the first Lord Holland. He fell in love with Lady Charlotte Lennox and, being refused by the family, ran away with the lady. But his subsequent career fully justified the rashness of his action, for he certainly showed that he knew how to make money and to keep it, till Charles Fox, his son cultivated in both the faculty of going it away. John Scott, afterwards Lord Eldon, also ran away with his wife at a very early age. The window from which Bessie Surtees descended into her lover's arms is still pointed out to every visitor to Newcastle as he passes before the old house—the home of the wealthy banker her father, in Sandhill yet no yards from the great suspension bridge that spans the Tyne." In his old age Lord Eldon used to tell how odious was their conduct to him. On the third morning after the union our funds were exhausted, we had not a home to go to, and we knew not whether our friends would ever speak to us again. Our first earliest legal experience was in reading, as substitute, the Yorkshire lawyer no call began," he says, "without knowing a single word that was in it. It was upon the statute of young men running away with maidens." Fancy the reading with about 150 lawyers and young men all giggling at the professor's special-licensing audience no one ever had. The county moans of the young people had an unpleasant effect. They devoted to the pretty young bride habits of thrift which hardened into extreme parsimony. She was always averse to society, for the runaway marriage made her delicately sensitive of society, in the beginning, and at last it became distasteful to her. Curious by enough, their eldest daughter married without the consent of her parents.

The story of Southey's love and marriage can never be absent from such a compilation of this sort. No man ever had less right to get married than Southey. He had no money in possession, no reputation, no place in the world, and, more than this, he was dependent on his uncle Cottle who had been supplying him with money. Cottle had to supply him even with the ring and the money for the marriage service that beginning to live [illegible] canons, ex-vestiary beg earning not much, winning no great fame, but leaving behind him a memory rich in every sort of private virtue and worth. No doubt his wife, both as bride and during her life, had much the heaviest part of the daily burden to bear. She bewail nobly, and died. Indeed a martyr to duty towards her husband and her children, her last days being clouded by mental troubles which caused her to be secluded. Forty years had they been married when Edith died. Southey's own life was not to be long and his latest days were also passed in a gentle mental alienation which continued till he died.

The list of the "unhappily married" is large and brilliant; it includes William Beckford, the author of "Vathek," who, however, does not seem to have deserved a happy life, and whose enormous fortune and great talents were alike wasted. Lady Blessington, who from being the wife of a penniless officer, dazzled as Lady Blessington over London society, fizzled out again after Lord Blessington's death, and had a pitiful splendor once more as leader of a quasi literary coterie, and finally smashed up and went away to Paris where she died suddenly. She and Count D'Orsay led a sort of matrimonial partnership for some years, until the smash up took place in London. Lord Bolingbroke is also quoted with propriety, as an example of unhappy domestic experiences. In his case, however, the faults were all on his side. He was absolutely without morality and almost without decency, for he dragged to his wife of his early amours and successes till she was forced, in self-defence, to close his mouth with an effective sarcasm. Lord Lytton in our own time was also unhappily, though romantically married, and a large part at least of the subsequent misery was due to his temper and conduct. But perhaps full justice has not been done to the ill effects of the long and hard struggle with poverty which he maintained with such success, but with such constant labor during many years.

Among the disappointed men of genius may be mentioned Buckle the historian of civilization, Henry Fielding the novelist, Edward Gibbon, the historian; Lord Mansfield, and, in early life, John Wesley. The case of Gibbon has some satirical features. He fell in love with Mlle. Curchod, at Lausanne. Switzerland, and "she listened," he says, "to the voice of truth and passion: and I might presume to hope that I had made some impression on a virtuous heart. But on his return to England he found that his father would not consent to the match. "After a painful struggle," he says, "I yielded to my fate. I sighed as a lover, I obeyed as a son." It may be difficult to decide without a doubt whether his obedience was due to filial piety or to weak nerves and a feeble pulsation. The lady did quite as well, for she married a distinguished man. Gibbon remained single all his life and devoted his time to his history, finishing it at Lausanne, the scene of his youthful attachment. Charles Fox's private life was made somewhat objectionable by his having as his wife a Mrs. Ormistead, to whom he was not married for many years, though finally they were united legally. The marquis of Wellesley also made a mistake that lasted many years in marrying a Frenchwoman who had been his wife in name only for a long time. No doubt it was the right thing to do, but these right things are done so late that they almost cease to be right, and the misery they inflict is always lasting and real. —Montreal Gazette.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

Hear What We Have to Say.

TO ALL THE LAND LEAGUERS OF PETERBOROUGH.

Do not be humbugged any more with ROVING ROOF PAINTERS but try the BEST PAINTS in the world—those made and used by DESAUTELL & McCLELLAN, practical and experienced roof painters. They are not ashamed of their work, which will look nice and wear longer than any other; they allow any engineers to inspect their work. Also, TAR and FELT ROOFING. This firm are the only real roof painters in Canada that may be thoroughly relied upon. All their work guaranteed first class.

As we reside in the town and spend our money here we can confidently solicit a share of public patronage.

Orders sent to Peterborough Post Office will receive prompt attention.

DESAUTELL & McCLELLEN.

As the Gun Season

will be soon on hand, I wish to inform the public that I have imported from England and Belgium, a fine lot of double barreled breech loading guns, from $10 to $60. Also a lot of single barrel breech loaders equally cheap, all of the best makers, such as James W. Richards, R. Richards, Clarborough, Bonahill and Greener.

I am selling single and double muzzle loaders at cost. Rifles of different makers on hand at the lowest figures.

In the Revolver line, I have nearly 50 different makers, all of the best quality.

I continue to do all kinds of new work and repairing in the best style of workmanship, also altering old gun locks into rebounders, and choke-boring barrels. All these works are done in the best possible manner and warranted.

Gun Stocking also done in style to suit customers.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurances written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurances in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$43,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,6[illegible]	10.66
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.84
Citizens	2,087,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Soldiers vs. Firemen.

An interesting event not down on the programme will probably take place at the fall sports on the P. A. A. A. grounds Monday. A team of the 57th Batt. has challenged a team of the fire brigade to a tug of war, and it is understood the latter have agreed to meet the soldiers in a friendly pull Monday afternoon. The other events will also be full of interest to lovers of athletic sports.

To Escape the Tariff

Grain buyers have ceased buying barley for the present, and are making arrangements to have all their present stock landed across the border by the first of October, when the duty will come in force. The egg buyers are shipping as fast as possible all eggs on hand to the United States so as to make sure of their being across the border prior to the increased tariff coming into operation.

Meals at the Exhibition Grounds.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are making arrangements to serve meals on the grounds during the three days of the exhibition. Members and friends desiring to aid by their contributions may send such to the W. C. T. U. Hall, George street, or to the show grounds. All friends who can assist in serving are invited to attend a special meeting in the W. C. T. U. Hall on Monday at half past three to complete arrangements.

Artillery Competition.

The Peterborough representatives in the Durham Field Battery are doing good work in the shooting competition at Kingston. Yesterday the Durham battery scored 177 points against Ottawa's 159. Corp. Hay, of Peterborough, made 38 points, tieing the record for highest individual scores this year. Sergt. Kennealey stood second highest in the Durham battery, with a score of 26. Lieut. Snider took second place in the officers' competition, scoring 12 points. Corp. Hay in particular is to be congratulated upon his fine record.

Throwing the Stone.

Another event has been added to the list of Caledonian Games to be held at the Central Exhibition on the 25th instant. In response to requests from Toronto athletes and others who have already entered their names, the committee have decided to add Throwing the Stone, one of the most popular feats at all Caledonian games. These games are attracting provincial attention, and indications are that they will be well contested by both professionals and amateurs. The Scots who hang out at Peterborough are determined that the lion rampant of Caledonia will wave proudly in the breeze on the Central Exhibition show grounds next Thursday.

Shipping Apples.

Mr. Jas. Hanlon, of Otonabee, is to-day shipping a large consignment of apples to his brother Richard in Pennsylvania. It is not often that apples are shipped from this county across the border.

A Young Lady's Sudden Death.

Miss Janet Breckenridge, daughter of Mr. John Breckenridge, of Asphodel, familiarly known as "the Squire," died unexpectedly at the family residence "Wellbeck", yesterday after an illness of only two days. Deceased taught a school in Douro only a few miles from town, and on Tuesday became too ill to work and went home. She died on Thursday morning. The young lady was known among a few in Peterborough, to whom as well as to the many friends of Squire Breckenridge and his family the intimation of the young lady's death will be sad news.

A Midnight Experience.

An amusing story is told of a certain Peterborough gentleman who visited Toronto this week, and was compelled to take lodging in the attic story of an hotel. Tired after a day's walking and sight-seeing, he went soundly to sleep in his none too choice quarters, but was suddenly awakened by a sharp pain in his throat, which felt for all the world like the cut of a knife. In the intense darkness he could see nothing, but the thought that some one was cutting his throat sprang up in his frightened imagination, and he was about to jump from the window and trust to the tender mercies of the pavement below, when—he discovered a large rat was gnawing at his throat. He passed the rest of the night with his head closely muffled in the blankets and, moved out next day.

Promenade Concert.

Another attraction has been provided for exhibition week, and one which will doubtless draw large crowds. The St. Andrew's Society and Canton of Patriarchs Militant are arranging for a promenade concert in the skating rink on the evening of Thursday 25th inst., the second day of the exhibition. The band of the 57th Batt. will be present and furnish music. During the evening the Canton will perform a series of movements, original and intricate, which will be well worth seeing. There will also be an exhibition of intricate and fancy dancing by expert Highlanders in costume, bagpipe playing and other Scottish attractions. Mr. Wm. Johnston, the champion dancer of America, will be present and display his skill. All the dancers will wear full Highland costume. A street parade of the Chevaliers and Highlanders will take place to the rink at 7:30 p.m. This will be one of the best features of exhibition week. Admission to skating rink 25c, children 15c.

The Board of Health.

Dangerous Ice Water—A Change Recommended in the Closet System.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held last night. There were present, Messrs. Dr. Fife (chairman) Wm. English, T. E. Brabburn, Dr. Brennan, Wm. Lech and E. Pearse; Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer; Jas. G. MacDonnld, Clerk. Messrs. Moore and Dawson, of the civic health committee, were also present.

There was some discussion concerning the ice supplied by the local dealers for domestic purposes, and it was moved by Mr. Pearse, seconded by Dr. Brennan, and carried, that a sample of the ice water commonly used in town be sent to Toronto for analysis.

Mr. Moore's by-law for the closing up of all deep pits within a limited area and the substitution of dry earth closets, and providing for the appointment of scavengers, was considered.

Dr. Brennan moved, seconded by Mr. Pearse, that having heard the by-law read by Mr. Councillor Moore, this Board approves of the same and recommended that the town council adopt it, the limits as to filling up the pits being as follows:—Bounded on the north by Brock street, on the south by Charlotte street, on the west by Aylmer street, and on the east one lot east of Water street.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

An Appeal For Aid.

The Y. M. C. A. is not Beyond Need Yet—Funds Asked For.

The following circular has been sent out by the Y. M. C. A., which explains itself:—

PETERBOROUGH, 11th Sept., 1890.

DEAR FRIENDS,—An impression having gone abroad that the local Young Men's Association would now require little or no financial assistance from the citizens of Peterborough and vicinity, the Directors take this means of informing our friends that the legacy of the late Miss Nicholls is not available for current expenses, but for the purpose of erecting a building, until the completion of which, we have no assurance of any advantage to be derived from the money in question. Not only so, but by Mrs. Nicholls' death we are deprived of her generous annual subscription of $200 00.

We therefore appeal to our old subscribers and prospective new ones, to come to our aid without personal solicitation

Kindly send Geo. A. Schofield, Treasurer, any sum that you may feel it your privilege to give, from $25.00 down. The more speedily sent the more acceptable will the offering be, for we are at present in much need.

During the month of October, the members of the Finance Committee will endeavor to call on all from whom we have not heard during the year. We believe our work commends itself to the public, and we have faith and confidence that a liberal support will not be withheld when these facts are made known.

G. J. EARLY,
J. W. BENNET, President
Chairman of Finance Committee.

Personal.

Mr. Chas. Connor, a Peterborough boy, now engaged in the hotel business at Manitou, Man., is in town to-day en route to the old country.

Miss Ella Bertram, of Toronto, daughter of Mr. John Bertram, is spending a couple of weeks in town, the guest of Mrs. W. H. Hill.

Prof Ducott's health not being sufficiently improved to come back to Canada, he wishes to inform his pupils that he is going to spend the winter in California.

Mr. D. Belleghem attended the annual meeting of the Ontario Undertakers' Association in Toronto, and was elected a member of the Executive Committee.

Hon. Richard Harcourt and Hon. John Dryden were both tendered public receptions at their homes on Thursday evening, it being their first appearance in their constituencies since being sworn in as Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Agriculture respectively.

News Nuggets.

—Some volunteers were practising at the rifle ranges to-day, preparing for the battalion matches a week from Monday.

—Police Magistrate Edmison disposed of his seventh milk case to-day. The usual fine of $20 and cost was imposed.

—The EXAMINER is indebted to the Secretary of Canada's International Exhibition under the auspices of the Exhibition Association of the city and county of St. John, N. B., for a season press ticket.

—The Nichols hospital, Peterborough, asks the town of Cobourg, the World says, to pay an account of $21 for boarding and nursing Cornelius Delaney, who is at present confined in gaol as a vagrant. The account has been referred to the Finance committee of the Town Council.

The Condition of the Workingman.

So much has been written and said recently about the condition of the labouring people and so deep an interest is manifested in their welfare that any new thought or suggestion likely to prove valuable to them is seized with avidity. That their condition has steadily improved with the advance of civilization, no one will deny, that it might be far better to-day that it is had they paid more attention to their health. The thousands and tens of thousands of people who have of late years suffered from and been untitled for work by neglect of proper care could have saved themselves much suffering by using Beecham's Pill's, the best medicine in the world for dyspepsia, sour stomach, billiousness, constipation, sick headache, etc. For sale by druggists generally. w38d

The Work of a Year.

What the "Y" Has Done in the Past Twelvemonth.

An interesting meeting of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the rooms last night, a reception to Honorary members following at half past eight, at which there were about fifty young people present. The evening was quite informal, the guests moving about and conversing with each other with the greatest freedom. Mr. Joe Hess and his son were present. During the evening Mrs. W. Daly sang a solo, and Miss Hall and Miss Sperry rendered instrumental music. Before the close refreshments were served by the young ladies of the "Y". Altogether a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Prior to the reception a business meeting was held, Miss Lumsden, President, presiding.

The Secretary and Treasurer presented their annual statements for the year ending September, 1890, the latter showing the income for the the year to be $172 53, and expenditure $148 13, leaving a balance on hand of $24 40.

SECRETARY'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Since Sept., 1889, we have enrolled 51 members—30 active and 21 honorary. 17 business meetings have been held with an average attendance of seven.

On the 15th of October we took possession of our present quarters, the formal opening being a "Topic Party," or "Conversational German." Throughout the winter the rooms were open every Saturday evening as a resort for young women. Warmed and lighted; with music, parlor games and abundance of attractive literature, our parlors afforded a most agreeable retreat from chilly winds and turmoil of the streets. Our only regret is that more young women did not avail themselves of the pleasures provided. However, we had the satisfaction of hearing several speak of the happy hours spent within our walls, so we consider the effort well rewarded.

Entertainments held during the year have been as follows. In October the opening of our hall by a "Topic Party" followed by two "Receptions for Honorary Members." In December a "Cobweb Party." New Years Day, a "Free Reception." Feb 12 h, "Grand Council Tea." April, "Evening with Tennyson." May, parlor social at Mrs W. J. Mason's. August, garden party at Mrs H. C. Winch's.

During the summer our Flower Mission has sent out 140 bouquets with scripture texts attached to private patients, hospital and jail. In this department of work our record falls far below that of last year, owing partly to the fact that flowers have been scarce, but we have reason to believe that these white winged messengers have not been sent in vain. Throughout the warm weather the hall has been open every Sabbath afternoon as a reading room for young women. We have been trying hard to pay off the balance on our piano, that other lines of work may have undivided attention, but in spite of our efforts, $50.00 is still due, with required interest on all balances since we made first payment. However, we hope in a very short time to be in that enviable position where we shall "owe no man anything, but to love one another."

A number of our old members have dropped out, and we shall probably begin the new year with many fresh faces in our circles. We trust that this will be the best year that Peterborough "Y" has ever known and that each member will strive to endure that record by womanfully doing her part. Some one was asked for a definition of success. He answered, "She hath done what she could."

Submitted on behalf of the "Y."
L. SANDERSON,
Rec Sec.

Loaded With Money.

It was Turned out in all Kinds and Quantities.

The following from the Kingston Whig has reference no doubt to a fellow who was in Peterborough a few weeks, and who was exposed as a fraud in the EXAMINER at the time. He was not so successful in Kingston, as the Whig says:—For some days an able-bodied man has been moving about the city exciting the sympathy of the charitable by his woe-begone looks and his muteful appeals for help. He was a poor deaf and dumb man, whose only salvation was in getting help from those whose ears were unstopped and whose tongues were capable of utterance. He worked the dummy racket on an up-town lady, and his pocket was weighted with a dime. Later the "poor fellow" was found down town chattering to a comrade, his tongue working, as the lady remarked, "as if it ran on a swivel." A policeman was given a pointer and he had a few words with the swindler. He was arrested and gave his name as Antoine Gentel. On being searched at the station $104 09 was found on his person, $90 in bills, $12 30 in silver, $1 in nickels and 79 cents in coppers. He was locked up and this morning came before the magistrate. He had again lost his tongue. He apparently could not understand English, as he shook his head and mumbled whenever spoken to in court. Officer McGarry relates that he had heard him speaking distinctly to another man on the corner of Rock and Bagot streets last night. Mayor Drennan found the treasury in need of a deposit, so he asked Antoine to untwine his girdle and leave $50 and coats. Antoine was in a generous mood. He laid down the bills and silver, chucked the balance in his pocket and departed, glad to be free. He had documents to show that he had worked the racket in Peterborough and elsewhere.

Twenty-four Lashes.

Young Smith, the Boy Stabber, Flogged by His Father at Cobourg.

COBOURG, Ont., Sept. 18.—David Smith, the 10 year old boy who two weeks ago last Sunday, stabbed young Peter Hansen close to the heart with a pocket knife, came up for sentence before Magistrate J. H. Dumble this morning. His honor said the prisoner had been guilty of a very bad offence and had shown a bravado that was astonishing. He was undoubtedly a boy of bad proclivities, yet the magistrate felt that to send to prison a lad of his tender age would simply confirm in crime. If he was sent to the reformatory at Penetanguishene for five years, his morals might not be improved when he came out. The Magistrate said he would have preferred to send him to the industrial school at Mimico, but found that this could not be done without expense to the municipality as the government of Canada had made no provision for it. Under all the circumstances his honor thought the best thing that could be done was to give the boy a severe flogging. He said if Smith's father would give the boy 24 lashes on the bare back with a birch gad and inflict punishment conscientiously and to the satisfaction of the court, he would not send the boy to the reformatory. The father readily accepted the magistrate's suggestion, and accordingly, in the police cells below, in the presence of the chief constable, the boy culprit was severely flogged by his father. Each stroke of the gad left a vivid welt upon the back of the boy, who cried with the pain. After the boy had recovered somewhat from the castigation, he was taken back to the court room and sentenced to close confinement in the county jail for the balance of the month.

The magistrate's novel mode of punishment is generally commended by the townspeople as wise and salutary. The same plan was adopted in a similar case by a London (Eng.) magistrate a short time ago. This is the first time it has been tried in Canada.

Brittania needs no bulwark,
No towers along the steep;
Her march is on the mountain waves,
Her home is on the deep.

While the supremacy of Brittania on the seas is recognized all the world over; "Diamond Dyes" reign supreme over all other makes; and the ladies who acknowledge their superiority, and who testify in their favor are legion. "Diamond Dyes" are a strong bulwark to every household where domestic dyeing is done. They are a sure defence against loss of material, time and labor, and are the only dyes that can do effective work, giving every guarantee of great durability and permanency of color. Ladies when buying dyes, see that each package is marked, "Diamond Dyes."

GARDEN PARTY.—A garden party under the auspices of St. John's church is arranged to take place (D.V.) on Tuesday, 23rd inst, at 7 p.m., at the residence of Mr. Thomas Magee, on the 2nd line of Emily. A variety of amusements will be provided, and it is to be hoped there will be a large attendance.

CLAIM IT WAS A WATERSPOUT.

Ingenious Defence in a Suit for Damages Caused by a Bursting Dam.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 18.—It is said that a general outline of a defence to the actions brought by a legion of plaintiffs against Frederick Weyerhauser and his corporations for flood damages occurring in 1884 has been agreed upon, and that one of the main points thereof will be that the great inundation was not due to the insufficient construction of the dams on the Chippewa nor to negligent management, but to "the act of God," otherwise, in this case, the bursting of a gigantic waterspout between Jump River and Fisher Creek, two tributaries of the Chippewa. This is the first that has been heard of the waterspout theory, the flood having always been attributed to the heavy rains of that autumn in the first place, and in the second place to the giving out of the dams—the trouble being that the rise came all at once. It is claimed, however, that scores of woodsmen can be produced to prove the appearance and bursting of the waterspout in the locality named, and that it raised the Chippewa so rapidly that the men in charge of Little Falls dam, above Chippewa Falls, did not have time to raise the gates, the flood coming down so rapidly as to carry out the dam before anything could be done to let the water through. If this can be proved it will be worth several hundred thousand dollars to the defendants.

TOBACCO AND PRECEDENCE.

Topics Discussed by the General Conference Committees.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—The special committee of the General Conference appointed to report on the tobacco question met this morning and had a long and at times rather heated discussion. The committee on the course of study held a meeting this morning and the most important points decided upon were the appointing of a central board of examiners for the students of their colleges. They also recommended that the standard of examination of probationers into the church be raised to be at least equal to that of a university matriculation on all subjects. The book and publishing interests committee met and will recommend to conference in its report that there be no change in the price charged for The Christian Guardian and that the fortnightly paper, Home and School, be enlarged and made a weekly for wider circulation. They also recommended the adoption and publication of a new hymn and tune book.

The Centennial Committee intend recommending a 100th anniversary service on the first Sunday of March, 1891. The ecumenical conference is to be held in New York and 24 delegates from the Canadian conference will be in attendance. These delegates will be chosen by ballot by the conference.

Very strong and emphatic resolutions are to be prepared for the conference and sent to the Governor-General and the Federal Parliament on the question of precedence. The members of conference, and especially those who are senators and members of Parliament, intend pushing this matter and have the head officer of the Methodist Church properly recognized at all state ceremonials as is the case with the Anglican and Roman Catholic bishops.

The sustentation committee will recommend that each conference form its own fund for its own use. The itineracy committee are not in favor of invitations to minister by the stationing committee. The committee on the superannuation fund reported this afternoon recommending that the number of the board be reduced from 32 to 26, and that a treasurer be appointed at each annual conference to report on the state of the fund.

A SUIT FOR $30,000,000.

Awarded Six Cents After Fourteen Years of Litigation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—A suit brought by the Webster Loom Company against E. S. Higgins & Co., the carpet manufacturers, has just been decided in the United States Circuit Court in this city. The first move was made in 1876 on an appeal by the Webster Loom Company from the decision of the commissioner of patents that the company's patent, known as the "wire motion," was invalid. The Webster Company won this suit and the case was sent to the Circuit Court to determine the amount of damage due them for the infringement of the patent. The original claim was for $30,000,000, but was afterwards reduced to $2,000,000.

In 1880 the master to whom the case was referred to estimate damages, John N. Shields, rendered a report allowing nominal damages to the Webster Loom Company. This was excepted to by the plaintiffs and Judge Shipman reversed the decision of the master. A reargument was secured before Judges Wallace and Shipman, which resulted in a decision allowing the claimants six cents.

The complainants have brought suits against other manufacturers, notably the Stewart estate, the Sanfords of Amsterdam, and the Smiths of Yonkers, and they will probably meet with the same decision in these actions.

A FATAL KICK.

RIDGETOWN, Sept. 18.—A young man named Harper, in the employ of John N. Willson, a farmer living in the outskirts of Ridgetown, was kicked in the groin by horse yesterday. The injury was not though serious at first, but the young man died at 11 to-day, complications having set in.

Schooner and Crew Lost.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 16.—The steamer Charles Hebard reports the loss of the schooner Ben Brink with a crew of five men on the rocks off Eagle Harbor, Lake Superior.

Smith.

The Late Alex. Roseborough.

There died at his residence, Thursday morning, one of the township's oldest and most respected residents, in the person of Mr. Alex. Roseborough, at the age of 78 years. Deceased came from Ireland to Canada with his parents when he was seven years old. The family lived some time near Port Hope and removed to Smith township in 1830, settling on lot 17, concession 5, where deceased passed the remainder of his life. In 1835 he married Miss Margaret McKee, by whom he had thirteen children, ten of these being yet alive, and all, with the exception of one son, now living in the States, living in Smith. Deceased was one of the earliest settlers in the place and helped improve and prosper the township. He was in religion a Baptist, being prominently connected with the 4th Line church. The large family will have the deep sympathy of the community. The funeral took place to-day (Friday.)

WHO KILLED BENWELL?

THE GRAND JURY LAY THE CRIME AT BIRCHALL'S DOOR.

An Indictment for Wilful Murder Returned After Hearing a Few of the Host of Witnesses. A Visit to Rex—The Broken-Hearted Wife.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 19.—Another act in the Benwell tragedy was brought to a close at 3 o'clock to-day, when the grand jury at the Oxford Assizes returned a true bill against Reginald Birchall for the wilful murder of F. C. Benwell. The jury was unanimous and after listening to the testimony of eight of the principal witnesses, including Douglas Pelly and Alice Smith, expressed themselves satisfied without hearing any further evidence.

The listlessness of yesterday has disappeared and the case is on everybody's tongue. That sensations come not as single spies but in battalions has been proven here, for to-day two rape cases, a forgery and an attempted murder have been furnished. These, however, caused but a slight ripple of excitement, the entire populace being engaged in discussing the all-absorbing Benwell murder. With the increased interest in the case and the influx of people from the country a change has taken place in the opinions expressed as to the outcome of the trial. A possibility of disagreement, which was spoken of yesterday, has changed with the majority into a settled conviction that the man will be found guilty.

Detectives Murray and Young and the leading crown counsel, Mr Osler, have been engaged since early morning arranging the testimony in order. All the witnesses are now here and many of these have been examined by the crown as to the nature of their testimony, and the skeleton of the tale of tragic interest which will be related next week is remarkably complete and well arranged. The systematic manner in which the case has been laid out will make the reports of the trial from day to day read like chapters of a book.

Contrary to expectations Packhall, whose departure about the time of the tragedy caused considerable comment, will not be a witness at the trial. The crown do not want him. The defence claim not to know his present whereabouts.

PROGRAMME OF THE DEFENCE.

The defence naturally enough declines to show its hand, but the startling developments prophesied are not likely to eventuate. From what your representative can learn Birchall's counsel will rely upon shaking the positiveness of the testimony of witnesses by vigorous cross-examination and by endeavoring to prove that the murdered man had not lain in the bush the length of time he must have had he been killed on Feb. 7.

The defence have several scrap books of newspaper clippings containing everything pertaining to the trial published in the leading journals, and these may be read to the jury with a view of pointing out to them how the prisoner has been convicted in advance by the newspapers.

It is also proposed to cite several cases, including the accident to young Davies, the Grand Trunk Railway operator at Niagara Falls, who recently fell down the embankment after he had been left by a companion, to show how unreliable appearances are, as it is claimed that had Davies been killed his late companion might have been accused of his murder.

Charles Benwell to-day visited the scene of his late brother's murder in the "Swamp of Death" and also drove to the Princeton cemetery, where the body is interred. He found the place well kept and some thoughtful soul had placed a fresh bouquet of flowers on the mound which marks the resting place of the victim of as foul a crime as was ever perpetrated. With bowed head the young Englishman stood beside the grave for several minutes and gave vent to his emotion in tears.

The ball will not be arraigned until Monday, when the trial will be at once begun. The civil docket is all disposed of and but one criminal case remains to be disposed of to-morrow, so that everything will be cleared away for the trial to commence promptly on the opening of the court on Monday. It is generally believed that the empanelling of a jury and the opening remarks of Mr. Osler will occupy the whole of the first day, but five days are now counted to be ample time in which to hear all the witnesses and the addresses by counsel and the case will probably be given to the jury on Saturday afternoon of next week.

A VISIT TO REX'S CELL.

Through the courtesy of Jailer Cameron your representative was allowed to inspect the cell of the man against whom the crown has forged such a chain of circumstantial evidence. The interior of the jail wears a primitive aspect. The corridor, if such it may be called, is circular in form and extends to the roof, which is covered by a skylight. On the ground flat are located the jailer's office and the passageways leading to the yard. The two wards are located in the second story, which is reached by a spiral iron staircase, and a narrow platform extends around the building. Birchall's cell, or more properly speaking cells, are located in the west ward. He day cell is in the northwest corner and presents a tidy appearance. A wool carpet covers the floor, while pasted on the wall are innumerable illustrations clipped from pictorial papers and quite a number of crayon sketches, the work of the prisoner.

Both pictures and sketches are unmistakably literary and give an insight to the character of Birchall's tastes. The white-washed brick work of the wall itself has in some instances been utilized as canvas by the prisoner to display his artistic ability. Sketches of a hunter in the saddle and of steeple chasers taking a stiff hurdle are among the best of the drawings, which number over 50 and include almost every variety. A pine box does duty as a flower stand and on this are several geraniums and other plants and a handsome hand bouquet of assorted flowers, sent him by some friends. The cell is provided with a desk, upon which are a number of late novels by Rider Haggard and other well known authors, and six partially filled boxes of quill-tip cigars bear evidence of his weakness for nicotine. His sketch book, upon which he had evidently been engaged, lay on the desk, and a quantity of canned goods and some fruit which had been left from his lunch amply testified that he has not been obliged to satisfy his epicurean desires by prison fare.

In this cell Birchall spends the daytime, being taken out about 2 o'clock every afternoon for exercise in the yard. He is not allowed to roam in the corridor of the ward, but is kept locked in his cell. At night he occupies No. 12 cell, which in no way differs from [illegible] and the cot upon which the turnkey sleeps is stretched in front of the barred gate so that the least movement on the part of his prisoner would be detected.

A MAN OF WONDERFUL NERVE.

Your representative had a view of Birchall as he was seated on a bench in the jail-yard chatting nonchalantly with Turnkey Forbes and a short term prisoner. He was neatly shaven and his dark black mustache well kept and trimmed. He wore a dark Christy hat, black diagonal coat and vest, drab checked pants and a plaid kerchief was tied loosely around his neck. He was smoking with evident enjoyment a cigar, which he would occasionally remove from his lips to smile at some remark of the turnkey or make some casual statement, and now and then he patted the jailer's Newfoundland dog, to which he has become much attached.

Birchall is considerably stouter than at the time of his arrest, due to his confinement and to his life of idleness. He strikes one at once as a man averse to labor, either studious or mechanical, and does not at all resemble the pigeon it is claimed he was before his callow plumage was plucked by the farm pupil hawks and he became a hawk himself. Jailer Cameron has noticed no change in his demeanor in all these months and this morning Rex carolled a catchy air as blithely as though the shadow of the gallows tree was not in sight, but the student of phrenology and he who has made a study of men's faces can penetrate beneath the mask far enough to perceive that much of this indifference, this sang froid, this callousness to his frightful position, is assumed. Guilty or innocent, Rex Birchall's nerves are at the highest tension and he realizes the momentous nature of the issue at stake far more than surface indications would lead the casual observer to think.

He is a creature of eccentric peculiarities. The sudden drop of the lips, the twinge of the muscles of the face, the side glance and the lowering of the eyelid take the place of speech in conversing to him who scans the man closely for the exact effect of the words addressed to Birchall. This trait of the man's character will be visible in the dock. He can no more help it than he can avoid certain other characteristics.

While the prisoner was seated in the yard the heavy black clouds which had been hanging in the low heavens all day parted and the sun shone out in refulgent splendor. Birchall removed the cigar from his lips and smilingly remarked:

"I consider that an augury of good luck. The darkest hour is just before the dawn and the mists which have encircled my case so long will be swept away by the clear light of evidence, as were those clouds just now."

Mrs. West-Jones, his sister-in-law, called to see him this morning. The heart-broken wife of the accused is allowed to visit him three days a week and takes full advantage of the privilege. Jailer Cameron has been kindness itself to both ladies and they are naturally grateful for the consideration extended. The clean and tidy appearance of everything about the place speaks volumes of the attention which Mr. Cameron gives his duties.

WAS THE TEXT SIGNIFICANT.

In a very prominent place on Birchall's writing table was a copy of the Bible, and singularly enough when I opened the Book it was at the passage "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." That the Bible is not kept by Birchall for ornament solely is shown by the fact that many of the pages are well thumbed. It is but fair to the man to say, however, that the prisoner has not affected the religious dodge. He listens to what the visiting clergyman has to say and is apt with his responses, but beyond that does not go. I was informed that he passes much of his time in thought and is not always the light hearted and devil may care individual that he has been depicted. Like a certain other chap he fails to conform to the color that newspaper liars have assigned him.

While I was in the cell I was plainly visible to Birchall seated on the bench in the yard, and he constantly cast his glances in my direction as if anxious to do a little of the sizing up himself. When he came into the corridor through the passageway he halted for a minute on the stairs, looked steadily at me, smiled sagitly and ran up the balance of the stairs. Shortly after I left Mrs. Birchall had an interview with her husband.

BIRCHALL'S SPIRITUAL ADVISER TALKS.

Your representative had a talk to day with Rev. W. H. Wade, rector of Old St. Paul's and dean of Oxford, who has been spiritual adviser of the accused since his arrest. The dean became acquainted with Birchall, under circumstances which it is not at this stage necessary to mention, as Lord Somerset, on the occasion of his previous sojourn in the town, and ever since his incarceration has visited him of a Sunday afternoon and occasionally on week days. Mr. Wade states that the accused's deportment has been everything that could be desired. He joins in the religious exercises, being as "devout as could be wished."

"I am informed that you have expressed yourself as satisfied of the prisoner's innocence" said the reporter.

"Whoever made that statement had no warrant whatever in so doing," was the reply. "I have never expressed myself in the least as to his guilt or innocence. Birchall is an extraordinary man," continued the rector. "He is a study in himself, and so far as I can judge is the same now in every respect that he was on the day of his incarceration. He is undoubtedly a well-bred and highly cultured man and unusually well informed on most subjects. No, he was not a member of my church when he lived here under the name of Somerset, although he attended several times.

"I do not know that he and his wife became acquainted with many people in town. Since the arrest of the accused, however, several members of my congregation as well as of other churches have made Mrs. Birchall's enforced residence here as pleasant as possible for her and acted with the greatest kindness, thus assisting to lighten the burden of sorrow which she is called upon to bear. The reports of her prostration are true. She is a heart-broken woman and the nervous strain and anxiety to which she has been subjected have had a terrible effect upon her by no means strong constitution. The untrue reports as to the manner in which she and her sister, Mrs. West-Jones, have conducted themselves have also had their effect upon her. Knowing her intimately, as I do, I can tell you she is and has been most ladylike in her actions and words. She is wrapped up in her husband and looks hopefully forward to his acquittal."

Mrs. Birchall has visited repeatedly at Mr. Wade's and her father was also a guest of the kind-hearted rector's during his visit to Woodstock some time ago.

Mr. Wade had evidently made up his mind at the outset not to allow himself to come to any conclusion as to the man's guilt or innocence. Both Mrs. Birchall and Mrs. West-Jones are now regular attendants at his church.

"LORD SOMERSET'S" DEBTS.

Careful investigation convinces me that Birchall or "Lord Somerset" did not owe any very great amount on the occasion of his visit here in 1888-89. His liveryman and his barber were the principal creditors and their claims are small. Everyone speaks of him as liberal-hearted to a degree, though fond of ostentation and display. Although he "cut a swell" he did not move in the "upper ten," nor did he and his wife go into society as alleged. He was popular, formed many acquaintances and was looked upon as a man of means, but that was all.

In all 75 witnesses will be called by the crown, including a number whose names have not yet been published. Missing links have been put in here and there where necessary, and new evidence which has cropped up from day to day has been filled in where it belongs and the crown claims now to have an unbroken chain of testimony.

The first witness called will be the young man who discovered the body. The doctor making the post mortem will follow, and the death and its cause thus established the crown will then put young Benwell and Douglass Pelly in the box and will trace the movements of the prisoner step by step from the time he embarked with Benwell and Pelly on the steamer, their landing in New York, journey to Buffalo, thence to Eastwood and into the swamp and Birchall's return alone to Niagara Falls.

Among the exhibits which will be produced in court are the two bullets taken from the murdered man's head, his clothing with his initials cut therefrom, the shirt studs and cuff buttons worn by him, the gold tooth plate and the cigar case bearing his name, which led to the identification of the body and the unearthing of the atrocious crime.

MRS. BIRCHALL'S PRESENTIMENT.

In speaking of the illness of Mrs. Birchall, referred to yesterday, The Standard to-night says: "Mrs. Birchall is subject to hysterical fits of crying that leave her almost prostrate. Wednesday night she retired feeling perhaps more despondent than ever. She had a strange presentiment that unless she saw her husband that night she would never see him again alive. She at once got up and dressing herself went to the jail, where, after many pleadings such as only a wife can realize, she was permitted to see her husband. The meeting between the two is said to have been most affecting. They embraced each other some minutes and wept like children. The jail officials, who stood by, were likewise moved to tears and were glad when the scene was over."

Turnkey Forbes says that The Standard's story is incorrect.

THEIR STORIES DISBELIEVED.

Some Minor Cases Disposed of At the Oxford Assizes.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 13.—In the case of Alfred Wright, an 18-year-old Miss Macpherson importation charged with criminal assault upon Rebecca Skillings, the 16-year old daughter of a Blenheim farmer, the jury disagreed to-day. The girl admitted having with her mother slept in the same room with the prisoner for several months.

George Sanderson, on a similar charge laid by a 16-year-old married woman named Alice Elizabeth Price of Dereham, was acquitted. It came out in evidence that the woman had offered to settle the case for $20.

The breach of promise case of Followfield v. Hutchison was traversed.

Frank Cormack of West Zorra was lodged in jail to-day charged with forging the names of Miss Mary Tomlinson and Mrs. Cormack deceased to a note for $300.

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

Degrees from Inferior Universities Not to Be Recognized.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—The committees of the Methodist General Conference met this morning. In the Educational Committee considerable discussion took place on a proposal from the management of Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., asking permission to provide a scheme for the raising of $40,000 to clear off a pressing debt. The committee came to the conclusion that the time was not opportune for such a scheme, and refused permission mainly on this ground that Alma ought to attend to her debt as the Hamilton Ladies' College and Whitby College had done. It was also resolved by this committee to report to conference the urgent necessity of not recognizing degrees obtained at inferior universities. Rev. Dr. Shaw seconded by Rev. Dr. Williams, solved the problem by moving that ministers obtaining degrees from foreign institutions should submit the same to the examining boards of their annual conferences.

The Discipline Committee intend to recommend that for the future counsel should be excluded from all trials in church courts.

The Committee on Temperance decided that the delegation to Ottawa on prohibition legislation should protest against the system of permits in the Northwest Territories. They also recommend the distribution of circulars or tracts setting forth the necessity for total abstinence.

In the afternoon the report from the tobacco committee was brought up, and after much discussion a very mild recommendation was adopted, urging abstinence on the part of Methodists. A resolution was passed recommending the legislatures to prevent the sale of tobacco to minors under 16.

The evening was devoted to considering the advisability of lowering the price of The Christian Guardian, but it was left as at present.

NO WORK FOR THE STRIKERS.

The New York Central Will Not Reinstate Their Old Employes.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—H. Walter Webb, third vice-president of the New York Central Railroad, who has been west as far as Buffalo inspecting the workings of the road, arrived here this evening. A reporter asked Mr. Webb how soon the strikers would be reinstated. In answer to this and several other questions Mr. Webb said:

"It may as well be understood right here that from now on none of the strikers on the Central road between New York and Buffalo inclusive will be reinstated. It is better for the men, for their families and all concerned to know now that none of the men who are out will be taken back. The men left the employ of the company six weeks ago to-night and they have had ample opportunity to apply for work before this week. They well understood the policy of the road from the beginning and they have seen it successfully established. They did not seek re-employment until the strike had been declared off, and since then they have nearly all asked to be put to work. This would be impossible as we have enough men now in our employ to operate the road in all the departments.

"During the last few weeks we have weeded out all the undesirable men who usually slip into employment during a strike, and we now have an experienced class of men. Even if any of the new men should leave, their places will be filled by new men, as we have firmly determined not to employ men who have been doing all in their power during the last six weeks to injure the road.

On the Eve of the Great Battle.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Sportsman says that both Slavin and McAuliffe are in the finest trim. The committee last night examined the gloves brought by McAuliffe from America and voted them superior to any of English make. There is no doubt the referee will pass them. The ring will be enlarged to 19 feet.

A WRECK ON THE READING

FROM 40 TO 50 PERSONS REPORTED KILLED.

Scores of Others Injured—A Passenger Train Runs Into a Freight Wreck—The List of the Dead as far as Identified—Terrible Scenes.

READING, Pa., Sept. 19.—A Reading Railroad passenger train was thrown into the river near Shoemakersville, 15 miles from this place, this evening. From 40 to 50 persons were killed and at least 30 more were injured.

The train which met with the disaster left this city at 6.05 o'clock, 10 minutes late. It is known as the Pottsville express and was running at the rate of at least 35 to 40 miles an hour. It had on board possibly from 125 to 150 passengers, and it consisted of engine, tender, mail and express cars and three passenger cars. Above Shoemakersville there is a curve where the railroad is about 18 to 20 feet higher than the Schuylkill River. Shortly before 6 o'clock a freight train ran into a coal train, throwing several cars in the latter on the opposite track and before the train hands had time to go back to warn any approaching train of the danger the Pottsville express came around the curve and ran into the wrecked coal cars on its track. The engine went down the embankment followed by the entire train with its human freight.

The scene was one of great horror. The cries of the imprisoned passengers were heartrending. Some of the passengers managed to crawl out of their prison and arouse the neighborhood. Word was telegraphed to this city and help summoned. Physicians and surgeons and 300 workmen were taken to the spot by the company and with the aid of a traveling electric light plant the work of clearing away the wreck was at once proceeded with.

Work was slow and the dead and dying were taken out with great difficulty. Up to 10 o'clock to-night six dead and some thirty wounded had been taken out. Of the latter some were brought to this city and others taken to the Miners' Hospital at Ashland. The dead so far recovered are still on the ground. Following is a list of the killed:

WILLIAM D. THORNE, Reading.
JOHN WHITE, engineer, Pottsville.
JAMES TEMPLIN, fireman, Pottsville.
HARRY LOGAN, conductor, Pottsville.
DAVID ANGSTADT of Mahoney City. Died after being taken from the wreck. His head and body were crushed.
E. W. LOGAN, baggagemaster, Shenandoah

The injured are:

Harrison Roland, Philadelphia, leg broken and internally injured.
James F. Market, Bethlehem, badly cut about head and internally injured.
John Thornton, Leesport, badly cut about head and body, seriously injured.
Joseph Noll, Shenandoah; cut about head and left shoulder broken.
Frank B. Hall, Manager of Frank Mayo's Dramatic Company, cut about head and body, bruised about arms and legs.
John Carroll, St. Clair, back hurt and internally injured.
Joseph Ashfield, Mahoney City, bruised about body and legs.
William Glassmayer, Port Clinton, badly cut about breast.
Thomas Cooney, Philadelphia, head and legs injured.
Robert Cotton, Pottstown, injured internally.
Samuel Shellenberger, Hamburg, legs injured.
P. W. Cithler, Gerardville, foot and leg smashed.
John Coolick, Mt. Carmel, hurt internally and hands smashed.
W. W. Johnston, Shenandoah, head badly cut and leg broken.
George Sanders, Reading, badly hurt about back and neck.
B. F. Beecher, Shenandoah, left hip badly cut and leg hurt.
James Bernhart, Shenandoah, left hip crushed and legs hurt.
John Hess, Mahoney City, legs badly hurt.
David C. Young, Mahoney City, head badly cut and leg sprained.
Lyman Dick, Hamburg, both legs broken.
Dr. B. F. Salade, New Ringgold, right arm badly hurt.
Jacob Ulmer, Pottsville, both legs broken.

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

Bradstreet's Weekly Review of the Business Situation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show that the volume of general merchandise moving to consumers' hands remains quite large and that general trade as a whole is fairly satisfactory for the season, although prolonged rains had some influence. There was a marked development of conservatism at New York, Boston and Philadelphia during the week and this was reflected as well in banking operations at larger western and southern cities. The tight money market with fears of disaster in the absence of special measures for relief unquestionably had a temporarily retarding influence upon the movement of goods. Prices are practically unchanged for metals and manufactured articles, but for the moment are lower for most cereal and other food products. The Louisiana sugar crop was never better and harvesting will begin there in about three weeks. Some damage to cotton has been reported, but the rice crop promises well. Wheat exports from the Pacific coast are very much reduced, ships are scarce there and prices lower. Supplies are quite heavy. Iron has remained dull at former prices. Southern iron is not coming east at present. Anthracite coal will be advanced in price, as the demand is stronger and the movement beginning to be active. Petroleum is lower, weak and neglected. Copper is stronger, and a plan to put lake ingot above 11c is being discussed.

The demoralizing influences of stringent money rates have disappeared from the New York share market and prices have improved, but speculation still hesitates somewhat in spite of the announcement of several railroad deals. Moderate gains in railway company gross receipts in July offset increased operating expenses growing out of low rates and heavy expenditures for butter men. The result is the first decrease in net earnings reported for a year. The total net earnings of 106 companies for July aggregate $16,314,105, a decrease of more than 1 per cent. as compared with July a year ago.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 167 in the United States this week against 162 last week and 190 this week last year. Canada had 30 this week against 31 last week. The total number of failures in the United States, Jan. 1 to date, is 7267 against 8126 in a like portion of 1889.

Wasted Eloquence.

"Matilda," the young man said nervously, "what I am going to say may surprise you. But my feelings are leading me on. Encouraged by your kindness, interested by your beauty and reared de-spirate by the conviction that the hours are fleeing away and that the future can hold nothing for me worse than the suspense under which I now labor, I have resolved to risk my fate on the cast of the die."

He loosened his collar, coughed and went ahead.

"Other young men, Matilda, mere butterflies of fashion, may dance attendance upon you and flatter you. Listen not to them! Listen to the voice of sincere devotion! Other young men, talented, nay, perchance, young men possessed of wealth in abundance, may seek your hand. I am not talented, Matilda, I am not handsome. I have not those delicate little arts that win the affections of women I am not rich—"

"No, Mr. Dennis," said the young beauty with a yawn and rising to her feet, "I regret to say, also, that you are not in it."

Mr. Dennis withdrew from the competition at once. He was clearly outclassed.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1890.

THE EDISON CO. BY-LAW.

The ratepayers will be called upon next Thursday to vote on the Edison Co. by-law. Following is a few reasons why it will be in the public interest to have a favourable vote thereon :—

Because the prosperity, growth and development of a town depend upon the number and thrift of its manufactories.

Because Peterborough, in spite of her great advantages of situation and otherwise, has not the number of factories required to stimulate her growth.

Because the Edison General Electric Company, after looking over the Dominion, decided that Peterborough had the best railway and other facilities for a large establishment.

Because, if this Company is, by the votes of the people, permitted to come here, its example will induce other large establishments to avail themselves of our advantage.

Because the Edison Company is

with a capital of twelve million dollars, and its existence and prosperity are assured by sound financial backing.

Because it pursues an industry which, though now immense, is only in its infancy, and the works of the Edison Company are sure to grow.

Because it is reasonable in its request for encouragement; it asks no money bonus, only a free site and exemption from taxation for ten years.

Because the property selected costs only $10,000—the payment spread over a period of thirty years.

Because the other improvements asked, such as the water main and sewer, are only such as would have to be provided for the use of that part of the town at no distant date.

Because the immense advantages of having the company here will only make a trifling addition to the taxes of the town.

Because the gross sum of increased taxation to meet interest and sinking fund is only $750 per year.

Because, in the beginning, the 300 hands employed, will, in house-tax and poll-tax, pay more than that amount—at least $1,000 per year.

Because, after the expiry of the ten years' exemption, and during the twenty remaining years the debentures have to run, the property of the company will pay a large share of the purchase money back in the shape of taxes; and

Because, thus we shall have all the benefit of the presence of the works in the town by payment of a comparatively trifling amount.

Because the sum of about $3,000 per week, or

$150,000 PER YEAR IN WAGES WILL BE SPENT IN THE TOWN,

Because the immediate construction of buildings, to the extent of $30,000 this fall (and $30,000 more next season), will give employment to our now idle mechanics and labourers, and give them means and courage to face a hard winter.

Because the value of property will be increased by the establishment of the works in Peterborough.

Because the improvement of the real estate market will result in increase of building operations.

Because vacant houses in the vicinity of the works will be occupied, thus giving houses in other parts of the town a better chance for tenants.

Because, counting the usual proportion of married men and children in the 300 employees, the population of the town will be increased by about 1,000 at one operation.

Because the erection of new dwellings on vacant lands, now paying little taxes, will cause a large increase in the taxable property—enough in a short time to pay for the site, over and above the $750 of taxation for interest and sinking fund on the purchase price of the site.

Because the Edison Company is so good a thing for any town, that many a town was willing to give a year's income of taxes to secure the works.

Because towns that were bidding for the selection of the site, when they were passed by in favour of Peterborough, bewailed

THE LOSS AS A PUBLIC CALAMITY.

Because the largest property owners and heaviest ratepayers see the benefit of the Edison Company for the town and are anxious that

THE BY-LAW SHOULD PASS,

Because, in deference to the demands of the people of the town, the council has offered, broad-cast, inducements to manufacturers to come to Peterborough; and of the country to settle here.

Because the people should help, by their votes, one of

THE BIGGEST INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTIONS

Because, if, after inviting manufactories to come to Peterborough, we reject the largest and most profitable institution, by refusing to pass the Edison by-law, we shall lose credit with manufacturers and will, hereafter, invite manufacturers in vain.

Because the establishment of the Edison works here will date a new era in the prosperity of the town, and bring other factories flocking, and call continental attention to our unrivalled manufacturing facilities.

Because it will only add 18c. per annum to the taxes of a ratepayer who is assessed for $1,000, and nine cents to each ratepayer whose assessment is $500.

These are some of the reasons why the ratepayers should vote on Thursday next for the Edison By-law.

Early Autumn Changes in Dress.

Hints That May Help in the Making Over of Your Costumes.

Now does the wise woman with skilful fingers and happy intuition sit herself down in solitude, with puckered brow, to evolve from the half worn and demoralized debris of summer finery the wherewithal she shall be clothed through the early autumn, until embryonic modes and crude fashion vagaries shall have developed into definiteness and enduring popularity. The demi-season modes are usually a repetition of those of the previous season, with a little change as to detail. A gown of wool trimmed with guipure bears upon it the sign of summer still, however deep its coloring. But if some of the new passamenteries, softly silken and mixed with chenille, take the place of the embroidery, straightway one has an autumn toilet at comparatively little expense, for it is ever the mantua maker's, not the shopkeeper's bill that makes a gown worth a king's ransom. These trimmings take the form of a wide heading of network for the skirt, with a deep, rich fringe knotted in the net. The heading may be straight across the top or fashioned in pointed scallops, the top of which reach nearly half way up the skirt. Smaller ornaments to correspond are arranged for the corsage and sleeves.

Fringes of every description, silk, chenille and beads are worn, especially in black on colored material, and nothing transforms as decidedly the shabby summer gown into an attractive chic costume as the use of the long bretelles or stoles that ornament both sides of the front of the dress from the shoulder to the hem and are applied to the back in the same manner. These bretelles are made of black or colored velvet in broad bunches passing over the shoulder, pleated in a little at the waist where they are brought nearer together, and then falling in long squares, each finished with knotted silk fringe. When the corsage only requires trimming the bretelle are fastened at the waist under butterfly bows or fall in short loops or ends.

Black lace is one of the most convenient, as it is at present one of the most fashionable trimmings for more dressy toilets, and as a rule is applied in irregular rather than symmetrical motifs. Lace flobus or squares may be brought out of their hiding places to decorate bodices, and arranged about the neck, with one corner falling over the sleeve, which has lace ruches about the armholes and wrists.

Bodices are cut low in pointed openings over chemisettes and finished with a lace berthe or frill deep at the shoulders and narrowing to a point at the waist.

Wide lace flounces are mounted about the plain skirts of last season's silks or light wools, in spaced box plaits, with the intervals filled with ribbon bows. Scallops of all kinds, large and small, rounded and pointed, are greatly in favor for ornamenting skirts and bodices laid over bouillonnes of gauze or surah or old lace.

Sleeves are still very much puffed at the shoulder, but instead of standing upright the long puffs fall back on the shoulder, nearly covering the seam to the throat.

The addition of full braided sleeves and a glimpse of a simulated braided petticoat lend the charm of novelty to the most passé gown that is faultless in fit and simply draped. Many devices are employed to modify the unbecoming lines and mitigate the awkward, not to say inconvenient, effect of the prevailing tight skirt. Many skirts are now cut at the edge in wide tabs or panels, or the spaces are filled in with fan pleatings, or a point of the goods covered with braiding or passementerie, or studded with bead or passementerie drops.

The bodice, it must be remembered, cannot be too elaborate and fantastic in its ornamentation, and must softly follow the lines of the figure, with no seams, but with no indication of effect toward producing the seamless effect. Careless little plaits are taken here and there to dispose of superfluous fulness, and these plaits, if in front, are often visibly fastened with ornamental little pins.

The woman who has the good taste and discretion, the feeling for novelty and harmony, requisite to make or superintend these slight alterations, is more to be envied by her sisters than she who possesses the gift of poesy or song; for all women are not expected to immortalize themselves in verse, but every mother's daughter must dress and dress well frequently on a small allowance. The women of whom her friends say "She always has the latest things out" is usually the woman with deft fingers and a clever knack of retouching old gowns and bonnets.

PEOPLE.

Mary Anderson has the largest feet of any stage beauty. She wears No. 7 shoes.

Andrew Carnegie's mascot is a brass telegraph key. He keeps it in a glass case.

James Redpath is aiding Mrs. Jefferson Davis in getting up the memoirs of her husband.

Edwin Booth is ill at his apartments at the Player's Club, New York, but his indisposition is not considered serious.

The Empress of Austria is making a quiet visit to Paris, where her rooms at the Hotel Meurice are taken in the name of Madame Nicholson.

Prince Albert Victor is the only son of a Prince of Wales who has taken his seat in the House of Lords before his father's accession to the throne.

Miss Jane Bancroft, Ph. D., has been elected to the chair of history in the Wesleyan University at Delaware, O., with a salary equal to that of the male professors.

D. G. Mitchell, better known as "Ik Marvel," broke his left arm last Sunday by falling off a low rock while walking about the grounds of his country residence in Woodbridge.

Tolstoi is getting some advertising in Russia, also. The Archbishop of Odessa has just published a pamphlet denouncing the "Kreutzer Sonata" in very strong terms as subversive of the sacred character of the marriage law.

Senator Plumb, of Kansas, is 53 years old, although he looks much younger. He is a lawyer, and wears good clothes of the latest cut, but somehow or other he looks like a farmer, has plain and almost rough manners, and his terse English when he talks, helping the illusion. He is tall, broad-shouldered and deep-chested, and when he warms up in debate he likes to walk the central aisle, as Conkling used to, and in his rugged western way pour hot shot into his opponents.

Mrs. Deborah Powers, of Kingston, N. Y., has recently celebrated her 100th birthday. She is a remarkable woman in many respects, and is reputed to be worth $3,000,000. She is the senior partner in the banking firm of D. Powers & Son, of Lansingburg, and since 1828 has managed an extensive oilcloth manufactory started by her husband. Her sight is slightly affected, but otherwise her faculties are unimpaired, and she takes an active interest in all her large business interests.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

For Lung Diseases only those Emulsions which are scientifically prepared can expect to succeed. Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wilson's Wild Cherry.

For nearly twenty years this valuable medicine has been largely used for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Lungs. Those who know its value always recommend it to their friends knowing that Wilson's Wild Cherry never disappoints. The genuine is sold by all druggists in white wrappers only. dw

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

NOTES OF NOVELTIES.

GATHERED ITEMS OF INTEREST FOR THE FAIR SEX.

The Latest Novelties in the Fashionable World. Little Knickknacks for Dainty People—Jewelled Flowers for Ornaments Fads and Fancies in many Pretty Things.

Old English and India designs are used for silverware.

Very large plaids will be worn made up very plainly and cut on the bias.

It is rumored that bicycles will surely be greatly worn this winter with full dress toilettes.

The newest engagement present is a gold bangle fastened with a tiny padlock.

Fancifully worked crochet buttons are the stylish buttons for fall.

Gilt, silver, jet and steel buckles of medium sizes, are imported for the fall season.

Many pins, much tinsel and embroidery, and quantities of feathers are stylish features of fall fashions in millinery.

Elegant reception gowns will be of Pompadour brocade having a black ground covered with small colored floral designs.

Epingle effects on ribbons vie with those whose beauty is enhanced with velvet stripes, plaids and figures.

Handsome cut glass ink bottles are fancied with a base of cherry or oak

Tortoise-shell book marks and paper cutters have silver handles.

A new trimming of raised embroidery on velvet will decorate some of the handsomest cloaks next winter.

The flared Medici collar is seen on basques, jackets, cloaks, cloth and fur shoulder capes.

For breakfast and luncheon tables there are some fanciful casters in the form of a silver bottle of ale and two silver tumblers, set on a miniature silver tray. These are to hold pepper, mustard and salt.

Diamonds, set as flowers, may cover the entire bodice front of an evening toilet.

New bonnet and lace pins are in the form of a thistle, the cup being of silver and the upper part of one cut amethyst.

A very attractive knickknack for young ladies wear is the floral chatelaine. Made of natural flowers, to contrast well with the dress, or match in hue the sash, it is certain to be generally worn.

Girdle shaped belts are of ooze calf leather finished to resemble Suede kid.

Blue, heliotrope, brown, and red will be prominent this fall.

Small yellow birds are used on large black hats.

Large Russian net face veils are dotted with velvet pastilles.

The newest mounted scarfs are of Surah, with chain-stitched edges and bordered with silk tassels and silk crochet rings, joined with spider-web stitches.

Velvet effects are to be stylish for novelties in ribbons.

White chamois gloves are fashionable for traveling.

Dagger shapes are stylish for hair and millinary pins and dress buckles.

The latest scent bottle imitates an onion cut in glass.

"Picture" gowns are of old brocades artistically combined with modern fabrics.

Heliotrope colored leather for purses, card cases, etc., is now a fad.

Very quaint and taking is the kitten brooch, two playful mischievous kits, all of glittering diamonds, are alert and ready to pounce on the pearl ball between them, that is just lightly set on the bar of gold, on which they also pose themselves lightly on their hind legs.

Enameled bangles are worn now, as well as the stiff fashionable gold ones; they are just narrow bands, with different colored enamels arranged in ornamentation.

There are the small cream cans, exact copies in silver of the cans in which the cream is sent from the dairy, and toast racks, of which the supports are capital letters forming the word "toast."

The writing tables are supplied with five or six wee copper fish kettles placed on a copper tray, one to serve as inkstand, another to hold the brush, which is now preferred to a pen-wiper, and so on.

Silver photograph frames set with Rhine stones light up beautifully at night.

A silver letter file is handsome on a library table.

Velvet, fur, silk cord netting, and ostrich feathers are introduced on the front of richly embroidered robes.

We have all kinds of representations of the violet, which is so fashionably worn as bonnet, and now we see the lovely jonquil reproduced in diamonds. It makes a lovely little brooch for fastening lace at the collar of the bodice, or for the bonnet strings.

What can be more artistic than a gray cloth jacket, every line of which seems cut on some mediæval pattern? The very high full sleeves are covered with the finest braiding, which has the effect of thick embroidery. The waist, which is rather long, is pointed in front, and the jacket is edged with square, cloth tabs, the whole recalling the Tudor fashions as seen in a Holbein picture.

Another jacket of the palest shade of fawn cloth is simply gorgeous in glitter and coloring. the sleeves are composed entirely of silver and gold passementerie, blended together in a curious manner, through the open silver and gold network gleams the lining, which is a soft silk of many shades, forming a tartan of reds and grays. There is no seam of any kind in front of the jacket, which is trimmed with the same passementerie as the sleeves. The whole effect, though really beautiful is not in the least loud, so well does the silver and gold braid blend with the light shade of the cloth.

Jersy cloth covered with steel nailheads is novel and expensive jacketing. Velvet and cloth sleeves covered with braiding are seen on light gray fawn, white, and tan designs. Rolling revers and collars in the blazer fashion are worn until cold weather. The shapes will be a trifle longer.

Medici collars are warm, stylish and generally becoming. Gilt buttons abound on young ladies' jackets.

A gray tweed, intended for the country, or for early autumn in the city, has a double-breasted waistcoat of buff pique, on which are large silk spots; the bodice is cost-shaped the skirt hangs in straight lines, a shaped flower crossing to the left side, which can be buttoned back to the left side, leaving the front of the skirt quite plain. This is a remarkably neat gown, strong and serviceable and would make a perfect traveling dress.

Visiting costumes of fairy Francaise in grayish blue, or bluish gray are stylishly trimmed with black lace vandykes, jet gimp and velvet the shade of the gown. To wear with such a dress select a lace and passementerie shoulder cape, a lace and jet toque and Suede gloves

The fashionable shape for jackets is announced in Paris to be of the reefer style, loose front, single or double-breasted, but Americans, as a rule, will not wear a loose garment, so we must look for the close-fitting shapes, with Medici collars, cape effects and high sleeves, often in rich guipure embroidery on a dressy design.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach,

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,928	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17 84
Citizens	2,067,366	23.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20 12
London Life	1,644,285	20 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

"How to Win a Pretty Girl's Love" is a question which agitates many a susceptible youth. It is satisfactorily solved in the amusing Farce Comedy, "Running Wild," which manager Bradburn has secured for the opera house, Oct. 2nd. Its late success at the Star Theatre, New York City, is sufficient proof of its popularity. d

Great Was the Fall Thereof.

A writer says that the falls of the Congo, in Africa, are 380 feet of a drop. It was down these falls that Gough Bro.'s prices of the Kidd bankrupt stock tumbled. That is the reason that the prices for these splendid goods are so low. dw

A Midnight Blaze.

Just at mid-night last night fire was discovered in some sheds at the corner of Brock and Stewart streets, pertaining to the residence of Mr. Robert Kingan. The fire brigade turned out promptly and prevented the flames from spreading, though the sheds could not be saved. Nothing else of much value was destroyed. Some chickens housed in the sheds were burned. The loss will be between $300 or $400—insured.

Market Items.

There was a large market this morning. Very little grain was moving, principally wheat, which was a trifle lower than last Wednesday. Apples were plentiful at 60c. a bag, potatoes the same price. There was an abundance of chickens, selling 40c. to 50c. a pair. Butter sold for 20c. and eggs 15c. The usual accompaniment of vegetables were offered for sale at standard prices.

Miss Dalby's Successor.

A meeting of the Hicholls Hospital Trust was held yesterday for the purpose of appointing a successor to Miss Dalby, who had resigned the superintendency. The position was given to Miss Louise Eastwood, of Toronto, daughter of a former manager of the Bank of Ontario in Peterborough, a lady said to be thoroughly qualified and competent. Miss Eastwood will begin her duties the first of October, Miss Dalby leaving the last day of September.

Did You Try It?

Morrow's sugar 18 lbs. for $100. The farmers and townspeople are rushing to get it, and the tea he is offering for 25c is decidedly a treat. His experience in the business and the great care he has taken in selecting them is working up the extensive trade which he is now doing. Do not be gulled by unscrupulous advertisers, but come to W. J. MORROW'S, secure your bargains and go home satisfied. dw

The Old Clock in a New Case.

Once more the town clock is doing business, but in a new stand. The work of transferring the civic chronometer to its new quarters over the market building has been expeditiously and safely executed by Mr. Muncaster, guardian of the town time-piece, and yesterday afternoon the hands recommenced their endless rounds after a vacation of a week. The clock has been greatly missed during the past week. The striking apparatus will not be in operation for a few days yet.

Meals at the Exhibition Grounds.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are making arrangements to serve meals on the grounds during the three days of the exhibition. Members and friends desiring to aid by their contributions may send such to the W. C. T. U. Hall, George street, or to the show grounds. All friends who can assist in serving are invited to attend a special meeting in the W. C. T. U. Hall on Monday at half-past three to complete arrangements.

Better Lucky than Rich.

Mr. Alf. Jones, a member of the fire brigade, had one of his hands and an arm severely burned last night, while working at the fire. He will not be able to resume his regular employment for some days yet. Alf. considers it better to be born lucky than rich. He had another narrow escape this week. While working in the old market building the roof was pulled down on him, but he, miraculously, was not hurt.

Central Exhibition Notes.

Entries poured in to-day, and Secretary Collins was kept busy.

It is confidently expected that Sir John Macdonald will be able to open the Exhibition next Wednesday. So far nothing to the contrary has been heard from him. If the premier had no intention of visiting Peterborough he would have notified the Directors ere this.

The horse races will this year, as in the past, be the main drawing card of the exhibition, spreading as they do over two days. A fine field of entries is expected. A couple of horses from Cobourg have been here all week training, and "Victor," the celebrated running horse, will also be on hand. "Minnie Moore," "Mayflower," and other fast horses from a distance are expected.

Thursday will be the great day of the exhibition. The Caledonian games will take place in the afternoon. There are 35 entries already in and more are looked for. Lovers of athletic sports anticipate a good thing in the Caledonian games.

The Manitoba exhibit will this year be larger than ever. A fifty-foot space has been secured in the exhibition building.

The Stone-Throwers in Court.

A boxful of boys stood tremblingly in the prisoner's dock at the police court this morning. There were five of them, and they were charged with throwing stones at a carriage in which a number of young men were driving in from Ennismore last Tuesday evening. Two of the occupants of the carriage testified that stones were thrown, and that these boys were among the crowd. Of course the lads one and all denied complicity in the offence. "Please, sir, I didn't throw any stones"—"Please, sir, I wasn't there at all"—"Please, sir, it wasn't us threw the stones at all, it was some other boys across the road"—these were the phrases in which they positively assured His Worship that they were not guilty. The Mayor thought it queer that none of the boys threw stones or saw any thrown, when there was no doubt the stones were thrown and they were in the party. He pointed out to the boys the bad beginning that they were making in life; if they followed this course they would end up in the gaol. He enlarged the case till Tuesday to get further evidence. Mr. Stevenson said there was altogether too much stone-throwing going on in town, and he was determined to severely punish anyone found guilty of the offence.

To Boom the By-law.

The Board of Trade Putting Their Shoulders to the Wheel An Organized Effort to Carry the By-law.

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held Friday evening for the purpose of considering ways and means to assist in the carrying of the Edison Co. by-law, next Thursday.

There were present, Mr. Adam Hall, vice-President, in the chair; Mr. A. Stevenson, Secretary pro tem; Messrs. E. Peplow, T.A. Hay, Wm. Langford, Robt. Fair, Macfarlane Wilson, Adam Dawson, H. C. Winch, E. H. D. Hall, E. S. Davidson, J. R. Stratton, T. Kelly, W. E. Moore, H. Phelan.

A copy of the circular (printed on the second page of the EXAMINER) setting forth the reasons why the ratepayers should vote for the by-law, was read and approved of, and 2,000 copies ordered to be printed for distribution.

Mr. Moore stated that he had taken the trouble to go over the voters' list in his ward and he had made out of persons entitled to vote on this by-law. There were in No. 3 ward 250 qualified voters (property holders and lease holders) one-third of whom were ladies. There were also some living at a distance from town who could not reasonably be expected to vote, but those living in town or near at hand should all be brought out. A systematic effort should be made in this behalf. The ladies in particular would all have have to be brought to the polls in carriages. Mr. Moore thought the same system should be followed in other wards.

The advisability of getting all the conveyances possible on polling day was emphasized by several members of the Board. Keepers of livery stables were mentioned as being interested in the passing of the by-law, and several liverymen were spoken of as having promised to place one or more teams at the disposal of the committee.

Mr. Davidson presented a list of 401 names of qualified voters, mostly free holders, in No. One Ward. Mr. E. H. D. Hall stated he would make out a list for No. Two Ward, and Mr. Langford undertook to look after No. Four Ward.

After the meeting had adjourned the ward committees met and arranged plans of action. It was decided to make a strong and united effort on polling day to bring out the voters. Members of the committees were appointed to watch the polls closely, and in the interim between this and voting day make a thorough canvass. The Board of Trade is entering heartily into the work. No active opposition to the by-law is feared; the only possibility of failure it is considered will be due to the apathy of the townspeople. If a sufficiently large vote is not taken the by-law is defeated by default. However, with such systematic and complete organization on the part of the supporters of the by-law, and the public interest which it is hoped and expected will be taken in this important matter, there can be little doubt that the by-law will be passed next Thursday.

The polling places are the same as in the municipal elections—one in each ward.

Monday's Fall Meeting.

Athletic Sports on the P. A. A. A. Grounds Good Prizes for all the Winners.

The success of the fall meeting of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association Monday afternoon is assured, as far as is possible in a case where the weather has so great an influence as upon out-door sports. If the day is fine, however, and Ashburnham doesn't slide into the lake in the meanwhile, there can be no doubt of the success of the sports. A fine programme has been prepared, comprising running, jumping, bicycling, etc., and the splendid array of cups and medal offered as prizes will bring out a large field of contestants in every event.

A small admission fee is charged. It is hoped that the townspeople will encourage by their presence an Association which has done so much to place athletics in Peterborough upon a substantial and thriving basis. The battalion band will supply music.

The sports are to be run off like clock-work. Each event is set down for a specified time, and the managers promise to adhere to the programme.

It was expected that the Toronto wheelmen would be present, and the date was fixed partly to suit their convenience. They promised to make Peterborough the terminus of their annual century run this fall, but the arrangement appears to have fallen through. However, there are enough of local bicyclists, and good ones at that, to make the races interesting.

All the best athletes in the town and district are to take part. Entries are coming in rapidly and every event promises a keen competition.

The sports will begin at half past two o'clock sharp.

THE ENTRIES.

The following list of entries, to which others will doubtless be added on Monday, will ensure successful sports:—

Personal.

Mr. Henry Bletcher, late with Mr. John McKee, leaves this evening to attend the College of Pharmacy at Toronto.

Mr. Chas. Russell, and old Peterborough boy who is now making his way in Philadelphia, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. D. J Scollard, Ennismore, left last evening for the Grand Seminary, Montreal, where he will complete his last year's study for the priesthood.

Mr. Wm. Irwin, of Harvey, has returned home after a two months' visit to Manitoba and the Western States. While away he came across quite a number of old residents of this county, the majority of whom were doing very well and comfortably situated.

Mr. Samuel B. Down, who served his apprenticeship in the drug business with Mr. John McKee, and passed the Ontario College of Pharmacy, afterwards taking his degree in pharmacy in New York and Massachusetts, and who has been in Rochester, New York and Boston since leaving Peterborough, has been re-engaged by Mr. McKee and will begin his duties Monday.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Our junior branch is now in active operation. Last evening there was a good attendance and much interest was taken in the Bible reading, after which a number signed the agreement and united with the Association. We purpose making our junior branch attractive and helpful to our lads, thus saving them.

Next Saturday morning, from 10 11, a physical training class will be formed under the care and training of Sergt.-Major Rundle.

Our physical training class met last evening for their first drill under the efficient leadership of our friend, Sergt.-Major Rundle. It was an hour of delightful and invigorating exercise. All felt we had been greatly helped by the drill. Class will meet each Friday evening from 8 to 9

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ANNUAL EXCURSION.—On Wednesday the 17th inst., the genial proprietor of the "Mary Ellen" invited his friends to join him on his second annual excursion to Lindsay. About forty availed themselves of the opportunity of enjoying a pleasant two days outing on our beautiful chain of lakes. The weather was all that could be desired, and all set out with the intention of having as good a time as possible, and it may be safely said that none were disappointed. Leaving here at eleven o'clock we passed through Burleigh, Lovesick, and Buckhorn, and proceeded to Gannon's Narrows where we were joined by a party of twenty from Ennismore. Proceeding, we arrived at Bobcaygeon in due time, and after spending a pleasant hour at that point, we set out on the remaining portion of the voyage, and arrived in Lindsay about six o'clock. Obliging hackmen conveyed the excursionists to various hotels where they were treated right royally. In the morning after an early breakfast, the visitors scattered through the town, each following his own inclinations, until all were summoned to the wharf by the whistle of the "Mary Ellen." About ten o'clock we set out on the return voyage, and in a few short hours we were safely landed home again, all delighted with the trip. Too much cannot be said in praise of the treatment received at the hands of captain and crew, who did their utmost to make all thoroughly enjoy themselves; and we feel positive that, should Mr. Young run a similar excursion next season, it will be largely patronized not only by the villagers, but by outsiders as well.

Springville.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Presbyterian congregation, of Springville intend to celebrate the ninth anniversary of the opening of their new church, on Tuesday, Sept. 30th. Tea will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock p m, after which a programme will be rendered. Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M P., will occupy the chair, and speeches will be delivered by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.; Mr. R. R. Hall, barrister; Rev. B. C. Jones, Port Hope; Rev. Wm. McEwan, Lakefield; Rev. E. F. Torrance, Peterborough; Rev. B. Greatrix, Cavan; Rev. W. McCamus, Frazerville; and Rev. O. Bennett, Minden. Vocal and instrumental music will be furnished by Prof. Ketchum, of Peterborough; the Misses Campbell, of Warsaw; Master Gillott, of Millbrook; the Williamson brothers and others. The proceeds are in aid of the general funds of the church. A large attendance is looked for. Admission, 25c.

THE TRIAL DAY AT HAND.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR THE CONFLICT.

How Birchall and the Lawyers Spent the Sabbath. The Pilgrimage to the Swamp—Pickthall Puts in an Appearance Pulpit References to the Crime.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 21.—Amid external surrounding that should make the Queen of the Autumn glow with natural beauty, the great Birchall murder trial will open to-morrow morning at 11 before Mr. Justice MacMahon. The fair County of Oxford, of which Woodstock is the capital, never looked fairer at this season of the year, and in the loneliest spot in this favored county the murder was committed around which so much interest has centered. While the world is so bright without, it must indeed be dark within the cell in which is confined the alleged murderer, Reginald Birchal. His anguish of heart is no doubt shared by his devoted wife, quartered in one of the village hotels, for that she is devoted there is abundance of evidence to prove.

ONE OF BIRCHALL'S WATER COLORS

The Crown has all of its evidence in ship shape now, and when it is unfolded to the public it will read like one continuous chain of strange romance, never broken, it is said, by a missing link of circumstance. What the defence will be is still problematical to outsiders, even to the intelligent and wide-awake correspondent, but there is a grave suspicion that there will be a great deal of trifling to luck, and it may prove a case where indeed the onus of proof rests with the Crown.

HOW SUNDAY WAS SPENT.

I visited the jail late to night and was informed that Birchall had passed the day about the same as usual. The fact that he is on the eve of his trial does not seem to have changed the man's bearing one bit. His wife was with him to-day. She seems now to regard the matter in a more serious light than ever before, and no wonder. Birchall will be the man from the jail to the Town Hall and back again daily in a closed carriage in charge of guards.

The outside lawyers engaged in the case spent Sunday in a variety of ways. Mr. Osler sought seclusion in the neighboring Forest City. Mr. Blackstock, perched high in Judge Finkle's swagger dogcart, drove out to the swamp this afternoon, but he only remained a few minutes. Mr. Dugald MacMurchy, who will assist Mr. Blackstock in the defence, arrived from Toronto this evening. He was accompanied by Mrs. Blackstock. This lady, it is said, feels the deepest interest in the outcome of the case in which her husband has taken passage for fame and glory. Mr. Justice MacMahon spent the day at the country seat of Mr. P. C. Patteson of Toronto, near Eastwood. D. A. Reilly is also a guest at Mr. Patteson's.

Deputy Attorney General Cartwright, accompanied by Detective Murray and Chief of Police Tom Young of Niagara Falls, also went to the swamp this afternoon. Fully 300 people visited that somewhat famed spot during the day. The Woodstock livery-men and tollgate keepers along the Oxford roads are enjoying quite a picnic through these pilgrimages of the curious. The ladies predominate in the list of visitors.

MISSING PICKTHALL TURNS UP.

All doubts as to the presence of Neville H. Pickthall at the trial were set at rest by the arrival of that erratic young Englishman in town last night. Pickthall may or may not be called as a witness, but the crown has brought him to the scene of the trial so that there will be no chance of making a scapegoat of him through absence.

Mr. Pickthall does your Queen City honor by registering at his hotel as one of her residents. He has lately been employed on a farm near Toronto. Notwithstanding anything Gus. has yet appeared in the newspapers there is really nothing to show that this young man knew aught of the murder previous to its commission.

Several of the local clergymen referred to the tragedy in the course of their sermons to-day. Rev. W. A. McKay, pastor of Chalmers church, who preached this evening to a large congregation, said among other things:

THE DEATH OF SIN.

"A young man is found dead in a neighboring swamp. He has been murdered. A more cruel, cold-blooded murder has seldom been heard of. One charged with the murder lies in yonder jail to be put to-morrow on trial for his life. Our town is stirred over the awful event as seldom before. A very deep interest is taken in the matter, not only throughout this whole land, but also in the United States and across the Atlantic. Let the investigation be thorough and impartial, and let justice be done in the stern demand everywhere.

"But, friends, there is another death—the death of sin. A soul in sin is a soul dead. There are many destroyers and the slain are on every side of us. It may be they are our own neighbors, friends, relatives. Spiritual ignorance, worldly pleasures, covetousness, greed for gain and strong drink—which is another name for the devil—are slaying their thousands, and you who are fondly so roused over the foul murder of a man in the dismal swamp, how do you regard the spiritually dead ones around you and what are you doing to stop the destruction of bodies and souls that is going on every day?

"It was a dark night in Egypt when there was one dead in every Egyptian family, but to-night there are families—not a few in Woodstock—in which there is not one living soul; father is dead, mother is dead and the children are dead, and God's own people seem to be fast asleep. Awake from your sleep! Arise from the dead!

"Rescue the perishing, care for the dying. Snatch them in pity from sin and the grave."

OTHER SCRIPT REFERENCES.

Rev. Dr. McMullen of Knox Church in his opening prayer expressed the hope that justice would be done, and invoked Divine guidance in aiding judge and jury to arrive at the truth in the case.

Rev. Mr. Vowlen of Cathcart, who occupied the pulpit of the Central Methodist Church in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Ross, spoke of the value of even one human life and illustrated his point by citing the interest taken in the present case and the fact that almost the entire world was watching with eager interest the fate of the man whose life hung in the balance.

Upon it becoming known some weeks ago that no preference would be shown the clergy in the matter of admission tickets, a number wrote at once to newspapers with a view of being appointed accredited agents, and by this means secured entrance passes.

The pavement surrounding the Town Hall will be liberally sprinkled with sawdust to-morrow to avoid the proceedings being disturbed by the cars rattling o'er the stony street.

Of all the persons charged with murder in this county during the last 20 years but two have been convicted. One of these was hanged and the other ended his life in a criminal asylum for the insane.

A BLOODY BATTLE IN VIRGINIA.

Wronged Italians Attack a Sheriff's Posse Several Persons Killed.

LOUISA, Ky., Sept. 20.—On Twelve Pole Creek near Wayne C. H., Va., Friday, a terrible fight occurred between a sheriff's posse and a gang of Italian railroad laborers. Several Italians were killed and a number wounded. Some weeks ago a contractor on the Norfolk Western Railroad named Keough went away leaving numerous creditors, among the number being the Italians. A new contractor took possession of the abandoned works and put a number of laborers to work in a cut formerly worked by the Italians. The Italians refused to allow anyone to work in the cut until they had received their pay, and proceeded to oust the new laborers. Three times the new laborers were run out by the Italians, who used stones, clubs, knives and pistols. The contractor then applied to the court for protection and was furnished a posse of a dozen men, headed by the sheriff of Wayne county.

On Friday the sheriff attempted to arrest the Italians, who fiercely resisted and a combat resulted with forty or more Italians on one side, armed with stones, knives and revolvers, and the sheriff's men on the other. The Italians fought from behind trees and rocks. Firing became general and lasted some minutes. When the smoke had cleared away several Italians were found in the last throes of death and several more were wounded. The sheriff's men escaped with a few severe bruises. About twenty Italians were arrested and jailed. The remainder escaped.

SURREPTITIOUS WHISKY.

Sing Sing Prison Convicts Manage to Get Gloriously Drunk.

SING SING, Sept. 20.—Yesterday a number of the prisoners in Sing Sing prison were employed in unloading a carload of rags in the prison yard. Under the rags they discovered a small cask, filled with whisky, and, after stowing it away in a corner of the car, proceeded with their work and said nothing. Soon the convicts in a quiet way began to help themselves to the contents of the cask. To the surprise of the guards the men became hilarious. The guards investigated and found the cask, bung-hole open. The convicts had had a glorious time while it lasted. They were immediately sent to their cells. Michael Brown, serving a 10 years' term for burglary, was helplessly drunk, and had to be carried to his cell. What remained of the whisky was dumped into the Hudson.

Locomotive Engineers at New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Grand Chief Engineer P. M. Arthur twice addressed the grand union meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers here to-day. The meeting is in the nature of a national convention of the order and the brotherhood divisions were represented from Maine to California and Canada to Panama. The meeting was secret. The attendance was remarkably large, there being 1000 men present at the morning session and 1500 at the afternoon session. Chief Arthur was accorded an ovation. Charles Hall of New York presided. The meeting unanimously adopted the following:

"Resolved—That it is the sentiment of this union meeting that we approve the instruction given by our Grand Chief Engineer to the engineers during the late trouble and we have full confidence in his integrity. We also honor the engineers on the New York Central Railway in following the instruction given by our G. C. E. and in keeping so close to the laws and rules of our brotherhood."

Two Men Swept Overboard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—The British ship Ventura put in here last evening in distress. The Ventura sailed from here from Westport, Ireland. On Sept. 19 she encountered a hurricane. Every thread of canvas was whipped to fragments and an enormous wave over a hundred feet high passed over the vessel. Everything movable was washed away. Two boats, the rails and stanchions were torn clean off. The iron door of the ice cabin was burst in as if by a battering ram and the cabin filled with water. Paul Volan, ablesceanau, and John Sneta, a sailmaker, were swept overboard. His shipmates saw Sneta clinging to a piece of broken boat but could not help him. The waves grew heavier and the ship suddenly turned over on her side, leaving only the bilge above the sea. Several hours later the wind began to blow from the opposite direction and the vessel partly righted.

THE ACCIDENT RECORD.

FATAL WRECK WITHIN CHICAGO'S CITY LIMITS.

A Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Engine Runs Into an Illinois Central Suburban Train—Four Dead Bodies Taken Out—Other Casualties.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—At 5 o'clock to-night a switch engine on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, ran into the rear of an excursion train on the Illinois Central near 18th street. Many persons are reported killed and a large number injured.

For a time the confusion was so great that even an approximate idea of the loss of life was impossible to obtain. The first reports from the police had it that 40 people probably had met death, while the railway officials said only two or three persons were certainly known to have been killed. Within half an hour, however, four mangled corpses had been dragged out of the heap of broken timbers and twisted iron that marked the spot where the collision took place. By this time it had also been ascertained that at least three other persons were seriously injured and six others slightly. The collision took place near Douglass Park and the victims were Sunday excursionists returning to the city. The freight train crew assert that they passed Millard-avenue under a clear signal. Millard-avenue is only a short distance from where the smash-up occurred.

At the Illinois Central trainmaster's office at 10.10 p.m. it was stated here that only four persons had been reported killed and about eight injured.

The four dead were two sisters named Ginnan and two young men, identity unknown. Of the injured Miss Pilgrim was dying when taken from the wreck. The others wounded seriously were Henry Niemann, face smashed and hurt internally; Albert Berger, leg broken and foot crushed; Mr. Riewig, head and arm badly cut; Mrs. Bork, collarbone broken; Richard Hoffman, leg mangled; F. Korn, rib broken. Otto Schroff, Lena Rywick and Kirk Eastman were hurt but not dangerously.

An Eramosa Pioneer Killed.

GUELPH, Sept. 20.—Peter McQueen, a retired farmer aged 78, was instantly killed by falling from a wagon last night. His neck was broken. Deceased was one of the pioneers of Eramosa township, having settled there in 1837.

Fatal Mine Explosion.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 20.—An explosion of gas took place in the Murray Hill shaft of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre colliery this afternoon. The body of Anthony Jennings has been taken out badly burned. There were only five men in the shaft and it is feared all have perished. They were: Lawrence Casey, James Sullivan, Fire Boss James Boswell, Edward Bulson and Anthony Jennings. This shaft is one of the ganiest in the world and another explosion is feared.

Went Through a Burning Bridge.

NEOGA, Ia., Sept. 21.—A wreck occurred on the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific Railway near here, about 3 o'clock this morning. Engineer Martin, E. S. Kridge, Fireman Burke and Brakeman Williamson were killed. The train went through a burning bridge fifty feet high.

Fatal Collision on the Santa Fe.

LA PLATA, Mo., Sept. 21.—Two Santa Fe freight trains collided near here last evening. Brakeman Gills was killed and one engineer and one fireman were dangerously hurt.

A Pitch-In on the B. & O.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—A freight train on the B. & O. road, 12 miles from here, was dashed into from the rear to-day by a fast freight. Engineer James Shields and Fireman Cuphers were fatally and Fireman Reynolds badly injured.

A QUEBEC MURDER.

Mrs. Gervais Shot While Sitting at the Tea Table.

QUEBEC, Sept. 21.—Two of the provincial police have left for Point du Lac to endeavor to effect the arrest of the murderers of Mrs. Gervais, who was shot and instantly killed about 7 o'clock Thursday night while sitting at tea with her husband.

What the Conference Is Doing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The Conference Committee on the Tariff Bill had another two-hours' meeting to-day and made further progress towards complete agreement. The paper schedule was disposed of, also the hemp, flax and jute schedules. The Senate amendment relating to fish was modified so as to limit the free importation to fish caught by American vessels equipped with American nets and other appliances. The next conference will probably be held Monday morning. The Republican members of the committee expect to devote the larger part of the intervening time to private consultation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The conferees on the Tariff Bill say to-day that an agreement is not probable before Tuesday or Wednesday. As the report goes first to the House for consideration it will not reach the Senate until the latter part of the week. It will then depend upon the desire of senators to get away whether the discussion shall be long or not. Notice has been given that three tariff speeches are to be made, when the conference report is made to the Senate by Messrs. Aldrich and Carlisle of the Finance Committee and Mr. Ingalls, who was in the chair while the bill was under consideration in the Senate. The Republican conferees on the Tariff bill were in session all day to-day. To-night one of them said that he was very well satisfied with the progress made. The conferees, he said, had decided that it would be unwise to make any statement respecting the status of any one of the schedules and the changes made either in rates or phraseology, for none of them were beyond the power of recall. Many items had been agreed upon which would probably stand as agreed to—but which were all liable to change. Until the matter was finally settled and the report signed a definite statement could not be given. It was reported during the afternoon that the conference had finished their work and that the bill would be reported to-morrow. This the gentleman said was not the case. The best that could be done in his estimation would be to finish the report by Tuesday night and have it ready to make to the House Wednesday morning.

Two Chicago Gamblers Kill Each Other.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—During an exciting personal encounter in McGarigle's saloon between two notorious gamblers to-night each fatally shot the other. The contestants were "Bull" Haggerty and "Bad Jimmy" Connerton.

Peterboro's Telephone War.

PETERBORO, Sept. 20.—Since the Ontario Telephone Company was organized in town there have been rumors that the Bell company would fight the new company and to-day the first move in the war was made when a circular was issued by Mr. H. W. Kent, local manager of the Bell company, notifying that the rate of connection with his exchange would be reduced to $10 per annum until further notice.

The Green-eyed Monster.

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 20.—While a party was returning from a dance early this morning a man named Davis shot Eva Holden, aged 16, and her escort, James Hardaker. The girl was shot through the heart and died instantly. Hardaker was shot in the thigh and his condition is serious. The cause was jealousy. Davis was arrested.

Two Vessels Given Up as Lost.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A cablegram from London says the underwriters have given up as lost the ships Lord Raglan and Gretna. The former is out from San Francisco for a port in the United Kingdom some 200 days. The Gretna is out 189 days from England for San Francisco. Both vessels have undoubtedly gone to the bottom.

LATE LONDON TOPICS.

THE POLICY OF THE IRISH ARRESTS QUESTIONED.

Influences at Work Among the Irish Priesthood—Slavery Decrees in Germany's African Possessions—Davitt's New Journalistic Venture.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Tribune's London special says: Opinion is much divided as to the prudence of arresting Mr. Dillon, Mr. O'Brien and other Nationalists at the present moment. There seems to be a general feeling, especially in Government circles, that the Irish movement is rapidly disintegrating. The influence of the Vatican has been actively though quietly at work among the hierarchy and priesthood. The public announcement last week that the Pope had expressed approval of Bishop O'Dwyer's attitude toward Mr. Dillon was only an outward manifestation of the powerful undercurrent which has lately been working in favor of the Government. Since then the Bishop of Clonfert and also Bishop O'Callaghan of Cork, one of the proteges of Archbishop Croke, have been ranging themselves in line with Dr. O'Dwyer. There is no mistake, too, about the fact that Catholic lay opinion has been powerfully diverted from the Plan of Campaign. Canon Cantwell's address last Sunday and the resolutions of the Tipperary Town Commissioners afforded further evidence of the change which is coming over Irish opinion. It has been known for several weeks that the people of New Tipperary and the tenants of the Smith-Barry estate are becoming discontented and rebellious toward the local Nationalist leaders. Canon Cantwell's representation is only one of the many instances where people have visited the priests asking for deliverance from the cruel coercion of the Land League. Lord Londonderry's recent speech at Sheffield and the letter of "Presbyterian" in Thursday's Times afford evidence of the great improvement in the social and economic conditions of Ireland.

In view of this change and of the undoubted testimony that the leaders of the League are losing control of the rank and file, in view of the fact that dissentions are springing up between the central executive and some of the branches, it strikes many persons here that the Government has given Mr. Dillon and Mr. O'Brien a valuable advertisement. It is possible that the Ministry are better informed than the outsiders of the real condition of Tipperary. Some accounts aver that affairs are so bad that a few days would have witnessed internecine strife in that region. Consequently the Government apologists claim the action of the Irish administration will strengthen many waverers in their desire to desert the Nationalist camp, especially now that the Papal view of the Plan of Campaign is becoming more widely accepted.

In connection with Irish subjects, I may mention the appearance of Mr. Michael Davitt's new paper, The Labor World. It contains much interesting reading, but will astonish the British workingmen, who are chiefly accustomed to the mild writings of Lloyd's News, The Weekly Despatch, The People, The Weekly Echo, and the Saturday publications of some of the big provincial papers. All these are newspapers containing little political color. Mr. Davitt's Labor World, however, leads off with a declaration that "no crop, no rent," is political humanity for Ireland and sound political economy. One is able to gather another aspect of his principles in his enquiry as to what entitles a few thousand landlords to levy a yearly tax of £200,000,000 in the form of rent upon the workers of Great Britain and Ireland.

But the most important feature of this new organ of advanced opinions is the declaration that next week it will publish sensational disclosures of the conspiracy behind the forged Parnell letters, and also Pigott's correspondence with leading statesmen. It likewise announces that it will throw some light upon the origin of the dynamite plots, the use of the Secret Service money by agents of the British Consul at New York, and other chapters of secret history connected with the Irish movement. The Labor World is clearly in sympathy with Mr. John Burns, and will consequently not appeal very widely to the better-informed and better-paid ranks of the English workingmen. Its extravagant tone will not make it acceptable, except among the Radical and Socialist clubs and among laborers of the docker type.

The strike movements have been quieter this week. The Southampton dockers' agitation has collapsed; but concessions have been made to certain seamen and firemen. The truth is that the wirepullers of the Labor party are becoming somewhat anxious as to the effect of rising combinations against them. At present they seem indisposed to encourage any great movement which may encroach upon their funds. The Shipowners Federation is quietly completing its organization. Its incorporation will be ready for registration at the Board of Trade next week. Within the past few days a formidable body has been established among the ranks of labor to resist the pressure of the trades unions. I allude to the Shipmasters' and Officers' Federation. A deputation from this body, representing 7000 certificated masters and navigating officers of the merchant service, waited on the interim council of the new Shipowners' Federation to ask for co-operation and assistance in future cases of coercion; and the shipowners are, of course, sympathetic. Incidents like these are not without effect upon the leaders of the Labor party, and the launching of the Shipowners Federation has no doubt much to do with the collapse of the dockers' movement at Southampton. The unfortunate Mayor of that city, whose weakness was the chief cause of the development of violence, has fallen a victim to brain fever.

The official denials from Berlin of The Times's and Reuter's telegrams respecting the slave decrees at Bagamoyo are not sufficiently definite to satisfy English public opinion that those telegrams were groundless. It is believed here that the German agents in Africa look with too lenient an eye on the slave traffic, in order to draw trade away from Zanzibar. The German newspapers are making a most furious attack upon the British press, which, however, can only be justified when it is absolutely proved that The Times and Reuter's telegraph agency have been guilty of positively groundless assertions. At present this is by no means established.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, Sept. 20.—Jane Garvin, the woman arrested Thursday afternoon by Detective McKenzie on the charge of stealing $300 from John Brady, a Dundas tinsmith, was committed at the Police Court to-day for trial.

The Great Central Fair will be held here next week.

Poison in the Pump.

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 21.—A few days ago an agent sold a suction pump to Henry Verner, a farmer. The Verner family consisted of husband, wife and three small children. The pump was put in the well near the kitchen, and after they commenced to use the water the entire family were taken violently ill. A physician who was summoned pronounced it a case of poisoning. The little girl died, one of the boys cannot live and it is doubtful if Mr. Verner can recover. An investigation revealed that "rough on rats" had been put in the pump.

Robbed in a Montreal Dive.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—An old man named Brant, a wealthy railroad contractor and lumber merchant from Rimouski, arrived in town last week with $1000. He was drugged and robbed of the whole amount in a low eating house.

Gave Himself Up to the Police.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.—Hoinard, who is charged with killing young Pierson by sticking an umbrella in his eye and who escaped to the woods, gave himself up to the police this morning near St. Norbert and was lodged in jail.

THE PROGRESS OF INDIA.

A blue-book giving a concise official account of the "Moral and Material Progress of India" during the year 1888 is summarized in the London Times of the 3rd inst. A few of the more suggestive facts may be of interest to our readers. Public order, for instance, is guaranteed in India by an army of 140,000 police and 500,000 village watchmen, besides 18,000 police in Upper Burmah. The crime list showed an increase in murders and other offences against the person, but a large decrease in dacoities, or gang robberies. The total number of persons coming before the magistrates, was 1,400,000, of whom half were convicted; of the sentences to imprisonment, some seventy-two per cent. were for terms under six months. On the other hand, the number of capital punishments was 484—figures which point to a much freer use of the rope than is now the practice in England or America. This was, we suppose, to be expected, and may be necessary in the present stage of civilization in India. The number of women prisoners is steadily decreasing and amounts to less than 3,000 for all India—a gratifying fact of which one would like to have the explanation. The total debt of India is about £200,000,000, of which about £91,000,000 are for railways and irrigation works. "Thus more than half the debt is for productive expenditure, and not for money spent in long-past wars, as is the case in almost every European country." Some £50,000,000 of four per cent. stock were converted during the year into three-and-a half per cent. stock, a very tangible saving in interest. The general land revenue of the country—i.e., the rent paid to the State as landlord—amounted to Rx. 22,375,000; the salt revenue to Rx. 7,675,000; and the opium revenue to a little under six millions of tens of rupees. The consumption of liquor has declined, owing, probably, to the large increase of taxes and excise duties. The area of land under cultivation, exclusive of Upper Burmah, was increased by more than 1,500,000 of acres during the year, and the total area cultivated, calculated for about two-thirds of British India, now amounts to about 150,000,000 acres, of which 130,000,000 grow food crops and 10,000,000 grow cotton. The Government irrigated 12,000,000 acres in 1888, an increase of 1,500,000 acres over the preceding year.

OPERATORS in what are known as green goods, by which are meant counterfeit bank notes, have developed a novel feature in the complicated game of rascality. An outline of their method is shown in a circular. The circular proceeds: "I am desirous of obtaining a good, shrewd agent in your locality to handle my goods." Enclosed with it is a newspaper clipping—or rather what looks like a newspaper clipping, for the so-called scrap of newspaper is concocted by the sender, and is as bogus as the money—which professes to give, in the shape of a Washington despatch, intelligence that millions of dollars' worth of dishonest duplicates of bonds and U.S. Treasury notes have been paid by that Government, and that somebody high in office is in league with counterfeiters to enable these false bonds to be floated. Presumably, the "goods" mentioned are fraudulent Treasury notes and bonds. It may not be amiss to say that the facts mentioned in this lying pretended extract are no facts at all. No such millions of loss have ever been suffered by bogus bonds. If any man is foolish enough, or dishonest enough to send $500 to purchase $7,500 worth of these "first class bonds," he will not get bonds for it. He will get what other loose fish have got before him: a box full of sawdust and old paper. The scamp who sends the circular referred to counsels his dupes thus: "Act square. Be true and honorable. Do me no harm, and you will never regret it," and signs himself, "Yours very truly in honor and confidence." The sort of honor and confidence that thieves display.

MICHAEL DAVITT, the Irish leader, who has long been a Knight of Labour, has started a paper in London called the Labour World. This is how he announces his views:—"My policy will be the advocacy of the rights of labour, a more just distribution of the products of industry, a better and healthier condition of employment in mill and mine and workshop and less hours of labour. I am a legal eight hour man. I intend to try and win for the Labour World the privilege of calling it the organ of the masses. I shall be found earnestly backing up such programmes as have for their object the winning of brighter and happier lives for those who are designated the masses. I am not wedded to any particular school of social reform; but I am not egotistical enough to imagine I can propound a scheme for the abolition of the evils of society that will knock all others into a cocked hat in the matters of wisdom and practicability. I can only say that that plan that will go nearest securing to the labouring classes the full value of the full product of their toil as a reward for their industry will have the strongest support."

SAMPLES of the new compressed peat product are on exhibition in Ottawa. They consist of solidly compressed cylindrical blocks of peat, about twelve inches in circumference and in length, composed of almost pure carbon, black, shining, and heavy. This fuel is being put on the market at the low price of a dollar per ton. This will, if it can be continued, seriously affect the coal trade, because the great railway companies will use peat almost exclusively. For engine and boiler furnaces it is unexcelled as a heat producer. Almost inexhaustible deposits of this material are found in the meadows of the "Mer Bleu," in Russell county, and these, in the opinion of mineralogists, will yet be used instead of Pennsylvania coal for smelting the ore of the Ontario iron mines.

CANADA is likely to become some day, perhaps not distant, the largest producer of petroleum of any country. Mr. R. G. McConnel, of the Canadian Geological Survey, has been examining the petroleum beds in the Athabasca district. On his way home, he is reported to have said, at Winnipeg, that the largest petroleum beds in the world are found there; that on the Athabasca banks beds of sands 250 feet deep are saturated with tar, which has oozed out and been left in this form by evaporation. These beds it is added, cover thousands of square miles, and attest an an almost incalculable flow of petroleum in the past. It is expected that the old source of supply underneath only requires to be tapped to produce superabundance of petroleum. The government will be asked to make experimental borings to test the present condition of the ancient deposits. Such promises as these appearances give can scarcely prove deceptive, it is probable that, considering their extent, these are the richest petroleum deposits in the world.—Monetary Times.

THERE are, says an exchange, five mines now in operation at Sudbury—the Evans, Murray, Silby and Copper Cliff being under one management, the Blizzard belonging to another company. The Copper Cliff is the largest and best paying, employing some 600 men. The shaft is 600 feet deep, and strikes the nickel vein at one side. A drift of 300 feet has been made and a large chamber opened. Air drills are used, and the ore is smelted near the mines and shipped in barrels. This summer a test hole was begun and has now gone down 200 feet. The first twenty feet was through rock, but the drill is now working in nickel.

Tailors' Playful Paradoxes.

Tailors are the most playful paradoxes in the world. Why, whenever you may want something new, they will recommend you something that is much worn.

This is true in regard to tailors and men everywhere, but at the present time it is positively dangerous to recommend to the ladies new brands in dyes when Diamond Dyes are asked for. It matters not how high sounding the new name may be, and how strongly recommended by druggists and store-keepers, it is often suicidal to try and induce the ladies to use these new and crude brands.

Tailors recommend what is much worn, and so all traders that sell dyes, recommend what is much used, viz, Diamond Dyes. They are a strong link in the chain of every trader's business, and always give the greatest satisfaction and pleasure.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

Editor O'Brien Talks about Balfour's "Coercion Policy."

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Conservatives scout the idea that the Irish Nationalists were arrested to prevent them from going to America. They see in Balfour's policy a laudable effort to prevent the recurrence of disorder in Ireland.

Mr O'Brien in an interview to-day said he could not imagine what infatuation had driven the Government to make the arrests. "It is easy to see," he said, "what they are driving at. They are making a supreme effort to crush out the organization of the tenants for concerted action. This they expect to accomplish by simultaneous clearances on all estates where the plan of campaign has been adopted. The evicted tenants they calculate on thus having helpless at their feet."

"But can such a policy be successful?" was asked.

"No," Mr. O'Brien replied, "it is in my opinion a piece of the conceivable folly, but it seems clear to me this is what the Government propose to attempt."

"It is held by many," the correspondent said, "that the main purpose of Mr. Balfour in making the arrests at this time is to prevent Mr. Dillon and you making your contemplated trip to America."

"That does not seem a probable theory to me," replied Mr. O'Brien, "but, if it is the true one, a more absurd calculation was never made even by the present Chief Secretary for Ireland. Far from preventing our appeal to America he has made it for us in the most striking and impressive way. The story of these arrests will ring throughout America like a trumpet note compared with which our voices would have been feeble and ineffective. All Irish-Americans know that Tipperary is the key to the fight for Ireland. They will take care to frustrate the dastardly calculations of the Government."

"What do you think, Mr. O'Brien," the correspondent asked, "will be the ultimate effect of the Government's present course on the cause you represent?"

"It will be altogether beneficial," Mr. O'Brien replied without hesitation. "It will close up the ranks of our followers, revive drooping courage and breath every shadow of depression. The combination in Tipperary is absolutely impregnable. They cannot be shaken."

The Dublin Freeman's Journal Nationalist says: "If the Government's object was to stop the visit of Dillon and O'Brien to America the arrests are a shameful confession of weakness and discomfiture." It characterizes Balfour's policy as a piece of imbecility which will give to the plan of campaign a most invigorating and exhilarating stimulus.

The Dublin Express and Cork says: "It is an imperative necessity to secure relief from the tyranny now exercised by the tenants."

A Blessing in Disguise.

DUBLIN, Sept. 19.—The latest place in Dublin is headquarters of the Land League. Nationalists are calling in great and strong to learn the latest news in regard to the arrest and to consult on plans of action for the future. Mr. Dillon is the centre of an animated circle. No note of despondency is detected in the utterances of the leaders. On the other hand there seems to be fresh confidence and new enthusiasm. Instead of regarding the arrests as a calamity the prevailing tendency is to rejoice at them as a blessing in disguise. The action of Balfour the Nationalists hold to have been an immense tactical blunder for the Government. They are satisfied that it will result in signal advantages to the Irish cause.

The inability of Dillon and O'Brien to make the proposed trip to America is much regretted. But the plan of presenting the true state of Ireland to the American public by means of speeches by leading Irish orators has not been abandoned. Who will be selected to go to America has not yet been determined.

More Arrests.

DUBLIN, Sept. 19.—John Cullinane and Michael Dalton, members of the National League, have been arrested.

T. D. Sullivan will probably make a tour of America.

A Terrible Revelation.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—The body of a woman named Gosda was exhumed at Szegdin today for the purpose of an autopsy. When the coffin was opened it was found the woman had been buried alive and that she had given birth to a child in the coffin.

A Mosside Story.

I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters and pills and find them everything to me. I had dyspepsia with bad breath and bad appetite, but after a few days' use of B.B.B. I felt stronger, could eat a good meal and felt myself a different man. W. H. STORY, Mosside, Ont. 2w37d

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. WM. T. GUNN, Wilfrid, Ont. 2w37d is at Sambro, N. S., whence Mr. R. E. Hartt, writes as follows:—"Without a doubt Burdock Blood Bitters has done me a lot of good, I was sick and weak and had no appetite, but B.B.B. made me feel smart and strong. Were its virtues more widely known, many lives would be saved. 2w37d

Wilson's Wild Cherry.

For nearly twenty years this valuable medicine has been largely used for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Lungs. Those who know its value always recommend it to their friends knowing that Wilson's Wild Cherry never disappoints. The genuine is sold by all druggists in white wrappers only. dw

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

There are many white soaps in the market each represented to be as good as Bailley's. They are not, but like all counterfeits, lack that peculiar and remarkable quality of the genuine. Ask for Bailey's Electric or Cyclone, and insist upon getting it. tuf w

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

Some Things That Try an Editor's Sublime Soul.

We extract the following from the last issue of the Arizona Kicker:

APOLOGETICAL. Our subscribers will not fail to notice the sad condition of our third page to-day. We had the form ready for press when Judge Gilbert, our popular and esteemed Circuit Judge, called at the office in a drunken condition, and in his attempt to hug us to prove his affection, he knocked the form into "pi." We hadn't time to reset the matter and so had to leave the page blank. While we are sorry, it is not our fault. We can't even pitch into the police about it. He not only owes us $80 borrowed money, but controls legal advertising to the amount of $500. This is our excuse, and we trust our readers will appreciate it.

A BAFFLED CONTEMPORARY.—At 10 o'clock last Sunday night we got word by telephone that some one was opening the graves in our private cemetery, wherein lie the remains of the seven different men who have tried to get the drop on us but were a trifle too late. We made for the scene at a rapid gait, and what was our astonishment to discover that the marauder was no less a person than our esteemed cotemporary—the editor, publisher and proprietor of the Cow-Bell Gazette and Ding Dong Advertiser. The old villain has stolen our office stove—borrowed a second pair—hooked a fob type—conquered, with our foreman begged our ink, opened dozens of our letters and had access to us from Sunday morning to Saturday night. He has attempted to ape and imitate our enterprises and repeated failures have made him desperate.

He hasn't the nerve to pull a gun, even when his nose is between someone's fingers. He peeked out our graveyard in every way, and sought in every way to belittle our courage. Fired with hate because everybody who came here want to see that little burying ground, he plann t to go out there and dig up every body and transplant the lot to a grave yard of his own. We have heard of stupendous cheek, but this case takes the cake. What did we do? Well, we didn't want to kill the poor old, long-shanked, bow-legged cousin of a cactus, but we did turn to and maul him until the boys over at Ranch 11—seven miles away—heard his yells and thought that a new species of whippoorwill had struck Arizona. We understand he claims to have been "highwayed" and robbed and he's bragging that he wounded two strangers. The case is as we have given it.

SHOOTING HIS AD.—Two weeks ago we suggested to the public the propriety of putting a hempen neck tie on Dan Smith, the proprietor of the Last Chance Saloon, and swinging him up to a limb. It seemed to us to be the best way to work a reform in his everyday demeanor. Dan was advertising with us, and he ordered his ad out. Result: Dan Smith is now back at the Kansas State Prison to serve his unexpired term.

There's a moral in this. We propose to take advertising on a business way, and as a business investment. No matter who is advertising with us, we shall refer to him celegantly in any way we deem best. Had Smith sought revenge by shooting at us we should have honored him. When he turned in and stopped a six inch ad, which he had 6 cochins a low rate on, and which we needed to fill out the sixth column of the third page, we decided that it was time to close the game.

MORE EXCITEMENT.—We have known Jim Hastings for over two years, drunk and sober, and we never supposed that he was a bit sensitive about having the entire American population know that he sleeps in the driest corner than in his bed. In our last issue we incidentally referred to him in connection with a barrel of whisky, supposing it would feel flattered if anything. To our great amazement he walked into this office yesterday and demanded a personal and public apology. He had with him a written apology, good for a solid column, which he wanted us to publish or take the consequences. We generally prefer the consequences. We did, in the case, and it was a painful spectacle to see poor old Jim, who was once a gifted lawyer and is now living on his mother-in-law, peel off under us. We simply dropped him out the back window, and when he borrowed a gun at the Star saloon and fired six bullets into the Kicker office we paid him not the least attention. He is around town boasting of not being going to shoot us on sight. Foolish old man! We commonly pity you.

The Bridegroom Killed.

Policeman—What killed your husband?

Mrs. Newbride of Chicago—Oh, sir, we were just starting off, after the ceremony, and our sister and another girl threw their slippers at us and one struck him.

As the Twig Is Bent.

Wife—That boy of yours is a great reader. What are you going to make of him anyway?

Smyth—Not a barber.—Life.

Another Kind of Sole.

Mr. Faugle—Isn't that soul-stirring music?

Its sole—It is indeed sole stirring. It make me want to run away.

Real Nice.

"Can you decline love?" he asked the pretty little schoolmistress.

"No," she whispered, hiding her head upon his shoulder.—N. Y. Herald.

Without Doubt.

Capt. Spratt (lyrically)—He says the best cattle country is on Cowee——

Mrs. Spratt (coldly)—I suppose he'll be saying next that the ocean from the Occident are the best.—N. Y. Herald.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

HE SAW ONLY "MOTHER."

Went Back to Her Whose Tenderness Had Never Failed Him.

The doctor said it was no unusual thing in delirium, but it seemed strange and pathetic to the loving watchers that the middle-aged, careworn man, tossing wearily on a sick bed should fancy himself again a child at his mother's knee. The green grave far away in a country village where she slept had no existence so far as he was concerned. She had never died, but was with her boy again. The many trials of life had passed from his memory now, and boyish woes and confidences alone were on his lips.

When his weeping wife laid her hand on his fevered brow he looked up and smiled and called her "mother." The hand that held the medicine to his lips, that smoothed the pillow, was "mother," and in all the faces that came and went about his bed he saw but hers, the first his baby eyes had known.

He had forgotten her so many years. He had been so busy all these years, and a thousand worldly things had clouded the image of that kind old mother, but as death's mighty hand had set aside perplexing, fretting distractions, all so little now, clear and sweet to his parched soul came a memory of an innocent childhood and a mother's love. All at once he knew himself a weary, troubled creature, sick and faint over earth's fevered draught, and he went back like a little child, to her whose tenderness had never failed him.

"Your little boy is tired, mother. The sun is hot."

His children broke into sobs as he spoke, but his fatherhood was a thing unknown to him now.

"I'm sleepy and I want to go to bed. I've been a bad boy some to-day, ain't I. But I'll ask God to forgive me, and if you do, I guess he will too. Hear my prayers, mother, I've learned them by heart now."

They saw that the end was close at hand then, and his wife made a frantic appeal to him to recognize her, but his ears were fast dulling to all earthly sounds, and he only struggled to raise himself to his knees. They could have restrained him, but he said:

"What, I can't go to sleep without saying my prayers. I've been a bad boy to-day, and God would be angry, mother."

Then they helped him up, and with tender arms supported the weakened form, while he knelt with upturned eyes fast dimming with death's film and clasping his hands as a little child does by its crib side, prayed the sweet old petition of:

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray, Thee, Lord, my soul to keep
If I should die before I wake
I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to take.
—Detroit Free Press.

"WORK, YOU SLAVES."

Unique Vacation Enjoyed by a Broker's Clerk.

A clerk in a broker's office down town is enjoying a unique vacation. It is the first one he has had for about 12 years. He says he is having enough fun now to last him 5 years more. Before his vacation began his friends in the office asked him where he was going. He declined to answer. When he was free he didn't hurry away to Saratoga or to Long Branch or to the mountains. He staid at his home in New Jersey one day. The next morning he came into the city and went to his office. He sat down in an easy chair pushed his hat back on his head, and placed his feet on a desk. There he sat for several hours. He refused to explain his conduct until just before he left. Then he said to the clerks:

"I suppose you think I'm an idiot? I'm not. For 12 long years I've been looking forward to this. I like to sit here and watch you bog gars work. I'm gloating over you. It does me more good than a trip on a steam yacht.

Every day since then, Sundays excepted, he has done the same thing. Sometimes he slumbers. He says he dreams he is at work.

The joy, he declares, of waking up and finding that he isn't is unequalled.—New York Times.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach,

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase of $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,055,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 68

Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shown under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

DR. WM. E. BESSEY

Consulting Physician, Orificial Surgeon, and Specialist,

192 KING ST. WEST, TORONTO,

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Chronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

Reporting the Trial.

Mr. H. W. Laird, of the Port Hope Times, has been engaged by a syndicate of American newspapers to furnish reports of the celebrated Birchall trial, which opened at Woodstock today. Mr. Laird is an expert stenographer and skilful newspaper man, and his reports will be interesting and accurate.

Foot Crushed.

Mr. John Crowe, of Cavan, has friends and relatives in town who will be pained to learn of a severe accident which befell him last Monday. His foot was caught in the gearing of a horse power attached to a threshing machine and badly crushed. He will be laid up for a month or six weeks.

The English Barrister.

The piece of mechanism representing an English barrister, exhibited at the Ten Cent store, attracts the attention of crowds of people. Mr. Butcher has an enterprising way of advertising his store. The automaton is a cleverly contrived and realistic imitation of that pompous, disputatious and exceedingly learned limb of the law, an English barrister.

The Volunteers Shoot.

Next Monday the annual rifle matches of the 57th Battalion will take place. The volunteers are looking forward with great interest to these matches. The committee, Capts. Hill, Mason, Brennan and Miller, will begin a canvass for prizes in a day or two among the merchants and other citizens. The ranges will be open to practice for the volunteers on Thursday and Friday, and such other days as the captains of the companies may arrange for.

Morrow's sugar 18 lbs. for $100. The farmers and townspeople are rushing to get it, and the tea he is offering for 25c is decidedly a treat. J. Morrow's, secure your bargains and go home satisfied. dw

A Dry Sunday.

There was consternation in many a household Sunday morning when it was discovered that the water tap was empty. And again this morning many a "washin'" which had been laid out ready for an early start had to be laid aside until a supply of water was available. The Waterworks Company were compelled to shut off the water Sunday morning on account of a break in the flume at the pumping station. A large staff of men was kept working all day and night, and about nine o'clock this morning the water was once more forced into the mains.

Another False Alarm.

An alarm of fire was sounded over the fourth ward wire about two o'clock this afternoon. The fire brigade turned out promptly and on proceeding to the neighborhood found out that there was no fire nor had an alarm been rung from any box. It supposed that the employes of the new telephone company in stringing their wires crossed the number four ward fire alarm wire, and a private wire in use at the time, causing a connection which rang the alarm on the fire wire. It is rather hard on the firemen that they should be given so much unnecessary trouble.

A Poor Excuse Better than None.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, solicitor for the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, has some forty cases in his hands, instituted against patrons of cheese factories for deterioration of milk. In seventeen of these the defendants have pleaded guilty and been fined $20 and costs, and proceedings will be taken against those who deny the charge. The Association is determined to stamp out the dishonest practice of sending impure milk to factories. The excuses offered by the defendants are amusing, as they are ingenious. One man avows his sincere honesty, and accounts for the deterioration of his milk by suggesting that perhaps he forgot to empty out the can after he was washing it and the milk was put in on top of the water. Another thinks it likely that when the pails were being rinsed out with water they may have accidentally been emptied into the milk cans. Still another whispers in confidence that he took "just a little bit" of cream off the milk for his tea at breakfast. And so it goes. Mr. Edwards is expecting every day to hear from the man who left his milk out doors over night and the heavy dew watered it. Such excuses as these won't go down, and the patrons know it, so to avoid trouble and get off as easily as possible, they plead guilty.

Rival Lines at Loggerheads.

A Telephone War Begun—No Quarter to be Given.

War has been declared. The proclamation has been issued, and the defenders, not content with holding their own ground, have made a sortie upon the invading forces before the latter were fully prepared for battle. The two telephone companies, the Bell Company and the Ontario Company, are about to test their strength and staying powers. The Bell Company consider that their previous possession of the field and old established business will not admit of defeat; while their adversaries, all local men with a fat stock book and large guaranteed list of subscribers, are also confident of victory. The struggle will be watched with interest. The Bell Company has begun by "carrying the war into Africa." The following circular has been sent out:

THE BELL TELEPHONE CO. OF CANADA.

PETERBOROUGH, AGENCY, 20th Sept., 1890.

DEAR SIR,—I am instructed to notify you that, commencing with your next half-yearly term, your rate of connection with the Exchange will be reduced to $10 a year for each ordinary line until further notice.

This reduction on our part is intended to be made only to those who are not stockholders in or subscribers to an opposition Company, and of course any assistance given by you to the present attempt to ruin the business established by this Company in Peterborough will be taken as indicating that you do not intend to take advantage (or to continue taking advantage) of this offer, and as a cancellation of the reduction as far as this Company is concerned.

Yours truly,
H. W. KENT,
Local Manager.

The Edison Company By-law.

To the Editor of the Examiner

DEAR SIR,—My attention has been called to a rumor, said to be going about, that the Town Solicitor does not approve of the proposed by-law and considers it unfair to the town. Such a rumor is without foundation. I consider the terms agreed upon fair and equitable on both sides, and that it is decidedly in the interests of the town to secure the location here of a Company of the standing of the "Edison" on these terms.

E. B. EDWARDS,
Town Solicitor.

Mr. Lech Favours the Edison By-law.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly permit a few words on the above subject? The most of the ratepayers well know the firm stand I have taken in regard to giving bonuses to undertakings in manufacturing pumps and the like, where weak points have cropped up to show that the town would be, in the end, the loser. As there is no rule without an exception, I am fully convinced that the adoption of the Edison by-law will be the means of giving Peterborough a start for as big concerns do, the one to be voted on. The advantages to be derived will be manifold, and serve also as an advertisement for the town as a manufacturing centre.

Yours, in favour of the Edison by-law,
W. LECH.

Church Chimes.

There was a lively discussion in the Methodist General Conference at Montreal the other day upon a motion to extend the ministerial term to four years in exceptional cases. The motion was, however, voted down after a long argument. The Witness says:—Mr. Shorey made one of the readiest speeches of the evening. If those in favour of the present system were desirous of being thought consistent, they must couple with their resolution one to the effect that it was advisable to return to the one year system. But if they allowed that it was right to elongate the term from one to three years, surely it was equally right to extend it from three to four years. As for the proposed change meaning the destruction of the itinerancy system, that was absurd. The wind was blowing the smoke of Montreal towards China, but now many of his hearers believed that it would ever reach that country.

Personal.

Mr. Mann, of Brantford, played the organ in St. Paul's church Sunday. He is an applicant for the position of organist.

Mr. H. Dunne has returned from his trip to the Northwest. When he left the Prince Albert District, a few days ago, there were several inches of snow on the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Cox spent Sunday in town. Mrs. Cox's numerous friends here were delighted to see her looking so well after her transatlantic trip.

Dr. Barnardo, of London, England preached on Sunday morning and evening in the St. John's Presbyterian church, Hamilton. In the evening he was assisted in conducting the services by the Earl of Aberdeen.

Rev. Mr. Greatrex, of Cavan, preached yesterday in the George street and Charlotte street churches. He delivered thoughtful and acceptable sermons to large congregations, and was heard with much pleasure and profit. Rev. Mr. Greatrix is one of the rising men of the Methodist church. He is a faithful and energetic pastor.

News Nuggets.

—The portions of property belonging to Mr. E. Kingan, destroyed by fire on Saturday morning, were not insured.

—Some boys, whose names are known, on Sunday night committed a nuisance at the Rathbun Co.'s office. Unless they make amends they may expect to be prosecuted.

—A lantern fastened on a post at a point on George street where some excavations were being made, was taken away Saturday night but was found in its place this morning. It had no doubt been "borrowed" by some one in need of light.

The Arrest of the Home Rulers.

The arrest of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, two of the leading Home Rulers, just when they were about sailing for America to collect subscriptions for the sufferers by the famine, is a little rough on these two. But it is just the thing to help on the subscriptions. Mr. Balfour could not, an exchange thinks, have served the Irish cause better than by ordering these arrests.

THE NEW CABINET MINISTER.

Portrait and Sketch of Hon. Erskine Henry Bronson.

Hon. Erskine Henry Bronson, M. P. P. for Ottawa city, and member of the provincial cabinet without portfolio is the eldest son of the late Mr. H. F. Bronson, and is now head of the extensive lumber firm of Bronsons & Weston. He was born in New York state in 1844, and is therefore forty-six years old. He was a member of the city council of HON. E. H. BRONSON.

Ottawa for seven years. Mr. Bronson contested Carleton county for the House of Commons against Sir John Macdonald in the Liberal interest in 1882, but was, of course, defeated. He was elected to the provincial assembly in 1886 for Ottawa city, and re-elected in May last, receiving the largest majority given to any candidate elected in the province. In 1874 Mr. Bronson married Miss Virginia Webster, only daughter of Professor N. B. Webster, of Norfolk, Virginia. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bronson are active members of the congregation of St. Andrew's church, Ottawa.

Ontario Telephone Co. (L'td), of Peterborough.

CENTRAL OFFICE, 180 SIMCOE STREET

TO THE PUBLIC.—We have much pleasure in announcing that our exchange will be completed and in operation on or about Nov. 1. The exchange will open with nearly 300 instruments. It is the intention and determination of the company that the management will be characterized by civility and the service by promptness and efficiency.

Our lines will be run in metallic circuits, thus ensuring more privacy, clearer sound and g e t re tisfaction than can be given by a ground circuit.

Persons who are not already subscribers and who desire service will please leave their order at the company's office or by mail to P.O. box 582. Terms, $15 00 per annum for a single instrument, $12 50 for each instrument where a subscriber takes two or more.

We would call attention to the terms and conditions contained in the following extract from a circular issued by the Bell Company:

"This reduction on our part is intended to be made only to those who are not stockholders in or subscribers to an opposition company, and of course any assistance given by you to the present attempt to ruin the business established by this Co. in Peterborough will be taken as indicating that you do not intend to take advantage (or to continue taking advantage) of this offer, and as a cancellation of the reduction as far as this company is concerned," and this reduction is only "until further notice." Our prices are permanent and apply to everybody.

Their promise is too evidently made for the purpose of injuring our Company and in the vain hope of driving us out of the field in order that the public shall be forced to pay the old monopoly prices. In view of the fact that the Ontario Telephone Company is the means of bringing prices in Peterborough to a reasonable figure; that our stock is held by Peterborough people; that our subscription money will circulate in Peterborough, and lastly, that our service will be so vastly superior to that which has heretofore been given; we feel confident of the support of our townsmen, who may rest assured that while the Ontario Telephone Company transact business, they will not have to bear the burden of the old prices for telephone service.

Yours very truly,
THE ONTARIO TELEPHONE CO., (LTD)
JAMES KENNEDY,
Prov. Chairman.

Ennismore.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE ADJOURNED PIC NIC.—The adjourned annual picnic of Ennismore was held in Tara Grove on Tuesday, 16th inst. The occasion was chosen by a large number of outsiders to avail themselves of the hospitality of the people of Ennismore. The beautiful grove (an hundred acres of maple woods) was gay with the joyous crowd from forenoon till late in the evening. A large number of visiting clergymen honored the gathering with their presence.

The dinner was a grand success, one of the best of the many good dinners offered by the ladies of Ennismore to appease the keen appetites of picnicers. An unusually large, well laid platform and good music afforded the lovers of the light fantastic a good opportunity of enjoying themselves. The parlor suit was won by Mr. James Caroll, of Emily. Of the four young ladies—Misses Sullivan, Geary, Fobert and Flood—taking throws on the above, Miss Sullivan took the largest number, thereby winning the special prize (Red.

THE SPORTS.—These were keenly contested, and some unusually good scores were made. Some of the best were:

Standing jump—J. F. Sullivan, 12 ft. 2 in.

Standing high jump.—1st M. C. Collins, 4 ft. 11 in. 2nd P. J. Moloney, 4 ft. 10 in.

Standing hop, step and jump.—1st J. F. Sullivan, 31 ft. 11 in. 2nd Archie Moore, 31 ft. 5 in.

Throwing the heavy weight.—1st B. C. Scully, 42 ft. 5 in. 2nd D. Kennedy, 39 ft. 6 in.

THE CONCERT.—After three rousing cheers for our reverend pastor, the crowd adjourned to the Town Hall where a concert was held by the well known local troupe. The hall was jammed to the doors—a large number failing to gain admittance. The concert was one round of fun from beginning to end, and was well received by the large crowd. The proceeds, which go towards the building of a new addition and vestry to the parish church, compare favourably with those of other years, a gross sum closing on $500 being realized.

Birchall's Condition.

The Hamilton Herald thus deals with the contradictory reports of different newspapers respecting the condition of Birchall, charged with the murder of Benwell:—"What condition is Birchall in anyway? We see by the Toronto Empire that 'his confinement has taken the pink flush from his countenance and he is somewhat reduced in flesh,' whereas the World assures us that 'that Birchall has grown considerably stouter since his incarceration,' and the Globe follows this by saying that 'he has not failed in health and betrays no sign of anxiety.' When we read the Empire's account we picture the prisoner considerably thinner, and when we read the others we immediately imagine him considerably stouter. It will never do to keep drawing the man out and shutting him up like a concertina in this way."

IT LOOKS BAD FOR KUNZE.

A Detroit Society Young Man in Jail at Windsor.

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—Henry Kunze, bookkeeper for Peltier & Belanger, insurance men at 98 Griswold-street, and society reporter for The Evening Journal, is in serious trouble. He was arrested in Windsor last night, charged with the abduction of a girl named Flora Beers, of that place. Kunze is 32 years old and lives with his mother, a widow, at 176 Champlain-street, Detroit.

Inquiry into the circumstances which led to Kunze's arrest shows that he has been paying marked attentions to Miss Beers for some time past, and that recently he had a disagreement with her family. Last Friday the girl disappeared and her uncle, Frederick Wickham, found that she was living at 23 Howard-street, Detroit. She was entreated to return home, but her aunt, Miss Wickham, asserts that Kunze refused to allow her to leave the house.

Mr. Wickham formerly resided in Detroit and is an intimate friend of Dr. Mulheron. A few days ago he enlisted the doctor's services in an effort to induce Miss Beers to return to Windsor. Last night Kunze was decoyed across the river and as he stepped off the boat was arrested and locked up. Mr. Wickham then hurried to Detroit and calling upon Dr. Mulheron urged him to accompany him to 23 Howard-street with the hopes that by their combined efforts his niece might be induced to return with him to Windsor. Dr. Mulheron was unable to go with Mr. Wickham at the time, but agreed to meet him at the Howard-street residence at 9 o'clock. Mr. Wickham entered the house before Dr. Mulheron arrived and the girl eluded him by jumping out of a window.

"I have been using my best efforts," said Dr. Mulheron last night, "to have this matter settled without a scandal attaching to the girl's name. She belongs to a splendid family, and I dislike to see them dragged into newspaper notoriety."

At a late hour last night no trace of Miss Beers had been secured by her relatives. The woman with whom she lived, at 23 Howard-street, disclaims any knowledge of her whereabouts.

A reporter visited Kunze in the Windsor jail last night.

"The girl is 21 years old," he said, "and I intended to marry her the 27th of this month."

Kunze is a tall, effeminate looking man, and seemed greatly moved over the predicament in which he finds himself.

"Did you induce Miss Beers to go to Detroit?" he was asked.

"No," he answered, "she came over there of her own free will."

In denial of Kunze's version of the affair, Miss Wickham asserts that her niece is only 20 years old, which, in Canada, is under age. She says that had Kunze desired to marry the girl he could have done so at their home in Windsor.

Miss Beers is an orphan and is connected with one of the best families of Windsor, who provided her with all the comforts of a good home. Persons acquainted with her surroundings declare that she had no excuse for leaving. She is of attractive appearance, amiable disposition, and is a class leader in St. Andrew's Church. She is just recovering from an attack of brain fever.

Miss Beers left home last Friday night, and it is evident from the manner of her leaving and the clothes she wore that she intended to be absent but a short time. Miss Wickham says that on her visit to 23 Howard-street Kunze said he would shoot her if she tried to take Miss Beers away. The affair will cause considerable excitement in Windsor when the facts are made public. The girl's folks say they will not settle the case under any consideration whatever, and the penalty for abduction in Canada is fifteen years in prison.

A VERY MODEST DEAL.

Broker Dewey of Detroit Buys a Lot of Land 600 Feet Under Water.

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—Harry J. Dewey, a real estate broker of this city, recently traded $18,000 in mining stock with James Hatch of Philadelphia for 5500 acres of land in the northern peninsula of Michigan. Without looking up his property, Dewey disposed of the entire block to different parties, and a few days since, on a deed being sent to Sault Ste. Marie for registration, it was discovered that the land in question lay miles off the shore of Lake Superior under 600 feet of water. An active search is being made for the party who perpetrated the swindle.

Caught Like Rat in a Trap.

WINDSOR, Sept. 20.—Joseph Irwin of Leamington has been missing considerable quantities of oats from his barn, and he set a trap for the culprit. On going to the barn the next morning he discovered an old man named Knight firmly fastened by the leg in the trap. Not being satisfied with the punishment inflicted Irwin had the prisoner placed in the Sandwich jail for trial. Knight's eldest son, to revenge his father, attempted to burn Irwin's barn, but was caught in the act. Irwin says Knight has threatened his life and property several times, so he will push the case to the utmost.

Dramatic Opening of the Birchall Trial.

THE JURY CHOSEN IN 40 MINUTES.

Eleven Farmers on the List. The Prisoner in a Clear Voice Pleads "Not Guilty"—Mr. Osler's Dispassionate but Terrible Arraignment of the Accused. Facts Welded to Facts in an Iron Chain. A Well Guarded Letter for the First Time Brought to Light. Other New Links Retired Farmer Macdonald's Story. Douglas Pelly in the Box. When the Court Adjourns.

Woodstock, Sept. 22.—Quite startling and dramatic indeed were the opening scenes in the Birchall murder trial to-day. The court-house was set for 10 o'clock, and by that time a couple of hundred persons who had been provided with the necessary passports had filled the Town Hall. Sixty-six of the audience were present, the balance being lawyers, reporters, local clergymen and the "town people" who considered themselves fortunate in securing tickets of admission. The room was so arranged as to specially accommodate the court officers, the jurors, the jury and the reporters, of whom there were 20 present. The floors were covered with matting, to prevent noise detracting the judicial serenity of the court room.

Punctual to the minute the sitting of the court was declared by Chief Junkin, the Town Hall was surrounded by a great concourse of people, and Sheriff Johnston, Acting Sheriff Sutherland, Deputy Sheriff Perry and Chief of Police Young, of Niagara Falls, the prisoner having been driven over from the jail, three deep, was in a covered cab. He could walked quickly up the centre aisle, was followed into the dock by the officials, which was immediately surrounded by half a dozen bailiffs. As was mentioned in a previous dispatch, Birchall is, notwithstanding his six months' confinement, much stouter than he was when first arrested at Niagara Falls. His face, though, is somewhat pale. He was freshly and cleanly shaven and the black mustache looked as though it had been carefully attended to behind the prison bars. The prisoner certainly did not look depressed or dejected, and he exhibited the same self-possession and control since his arrest during the easily recital of the many damaging circumstances by Mr. Osler. His nerve, which is second to none, has been severely taxed, but there is no evidence of change now. He was neatly dressed, his clothes being carefully pressed. He wore a short black frock coat, black vest and black trousers. His linen was spotless and around his stand-up collar was a black bow-knot tie. This in brief was the outfit of the young man in the box.

The Murdered Man's Brother.

Ousted the early arrivals at the court house was Mr. Charles Benwell of Cheltenham, Eng., a brother of the murdered man. The family resemblance of the dead man and Charles is somewhat striking, and as young Benwell passed up to the front of the room in company with Mr. Ball Birchall gave him a sad look, but Benwell never for a single moment returned it. He never as much as once glanced towards the prisoner, although for fully an hour he sat within six feet of him.

The selection of the jury occupied nearly an hour. Of the 66 members of the double panel present 42 names were called. Of this number the defence challenged 19 for cause, and the crown challenged 10. This left "twelve good men and true" unchallenged, who were finally sworn in as the jury. The first name taken out of the box was that of Charles Sherwin, farmer. This gentleman walked up to the bench, his right arm in a sling. He had never taken his seat than Mr. Blackstock announced "challenged for cause." Sherwin occupied the second seat in the front row, and from then on he was the observed of all observers. Among those were Mrs. G. T. Blackstock, Miss Finkle, Mrs. H. J. Finkle, Mrs. Farth ing, wife of the crown counsel, Emily Chamberlain, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Captain Higgins, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Fairgrieve, Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Birchall and her sister, Mrs. West Jones, were in attendance. Birchall's mother, however, was not present. He and they watched apparently the closest attention to the proceedings of the court.

SHERIFF GEORGE PERRY

Immediately on the court's entrance on a front platform one could hear the click of cameras and Mr. Justice Rose emerged, and Mr. George Perry, the genial Sheriff of Oxford.

Below the Footlights.

Immediately on the court's entrance, on a raised platform some feet higher than the rest of the room, sat Mr. Justice Rose. To his right sat Mr. Osler, Q.C., M.P., and to his left Mr. Blackstock, Q.C., the senior Crown counsel. Beside him sat Mr. J. R. Cartwright, Q.C., Deputy Attorney-General for Ontario, while next to the Toronto gentleman sat Mr. Ball, Q.C., from Mr. Osler's native Oxford. Detective John Murray sat at the table with the Crown lawyers.

At still another table, two feet away, sat the lawyers for the defence Mr. G. T. Blackstock, Q.C., Mr. Lailor E. McIlmuth, Dundas Hall of Mr. Justice Rose, Mr. Malcolm Finkle, Mr. Percy A. McMullen of the town. To the west of the Crown officers table is the jury box. The prisoner occupied an ordinary cane-seated chair, placed between Mr. Blackstock and Detective Murray. On the back of Mr. Blackstock's chair was seated Mr. Macdonald, who had charge of the prisoner's defence, and who, when Birchall was seated beside him, the latter's head was about on a level with Mr. Macdonald's shoulder. Behind Birchall was seated Mr. Bowlby, the London and Woodstock detective, who had been before Justice Rose's court in March and June when Birchall was committed for trial. Mr. Bowlby is a tall, fine-looking man, and his presence in the prisoner's dock was a source of wonderment to many. Behind Mr. Bowlby sat Deputy Sheriff Perry and Chief of Police Young

The Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1890.

THE Globe says:—'One of our contemporaries is struggling with the question why some men cheerfully pay five cents for a glass of whiskey, but regard five cents as an outrageous price to pay for a newspaper, which, published at great expense and labor, gives him the history of the world for a day. It really seems as if the willingness to pay is in inverse proportion to the usefulness and permanence of the article obtained. The liquor seller not only gets high prices without grumbling, but he is paid in cash, while the grocer, the baker and the tailor are beaten down to the last cent, and have to wait long and sometimes in vain for their pay.' Our big contemporary does not give much light in the way of accounting for the idiosyncrasy calls it attention to. Is it not reasonable to suppose that a man's willingness to pay five cents for a glass of whiskey and think it cheap at that (cheap and nasty too) while he regards a newspaper at the same price extortionately dear, is to be accounted for by the fact that the whisky appeals to the man's stomach and the paper appeals to the brains of a man who has any? Besides a man, as a general thing, can easily borrow a newspaper, while there is considerable difficulty in borrowing your friend's drink of whisky for a few minutes.

SIR John A. Macdonald, in a semi-political speech at Morrisburgh on Tuesday, told the people, among other things, that if their products were ruled out of the United States they could find other markets, and could send their eggs and barley, specially, to England. In view of the fact that special selections of Canadian barley have been condemned by English maltsters, and that experimental shipments of Canadian eggs to England have proved a total failure, and that within a very recent period the public will know just how much stock to take in the old man's vaporizing on the trade question. Those who believe that Canadian eggs can be exported to England, there to compete on even terms against the product of the "pauper hens of Europe," and that there is money in such a business, are a great deal fresher than the eggs will be after a voyage across the Atlantic. The business of exporting eggs from Canada to Europe will be quite as unprofitable after the McKinley bill becomes law as it has been in the past.

THE Ottawa Free Press shows that, although Great Britain admits free of duty everything that Canada exports, our dutiful and loyal Tory ministers impose higher duties upon British goods imported into the Dominion than are levied upon such goods by France, Germany, Austria or Italy, and much higher than Belgium, Holland or Sweden. Moreover, the average rate of duty collected by the Dominion Government upon imports from Great Britain is about twenty-two per cent., while the average duty upon United States products brought into this country does not exceed fourteen per cent. Yet the British people are cooly asked to tax themselves and discriminate against foreign countries in order to help Canada. John Bull cares more for the foreign country that admits his goods at a low rate of duty than he does for the colony that shuts his wares out by means of a hostile tariff.

THE ministerial party in Dominion politics are divided on the subject of a dissolution of the present parliament. The Halifax Herald a Government journal, called the other day for a dissolution. The Moncton Times, another Ministerial journal, has followed suit. Messrs. Foster and Costigan have hurried to the Maritime Provinces to make enquiries as to the state of things there, and Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Bowell, who went west to look over Manitoba, the Territories, and British Columbia, are within call by telegraph. It is stated, however, that some of the Quebec Conservatives oppose a dissolution. They do not wish to be again deprived of the full series of sessions and indemnities to which they were elected.

An Organ Answered.

If the British farmers now visiting Canada were to take back with them a file of the Grit organs, where would our chances of settling the Northwest be?—Empire.

They would be excellent, comes the pat reply of the Montreal Herald: The delegates would see that the hideous mistakes which drove so many Canadians out of the Northwest into Dakota and Minnesota, and the criminal neglect which drove the half-breeds into rebellion had been so censured that the probability of their re-occurence is not great. They would see that the several attempts of Sir John Macdonald to encroach upon the rights of the Provinces had been successfully resisted by the Liberal party and that the efforts of the present opposition had induced the House of Commons to punish the chief offender in the case of appropriating public property with Sir John's consent for a ridiculously inadequate consideration. They would see that the era of plunder which has reached its height under the N.P. is drawing to a close, and that in a short time those who are cultivating the soil of Canada and developing the resources of the country, will be relieved of many exactions which have been put upon them by the present government. Were the delegate farmers to read only the Tory press, they might well think that Canadians were a poor lot and lived at the sufferance of others.

Rockefeller's Riches

Petroleaginous Philanthropy.

It is not often that the actions of the chief members of the great Standard Oil Trust are spoken of in terms of commendation. The head of the concern, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, has now, however, set forth to win his spurs as a philanthropist. A short time ago he gave $600,000 towards the establishment of the new Chicago Baptist University, and last week he supplemented the gift with $1,000,000. This sum is to be paid in twenty-eight instalments spread over seven years, and the income of $500,000 is to be used for non-professional graduate instruction and fellowships only, and not for land, buildings, or repairs. The gift is a munificent one, but it must be remembered that Mr. Rockefeller is one of the richest men in the world, if not the richest. His yearly income has been estimated at $20,000,000.

Greed and Gain Their Object.

There are in Canada, as well as in other parts of the civilized world, many storekeepers and traders whose sole aim is the making of large profits. This is accomplished in many cases by keeping for sale lines of goods which are made and put up to look like the first class article. These storekeepers do not for a moment consider the consumer's welfare and comfort, as long as the profits are large and sales go on.

This kind of business is plainly subversive, to not only the interests of the consumers, but to the retailers as well; and these retailers are often forcibly reminded of it by loss of business, and some failure.

It is only necessary here to mention one class of goods that all Druggists and Grocers sell, we refer to package dyes for domestic dyeing. While the genuine and long tested Diamond Dyes are sold everywhere, yet there are some traders who sell the common, crude dyes, which are perfectly worthless, simply because their profits are larger than can be realized from the sale of the best goods—Diamond Dyes. Diamond Dyes cost the retailer more than the common crude dyes, but are sold to the consumer at the same price. Ladies are often sadly deceived in this way and suffer great loss and inconvenience through using the worthless dyes. Ladies can rid themselves of this trouble, and avoid loss of time and materials if they always insist upon getting Diamond Dyes from their Druggist or Grocer. Do not be influenced by the false statement that other dyes are just as good as Diamond Dyes; it is the big profits that these men are after, not your interests, ease and general comfort.

THE KING OF GREECE.

How the Princess of Wales' Brother Governs the Greeks.

Everybody likes and admires King George of Greece. Even his political enemies have a frank admiration for his good traits and engaging manners.

He has been successful, too. He came to the throne of Greece in 1863. At that time he was a comparatively unknown Danish Prince whose chief distinction was that he had served well in the navy, and that he was the brother of the most beautiful lady in Europe—the Princess of Wales.

He very soon showed of what stuff he was made. He checked the political struggles constantly degenerating into civil war, and brought order out of chaos.

At the end of a quarter of a century's reign the dominions of George the First of Greece have almost doubled in extent. Greece is to-day larger than Holland and Belgium combined, and her old persecutor, the Turk, has been forced to yield at many a point.

From 1870 to 1885 his position was one of great difficulty. There were moments when it seemed as if the little country, with it mighty traditions so inestimably precious to the human race, was to be overrun again by the barbarians. But Greece raised a solid army and gave the Turks a good thrashing on several occasions.

Activity is the keynote to the King's character. He is a great worker. Even in winter he is to be found in his study at early hours.

In summer, twice a week, independently of his Ministers, the King receives all persons who, passing through Athens, have asked for the favor of an audience. These visitors generally find him standing beside a little table piled with papers and documents in a room which is the last of the three ground-floor rooms of the palace set aside for his private cabinets.

These rooms are richly decorated with pictures, bronzes, marbles, and costly objects of art. On the walls are the portraits of all the great Hellenes who have helped to make modern Greece. This is a delicate compliment on the part of the king to his native visitors, and one they never fail to appreciate, for the king himself is essentially a modern man, though he possesses all the love and respect for his nation's great and glorious past.

But modern literature, modern art, the marvellous scientific discoveries of our century, have a rare attraction for him, as also has modern history. He has a most extensive knowledge of international politics.

The King's civil list is but 830,000 francs a year. But he understands so well how to manipulate it that he manages on this narrow sum to fulfil with becoming dignity the requirements of his station.

Like his father, he is fond of outdoor exercise and of sport. He is a good shot and whip, an indefatigable swimmer, and a lover of angling. On the Gulf of Chalcis he has a little palace, whither he often retires to fish. But it is at Corfu, where he has his summer residence, that he is able to live entirely according to his tastes—a lovely domain in an enchanting spot. Here he and the Queen are able to carry on that free existance devoid of etiquette which pleases them both.

The King turns farmer and the Queen becomes a musician and a painter. Flower-painting is her forte, and she may be met in the gardens of Corfu copying from nature many of the lovely plants which bloom in that enchanted isle. She arranges her floral pictures with much skill.

Happy hours of relaxation are those for the King and Queen. Their official life at Athens is a very busy one, and of necessity very varied. In winter the palace doors are constantly thrown open for receptions, dinners, balls and skating festivals—for the King has caused a skating rink to be erected in a long gallery, where the inhabitants of a land in which snow never falls can enjoy in such fashion the pleasures that ice affords.

What Will the Ladies Say?

An eminent physician says that so long as men unsex their heads in theatres, etc., just so long catarrh will be a national ailment," and that there is no more sense in a man removing his hat than there is in a woman laying aside her chemise." When men adopt this plan some wide-awake hatter will introduce a four-story opera hat for

A Gay Time.

The promenade concert in the skating rink, Thursday night will be the only attraction in town that night. There will be an immense crowd there. The band will render stirring promenade music, the chevaliers will perform fancy drill, the Highlanders will dance, and everybody will enjoy themselves. Don't miss it. 1d

BANK BURGLAR'S SKILL

HOW SAFE MAKERS STRUGGLE TO MEET IT.

Methods of Expert Cracksmen in Entering Steel Vaults—No Safes are Burglar Proof if the Burglar Has Time to Work—How they go About it.

The king pin of thieves is the bank burglar. Out of the ranks of general and special thieves will blossom forth one who is better than his fellows in intelligence, courage and mechanical skill, and a number of these congenial spirits make the bank burglars' gang. They are tried and true. The gang is not the work of a day, although there are only four or five in it, but a leader has been known to let years go by in picking out his associates for some special job. True worth must have been shown by acts. Bank burglars detest "squealers," and any one who gives information to the police forfeits his life.

The leader generally selects the bank to be attacked. Plenty of time is given to the preliminary work. It is known that "Jimmy" Hope "planted" a bank, perfected the plan of robbery and waited 20 years to find the men that he would take into his confidence. He was rewarded with success.

An entrance to the bank is made in many ways, depending on the surroundings. If there is a watchman he is either bribed, drugged, killed or got out of the way by strategy. Rooms are often hired adjoining the bank, and a restaurant or shoe store opened. This gives a chance to dig through the walls without suspicion. The habits of all connected with the bank are carefully studied, and friendly intercourse established if possible. The site of the vault, the safe-maker the kind of lock and the manner of getting into the safe are all known before hand so that when the thief gets into a bank with his "kit" there is no delay. The time selected to "crack" a safe is generally between Saturday night and Monday morning.

For over 100 years there has been a contest between the safe-makers and the safe breakers. It has been a battle royal and the thief has always had a little the best of it. There have been brains on both sides, and it has always made the safe-maker sad to see the door of his burglar-proof safe, which it took him years of study to perfect, fly open in about 20 minutes after his natural enemy got to work on it. The burglar has kept the safe-maker busy by pointing out the defects in construction. Every safe that is "blown" means a new safe from the maker, and thieves, to save labor for themselves, do not attack a new safe until a large number have been sold. Burglars get possession of every new lock by fair means or foul, and the defects are noted for future use.

There are many methods employed by burglars to open a safe, depending on the way it is put together. Their object is to break down and unloosen things. In the old "knob" safe, which was covered with bolts connecting two iron plates, powder was blown through the keyhole and the door lifted from the hinges by explosion. Then the keyhole was hidden in one of the knobs, but the burglar did not look for it. He made a hole in the door with a drill and put in the powder. Safes were made with bolts in the door that could be sprung into the framework on all sides with a spindle connected with a T handle on the exterior. This was thought to be a puzzler to the burglar, but this mechanical genius knocked off the handle with a hammer softened the spindle with a lamp and blow pipe, drilled it out, put in the explosive which carried away bolts, frame work and all. Safemakers defied the burglars by making a safe of alternate layers of iron boiler plates and drill proof steel, hardened so that they would turn the edge of a drill. The burglars taught the safemakers a lesson so quickly that it made them dizzy.

The burglars invented the plate-cutter, a powerful tool, but did not patent it. Holes were bored in the outside iron plate of the door, and the cutter was fixed in place. The blade of the cutter was kept well oiled, and the handle was turned until a round hole was cut through the iron plate, and the disc was removed. This plate was extremely hard and therefore brittle and the cutter being removed the steel was easily broken with a chisel and soft metal hammer. The metal would resist a drill, but could not stand repeated shocks. The alternate plates were thus cut and broken until the bolts were reached and the safe could then be opened easily.

Then safes were made to defeat the plate-cutter, and the burglars abandoned its use for awhile. They tried something easier, filled the cracks of the safe with putty, except at the top for about two inches. At this point was attached a tube from a pump, which exhausted the air in a safe, created a vacuum and by removing a little putty in the bottom crack as much powder would be blown in by the air rushing in to fill the vacuum as was necessary to blow open the doors.

On the portable burglar-proof safes the doors are opened without explosives by stripping off the iron bands with clamps and jimmies and forcing wedges into the cracks with a powerful jack-screw. The first wedge is like a knife blade, and the size is increased until the door flies from its hinges. Another tool is the "sling." This is a heavy steel bar upon which a thread has been cut, and it is operated with a stout handle, five or six feet long, to give great leverage. A hole is first bored through the door or back of the safe. A thread is cut in the plate to correspond with that in the "sling." The tool is turned until the opposite side of the safe is reached. When a great pressure is put on the long handle something will have to burst. It is usually the door.

Sometimes, when the doors promise a hard task, the burglar reaches the top of the safe and bores a hole there to introduce the powder. Fire-proof safes are about as troublesome to a burglar as a gun is to a sailor. His tools go through iron, metal and other material like oil cloth.

It was thought when the time-lock was invented, which unlocked the doors automatically at a certain time, that the burglar would have to "take a back seat." He was quiet for a brief period and kept his experiments secret. Then all of a sudden time-lock safes began to fly open all over the land. The burglar had discovered that by exploding dynamite on the outside of the door over the clock the door would bulge in and the force of the shock would break the spring or disarrange the mechanism so that it would run down and turn the bolts.

The same thing happened in clocks that were constructed to unlock the safe when stopped. The burglars have an easy time with time-locks on doors, because it has been shown that dynamite beats them all. When a heavy charge of dynamite has been used the lock has been in several cases blown entirely off the inside of the door.

One of the cleverest pieces of work done by burglars is picking combination locks. There are few who can do it. It is done by the sense of touch and hearing, after long practice with locks of every style.

With all the inventions that have been made it is admitted that there are no safes that are so absolutely burglar proof provided time enough is given to the thief to work at them. The object of safe manufacturers has been to keep thieves from getting between Saturday night and Monday morning, and this has been done by massive blocks of metal and stones, surrounding the vaults with all kinds of alarms and watchmen armed to the teeth.—N. Y. Tribune.

Wit at the Guillotine.

Some years ago it was still the custom in France to conduct condemned criminals through gaping crowds of idle spectators to the public guillotine. On one such occasion the unfortunate, seated upon his coffin in the cart, heard a would-be wit in the crowd remark to a companion:

"Well, I'll bet that fellow don't feel much like laughing."

The coarse attempt at a joke stung the prisoner, and when he arrived at the scaffold he asked that the proceedings be stayed a moment, as he had a confession to make.

"Although I denied it at my trial, I had accomplices in the crime for which I have been sentenced, and there," pointing to the joker, "is one of them now."

Great excitement ensued and the party designated was seized by the gendarmes with no gentle hands. Out of the confusion somebody managed to drag order and the wit was placed on the scaffold beside his accuser.

Such a fearful case of abject terror as the joker presented was never witnessed in that sombre locality. After enjoying his helpless fright for a few moments the fated convict said to the official in charge:

"He tried to make sport of my sufferings, but the man is innocent. And as soon as he seemed to be sure that it was no laughing matter for me to be here, I was curious to see how much such a funny fellow would laugh under similar circumstances.—Montreal Star.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

will be soon on hand, I wish to inform the public that I have imported from England and Belgium, a fine lot of double-barreled breech loading guns, from $10 to $60. Also a lot of single barrel breech loaders equally cheap, all of the best makers, such as James W. Richards, R. Richards, Clarborough, Bonshill and Greener.

I am selling single and double muzzle loaders at cost. Rifles of different makers on hand at the lowest figures.

In the Revolver line, I have nearly 50 different makers, all of the best quality.

I continue to do all kinds of new work and repairing in the best style of workmanship, also altering old gun locks into rebounders, and choke-boring barrels. All these works are done in the best possible manner and warranted.

Gun Stocking also done in style to suit customers.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,364, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10 36
North American	8,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2 067,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

St. John's Girls' Guild.

The Girls' Guild of St. John's held their opening meeting for the season last night. There was a large attendance, and a programme was mapped out for the coming winter. It was decided to hold fortnightly meetings at the Rectory.

Central Exhibition.

To-morrow is the opening day of the Central Exhibition. It will be chiefly preparatory to the exhibition proper on the two following days. In the afternoon the judging of the interior exhibits will be done, and in the morning of Thursday the live stock will be on the grounds and the work of judging begun. The entries are pouring in rapidly and are ahead of the number at the same date last year. Everything is favorable to the coming one being the best exhibition of the series, if the weather is favorable.

Junior Lacrosse.

The Beaver Lacrosse Club is out on the warpath. The boys are now fairly organized and are open for challenges from any club composed of boys not over 18 years of age. Willie Dumble is Secretary of the Beavers. The boys practice every day on Central Park and play a good game for juniors. They want a manager. Some young man with an enthusiastic love for lacrosse, and willing to devote a little time and trouble to the matter, could take the Beavers in hand and make them a creditable and successful lacrosse club. The Beavers want such a man.

St. Andrew's Brotherhood.

During the present month the various organizations in connection with St. John's have been resuming work after the summer rest. The young men are now called upon to fall into line. As previously stated in these columns, the Young Men's Guild has been affiliated with the St. Andrew's Brotherhood, a Church of England Society for young men whose headquarters are in Toronto. The local Guild is now known as the St. John's Chapter of the Brotherhood. A general meeting of young men is announced for to night, in the rooms at 136 Hunter street, when the matter of Brotherhood work will be brought before them.

St. John's Mission School.

Last night the contract for the erection of St. John's South Ward Mission school was awarded to Mr. Arthur Rutherford, the contract figures being $1,850. The edifice which is to be completed on December 31st is of Romanesque design with stone basement and superstructure of red brick, and is 30x60 feet in area, and will be a very neat and tasteful structure. The ladies of the South ward, who for the past eight or ten years have worked so devotedly to keep alive the interests of the Church in the South Ward, are to be congratulated upon the present building being the result chiefly of their earnest labours of love and self-sacrifice. While they will receive due credit from the public for their faithful work, they may look forward with confidence to the reward that invariably attends work done for the Master.

Might Have Been Worse.

Mr. T. Workman, the popular artist, while making astronomical observations form the roof of his dwelling piece, about half past nine o'clock last night, noticed a sublunary conflagration which cast all stellar illuminations into the shade. Flames were issuing from the store house in rear of Mr. W. J. Mason's grocery store, which threatened to destroy the whole premises. Mr. Workman hastily gave the alarm to Mr. Mason, who, with his son Ernie, was still working in the store oblivious of the fire burning in the rear. The alarm was sent to the fire hall over the telephone, and the brigade turned out in quick order and promptly extinguished the flames The shed was somewhat damaged and some empty boxes and butter firkins destroyed. Damage will not exceed $50. It was fortunate indeed that the fire did not occur an hour or so later, when the whole block would have been seriously endangered It is thought the fire was caused by [illegible]

Fine Fall Sports.

Splendid Contests on the P. A. A. A. Grounds—Beautiful Day and Large Attendance.

The fall sports on the P.A.A.A. grounds Monday afternoon were quite as successful as it was anticipated they would be. There were five or six hundred people present, and the weather was all that could be desired.

Some of the events were particularly good, the hundred yards dash and the three mile bicycle race being specially so.

Dr. Brennan acted as starter; Dr. Burnham as judge; Mr. Alex. Gibson, as timekeeper and Mr. R. B. Rogers as superintendent.

VAULTING WITH POLE.

A. Milburn was an easy winner. There were four entries. W. Hendren (Lakefield) was the first to drop out, A. Moore following at the next shift of the peg. The final was between Lou Squires and Milburn. The former stumbled at a height of 8 ft. 8, Milburn clearing the stick easily and winning the medal. He afterwards gave an exhibition jump and cleared 9 ft. 2 inches, a feat which was loudly cheered.

HUNDRED YARDS RACE.

Of the ten entries only six started—A. Moore, D. Davidson, T. Cronin, W. C. Pousette, C. Brennan and W. Hendren. The first heat was a good race. Moore and Davidson kept together at the front the first half of the distance, when Moore took a slight lead; but Charlie Brennan pulled up and came in a tie with Moore. Time, 11¼ seconds. D. Davidson was a good second. The second heat was closely contested, Brennan and Moore running neck and neck the whole distance, the former winning by about six inches, Hendren third Time, 11¼ seconds. The next heat was a "wicked" one. Moore and Brennan came in again almost together, though Moore had slightly the advantage. He was given the heat. Time, 11 seconds. D. Davidson came in third. Great interest centred in the final between Moore and Brennan. A heat was run but declared null on account of Moore crowding Brennan out of his course so that the latter did not get inside the tape, though they finished even Moore, however, declined to run again, and first prize, a silver cup, was given to Charlie Brennan; 2nd, a medal, to Archie Moore.

GREEN BICYCLE RACE.

The mile bicycle race (green) brought out such a good field that the contestants had to be divided into two batches. In the first start there were J. McKim, Cokely Arm strong, Wm. Holland and Chas. Marshal. In the fourth lap the fun began. Marshal forged ahead, closely followed by Holland, the other two being practically out of it Marshal won by several lengths, Holland second, Armstrong leading McKim in the rear.

W. C. Springer, W. Merrill and R. B. Rogers started in the next. Springer took the lead from the start, Rogers and Merrill contesting tightly for second place. At the fourth quarter Merrill tried to run inside of Rogers and a foul resulted both men being tossed. Second place was given to Rogers on the foul.

The final between Holland, Marshal and Springer was an easy win for Springer, who took the lead at the start. Holland dropped out at the fourth lap. Springer won the silver cup, and Marshal the medal. Time, 3 55.

HIGH JUMP.

In the high jump there were three entries—Milburn, Squires and Moore. Milburn won on a jump of 4 feet 10 inches; Moore second. First, and only prize, was a medal

ONE MILE BICYCLE.

The mile bicycle race was entered into by Ed. Roy, Jas. McGill and Wm. Holland The race was between the first two. They kept well together till the last lap, when the "little 'un" spurted and fairly flew away from McGill, winning by 50 yards. Time, 3 43. First prize, a medal; second, a silver cup.

QUARTER MILE.

In the quarter mile race there were four entries—D. Davidson, A. Milburn, J McCabe, W. Hendren. This was not much of a race. At the half distance Hendren forged ahead and won handily, Milburn a poor second. McCabe and Davidson did not finish. Time, 60 1-5 seconds. 1st, silver cup; 2nd, medal

PUTTING THE SHOT.

The shot putting contest was entered by L. Squires, J. L. Drope, A. Moore, J. F. Moloney (Ennismore), R. B Rogers. Squires won the medal, his first throw of the 25-lb shot, 24 feet 5 inches, not being improved on. Moore took second, with 23 feet 6 inches.

TWO MILE BICYCLE.

The two mile bicycle race was the best of the series. There were four competitors—F Might, W. Hendren, E. Roy and Jas. McGill They travelled a pretty fast pace, and Hendren, who was tired from his previous efforts, soon dropped out. The others kept in a bunch until the seventh lap, when Might and Roy tussled for first place, McGill dropping to the rear. The next three or four laps were nip and tuck. The "little 'un" kept the lead, though hard pushed by Might, who finished only a length behind. Both wheelmen were loudly applauded for their splendid race. Time, 8 57½. 1st, medal; 2nd, silver cup.

HALF MILE FOOT.

The half mile race was entered into by W. Hendren, J. McCabe, D. Davidson and A Milburn. The race was between the two first named, the others dropping out. McCabe had things pretty much his own way and won easily from Hendren, in 2 min. 31½ sec. 1st, medal 2nd, silver cup.

THREE MILE, BICYCLE.

In the three mile race Marshall, McGill and Might entered. McGill made the pace for the first ten laps, closely followed by Might, who then passed ahead and won by half a lap, Marshall having meanwhile dropped out. First, Medal; 2nd, silver cup.

OVER THE HURDLES.

The hurdle race was won by A Moore, A. Milburn second, L Squires third. First, medal; 2.d, silver cup.

THE FINISH.

The tug of war for the cigars was won with ease by the team of the Fire Brigade, composed of: A. E Jones, anchor; Jas. English, J. D. Craig, W. Metheral, A. Moore, H Evans, J. Gibbs, J. Hayes, S. Sharpe, Capt. The battalion team comprised V. Halliday, anchor; J. McGill, H Foote, M. Lyle, J. Kennedy, T. York, J. Turner, J. Pakenham; Lieut. Hamilton, Capt.

For the Old Folks.

Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Adams—Former Residents of Peterborough in Cleveland.

The Cleveland News and Herald, of Sept. 11th, contains the following in reference to Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Adams, of that city, who formerly resided in Peterborough, and left town some twelve years ago. Their old friends here will read the paragraph with interest:

"Anyone interested in the religious history of Cleveland would have found ample food for reflection if he had been present at the pioneers' meeting at the First United Presbyterian Church last evening. The United Presbyterian is one of the oldest denominations in the city. Rev Robert A. George, the pastor of the church, acted as president of the occasion. The first thing on the programme was a golden wedding On the 10th of September, 1840, in the city of Edinburgh, Mr. Robert Adams and Miss Esther Pernse were made man and wife. Last evening was their golden wedding anniversary, which they celebrated with the fellow members of their church. During the playing of a wedding march the hale old couple walked proudly up the aisle, preceded by their two little granddaughters as ushers. The children were pretty, rosy cheeked little maidens, and were dressed in pure white, each one carrying a bouquet of flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Adams looked as happy and as proudly conscious as they must have appeared half a century ago. When the couple stood before the altar the pastor made a touching address, in which he referred to the many experiences which they had undergone. It was announced that the wedding ceremony would be performed anew, but the pastor said that a knot that had remained tied for fifty years needed not to be tied again. An opportunity was given the many friends of the couple to offer them congratulations."

Keeping out of Chancery.

Dicken's would have found Peterborough a poor place to lay the main features of the plot of "Bleak House." To-day Hon. Justice Ferguson took his seat on the bench, and the Chancery fall sittings were opened in due form. His Lordship inquired for the docket, and when told that it was a blank, retired and spent the time till the next train wandering about town.

Mr. Fitzgerald led off with a bid of 9½c. for the board, Mr. Wrighton jumping to 9¾c. for Peterbrough board, on which Mr. Cook advanced to 10c. for selections. Mr. Cluxton offered the same for the board, Mr. Fitzgerald rising to the eighth for selections and Mr. Cluxton again following up with the same bid for the board. Mr. Cook and Mr. Fitzgerald both rushed in their bids of 10½c. for selections together, but Mr. Cluxton settled the difficulty by offering the quarter for the board. Mr. Cook then raised to 10¾c. for selections, and at that figure took Norwood, Westwood, Melrose Abby and Peterborough. Mr. Fitzgerald then bid 10¾c. for farther selections Mr. Cook advanced to 10 5-16c., and Mr. Fitzgerald to 10¾c. for selections. Then Mr. Cluxton's offer of 10¾c. for the board was raised a sixteenth by Mr Cook, and he took Missing Link at 10 7-16c. Other bids followed, Mr. Wrighton taking Cherry Grove at 10¾c Warminster refused 10¾c. from Mr. Cook. Mr. Cluxton offered 10 5-16c. for the board, but it was not accepted.

An adjournment was made for two weeks.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Robert Russell's earnest, heart searching words made a profound impression on the minds and hearts of the large number present at the young men's meeting Saturday evening. Mr. Wallbrook followed with an impressive address. All present felt the power of the Holy Spirit. A large number remained to the after meeting, which was used greatly of God in reaching several young men. "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow."

Consecration meeting led by Mr. John Kennedy, was a time of blessing to all present, being largely attended.

Open air service in Central Park was attended by a large crowd. Mr. Isaac Richardson led the meeting. Messrs. Hamilton, Williams and Hannah gave short, earnest Gospel talks, which were received by all with much attention and profit. The singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. band in an acceptable manner.

Gospel and song service Sabbath evening was a very largely attended meeting. Miss Code gave an impressive and practical address. We are satisfied much fruit shall be the result. We welcome our sister as a co-worker in our great work of bringing the Gospel to many. There is abundant signs of an awakening. Christians, pray for showers of blessing among our young men.

The Edison Company a Drawing Card—Another Big Business to Come.

The establishment here of the Edison General Electric Company has been insisted on in the columns of the EXAMINER as certain of attracting other large industrial establishments to Peterborough. That this contention is correct, is shown by the fact that the prominence already given to the unsurpassed manufacturing facilities of the town and the discussion of the Edison Company matter is already bearing fruit. Yesterday a representative of a large manufacturing establishment, peculiarly suited to this district, was in town and had a meeting with the manufacturing committee of the Town Council in reference to the establishment of the company in Peterborough. Though as a matter of prudence in the present stage of the negotiations, it is not thought proper to enter into particulars, it is understood that the conference referred to above was satisfactory to both parties. The establishment in question is a large one and if it is set up in Peterborough, will be an exceedingly important addition to our already important and increasing industries.

Police Court Proceedings at Peterborough and Lakefield.

Mayor Stevenson presided at the session of the police court this morning.

The five boys charged with stone throwing were discharged with a kindly warning. The charge will be held against them in case of future offences.

Three small boys, Walter Jackson, Stephen Souter and John Magee, were charged with stealing fruit from M. H. Best's orchard The case was enlarged till to-morrow, the last-named defendant not being present.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL.

Wm. Furby, a man lately employed at Baptie's planing mill, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of having stolen an overcoat from Mr. J. D. Baptie. The evidence went to show that Furby left Mr. Baptie's employment Friday last, and about the same time the coat was missed from the the office. Furby denied having taken it, and the coat was not seen again till Monday, when it was found in Mullasky's pawn-shop on Hunter street. Mullasky stated that a man (who proved to be Furby), brought the coat to his store Saturday and pawned it for 50c., on the understanding that he could reclaim it that night when he received the week's wages, which, he said, was due him. He did not redeem the coat, however, and was arrested. He stated to the magistrate that he received the coat (not knowing it was stolen or where it came from), from a man named Wm. Price on Saturday, Price telling him that he wanted to borrow 50c. on it. The prisoner was sent up for trial. Furby is a man about 35 years of age and quite respectable in appearance. He is said to be well connected in Port Hope and Cobourg, but is too fond of drink for his own good. He worked with Mr. Baptie a couple of years ago, but left town and did not return until recently.

COURT AT LAKEFIELD.

Police Magistrate Edmison held court at Lakefield yesterday.

Geo. Chapin was fined $1 and costs for furious driving on the 10th of September.

W. J. Hendren, grocer, was fined $1 and costs for a breach of the early closing by law.

Mr. Edmison to-day disposed of three more milk cases. The defendants all pleaded guilty and were mulcted in a fine of $20 and costs each.

That Fatal Oversight.

On Feb. 28 Birchall told Pelly that a cigar case had been found near the dead body of a man with the name "F. C. Benwell" thereupon and suggested that he and Pelly should go and view the body, and it was decided to adopt this course. Enquiry revealed the fact that there was no train to Eastwood until afternoon, and meantime they went across to the American side, where they cashed a check at the Bank of Niagara. After their return Birchall suggested that he and Mrs. Birchall should go up country and that Pelly should go to New York. Birchall said he would go to Paris, as that was the nearest point he had been told, although he did not know the locality as he had never been there.

Witness described his fruitless journey to New York and related a talk he had with Birchall on Feb. 28, when the latter said, "Do you know Benwell has got my pistol?" Pelly asked, "Did you give it to him?" and he replied, "No, he took it from me."

On Saturday Pelly learned that the body of the dead man had been identified as Benwell's. He also spoke as to his identification at Princeton on March 8 of the body and clothing of Benwell. The clothing found on the body was exhibited to witness. He failed to recognize the Mackintosh coat, as he had not seen Benwell wear it. He, however, recognized the hat, black and white checked coat and green silk tie with white spots. Birchall, in conversation with Pelly, mentioned Drumbo, Woodstock and Pine Pond. Drumbo, which was described as a terrible place, he said was within a short drive of Niagara Falls, and Pine Pond was a sheet of water where Niagara Falls people drove to enjoy a picnic. Birchall said he was very fond of driving and frequently took spins into the country. He also said the old man who he had left on his farm was named Somerset, and he had been called by that name by parties who did not know him.

The court rose at 6 o'clock, Mr. Pelly's evidence not being finished. His cross-examination by Mr. Blackstock in the morning will last a couple of hours, it is expected.

A Frequent Smiler.

During the lunch hour Birchall's dinner was brought to him in the court room. He ate the liberal supply of viands sent over from the hotel with evident relish, and he laughed and joked with the tipstaffs. Birchall, in fact, is a frequent smiler, and when he does so he displays something that a man so particular about his dress generally hides either by natural or artificial means—two or three badly decayed front teeth. This is a considerable blemish to his appearance when he opens his mouth wide. On leaving the court room for the jail after the adjournment, he smiled familiarly to some young men and women in the crowd which stood outside in the square. About 500 people were jammed around the only exit from the room to get a view of the now famous prisoner.

Deputy Chief of Police Stuart arrived from Toronto this evening. The deputy has been subpœnaed as a crown witness. So have Staff Inspector Archibold, Detectives Davis, Af Cuddy and Jack Cuddy. The latter accompanied the deputy as far as Woodstock, going on to London to look after some of the Toronto crooks who are attracted thither by the fair.

Before the jury left the court-room for the night His Lordship cautioned them about attempting to form an opinion in advance. The jury were escorted to the Royal Hotel by four constables, where they will be quartered during the trial.

SAYS HE CAN PROVE AN ALIBI.

Birchall Promises to Confound the Press and Minions of the Law.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Reginald Birchall, who is now on trial in Canada for the alleged cold-blooded murder of Fred Benwell, near Woodstock, seems to have been beguiling his prison hours by writing long letters to his friends.

In a recent note to a member of his family in Norwood he says the severity of Canadian justice does not frighten him in the least. However black the facts given out by police detectives for their own vainglory, they are not a feather's weight. He can prove an alibi, he says, which will confound the press and minions of the law. He winds up with this:

"You may look for me to arrive in England within two weeks after the trial. I shall certainly prove my innocence and be acquitted."

Are the Main Drains and Sewers

Of Our Cities Flushed as Often as They Should Be?

We recently had the opportunity of conversing with a sanitary plumber of one of our largest cities regarding city drains and sewers, and, knowing that gentleman to be thoroughly posted on the subject, asked him the question, "Are the main drains and sewers of our large cities flushed as often as they should be?"

"Well, sir, that is a most important question, and very few of our citizens ever give the matter a thought," replied the sanitarian.

"This ought to be a question of great import to all good citizens who are interested in the public health," we ventured to say.

"Yes," said the sanitarian, "the health of all large cities and towns depends on a great measure upon the good working of sewers and drains, and, I must add, our authorities are not sufficiently alive to the great necessity of frequent flushings and disinfection. It is owing to this criminal negligence that so much disease prevails in large centres of population We hear our doctors speaking of fevers, diptheria, blood poisoning and sickness generally—well sir, it is the result, of not only filthy and poisonous sewers and drains, but of ill-constructed and improper traps The sanitary regulations of our city are fairly good but the laws are not enforced rigidly enough."

Here is a state of things that must surprise the most careless and indifferent and lead to serious contemplation and thought. The inhabitants of our large cities and towns, being thus assured that sanitary laws and regulations are not properly enforced, should with great care look to the safety of themselves and families. Great care should be taken of those who are not strong and robust, and of those who are predisposed to disease.

The loving wife and mother on whom so many cares devolve in the management of home and children, may be weak, languid, morose, and sleepless; her brain power has been strained to such a degree, that she has become a victim of melancholia. It may be that the bread-winner of the family has been overworked, and that nervousness has laid hold of him. His step is feeble and unsteady; his hand is trembling, and his whole system out of gear. Some loved son or daughter, or brother or sister may suffer from some of these ills, or it may be from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Neuralgia or Rheumatism.

Reader, if any suffer from the ailments just mentioned, their position is a terribly dangerous one in view of the unsanitary condition of our large cities and towns. They are fit subjects for any prevailing fever and disease, as they do not possess the vitality to resist them.

You can ensure their safety and health in one way—simply by making use of Paine's Celery Compound. It is a builder of nerve, brain and body, and at the same time purifies the whole system. Sluggish and impure blood is made to coarse through the body, as nature intended, and the whole system of digestion is rendered easy and natural.

Paine's Celery Compound, aided by moderate exercise and frequent bathing, will give to man or woman that perfect life and vigor that no other remedy on earth can bestow. Physicians in Canada and United States prescribe it daily and recommend it to all.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its lasting unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

The Unfortunate Wife of the Woodstock Prisoner Appears in Court to Hear the Final Disposition of Her Case—Petty Cross-Examined—His Evidence Unshaken—The Victim's Brother in the Box—The Track to the Swamp—The Elvidge Brothers' Evidence—Glimpses at the Theories of the Defence—The Crush About the Court House—"Brookie's" Prediction.

Woodstock, Sept. 23. The second day of the great Birchall murder trial was ushered well into a few interesting episodes, prominent among being the formal acquittal of Mrs. Birchall as an accessory to the awful crime for which her husband is now on trial for his life. None of the strong links in the chain of circumstances which the Crown has so deftly woven around the prisoner were weakened in any way by the cross-examinations. Mr. Blackstock and his associates, however, doing well considering what up to the present the evidence against their client has been so direct and pointed. After the morning session the proceedings dragged very slowly along, and it was affirmed on all sides that if a better gait were not struck the trial would extend far into next week. There was a general cheer at the opening of the trial that it should conclude by Saturday next, but it is not at all likely that this will be accomplished. At the afternoon sitting the crown put on a spurt and a very fair amount of speed was the consequence. The tion Mr Mahon is noted for allowing the most ample latitude to the lawyers of both sides in all proceedings before him and the present is no exception to this rule. The issue of privilege of witnesses was heard and as soon as the mr. It required a good deal of guess work during to-day's proceedings to affirm an understanding or disagreement of what the defence was driving at.

Mrs. Birchall was in court this morning to hear the disposition of her case which had been before the grand jury. It will be remembered that the coroner's jury, which sat at Princeton in March last, returned a verdict that Mrs. Birchall had been an accessory after the fact. At the preliminary investigation before Magistrate Hall at Niagara Falls Mrs. Birchall was allowed to go on her own recognizance and the authorities of Oxford subsequently accepted this decision. The matter was formally disposed of by the grand jury this morning, and Coroman Harrington, as soon as the court opened, sent up their final presentment. This stated, among other things, that in the case of Florence Birchall, under examination as an accessory to the murder of E. C. Benwell, they had found no bill.

This formality acquits the woman of any connection which she may be supposed to have had with the awful crime, and she is now free from further molestation or detention at the hands of worldly justice.

The unfortunate lady sat near the prisoner's dock and heard with bated breath Clerk Cantield read out the declaration of her acquittal. Her pale, shrunken face plainly showed the terrible ordeal through which she is passing. She was partly but neatly dressed. Beside her sat Mr. Westbourne, her sister, looking the very picture of health, if not of happiness. Mrs. Haines, as she has frequently been described, is a large, good-looking, typical Englishwoman of the provincial type. She wore a closely fitting blue serge suit and a black, velvet-covered bonnet. Her brown hair is closely cropped behind and her cheeks are ruddy and not, presumably, their natural fresh color. All day Mrs. Haines sat not more than three feet away from the dock and immediately behind Mr. Blackstock's chair, neither of them, for even a moment, glanced toward the prisoner.

With His Head Above the Rail.

Birchall's head was fully visible to the spectators to-day. A platform of sufficient height to raise his head above the rail was placed in the box last night. He whiles away his time drawing sketches of the court room and writing notes to his lawyers. The prisoner, too, maintains his accustomed unconcerned demeanor as to what is going on around him. When the court adjourned for lunch at 1 o'clock, and after the room had been cleared of its late occupants, Mrs. Birchall walked over to her husband and shook hands with him over the top of the rail. She asked him how he felt and he gave a satisfactory answer.

Strange indeed is the contrast between the appearance of the husband and wife. The former has gained some 30 or 35 pounds in flesh since he was arrested over six months ago, while the latter has almost shrunk away to a shadow, her face being pale and pinched almost to an alarming degree. There are those in this section who even yet declare that the woman is merely shamming, that her looks belie her feelings and that she is parading the shadow to attract sympathy. With those views I certainly do not agree. I think she feels as badly as she possibly could and that her face is a true index of the anguish of her heart. Neither she nor her escort came to the afternoon sitting of the court.

Throughout the day the court room was crowded as the limited circulation of admission tickets would permit. To the left of Mr. Justice MacMahon's chair, on the stage, and as much available space is taken up with chairs, which were occupied by deeply interested female spectators. If the space to the right of His Lordship's seat were equally filled it would present a somewhat unique stage setting. Just to pass it rather by, indeed. There is no unusual respect, however, that His Lordship will permit chairs to be right, for a curtain has been strung across that end, which the court utilizes as a retiring room, and from which he must have easy access to the bench. The ladies, too, turned out in goodly number below, and filled many of the seats in the body of the hall and the gallery which runs across the north end.

Among the fair ones on the stage and in the gallery were Mrs. Blackstock, Mrs. T. C. Patterson, Mrs. Snell in Dublin, Miss Spratt, Mrs. T. H. Packer, Miss Rhes, Dr. McMullen, Miss J. H. Cantlie, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. McCraine, Miss Parker, Miss A. B. Hay, Miss White, Miss Bushby, Mrs. Captain Higgins, Miss Ball, Mrs. Short, Mrs. Dr. Wilford.

One of to-day's visitors to the court room was Mayor Sol White of Windsor, M.L.A. for North Essex.

Lord Lisgar and Sir Wm. Birchall's spiritual guide were also an interested spectator.

Mr. Cartwright and Mr. Bell assisted Mr. Blackstock in the examination of witnesses.

It was nearly 10 before the examination of Mr. Petty was resumed, as the grand jury's presentment had to be disposed of by the Judge. During his remarks the judge gave the County of Oxford some wholesome advice as to the urgent necessity of an early completion of its new court house.

Douglas Petty Continues His Tale.

Mr. Petty again entered the box. He identified the letter sent to Birchall from Niagara Falls to Col. Benwell, postmarked Feb. 20, as being in the prisoner's handwriting, and also ten others received by Mellerish from Birchall. The register of the steamship Britannic was produced and the names of Birchall and his wife, witness and Benwell, were recognized by witness as being prisoner's handwriting.

To Mr. Blackstock Petty said that he would be 25 in the fall and since attending Cambridge had travelled considerably in Australia, New Zealand and Europe. He became acquainted with Mellerish through answering an advertisement and the latter put Birchall in communication with witness and as the result of various interviews the party started for Canada. The witness admitted that he took a dislike to Benwell on his own account in conjunction with what Birchall had said to him and in a mild sort of way he avoided Benwell in consequence. He recollected Benwell going to see some person in Broadway, New York, below the Metropolitan, a "down-town" hotel, witness going with deceased to the door, but he did not see the person, although Benwell told him what his business there was. Witness gave a detailed account of the movements of the party in New York. Saturday they left for Buffalo and the movements of the party here were also described. It was about 6, or 7 Sunday evening when Birchall and Benwell were copying each other's signature at the Stafford House. Witness did not look upon their actions as suspicious but considered them very silly. Birchall was also drawing pictures.

"At which he is quite an adept" said Mr. Blackstock.

"I do not think so," was the reply.

The conversation with respect to Pine Pond took place on the voyage over. With respect to the names Macdonald and Peacocks mentioned by Birchall, Mr. Blackstock asked, "Did you not obtain the impression from the language of Birchall that these men were all connected with the farm pupil business?"

"No, I cannot say that I did, answered witness.

The Men He Expected to Meet.

Witness admitted, however, that he expected to meet the men mentioned on arrival in Canada, and had since discovered that such men lived in the locality and were acquainted with Birchall. Petty stated that no requests had come from the customs officers at Niagara Falls to Birchall to pass Benwell's baggage, for as a matter of fact the baggage was passed on the first day of their arrival. Petty described the "kit" of Benwell, which consisted of two boxes or trunks, a gun case and three bags, which witness did not regard as a very large quantity of baggage.

Mr. Blackstock: "For a young Canadian we would consider it a rather extensive outfit."

Mr. Petty admitted that after Birchall had told him of the discovery of the cigar case in the swamp where the body of the murdered man was found, both witness and prisoner would have gone to identify the corpse had there been a train leaving during the afternoon, but subsequently this plan was changed by Birchall and it was arranged that he and his wife should go, and Petty went to New York, Birchall agreeing to pay his expenses. Petty stated that he had seen Birchall yesterday for the first time, but while at the Metropolitan Hotel in New York he had heard of him. He identified the field boots produced as those Birchall wore when he left Buffalo. After asking sundry other questions, in which nothing important was adduced, Mr. Blackstock dropped the witness.

Re-examined by Mr. Osler, witness testified that a telegram previously shortlisted by Agent McArthur of the Canadian Pacific Railway office at Niagara Falls as having been sent by Birchall was in prisoner's handwriting. The telegram read:

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 25, 1890.

Is there a telegram or letter for me at hotel. Please answer reply prepaid. If so send in care of proprietor Imperial Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont.

BIRCHALL.

Charles Benwell on the Stand.

Charles Benwell, brother of the murdered man, then took the stand. He was brought to this country by the crown, because his father, Col. Benwell, was too ill to attend. This young man looked anxiously through his eye-glasses at the strange court scene around him, but his evidence was not of very much importance. He stated that his brother was the youngest son and was 24 years old. His brother had been in New Zealand for a couple of years. He was perfectly temperate, and his general habits of life regular. He was two inches shorter than witness, his hair was dark, a shade lighter, and he was clean shaven. When witness left England on Sept. 5 his father was ill and unable to attend. He had fully intended to come, but on Aug. 18 he was stricken down, and witness had come in his stead. Last saw his brother alive on Jan. 14, when he was preparing to leave for Canada. He had a gold plate in his mouth, and his two front teeth were gold-tipped. Witness stated that the gold plate produced corresponded with that worn by deceased. The glasses produced are about the strength No. 60 usually worn by deceased, who required a little stronger glass than witness. The gold pencil case and penholder found on prisoner were recognised as the property of deceased, having been presented to him by a lady friend on his birthday, Sept. 15, 1885. The date and the pet family name of deceased, "Conny," are engraved on the case. Witness related his visit to the jail, where he opened his brother's trunks with keys handed to him by the Crown. He recognized the waterproof cloak which the dead man had on as a coat which had been purchased to send to deceased in New Zealand, but which was never forwarded. Afterwards witness saw his father wearing it. He also swore to a ring produced as having belonged to his brother. Witness stated that his brother was of a careful disposition.

THE ELVIDGE BROTHERS.

THE FELT-TALE CIGAR CASE.

The pockets of the pantaloons were turned inside out. Witness searched all the pockets, coat, vest and pantaloons, and each was empty. He also described the character of the cuts made in removing the private mark of Benwell thereon. The blood discovered was immediately underneath the crust which had formed under the head. The presence of frozen snow and ice on the arm sleeves inside the coat and vest was described and he identified the clothing produced. The pieces cut from the clothing had never been found, he believed.

Witness described the visit of prisoner to Princeton on the night of Friday, Feb. 28, Birchall arranged with him for the exhuming of the body next day. Prisoner told witness that he had left deceased at the Falls, and Benwell had proceeded west with the intention of getting off at Woodstock or London. Birchall also said that he had received a letter from Benwell since the latter left the Falls. The letter was dated London. Witness asked Birchall how Benwell was dressed, but he did not describe the clothing. Next day Birchall returned to Princeton, and the body was exhumed in the afternoon. Witness had received a telegram requesting Birchall's presence in Woodstock, but the latter said he wanted to see the body first.

Birchall's Tears at Benwell's Grave

Prisoner told witness that as soon as he saw the body, if it was Benwell, he would say, "It is him," if not he would say, "It is not him." As soon as the body was taken up prisoner caught hold of witness' arm, leaned over and remarked, "It is him," at the same time wiping his eyes with his handkerchief. He then went to Princeton and prisoner said he wished to cable to the young man's friends. The two entered a telegraph office and Watson handed him the blanks, but he shook his head. Witness told prisoner if he was too nervous to send the telegram he would write it for him, but Birchall replied, "We will be no further ahead. To-morrow being Sunday the message will not be delivered until Monday and I will send the telegram from Niagara Falls."

Birchall told witness to take charge of the case, and remarked that he would give considerable to have the culprit caught. They then drove to Paris, where witness suggested that this might be a case where a man had been sent out to this country and dispatched because he stood between someone else and an inheritance. Witness explained that he had heard of cases similar to this. Birchall replied that he did not think that there was anything of this kind in the present case. While Watson was relating the conversation between himself and Birchall the latter wrote considerably and handed his notes to his counsel. When the witness' hypothesis of the cause of the murder was mentioned Charles Benwell, who was seated at the Crown lawyers' table, looked up sharply, and the first smile that has been visible on his countenance since his arrival in Canada was observed on his face.

Mr. Blackstock was then handed the witness. Watson denied that he poured hot water down the coat-sleeve of the dead man to melt the ice. He stated that when Birchall gave way to emotion upon recognizing the body he did not think it was feigned. He also admitted that Birchall seemed to be so overcome that he had to lean upon him (Watson) for support. Witness thought that from the first time he saw the body until the excavation there had apparently been growth of the beard. Birchall told Watson that if he would take charge of the case he would send him a check for his trouble on Monday. When the body thawed out after its discovery he observed that it assumed a more natural color.

Watson under re-examination identified the hole in the collar of the waterproof through which the crown alleges the bullet that killed Benwell passed. He did not observe the hole until a day or two after the discovery of the body, but the coat was locked up in the undertaker's in the meantime and witness had the key.

Mr. Blackstock: "Did you see Murray doing any cutting of the coat at the inquest or explaining anything about it?"

Witness: "He may have done some explaining, but he did not do any cutting."

The Undertaker and the Sexton.

James Swartz, Princeton, the undertaker who had charge of the body, was next examined. He is a jovial-looking fellow and his countenance anything but solemn. He spoke of the finding of sheets of snow in the coat sleeves of deceased. Witness was present at the exhuming of the body when it was recognized by Birchall, and saw no difference between it then and the day it was first interred. Witness had a talk with Birchall, who said he had lost a friend of the name of F. C. Benwell. Birchall described the man and witness replied, "We have the man you are looking for." Witness asked, "Was this man Benwell the kind of a man who would frequent houses of ill-fame?" Birchall studied a minute and replied, "Well, if I must say so, yes he was, and he has cost me considerable time and money to get him out of scrapes in these places." Birchall had previously stated that he hoped the dead man was not Benwell, as he was a good friend and they had come out in search of a farm, and after looking around, if they found a place to suit them, would enter into partnership and build. He had also intimated that both he and Benwell were independently well off. Witness then expressed surprise that if Benwell was independent he should allow Birchall to pay the cost of the scrapes he got into. "Oh, he would settle with me afterwards," replied Birchall. He also told witness that he had left Benwell at Niagara Falls and that the latter had started for London. Witness asked if he had received a letter from Benwell since and he said that he had, but feeling in his pockets he guessed he had left it with his wife, who was at Stroud's Hotel. Witness volunteered to go to the hotel for the letter and Birchall then said the letter was at Niagara Falls. Asked the contents of the letter and whether it mentioned the names of any farmers whom Benwell had seen, Birchall said he couldn't just say that Benwell mentioned any names, in fact he had forgotten all about what was in the letter. All he knew he said was that he was to meet Benwell checks in the letter and instructions to Birchall to take some little things out of his baggage, and send them up country to him. Asked how he was going to get the things out of the baggage Birchall replied, "Oh, he sent his keys, so."

To Mr. Blackstock witness admitted that at the inquest he had testified that the body resembled a man who had been seen singing Indian war songs in the Royal Hotel, that he bought he recognized the clothing as the same. He explained the reason he asked Birchall if his friend was in the habit of attending houses of ill-fame by stating that the man whom deceased was thought to be was in the habit of frequenting these places.

John Gregg, sexton of Princeton cemetery, testified to the exhuming of the body of deceased for the purposes of identification, and that it looked exactly the same on all occasions.

Mr. Hellmuth of the defence appeared as a cross-examiner for the first time. He failed to shake Gregg's testimony, but brought out the fact that when Birchall visited the cemetery he appeared very nervous. "He was not overcome but nervous," said the witness. "I noticed it when he stepped up to the coffin and I stepped back to make room for him." Witness did not see prisoner take out his handkerchief or observe him crying.

BENWELL'S GRAVE.

The court rose at 6 o'clock.

The Interest Deepening.

The crowd that collected in the Market-square after the adjournment of the court was about twice as large as it was last evening. There is only one exit from the court room, down a flight of stairs at the front of the building. Over 1000 people were jammed in the square craning their necks to get a glimpse of Birchall as the sheriff officers bundled him into the covered carriage and sped off to the jail.

THE BIRCHALL TRIAL.

The trial now going on at Woodstock claims for the moment the undivided attention of the sensation-loving portion of the English-speaking world. The leading newspapers of this country, Great Britain and the United States are represented at Woodstock, and a daily aggregate of miles of reading matter will be given of the details of the trial. The murder of Benwell was a most atrocious crime, and the attendant circumstances invested it with peculiar sadness, nevertheless there is a great deal of mawkish sentiment and sensational interest aroused over it. Even the sacred desk has been drawn into the vortex of excitement and sermons are preached upon the great murder case. If this excitement were disassociated from the sentimentalism and romantic connections that form a large element in it, the interest shown in the case would be a greater credit to our feelings of humanity. But abstract love of justice and tender feeling are not the chief elements. While the Birchall-Benwell case absorbs public interest there are daily cases of as bad murders—murders that strike as painful a blow to those most closely concerned. These are slurred over with passing notice because a factitious importance has not been imparted to them. Benwell was but a man, and his alleged murderer now on trial is another. A man's social station and the social station of his murderer are not a legitimate factor in determining the importance of a case of homicide. To assume that it, is the worst form of morbid snobbery. There is slow murder being committed every day in every community. Ill treated, over-worked, under-fed and over-childbrened wives are being killed daily by inches. This is mentioned merely as a type of scores of instances of "man's inhumanity to man" which present a wide field for the exercise of practical philanthropy and the exhibition of a practical interest in the welfare of our fellows. But these cases are dwarfed in importance by the prominence given to sensationalism in such cases as that referred to. The world is too much dominated by feeling and too little moved by principle. We pay tithes too willingly to the sensation of the hour and neglect the weightier matters of the law. There is, however, an importance of a national character given to the Benwell-Birchall matter. It is not to be forgotten that the ends of justice involve the vindication of the character of Canada. It is said that there is a feeling in England that Canada is a desperately dangerous place for young Englishmen, with a few pounds of money, to come to, which we know is far from the fact. This trial may serve to show that the element of danger is not indigenous to this country, but came from England with the unfortunate victim of the Blenheim swamp tragedy. When the public, however, demand the fullest details of the case, it is not the province of the newspapers, which exist for the public pleasure, to quarrel with such a demand. The newspapers of the country are showing themselves equal to the occasion, and the EXAMINER will be found to contain daily instalments of the proceedings of the most sensational trial that has ever taken place in Canada.

South Victoria Election.

LINDSAY, Sept. 22.—From the developments of the last few days it has been suspected that the Ottawa Government intended to rush on the bye-election in South Victoria, but the statement in the Ottawa correspondence of a Toronto paper to-day that the South Victoria election is to take place on Saturday, 11th October, can scarcely be correct. The Tory convention for the riding is to be held on Saturday, 4th October, for the selection of a candidate. Organizer Birmingham came here last Thursday night, accompanied by J. C. Patterson, M.P. for North Essex, and they have been engaged in missionary work and pipe-laying. The Tory candidate has no doubt been selected already by two or three Lindsay wire-pullers who generally try to manage these things, and the convention will simply have to ratify their selection. It is quite likely that Sir John Macdonald will endeavor to snatch a verdict of approval from the riding in the present emergency, but they must dread the consequence of a month or six weeks' campaign and discussion or they would not resort to such tactics. The Liberals have called a convention for Monday, Oct. 6, but they will have to change it to Saturday if nomination takes place on that day.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A garden party was held on Monday, Sept. 15th, at Mr. Geo. Fair's, near Centreville, whose beautiful grounds and pleasant situation were the key to success. There were over 300 present. The united bands of Baillieboro and Millbrook gave some splendid selections. Singing was a prominent part; two glees were sung by the Millbrook choir. Mr. Anderson gave his favorite song, "The British Lion," which was loudly applauded. Miss Becca Fair gave a recitation named "The Little Maid." Refreshments of every description were duly provided. We hear the proceeds were $58. The programme was closed by the singing of "God Save the Queen" and the Doxology—"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

BREVITIES.

Mr. Thos. Donaldson is harvesting his buckwheat. The above gentlemen and some more sent to the States last spring for a new kind of pumpkin seed. It proved a success for Mr. Donaldson has now some very large specimens; I suppose they would measure over five feet in diameter. People will have a chance of viewing them at the fall shows here.

There was a missionary meeting at Centreville church on Friday, Sept. 19th. Was not present so cannot give the details.

The Diamond Dyes.

In mansion and cottage, in chateau and hall,
The Diamond Dyes are the pleasure of all;
So famed for true merit and power to endure
And valued alike by the rich and the poor.

No trouble to use, and a signal success,
Whether used for an overcoat, used for a dress
Giving touches to rooms that have unsightly grown,
Oh, the value of these Dyes is everywhere known.

It Belongs to the Breed.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., Sept. 22.—Mr. Robt. Young, V.S., of this town, has a Jersey heifer, two years old, that has been giving from five to six quarts of milk a day since May last and has never had a calf. This is said to be a most remarkable occurrence.

Enough Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Faith Cure.

A Sermon on the Subject by Rev. Mr. Herridge, of Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22—In St. Andrew's church last night Rev. W. T. Herridge preached on Faith Healing, taking for his text the words from James v., "The prayer of the faithful shall heal the sick. This might mean a healing in another world, where sickness was not known, but it could very well bear the literal interpretation. The reverend gentleman showed by the testimony of Scripture and Christianity that sickness was not to be regarded as an unmixed evil, and went on to allude to what he termed the growing party known as faith healers. He quoted the following language from one of their clerical advocates: "The exemption from pains of the body and sorrows of the mind, if accepted and enjoyed, is the gospel offered to all believers, and to decline or neglect this, is as great a sin against God as to decline salvation." It was, Mr. Herridge said, difficult to speak calmly of such dogma. He also strongly condemned the idea that only those who were cured were accounted believers, and that those who were not cured had their faith disproved. Sickness might be a chastisement, and in such a case the faith which said, "I must be made well," was not nobler than the faith which said, "Not my will but Thine," which was the spirit of Christ. The use of remedies and attention to the laws of health rejected by faith healers were not inconsistent with an intelligent faith in God, who gave us the remedies and made the laws. "The other day in Toronto," Mr. Herridge went on, "a man who had been for some time afflicted with a disease demanding the most careful regimen, was induced to listen to a female faith healer, who told him it showed lack of Christian confidence to treat his case with medical aid. When the fatal issue came, as it soon did, though the woman might call it Christian science made ineffective through want of faith, an indignant public were inclined to give it the harsher name of manslaughter." Continuing, Mr. Herridge said all the faith-healing ended in failure. It was useless to deny that there were many healings at faith resorts on the continent and in Europe. Still the majority rejected these things as contrary to the Word of God. But we were liable to be mistaken, and, therefore, it was necessary to examine the evidence to ascertain the precise value of these cures under the influence of faith. He would not say but the cures at St. Anne de Beaupre were as well attested as the faith cures, but the faith healers would not accept them. Anything that tended to strengthen the patient's faith in a case increased the chance of restoration. The reverend gentleman went on to argue in the direction of showing the influence of mind over body, and said any fresh impulse given to a patient, especially in certain types of disease, by a stronger will would produce a restoration to health. He gave an example that was a kind of faith healing, though not the kind of this movement, whose disciples were even enjoined to say they were cured against contrary physical evidence. While rejecting the current theories of faith healing, he still held to the efficacy of earnest prayer in sickness. For aught they knew there might be a direct effect produced on a patient yet lying beyond all physical laws and reaching the patient. It was not for them to limit God's efforts. If good for us, recovery from affliction would be granted, not at our dictation, but in God's own way and time.

The Trade in Canadian Logs.

SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 20.—Lumbermen estimate that as many logs will be put in the coming winter in the Saginaw District as last winter. The output of the mills this season, it is estimated, will exceed 700,000,000 feet, and if the Canadian export duty on logs comes off, as expected, the quantity of logs rafted here from Canada will steadily increase. Col. Bliss recently purchased the timber on an island in Georgian Bay for $70,000, and it will come to this river. The Saginaw Lumber and Salt Company has about 20,000,000 feet on Fitzwilliam Island to come here. The Emily Lumber Company will put in about 30,000,000 feet on the Wahnapitae this winter, a portion of which will come here, and J. W. Howry & Sons, and others, are lumbering on Georgian Bay. As Bay City, Folsom & Arnold are operating in Canada, and R. G. Peters, of Manistee, is also sending logs from Canada to this river. The probable reduction of the duty on lumber and abolition of the log duty is stimulating the demand for Canadian timber, and prices of stumpage have appreciated during the past 60 days, with the possibility of a still higher range of values. There is at present a fair inquiry for men for the woods, but the supply will be abundant as soon as the mills are shut down. A large number will go from here to Upper Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota for the winter.

DUBLIN, Sept. 23.—Patrick O'Brien, M.P., has been arrested.

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—Two thousand miners at Troppau, Austrian Silesia, have struck. Trouble is feared and troops have been sent there.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 23.—Natives of Vita have massacred a German merchant named Kuenzel and seven German employes.

ROME, Sept. 23.—By the derailing of a train between Florence and Pisa to-day five persons were killed and 30 injured. King Humbert and Queen Margaret proceeded to the scene and directed the care of the injured.

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—The miners' strike is extending to the freighter districts of Moravia and Austrian Silesia. The strikers have been guilty of plundering shops and intimidating workmen. The local authorities have asked for military assistance.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 23.—The warehouses of the Atlantic lines are crammed with goods, which merchants are anxious to export before October. Freights have advanced from 60 to 70 shillings a ton.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 23.—The Gazette learns that Alderman Manton told William O'Brien that he wrote Home Secretary Matthews that Chief Constable Farndale of Birmingham told him the Irish police had employed a confederate to "plant" dynamite on Italy which had been procured in America. Matthews declined to accept Manton's information and Constable Farndale denies that he made the statement.

RULER OF MARTIAL MEN.

SHORT SKETCH OF WILLIAM II. EMPEROR OF GERMANY.

A Born Soldier and a Veritable Prince—One of the Youngest Men Who Wield Such a Powerful Sceptre—The German Imperial Crown, Arms and Diadem

GREAT nation and a great ruler. That is what Germany and young Kaiser Wilhelm are today. Germany is a nation of martial men and it is fit indeed that she should be ruled by such a man as the present Emperor.

Frederick William Victor Albert, know as William II., was born in Berlin Jan 27, 1859. He succeeded his father Frederick III. on June 15, 1888. "Unser Fritz" had a lamentable short reign from March 9th to June 15th.

The year 1888 saw three Emperors in succession on the one throne. William II., is half an Englishman, as his mother is the Crown Princess Victoria of England. On Feb 25, 1881, the young Emperor married to Princess Augusta Victoria Amelia Louise Marie Constance daughter of the Grand Duke of Schleswig—Holstein—Sonderburg—Augustenburg.

The Emperor was educated like all true Hohenzollerns, more with reference to the duties of a soldier than to those of a statesman. He studied at the University of Bonn, and when he left, the Academic rector called him the Praesidium et dulce decus of the institution, and declared he had shown all those good qualities by which his ancestors had become great. It was on leaving this University that the young Emperor made his first public speech.

The students had tendered him a farewell banquet. "Gentlemen" said he, "I thank you first of all for the Salamander you have so heartily drunk to my grandfather and then to me, and I cannot but express the deep pain I feel at the thought of leaving your joyful ranks so soon. I thank you for having received me as a corps student. I have learned to know the spirit animating the fighting clubs as well at their duel grounds as in the social gathering. It is a good and honorable German mood, and I will remain true to the spirit of this corps to the end of my life."

He has verified his words indeed. Some months ago a decree was issued that duels would be allowed amongst officers of the army under certain, not too stringent, conditions.

William was too young to take part in the Franco-Prussian war. His father was wise and would not allow the young stripling to receive his "baptism of fire" in the deadly struggle between the two great Continental powers. Unlike him in this was the young son of Napoleon III. who fought at Saarbuck. William II is first, last and always an Emperor. He is a prince in the highest sense.

WILLIAM II.

He looks and shows it in every line of his bearing. But above all he is a soldier, and ranks the army the subject of serious and enthusiastic study. This is what fits him so eminently for the position he fills, for Germany in the present condition of its public mind must have a soldier for a ruler. Not since the first Napoleon has such a young man wielded so much power. William II has over two millions of drilled men at his back. With such an army there is little wonder that the Emperor is called "warlike."

In personal appearance William is erect, square shouldered, lithe, powerful, austere, with a strong, heavily lined and moody face. He speaks English perfectly. His father's tutor was Professor Thatcher of Yale College in the United States.

"The Emperor William brings up his little sons like soldiers, says a recent writer. They rise with the sun and go to bed at 8 or 9. Five o'clock is the usual hour for rising, and they are not allowed to remain in bed for a minute after they wake, as the emperor thinks that the habit of lying in bed encourages self indulgence. The two youngest have an English governess, but the three eldest are under the care of a military tutor, and waited upon by men servants.

THE EMPRESS' DIADEM.

The Crown Prince is aware that he will one day be emperor. He discovered the fact for himself, although he is always styled Prince William, and, by his father's command has never been told that there is any difference both on himself and his brothers. He is a wonderful boy, full of fun, but with a great idea of his own importance. Prince Eitel

Frederick is a favorite with every one, partly because he is so handsome, partly on account of his sweet disposition. He is a born soldier, and delights in making mimic war with his tin soldiers, which represent all the nations of Europe. The princes are devoted to their father and mother. It is no uncommon thing to find the empress in the nursery before 6 o'clock in the morning dressed, and ready to begin the day. In the middle of winter she may be seen walking in the Thiergarten with her husband by 8 o'clock. All day long she is busy, receiving visitors, performing public functions, or writing for the emperor until her hand aches. Both the emperor and empress are very conscientious. They are determined to fulfil the duties imposed upon them by their position. But the empress grieves over the fact that she cannot spend much of her time with her children. When she was simply Princess William she heard the princes say they prayers every night, superintended the nurse ries, and insisted upon rigid economy. The clothes of one little prince were handed on to his younger brother by her orders, and nothing was wasted. Now she is obliged to content herself with embroidering the clothes of her babies. She is an accomplished needle woman and very fond of sewing."

That the Emperor's reign will be a memorable and striking one is already assured. The recent spisodes in connection with the resignation of the Iron Chancellor Bismarck are already written on a page of the world's history.

Judging from what he has affected during the two years of his reign, the name of William II. is going to be an illustrious one. Famous indeed was Frederick the Great noble in all was William I., the veritable idol of the people was Frederick the III.—but close upon their footsteps comes their young descendant, he, of combined English and German blood, who before his reign is closed, may be mounted higher up than even they, upon the pedestal of fame.—C. H. T Byng-Hall.

Made Happy.

A day or two ago a man who lived forty or fifty miles west of Detroit hung about the Third Street Depot in a way to arouse Officer Button's curiosity, and he finally approached the stranger and asked:

"Waiting for any particular train?"

"I'm in a fix," responded the man. "came in on a little business, but have lost my return ticket and haven't a cent to buy another."

As it was plain that he had been drinking considerably the officer advised him to "look around" for the missing ticket.

About an hour later, being a good deal drunker than before, he approached the officer and said:

"I'm all right now."

"Found the ticket, eh?"

"Yes. I hadn't lost it."

"In your wallet, was it?"

"No. I jess remembered five minutes ago that I sold her to a broker up 'er street and am having a——of a time with 'er proceeds. Hooray fr G'ge Washton an' liberty!"—Detroit Free Press.

As a Salve for Wounded Feelings.

Angry citizen—"This bill, sir, is outrageous. Your men were not in my cellar while making those repairs more than two hours at the outside."

Equally angry plumber—"Don't make any difference how long it took 'em. When we got into a cellar to do a job of work and find there's been particular pains taken to lock the wine vault and put a cross dog in the canned fruit closet it shows a lack of confidence in our honesty that's got to be paid for. That bull goes."—Chicago Tribune.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $818,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,525	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,587	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 63
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17 84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1890.

THE EDISON BY-LAW.

To-morrow at 9 o'clock the polls will open for recording the votes of qualified ratepayers upon one of the most important, if not the most important, by-law that has ever been submitted to popular approval in Peterborough. To-morrow's voting will decide whether one of the largest and most thriving manufactories in the Dominion shall consolidate its several branches in Peterborough, and give the town the benefit of the expenditure yearly of $150,000 here in the shape of wages, besides all the incidental expenditure the operations of so large a concern will produce.

So far as the employment of hands and distribution of money for the benefit of the town are concerned, the point may be illustrated thus Suppose the Edison Company established here and in operation as it will be if the by-law is passed, the town would be in the same position as regards the employment of hands, the disbursement of wages to be spent in the town, as if three of our most thriving industries—for instance the William Hamilton Works, the Auburn Woollen Mills and the Lock Works—were to close down and remove from Peterborough; for the combined pay rolls of these three institutions are about equal to the pay roll of the Edison Company in the beginning of operations to take no account of the increase that is sure to take place. For, a business backed with a capital of twelve million dollars, and manufacturing articles, for which there is a constantly increasing demand, will be certain to increase the extent of its operations. Electricity as a motive power and a medium of light is only beginning to be used. The present extent of the employment of electricity bears the same proportion to its future use as the employment of steam half a century ago bore to its present use in all departments of industrial and domestic operations. Now, we can all see how great a calamity would be the removal of the three works mentioned above, and, therefore, we can appreciate the great benefit which the establishment of the Edison Company here would be.

In view of all the advantages to be gained, the conditions on which the Edison Company comes are most favourable. The purchase of the site involves the expenditure of $31,000, to be provided for by a series of levies on the taxpayers, extending over a period of thirty years and involving an annual payment of $750 per year, an addition of only eighteen cents to the taxes of a ratepayer assessed at $1000, and nine cents to the taxes of ratepayer assessed at $500. And after all, this tax is only a nominal one. For the first ten years, during which the exemption of the works of the Company exists, the additional taxes paid by the employees of the Company will more than pay the annual amount of taxation on account of the privileges extended to the Company, while for the remaining twenty years of the currency of the $750 additional rate, the buildings and plant of the Company will not only pay the entire levy, but actually produce a surplus in the treasury at the expiration of the thirty years.

Besides, it should be remembered that the erection of buildings at once to the value of $31,000, will produce a very beneficial effect upon the building trade. Mechanics and labourers will get much needed employment this fall and next season, when the completion of the necessary buildings, according to plans now prepared, will cause the expenditure of $30,000 additional. And, again, buildings will have to be provided for workmen. This will, also, give work to both labour and capital. The latter, now locked up in unproductive vacant lots, or lying at a nominal interest in the bank, will find profitable employment in loans for building operations.

In fact every department of civic life and industry will feel the benefit. It is to be hoped that neither hostility to the solid interests of the town, nor apathy, will deter the ratepayers from giving a hearty endorsation to the Edison by-law to-morrow.

SECRET OF TORONTO'S SUCCESS.

Toronto is a great city, a thriving city, growing at a marvellous rate. This great growth is due in some part to her large railway facilities, which are, however, not proportionately greater than those of Peterborough, but the great element in Toronto's success is the spirit of her citizens; the hearty loyalty they show to the city's interests; the solid unanimity they show in working for enterprises for the city's benefit. Toronto's citizens work in harmony, they stand shoulder to shoulder, by each other, for the city's good. The solid phalanx of the citizens, united to promote the enterprises that will bring growth and thrift to the city, leave no hope to the sore-heads and obstructionists, whose role is opposition to everything of a progressive character. And we all see what the results of the application of this policy of unanimity of her citizens on matters touching her vital growth, have been. Her growth has been marvellous and the most important factor in this growth has been, and is, the hearty co-operation of the citizens, their united and practical loyalty to the best interests of the city. We hope our citizens will profit by Toronto's example and better the lesson by uniting to-morrow to put a big, big spoke in the wheel of Peterborough's progress.

Great Was the Fall Thereof.

A writer says that the falls of the Congo, in Africa, are 380 feet of a drop. It was down these falls that Gough Bro.'s prices of the Kidd bankrupt stock tumbled. That is the reason that the prices for these splendid goods are so low. dw

Just received direct from British Columbia this season, Red Salmon. These fish are caught in salt water and canned fresh from the boats. Only 15 cents a tin. Special prices for quantities. ALEX. ELLIOTT, 355 George street. d

To-Morrow Night's Turn-out.

Look out for the grand street parade to-morrow night at half-past seven o'clock. The Battalion Band, the Canton of Patriarchs Militant in full uniform, the Highland dancers in costume. Grand promenade concert in the Charlotte street rink. The biggest attraction of exhibition week. Don't miss it. 1d

A Belmont Volcano.

Mr. A. B. Downer this morning exhibited at the EXAMINER office two interesting volcanic specimens. The specimens consist of conglomerate of pebbles, bound together by what Mr. Downer says is lava. These curious objects were found on the shores of Belmont Lake. Mr. Downer says that he has several specimens of copper found in the same vicinity.

Did You Try It?

Morrow's sugar 18 lbs. for $100. The farmers and townspeople are rushing to get it, and the tea he is offering for 25c is decidedly a treat. His experience in the business and the great care he has taken in selecting them is working up the extensive trade which he is now doing. Do not be guided by unscrupulous advertisers, but come to W. Race Course and Pasture Ground.

A resident of the north ward complains that George street north is regularly made a race course and pasture ground, the former by men who try to "show off" with their nags, and the latter by boys who, instead of driving their cows home, go away to play ball and leave the animals to their own wayward fancies. The complainant wants the police to look into the matter. The nuisance would be quickly and effectively remedied if he handed the names of a few of these transgressors in to the police for prosecution.

The Dinner and Tea, under the auspices of the ladies of St. John's Church, will be served in the store adjoining Mr. Alex. Elliott's, 351 George street, instead of in the O. C. Rowse shop as heretofore announced. On Thursday and Friday, Sept. 25th and 26th. Dinner from 12 to 2 p.m., Tea from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Dinner or Tea 25 cents. 2171

Citizens' Day Friday.

Friday is children's day at the exhibition, and the pupils will be given a half holiday. The directors of the exhibition wish to make Friday citizens' day also, and, to that end, make the request that the merchants close up their stores Friday afternoon. This request may appear presumptuous to the merchants, but the directors give as a reason that there will be very little business doing on the last day of the exhibition, and if the merchants act unanimously no one will suffer. Every other fair of importance has a "citizens day"; why not Peterborough?

Fatal Runaway Accident.

A fatal accident occurred in Warkworth on Thursday last, the Star says, a Mrs. Reynolds being the victim. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were in the village selling fruit and the latter went into a store to deliver some, leaving his wife in the buggy. It is conjectured that Mrs. Reynolds was in the act of opening a parasol when the horse took fright and ran. The unfortunate woman endeavored to hold the animal, but to no purpose, and it dashed around Bumphries corner, smashing the vehicle and entangling the woman in the wreck. When extricated, it was found on removing her to Dr. Richards, that she was fatally injured. She was removed to her home and died the following day, Friday.

Margaret Mather in Coming.

It will be good news to a large number of Peterborough people to know that Margaret Mather and her talented company are to appear in the Opera House here on Friday evening next, in "Romeo and Juliet." It appears the company were engaged to play a week in Toronto, and a dispute arose, the result of which is that Miss Mather will have a night on her hands, and her manager was induced by Mr. T. E. Bradburn to spend it in Peterborough. Although the notice is short, there is no doubt that the opera house will be crowded. The following is from the Globe of yesterday:—

"Miss Mather as the fair and impulsive Juliet made a decided hit, and the students who thronged the gallery insisted upon her frequent appearance before the curtain. Mr. Otis Skinner, as Romeo, was also extremely popular, and his love-making might easily have been mistaken for the genuine article. The support was uniformly good, and, taking it altogether, it is safe to say that the most romantic and fastidious admirers of Shakespeare's love play went away satisfied. When Miss Mather emerged from the stage door of the theatre she was received by some 50 or 60 students, who tacked themselves to a long rope and pulled the carriage to the Rossin House, adopting the chorus of Little Annie Rooney to the occasion." 1d

Fine Weather for the First Day.

Exhibits Being Placed—Sir John Macdonald Sends His Regrets—The Programme for To-morrow.

The first day of the Peterborough Central Exhibition was graced with peerless weather, and the probabilities promise a continuance of the fine spell.

At an early hour this morning the streets leading to the grounds were traversed by hundreds of people, who were conveying their exhibits to the grounds in readiness for the opening. Classes 23 to 29—grains, roots, fine arts, implements, etc., were placed by one o'clock, and the judges are, this afternoon, awarding the prizes.

The live stock will be brought in to-night and to morrow morning. The gates will be open for the reception of visitors at nine o'clock to-morrow.

SIR JOHN CAN'T COME.

The formal opening will, however, not be conducted by the Premier of Canada, as was confidently expected. Mayor Stevenson this morning received the following message:—

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—Extremely regret that pressure of public business absolutely prevents me from leaving town.

JOHN A. MACDONALD.

This will be a great disappointment to the public as well as to the Directors, who held high hopes that Sir John would be able to be present.

To-Morrow's Programme.

The grounds and buildings will be open to the public to-morrow afternoon. It will well repay visitors to make an inspection of the exhibits. Every department is well represented, and this year's show will doubtless surpass all previous ones.

SPEEDING IN THE RING

will commence at 2 o'clock. The events are the Farmer's Race, purse $50; the open trot for the Hotel-keeper's Purse of $150; the 2:40 trot for Citizens' Prize of $80; the running race for Gentlemen's Prize of $100; and the running race (open to horses which did not compete in the previous one) for Brewery Cup Prize; and the Novelty Race for valuable prizes. These races of course extend over two days.

Gough Bros. baby show will be a leading attraction. It will take place in the exhibition building during the afternoon.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.

Interest will centre in the Caledonian games and athletic sports which begin about two o'clock on the campus inside the race-track. The Peterborough St. Andrew's Society will manage the games, and as there are over 35 entries made already, the sports cannot but be highly successful. The programme is:—

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.—1st prize, silver cup; 2nd prize, silver medal.

THROWING HEAVY HAMMER.—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

HALF MILE RACK.—1st prize, silver cup; 2nd prize silver medal.

VAULTING WITH HIGH POLE.—1st prize, silver cup; 2nd prize, silver medal.

HIGHLAND FLING, IN COSTUME.—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

BICYCLE RACE, TWO MILES.—1st prize, silver cup; 2 d prize, silver medal.

HIGHLAND SWORD DANCE, IN COSTUME—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

WALKING MATCH, ONE MILE.—1st prize, silver cup; 2nd prize, silver medal.

BEST DRESSED MAN IN FULL HIGHLAND COSTUME.—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

TOSSING THE CABER.—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

MILE RACE.—1st prize, gold medal; 2nd prize, silver medal

PUTTING THE STONE.—Valuable first and second prize will be presented.

BAGPIPE COMPETITION.—1st prize, $10.00; 2nd, $5 00.

Nos. 5, 7, 9, 10 and 12 open to all-comers; Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 8 and 11 open to amateurs only. Three to enter or no second prize. Entries may be made for any of the events on the grounds to-morrow. Competitors must hand in their names during the preceding game; the last entry in each event to commence the competition.

DANCING.

A suitable platform for dancing has been erected and a good orchestra provided for the pleasure of young people. A nomical fee will be charged. The dancing booth will doubtless be well patronized.

Prizes will be offered for best Irish jig by ladies and gentlemen, clog dancing, step dancing, etc.

Notes.

Friday is school-children's day. Grounds open all day. Splendid amusement provided for.

The band of the 57th Battalion will be present Thursday and Friday and furnish first-class music.

Secretary Colline and the Directors are up to their elbows in work at the grounds, answering enquiries, taking entries, placing exhibits, and otherwise providing for the comfort and convenience of the public.

"Hot meals at all hours" may be procured on the grounds. The restaurants will be a great convenience.

The Manitoba exhibit will attract the attention of the farming community. It is larger and better than ever.

An attraction not down on the programme is the "Little World" which is shown by Mr. Robert Vance, of Kansas. This marvel of mechanism is well worth seeing. It is exhibited at the grounds.

A Vice-Regal Visit

Lord Stanley of Preston "On" to Lindsay—He Passes Through Peterborough en Route.

Had the good and loyal citizens of Peterborough known that the Governor-General of Canada and Lady Stanley were to pass through town at ten o'clock this morning the railway stations would have been thronged with crowds of people anxious to see His Excellency and party. Calculations were upset by the delay of the early morning C. P. R. train, which was five hours late. It arrived at ten o'clock, with Lord Stanley's private car, "Victoria," attached behind. There were none but the regular habitues of the station present, so that His Excellency's slumbers were not disturbed. Lord Stanley had not yet left his apartments, and only as the train pulled out of the G. T. R. station at half-past ten o'clock was any movements visible in the vice-regal sleeping quarters.

At the C. P. R. station, Mr. J. A Barron, M. P., Lindsay, and Mr. Riddel, of the G. T. R., entered the Governor-General's car and accompanied His Excellency and Lady Stanley to Lindsay. They were received by Lord Stanley's Aide-de-camp.

The vice-regal car was shunted on the Grand Trunk line at the diamond, and a special train in charge of conductor Stanton, conveyed it to Lindsay. Mr. Barron sent a telegraphic message ahead of him so that the citizens might be ready to meet them.

Lindsay made great preparations for the reception of Lord and Lady Stanley. They were to be addressed, feasted, and honored with the privilege of opening up the backwoods exhibition, which begins to-day at Lindsay The brass band was engaged, an evergreen arch erected, and altogether Lindsay is "blowing" itself on this occasion.

To-morrow the Governor-General's party will make the tour of the back lakes, passing through Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn and Burleigh, arriving at Lakefield in the afternoon. Mr. Mossom Boyd's yacht will convey the party.

The good people of Lakefield are not going to allow such a chance to hob nob with viceroyalty to slip by. Lord Stanley will be presented with an address by Reeve Casement during his brief stay in the village.

The Governor-General will then entrain for Peterborough, arriving here about half-past eight o'clock. His car will then be hitched on to the nine o'clock express, and he will proceed to Ottawa via Port Hope.

The Great Work of the Edison Company.

How it has Healthily Boomed Schenectady

The Albany Journal last evening contained an editorial headed "No Longer Old Dorp." The article was on Schenectady's remarkable growth, and after referring to the fact that it took the city 200 years to accumulate a population of 13 655, and dwelling upon the many improvements that had been made, said: "The first impetus was given when an aroused and active public spirit offered generous terms to the Edison Edison Electric company, which secured the location of a vast manufacturing establishment at Schenectady. With the remarkable increase in the demand for electrical appliances the Edison works have been enlarged and other industries have been attracted. To-day the prosperity of Schenectady is unparalleled. There is actually an insufficient number of houses to meet the demands of an increasing population."

"The census figures reflect the rapid growth which the city has been enjoying. Although the present boom is scarcely three years of age, it has added over 6,000 souls to the population. The corrected returns received yesterday from Washington place the total figures at 19,837. The exact gain over 1880 is 6 202, or more than 45 per cent.

"Such a rapid increase in population can scarcely be equalled by the showing of any other city in the State; and yet it is entirely due to the growth of the past few years. If existing conditions continue, the census figures of 1900 will advance Schenectady beyond several of her immediate competitors among the cities of New York."

[The Schenectady Edison concern is a branch of the industry that is coming to Peterborough, and if the presence of such a manufactory there has produced such a beneficial result upon the growth of a moribund city, what a great impulse it would give to a live, thriving town like Peterborough, which only needs the impetus derivable from a large number of manufactories, to develop it into an important city. To-morrow's vote will decide whether Peterborough is to be forged ahead or stand still.

Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Otonabee council met at Keene, Sept. 15th; all the members present. Wm. Lang's name was ordered to be put on the collector's roll for lot 2, C.P., Keene, instead of W. H. Martin's. The clerk was instructed to notify George Read to remove his fence off the road allowance at the bridge across the Indian River on the base line opposite west half of Lot 16, Con. 6, so as to allow space for a road through the river for watering purposes. The council agreed to have a survey to establish the line between the Cons. 2 and 3 opposite Lots 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26, and that Messrs. Anderson, Wood and Nesbon be a committee to have survey made. The clerk was instructed to notify James and John Fife to remove their fences off the quarter line opposite Lots 21 and 22 Con. 4; also to notify Timothy Crowley, John A. Bennet and John Deyell to clean the obstructions out of the ditch running through their lots. A by-law was passed to levy a rate of 1 6-10 mills on the dollar to raise the sum of $3,400 for township purposes, and 2 2-10 mills to raise the sum of $4,493 97 county rates, and 2-10 of a mill to raise $409 county school rates. The following sums were ordered to be paid: James Hayes, gravel, $3 00; A Davidson, damages drawing gravel, $6.00; R. A. Smyth, gravel, $7 35; J. Lancaster, gravel and damages, $12 36; J. Breckenridge, cedar, $6 84; James Embirst, cedar, $2 00; J. A. Bennet, cedar, $2 70; Wm Drury, gravel, $4.70; J. Quinlin, gravel, $14.38; R Richardson, cedar, 96c; Mrs McCarthy, gravel, 85c; R. J. H. Short, gravel, $9 55; Joseph Embirst, damages drawing gravel, $3.00. Council adjourned to 20th October, next.

The Grand Trunk's Double Track.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 23.—McArthur Bros. have made good progress in their double track contract with the Grand Trunk and their labours have been satisfactory as far as tested. The double track east is completed as far as Shannonville and was opened to traffic at noon Sunday. The distance thus finished is over 7 miles. It will be but a short time before the railway company will have the use of the line to Napanee. Ground has been broken all along the route, but the bulk of the work is being done at the west end as much of the material is taken from Thurlow stone quarries and gravel pits, and the completion of the work at this end increases the facilities for getting at the necessary material for carrying on the work. In the course of a week or more the double track between Brockville and Montreal will be completed, except a portion between St. Anns and Vaudreuil, where considerable bridging requires to be done, which will not be attempted this season.

MILLINERY and MANTLES.

OUR STOCK is now complete. As usual, we are showing the very newest goods, imported direct from Old Country markets. As our trade has largely increased, our stock will be found larger than usual, both in Millinery and Mantles. We hope, during this week, to have a visit from a large number of buyers.

COLON IN FLAMES.

Three-Fourths of the City Consumed. Looters Shot by Soldiers.

PANAMA, Sept. 23.—Three-fourths of Colon has been destroyed by fire. The blaze broke out at midnight and was not under control until 7 a.m. It is reported that 90 carloads of freight in transit have been consumed The wharves and shipping are safe. Owing to the riotous behavior of a mob of looters the military opened fire with ball cartridges, killing and wounding several people. Reinforcements of police have been despatched from here. A supply of food has also been sent. Everything is reported quiet now.

No Progress in Conference.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—It is proposed by some of the Democratic representatives that the Republicans shall be compelled to pass the tariff bill without the aid of Democratic votes in the House. If sufficient signatures are obtained to the request for a call, a caucus of Democratic representatives will be held to determine upon a line of policy to be pursued. The Republican conferees on the tariff bill were in session again to-day for two hours before noon. After they had separated it was said there was no further progress to report.

Representative Mills being unable to attend the conference on the tariff bill has been excused and Mr. Turner of Georgia has been appointed in his place.

The Republican conferees on the tariff bill met again this afternoon. It is understood the metal and glass ware schedules have been agreed upon. As to sugar a compromise on No. 14 as the dividing line between free and dutiable sugars is probable. On binder twine a small duty, probably half a cent a pound, will be imposed. This afternoon a conference was held of Republican senators, who voted to put binder twine on the free list. There were present Senators Ingalls, Plumb, Peirce, Casey, Pettigrew, Moody, Wilson, Davis, Power and Paddock. It was stated to them that the conference on the tariff bill proposed to impose a small duty on binder twine. Nine out of ten senators named pledged themselves, it is said, to vote against the adoption of the conference report in case binder twine was taken off the free list.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to policy holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by looking after the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

THE STRAIN FELT

Birchall Beginning to Grow Extremely Anxious.

A STIRRING DAY AT WOODSTOCK.

At or His Removal to the Jail by the Evening He Appears Down-hearted and Reserved. An Outline of What the Defence Will Probably be. An Expert is Writing Identifies a Bell-Tele Telegram as Having Been sent by the Accused to Himself. Chief Tom Young's Story of the Arrest. A Graphic Chapter of Court Scenes.

Woodstock, Sept. 24. Birchall has at last begun to show signs of real distress, then of deep interest in the proceedings which are going on around him. This was certainly noticeable in his demeanor this morning when the proceedings, which were commenced at 9 o'clock, were resumed. It can hardly be said that there was any visible change in looking on the part of this remarkable prisoner placed on the centre of attraction. But he has developed a very lively and keen interest in the doings in the court.

Two or three hours after he was removed to cell to-night, however, he began to appear quite down-hearted, and was noticeably reserved in his communications with the officials at the prison. The strain is at last telling on the nerves of the prisoner.

For the first time since the trial began he to-day rested his eyes on the witnesses as they were called up one after another to testify especially and directly relative to the weather of the week in which the murder was committed, he followed closely. He did not make much to-day or do any sketching, which in the lazy, but restless mode which appeared to be his method of testifying was given, and he seemed to devote his attention to his business, and memoranda were made by his lawyers on the legal Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. MacMurchy to cross-them point. Mr. Mr. Blackstock. When the court adjourned at 4 o'clock he had in his hands a dozen or so sheets of paper on which he had pencilled down his memoranda. At times his pale face became covered with anxiety. At none of the preliminary examination which took place at Niagara Falls did the accused show any of the apparent concern that he did to-day. This was generally remarked during the sitting of the court. Neither Mrs. Birchall nor her sister, Mrs. West Jones, came near the courtroom to-day, nor as it is said, have they been allowed to do so. It is also said that Birchall would like an appearance. Yesterday but that Mrs. Birchall had to appear to hear the final disposition of her own case. The case of the wife and sister in face of the accused causes not a little speculation as to its real meaning.

One of the new points brought out to-day was the identification of the message signed "Stafford" sent from Buffalo on Feb. 2 to Birchall at Niagara Falls, as being in possession of Birchall. The message was proved by Manager King, of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, and Expert Osler were positively that the message was in Birchall's handwriting.

The Line of Defence.

At last the defence are beginning to show signs of what their final contention will be, although as the time is made up at this stage. Up to the present time there has been no mention of an alibi, but Mr. Blackstock, from a question asked of a witness, to-day, apparently had that in mind. That question, however, will probably be the last. The case for the Crown will probably be finished at Eastwood on Monday, Feb. 17, just one week from to-day. The evidence to be presented under that head will be admitted that Reginald was with him all the time and Jackson and Jedgood. The latter will probably not be called at all. That Birchall returned to Niagara Falls alone. That he and Benwell may have agreed, because of the latter being identified with the prisoner in Canada, to separate on their return home, and that Benwell set out on his own hook. It is [illegible] that during the visitors at the [illegible] were Mr. John B. Freeman, [illegible] Norfolk, and Sheriff McKim [illegible]

[illegible] from mid-ladies of Woodstock [illegible] court on Monday and yes-terday, the desire of the average [illegible] and matron of the town to be [illegible] mission to the room has become universal. At the afternoon sitting of the court the room was almost entirely filled with ladies, young, old and middle-aged. Fa-were nearly four hundred of them in the room. Even male ticket-holders were refused admission, to accommodate the fair visitors. If the persistency continues which it is likely to do, there will be a very poor show for any but the lawyers, the ladies and the reporters, whose numbers have now swelled to about forty.

There is little prospect that the trial will end this week, although the prisoner made this afternoon was very considerable. Mr. Justice MacMahon is much opposed to delays or disturbances of any kind, and he firmly insists on keeping the ball rolling for the seven or so hours that the court is daily. The number of crown witnesses is variously stated at 75 to 125, but it is known that several of these, whatever be their numbers, are merely held in reserve. For instance, it is now given out that Detective Murray, who has played such an important part in working up the case, will not be put on the witness stand at all. This very or may not be so. As for the witnesses for the defence I have not as yet seen or even heard of a single one. If there are any they are certainly being kept well in the background. The address of counsel will probably last considerably over a day.

A Spar With the Doctors.

The morning session was devoted to hearing the doctors who made the post mortem examination and their theories as to how long the body of Benwell had lain in the swamp before it was discovered about 11 o'clock on the morning of Friday, Feb. 21. Two of the medical men examined were Drs Oliver Taylor and C. R. Staples of Princeton. Mr. Taylor is a clerical-looking young physician. Both of these gentlemen, it seems, refused to give Mr. Hellmuth any information about the results of the post-mortem other than was submitted by them at the inquest at Princeton, although it was known to the defence that that statement had been very carefully amplified since put in the possession of the crown. Therefore Mr. Blackstock, in his cross-examination, put both of these gentlemen under a severe cross-fire of questions. Dr. Taylor was on the stand for over two hours, and Dr. Staples for about an hour and a half. Both of these gentlemen had evidently come prepared to meet the theories to substantiate which if was already presented some very damning evidence, as the result of the trial.

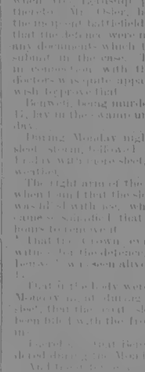
I may happen, too, that Mr. Blackstock will attack in the most determined fashion the testimony of the witness who will attempt to identify Birchall and Benwell on the Grand Trunk train on that fatal Monday, and his presence on the train platform at Eastwood. Miss Allie Smith of the crowns strongest witness as to the identification at the Eastwood station. This young lady is keen and out of the ways of the world. Houses only being visited by her on the occasion of her trip to Toronto on the week-end during the time. Her letter written to Birchall to Benwell's father on Feb. 22, already printed, is one of the crown's strongest points as to the object of getting the young man out of the way. A copy of this letter has been marked "There is murder in that document if ever there was in anything in the shape of writing."

The crown to-morrow will probably begin by trying to prove the journey from Buffalo to Eastwood and to the fatal swamp made by Birchall and Benwell on Monday, Feb. 17. Mr Osler will endeavor to trace this step by step by ticket agents, train hands and other witnesses, and then Birchall's return journey from Eastwood to Niagara Falls, when the message to Pelly was received by Operator Phemister at Niagara Falls at 7.44 p.m. The cross examination of Miss Fallon and Miss Smith by Mr. Blackstock will probably be the most exciting scene in the whole trial.

Four Hundred Fair Ones.

Of course the interest in this remarkable trial grows apace. Visitors are flocking to Woodstock in large numbers to-day. The number of the average [illegible] and matron of the town to be [illegible] mission to the room has become universal. At the afternoon sitting of the court the room was almost entirely filled with ladies, young, old and middle-aged. Fa-were nearly four hundred of them in the room. Even male ticket-holders were refused admission, to accommodate the fair visitors. If the persistency continues which it is likely to do, there will be a very poor show for any but the lawyers, the ladies and the reporters, whose numbers have now swelled to about forty.

COUNTY CROWN ATTORNEY BALL.



CROWN ATTORNEY MACMAHON.

C. R. STAPLES, M.D.

The Doctors' Testimony with respect to [illegible]

Thought it Might Be Breakfast.

Dr. A. B. Welford, the well young physician of Woodstock, was also examined at length as to the post mortem. It came out in his testimony that the right sleeve of Benwell's waterproof and undercoat were filled with sleet, frozen so hard that it was impossible to separate the clothing from the flesh, even after the body had been in the undertaker's room thawing out several hours. The doctor next spoke of the discolorations on the groin of deceased, and testified that inasmuch as inflammatory action had not set in, this discoloration could not have taken place more than 12 hours before death. It might have occurred between the period represented by 12 hours prior to and 24 hours after death. The man had been dead at least 48 hours. In testifying that the body was not decomposed the doctor explained that the bronze-bluish appearance of the body was due to the fact of it having been frozen and exposed to the air. The witness also explained a peculiarity about the lower bullet wound in the head. The upper edge of the wound was burned with powder, but the lower edge bore no trace of powder, as if, when the weapon was placed against his head, the lower part had been protected by something. [The Crown saw it was the collar of the waterproof Benwell wore.] Witness next stated that the neck band of deceased's shirt indicated that whoever had torn off his collar had jerked it off while the man lay on his back in the swamp.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he went to Princeton with Miss Packthait, who desired to see the body, thinking it might be that of her brother, Neville H. Packthait, who was missing at the time.

Witness also stated that he noticed on the drawers worn by deceased below the left knee a mark as if made by a charred stick, and there was also a small abrasion on the leg itself. He thought, with the other witnesses, that the body looked as though it had been placed on the saplings where found.

Dr. Charles R. Staples of Princeton, who assisted at the post mortem, corroborated the other medical men. From the condition of the stomach, witness did not think Benwell had eaten anything for six hours before his death.

Scoring the Stupid Constables.

At this stage His Lordship had to adjourn court nearly an hour earlier than usual because none of the necessary witnesses could be found, although they were all supposed to be in the grand jury room at hand. His Lordship rapped some of Sheriff Perry's stupid constables over the knuckles for their thick-headedness, and he remarked that he hoped that in future a man with an ordinary amount of intelligence would be placed near the door to see that the witnesses were forthcoming when wanted. The inability of these stupid tipstaffs to keep the front seats and the stairs leading to the court room clear is frequently manifest. Often those who are [illegible] to be in attendance find it very hard to get [illegible] owing to the crowd around the doors.

George A. Orchard, reeve of Stamford and warden of Welland, his county, and Robert Thomas, assessor of Stamford, were called to prove that no person named Birchall or Somerset had owned a farm in the vicinity of Niagara Falls. Mr. Blackstock asked the last witness if the Falls didn't provide exceptional facilities for carrying a contemplated murder into execution.

George Burnett, manager of the Great Northwest Telegraph office at Buffalo, produced a telegram from files of his business, Feb. 2, 1891, bearing the official mark of the sending operator, as well as the receiving mark. It was a paid message of 13 words and cost the sender 75 cents.

John H. Baldwin, whose wife conducted the lodging house at the Falls in which Birchall and his wife boarded, produced several letters written to him by Birchall after his arrest. These were put in for the purpose of comparison with the other exhibits alleged to be in Birchall's handwriting.

Postmaster N. W. Woodruff of Niagara Falls, Ont., stated that he rented box 343 to the prisoner Birchall for the months ending Aug. 19, 1890. Mr. Woodruff recognized the stamp produced as belonging to his office, and explained how the type was changed.

L. McCartney of the Canadian Pacific telegraph office at Niagara Falls identified a telegram dated Feb. 25 and also message dated Feb. 26 as received at 3.40 p.m. that day from prisoner for transmission.

Fred Pearce, teller in the Bank of Niagara at Niagara Falls, N.Y., said that on Feb. 24 last an account was opened at the bank by prisoner in the name of J. R. Birchall. The amount of the account was, on opening deposit slip produced, $152, but has since been closed. Witness asked Birchall his occupation and he replied that he was buying horses for the English government.

Prof. Wolverton of Woodstock Baptist College, Dominion meteorological observer for this district, was called to prove the record of the weather during the week of the murder. The blotter bearing the original record of observations signs with the [illegible] was produced. Observations, [illegible] were taken at 8 a.m. [illegible] hours afterwards during the [illegible] showed the various gradations of weather. The records proved that at 8 a.m. on Feb. 17 the alleged [illegible] commenced to fall, [illegible] without cessation until 12 [illegible] was a pretty heavy [illegible] only one half of an [illegible] on the morning of Thursday, the 20th, since [illegible] fell in the forenoon shows that it was exceptionally warm with drifting [illegible] Sunday morning, the 21st, the day of the discovery of the body.

Mrs. McKendrick, by the way who is the next lady witness called, and J. of Stamp, witnesses in taking the weather observations specially detailed generally Prof. Wolverton's testimony.

Mr. Hellmuth cross-examined these witnesses as to the storms subsequent to Monday, for the purpose, no doubt of strengthening the theory of the defence that the frozen sleet and ice found in Benwell's coat sleeve could have found its way thither after Monday.

Douglas Pelly's Revolver.

Douglas R Pelly was called to the box again, and handed to Mr. Osler the revolver he had brought from England with him. He identified another couple of letters as being in Benwell's handwriting.

In cross examination by Mr. Blackstock, Pelly said Birchall's revolver was smaller than his. He said a photo produced was a fairly good likeness of Benwell. He was with Birchall all the time before the fatal Monday with the exception of twice for a short time, so that, he said, it would have been impossible for him to have gone away before that Monday on a trip.

Charles Benwell was recalled to describe the manner in which certain clothing found in his brother's trunk were marked, with a view to proving that the clothing of the dead man was cut in the same place. His Lordship ruled this evidence out.

John Gregg, the Princeton sexton, was recalled and testified to suspicious circumstances which happened near the cemetery in March last, a horse and buggy driving up to the cemetery gate, turning as if to enter the grounds, and then driving away. Gregg, who said he had been up nights for five weeks, thought that the presence of the vehicle was connected with an attempt to steal the body of Benwell.

J. H. Hull, a well-known lumberman of Princeton, who had conversations with Birchall prior to and after his identification of Benwell's body, related to the jury the various stories told by prisoner. Mr. Hull's evidence was remarkable from the fact that he was the only witness thus far called who did not connect the date of the murder with the ball at Jerry Dake's at Princeton. This witness particularly recollected affairs because his son was married on Wednesday, Feb. 19. When Birchall talked to Hull he told him practically the same story which he had told Undertaker Swarts, viz., that Benwell was a young man fond of cards and who would likely be led into a game or might frequent a house of ill-fame. Birchall told this witness also that he had received a letter from Benwell, in which was mentioned that the writer would probably return to Woodstock, and perhaps Paris, as he was looking for a farm in the locality. After the identification of Benwell's body by prisoner, witness again saw the latter, who told him of the identification of the body. Another conversation arose with respect to the letter, and when witness asked Birchall if there were any letter-head on the envelope or letter, prisoner replied, "Oh! he didn't exactly write me from London. He just sent me his baggage checks and keys in an envelope. Prisoner also stated that Benwell had a brother residing somewhere in the United States.

The witness then gave a description of the weather from Feb. 17 to Feb. 22, from which it appeared that it was sloppy on the 17th, with rain at night. Next day it was considerably colder. The sleet-storm of Wednesday witness described as lasting but a few minutes, being preceded by snow and ice and followed by snow.

[This evidence is important in view of the theory which the defence will put forth that Benwell was not placed in the swamp where found until after the rain-storm of Tuesday night, and that the ice and slush which was found in the sleeves of his clothing lodged there during this storm.]

A Gallant Captain in the Box.

Captain Peter H. Cox, who is a gentleman farmer living near Paris, was another witness with somewhat the same story to tell. The captain's fierce red mustache was carefully waxed a la militaire. He saw Birchall at Paris the day the prisoner went to Princeton to identify the body. The captain remarked to Birchall that he would be glad to assist him in any way he could in tracing the mystery. Birchall told the captain that Benwell had left him some days ago to get to London, Ont., to look for land, finding which he and deceased were to go into partnership. The Captain proceeded: "Birchall told me that he had heard from Benwell last week from London. He did not write on the paper of any hotel, nor did he know at what hotel in London he had stayed, but he thought he was staying with friends. Birchall did not think that Benwell had got to drinking and that he (Benwell) had not been shaved since they parted. He said Benwell's things were at his Birchall's house at Niagara Falls and that he had known Benwell in London, Eng. land. He did not know if the dead man had much money with him.

George Plummer, telegraph operator in the Great Northwestern office at Niagara Falls, testified that the message produced was received by him at 7.44 p.m. on Feb. 17. The evening accommodation from London was due at 7.46. There were eight words in the message, and the person who handed it in paid 25 cents for its despatch. The message read as follows:

"February 17, /
Phillip Stafford House, Buffalo:
Arrive Buffalo nine o'clock. Must remain there to night (signed) Barnett."

Witness said further that he visited Birchall in jail between 9 and 10 o'clock on the evening of March 1, the object of the interview being to get some facts for the associated press, whose representative he was. He told Birchall who he was. Birchall told witness that he had been to Princeton and had identified the body. Prisoner also said that he had last seen Benwell alive on Monday afternoon, Feb. 17, at the Grand Trunk depot at the Falls, that deceased was the son of Col. Benwell of England; that he had known him for six months, and the family a considerably longer time. Birchall also told this witness the story of having received a letter from Benwell from London since the latter had gone west containing the checks to release the baggage in the custom house. He said that Benwell had $50 or $100 with him; that his habits were temperate and that Benwell had friends in New York whom he would consult as to the disposal of the remains. Prisoner said Benwell had a black or brown bag with him when he left for London, that he (prisoner) had been over to Canada before several times buying and selling horses.

The Man Who Owns the Swamp of Death.

George Hersee, the owner of the now famous "Swamp of Death," testified that he saw prisoner, or Somerset as he was then called, at Pine Pond on three different occasions in one week during the winter of 1888-89. Somerset came out with others in a two horse "shay" the first day, the second day he drove out four in hand. Somerset told witness he was the third son of Lord Somerset of England.

Mr. Cartwright, who examined this witness, asked what Somerset said with respect to his business there. Mr. Blackstock objected to this question and intimated that the crown had endeavored all through to secure evidence not legally admissible.

His Lordship: "I don't agree with you at all. The evidence has been confined strictly to what should be admitted."

Mr. Hersee then described Pine Pond and Mud Lake to the jury and said Birchall had told him that he knew the locality, that he had been through there "sporting" about four years previously. He did not know who owned the land on which Mud Lake was located, but had heard some one say his brother did. Witness described a number of little lakes similar to Mud Lake in the locality.

To Mr. Blackstock witness said that he frequently accompanied Birchall on the trips. Witness offered Birchall $100 if he would sell his farm to some of his English friends. Mr. Hersee said he thought there were a couple of boats at Pine Pond when Somerset was there, and when one of the boats was used witness had remarked on the fact to Birchall and others. [illegible] Lake.

Joseph Taggart, a farmer living [illegible] Pine Pond, which is 1½ miles distant from the place where the body was found in Oct., 1889, and he described the fire which burned down the timber and left the trail to Mud Lake. The roots of saplings were burned through to the extent of an acre, starting 50 feet from the second concession road, and the first wind blew all the saplings down. The tracks leading to the shed where the body was found was part of the old trail, and it was near here where the fire first blocked the trail.

During the cross-examination of this witness Mr. Blackstock became more aggressive than at any time during the trial. He frequently opened fire at the witness for not answering more promptly, reminding him that he did not want to bring a stinging machine into court to pull the answers out of him. Witness was smiling most of the time, and when the learned counsel referred to the agricultural implement at his face expanded into a broad grin.

James Ellis, also a yeoman of Bloomham, testified that during the hunting season in the winter of 1888-9 he saw prisoner whom he knew as Lord Somerset, in the swamp of death. There was another young Englishman a little further in the swamp. He described the trail to the sleigh path, but lately used by hunters to reach Mud Lake. No difficulty was experienced by witness in reaching Mud Lake by this trail in June last.

Several times during his cross-examination Ellis convulsed the audience with merriment. He said he was sometimes a farmer, sometimes a stumper and betimes a carpenter, but indignantly denied that he filled in the hants loading, promising to go to work stumping as soon as "these people let me loose out of here." Witness said he met prisoner, he thought, late in October, 1888, near the swamp, he was standing alone and had a gun in his hand, and witness passed the time of day with him. [Prisoner was not in Canada in that October, consequently witness either is mistaken in his man or has got the date mixed.]

Re-examined by Mr. Ball he said that he could not tell the month, he had no way of affixing the date, and it might have been a month or two later in the year when he saw him.

Tom Young Describes Birchall's Arrest.

When Chief of Police Tom Young of Niagara Falls entered the witness box a ripple of excitement was observable in court, and the prisoner, who seems to have a liking for the giant-like officer, looked toward the witness box, where the tall form of Mr. Young homed up nearly three feet above the top of the rail. When Young commenced to speak, however

THE SOURCE OF THE EVIL.

A desperate effort is being made by the organs of the federal ministery to prove that the Tory party should not be held responsible for the injury that will be done to the Dominion through the exclusion of Canadian products from the United States Sir John Macdonald evidently believes that the Canadian people are deplorably ignorant, or that they have very short memories. "If the Liberals were in power they could not have done any better than we did," is now the burden of the ministerial song. It is altogether too late to plead the Baby act in that fashion. The policy of "commercial war, which Sir Charles Tupper sought to avoid, was commenced last session by the Dominion government when they increased the customs tariff for the avowed purpose of excluding United States products from Canada. The Americans have replied to Mr. Foster's challenge by passing the McKinley bill. That the sections of the last named measure which affected Canada most seriously were adopted in retaliation for the Foster tariff is evident from the speeches delivered by the supporters of the bill in congress. Those senators and congressmen who objected to high duties upon imports from Canada had the Dominion tariff, the speeches of our Tory leaders and the editorials of their subsidized organs thrust in their faces. Referring to Sir John Macdonald's admission that the McKinley bill will injure Canada, the Philadelphia American, a high class and influential Republican paper says:—

"It is to Sir John and his political associates that the Dominion owes the new turn of affairs. It was they who turned a deaf ear to every proposal which looked to the entire abolition of the customs line between the two countries, at a time when that proposal had a strong backing on our side and might have been carried into effect. They sacrificed the finest opening Canada ever had to the sentimental idea of dependence on "the mother country." It was their stupidity to cling to the hope of a renewal of limited reciprocity of the fashion of the Treaty of 1854, when every one who knew the temper of the American people recognized its impossibility. I was they who embodied in their recently revised tariff the irritating provisions of retaliation on America, which were constantly quoted in the debate on the McKinley bills and whose closest the ears of congress to every plea for closer commercial relations."

The American puts the case clearly and places the responsibility for the anti-Canadian features of the McKinley bill squarely upon the shoulders of the present Dominion administration. The policy of restriction and defiance has produced its legitimate fruits. Ottawa Free Press.

THE apologists of our paternal Tory Government, whose stupid trade policy and suicidally hostile attitude towards the United States have resulted in that legislative barbarism, the McKinley tariff, give our farmers the assurance that they can seek the English market for their eggs and other produce. How good a thing this 1,000-league distant market will be shown by the experience of shipping eggs to England is supplied by a shipper as follows: "When in England I had a shipment of eggs sent to London of about 10,500 dozen. They arrived in very good condition and were sold under my own personal supervision. At the time that this shipment was made, a shipment of the same quantity was forwarded to New York and was sold there in the usual way. The net results of these shipments do not give me much encouragement to continue the transportation of eggs to England. The New York shipment netted me almost four cents per dozen more than the London shipment. As I have mentioned, the eggs arrived in London in excellent condition, so good that I could not expect to make any improvement in that respect, for, of course, an ocean voyage of ten to twelve days and several days additional by rail does not usually improve the quality of eggs. We shall always have this additional risk of depreciation of quality to consider in making shipments to England. I do not know that I can add anything further. My experience speaks for itself."

A SERIOUS charge is made by the federal government's organ against Premier Mowat. He actually proposes to obtain half a million dollars for his province by leasing the privilege of cutting timber upon Hunter's Island, which forms part of the once disputed territory. While Sir John Macdonald claimed possession of the territory he divided, says the Ottawa Free Press, Hunter's Island up among his leading followers a la Rykert, practically giving the timber away. The decision of Her Majesty, awarding the territory to Ontario, had the effect of driving Sir John's boodlers away from Hunter's Island, and now the province is to get half-a-million dollars for timber which Sir John Macdonald had donated to his camp followers for nothing. The half-million is to go into the Ontario treasury, instead of into the pockets of Tory politicians. Hence the federal government's organs denounce Mr. Mowat as a bad man, who cruelly and with malice aforethought deprives Sir John Macdonald's followers of the privilege of looting on Ontario timber lands.

A Man Half Dressed Rushes Frantically to Catch a Train

Quite recently the passengers on the G. T. R. East bound train as it stopped at Morrisburg, Ont., were astonished to see an elderly man rush at full speed down the road toward the station. As he came nearer it was seen that he was scantily dressed, suggesting to all the fact that he had hurriedly risen from his bed, and was in great dread of being left behind. His perseverance and speed saved him; he reached the train fatigued and breathless, just as it was moving off, and getting on, uttered the significant word "safe." He was soon comfortably seated, and at once began to finish his dressing. He was evidently satisfied and pleased that his hopes and expectations would be realized when he reached his destination, and that all would be well

The writer was a passenger on this train, and witnessed the incident, and for days after thought of that word "safe," uttered as the car was reached.

There are men and women to day, who, from a physical stand point, are only half-clothed, half prepared, and who are rushing on in the vain hope of accomplishing the multifarious duties of this eventful life.

Their physical condition certainly precludes the possibility of any success to benefit themselves or others. Their bodies are weakened from disease of some form, and while in this condition they are unable to cope with their stronger and more healthy brethren in the battle of life.

They do not stand "safe" on the swiftly running train of time; their existence is made uncertain to themselves. Some are nervous, sleepless, weak and irritable; some suffer hourly from the cruel pangs of Dyspepsia or Chronic Indigestion; others are martyrs to Kidney disease and Liver complaint, while multitudes are miserably unhappy owing to an imperfect circulation, and their whole system is full of impure and poisonous blood.

True perseverance is necessary to enable such sufferers to gain the goal of their ambition—perfect health. Like the half-clad passenger reaching the railway train, they must press forward, and grasp without delay the only life-giving remedy that can carry them safely over the rocks and shoals of disease.

That remedy, sure and unfailing, is Paine's Celery Compound, and that is the only preparation in the world that can thoroughly restore the great nerve system, and build up a sound and healthy body. Paine's Celery Compound is rapidly becoming the great popular family remedy; and to-day stands without a peer for the effectual curing of disease; and to such a high eminence has its fame and credit been advanced, that now the best physicians on this American continent, prescribe it, and advocate its general use in all climates.

Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Wheat opened firmer, with a fair prospect of better markets. Cables were firm. The quantity on passage decreased 208,000 bushels. Receipts at primary points were lighter, both of spring and winter wheat, and outside markets were higher than ours. Notwithstanding these stimulating features, prices fell from $1.02¼ to $1.00¼ for December. It is difficult to ascribe the weakness to anything but the old threadbare idea, that the trade prefers to wait and see what effect the receipts of spring wheat will have when the weather permits free delivery by the farmers.

Buffalo Barley Market.

BUFFALO, Sept. 22.—The market was without any decided change from that reported Saturday, prices being firm at the following quotations: No. 1 Canada, 89 to 90¾; choice lots of bright at mostly 90¾; No. 2, 85 to 86c., with extra at 86¼ to 87c; No. 3 extra, 82½; No 3 Canada, 77 to 78c; western No. 2, 75½; No. 3 extra, 70½; fair to No. 3, 60 to 65c. It is a well known fact that the new tariff, which is expected to go into effect Oct. 1, and which advances the duty on barley from 10 to 30c per bushel, has caused very fair buying by maisters and others. Nearly everybody is loaded up for a boom on October 1, while some who have bought only what they want are looking at it from another standpoint, and expect a break about that time caused by stocks and no demand on account of necessary advance by increased duties.

Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—We had the large quantity of 68 cars on sale this morning. Several loads were late in coming on the market, and, as is usually the case when stock is known to be on the roads, buyers were waiting, with the result that sales dragged, and, while there was a fair amount of activity, prices were considerably weaker. Telegrams from the Old Country this morning were all depressing, and one cable explained much in little, as it only contained two words, "ship nothing." The enquiry for export was small, and prices for cattle, while nominally about the same as at the close of last week, was much less firm. Export cattle, $3 75 to $4 25 cwt; butchers, $3 50 to $3 75; export sheep, 4 to 4½c.; lambs, per head, $3.50 to $4 25; hogs $4 50 to $5 00; calves, per head $6 00 to $10.00 for good, $2 00 to $4 00 common.

The Grain Market.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—Barley continues to be sent forward rapidly, and if cars were available at interior points, the exports would be enormous. There is however, another shortage of cars at the time they are most needed, and some local grain houses have withdrawn their buyers from outside points in consequence. These prices rule for barley at outside points, loaded and ready for shipment: No. 1, 65c; No. 2, 60c; No. 3, extra, 50c.; deliveries of wheat are reported light, as most attention is given to barley. Prices are becoming more settled, however. On points west and north, red and white wheat is quoted at 93c. to 94c.; old spring, Toronto and east, 95c.; oats, north and west, 37c.; oats, east, 38c.; peas, north and west, 60c.; peas, east, 62c.

Farmers in Fayette County, Pennsylvania are alarmed over a peculiar disease prevailing among cattle, especially among calves. The trouble is first noticed on the stiffening of the joints of the fore legs, the whole body of the animal finally becoming useless.

Arrangements are being made for sending out to Australia from London toward the end of November a protected party, principally of single girls, under the care of the Church Emigration Society's matron. The society's offices are at 19, Victoria street, Westminster.

A Kent nobleman said that usually it cost the purchaser 60 cent. land and houses about 40 cents on it. At 30 cents an acre may be cut and canned in a new tea house, the cost of the can included. Some difference between the 60 and 30 cents now exists at retail.

Stick to the Right.

Right action, springs from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a nurturing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel with out it. 3a57d

PROGRESS IN AGRICULTURE.

Prof. Jas. W. Robertson at a Dairy Convention at Scaforth, Ont.

It is a good thing for a dairy man to be afflicted with low prices once in a while, it makes him look after his business. I would have the creamery man help the farmers by furnishing them with helpful information as to the sort of cows that are wanted. But the creamery man may say, "Oh, all I want is to get cream. I have nothing to do with the cows of the farmer." Yes, but it makes a big difference, if the creamery man neglects his patron, we can never hope to have out the losses of other men. Encouragement to keep better cows, that is his best policy. How I would enlarge the capacity of the cow, both by breeding, handling and breeding. A man has a cow here, but I will call a $50 cow, and that cow has the power of making $75 a year. And a man has a cow that brings him back $25. If he can mingle the blood of these two animals he will get on an average a $50 cow. There is a certain breed of a bull that came down to Ogilvie's sale. I would breed up to a line of ancestry that would give $50, or $60 a cent on the average. Then I would enlarge the opportunity for profit by reducing the cost of the feed. I would not feed a cow through the winter on hay that cost me $12 a ton when I could feed her on ensilage that cost me $4 from every ton of which she can make as much milk as from a ton of hay. Then, if we would do that, instead of having 250,000 cows which give us on the latter of this province, working at a loss to their owners on an average of about $5 a year as year as I can make it out, we would have 250,000 bringing back a profit each of $50 there would be five millions of profit instead of a million and a quarter of loss, in handling unprofitable cows. Time to do that we will have to be and by engage in winter dairying, and there is in my mind no safer way, for the farmers of this province to reach prosperity, than by introducing that pets that of winter dairying. A man will often say to me, "If we go into that we will spoil all the pages and all the profits." If the farmers will be guided by me I would say to them, "Don't let the tempter turn you from this good path by any fear that there would be too many who would engage in this to militate against its success." I have come now to the end of my talk, and I want to leave with you a single word in conclusion. I would advise you not to be men who merely listen and believe, or to be men who listen and doubt, but to be men to listen with a determination to sift out the truth, and to prove it in your practice. Endeavor to prove the right or the wrong. If what has been said will stimulate you to prove what you have heard and to hold fast to consistently and persistently that which is good, then our convention in the town of Seaforth will not only be fruitful of pleasant memories, but will have been productive of much good

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach,

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase ($1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $218,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,228	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,630	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,285	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

ORIFICIAL SURGERY

Offers Hope to the Afflicted and Distressed.

Diseases Cured Without Medicine by the New (Orificial Surgical) Treatment.

DR. WM. E. BESSEY

Consulting Physician, Orificial Surgeon, and Specialist,

192 KING ST. WEST, TORONTO,

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Chronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

Every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House—Consultation Free. dw

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1890.

To-morrow—Citizens' Day.

The Directors of the Central Exhibition wish to again request the merchants of Peterborough to close their stores to-morrow afternoon, so that a general half-holiday may be observed. The schools are to be closed down, and merchants should give their employees an opportunity to attend the exhibition.

Promenade Concert,

Romeo and Juliet.

The interesting events in connection with the engagement of Miss Margaret Mather and company to play "Romeo and Juliett" and other pieces in this city, which have recently transpired and been duly chronicled, were fully aired in a motion made yesterday before Chief Justice Sir Thomas Galt by Mr. Percival T. Greene, plaintiff, for an injunction to restrain Miss Mather from playing elsewhere in the City of Toronto than at the Academy of Music during the present week. Mr. S. H. Blake, Q.C., who represented the plaintiff, urged that Miss Mather was breaking her contract by refusing to play at the Academy, and that the excuse put forward that the stage equipments were insufficient was not a justification for her breach of contract, even if what was alleged in that regard was established as the truth. Mr. Charles Miller, for the defendant, contended that upon the affidavits filed that it was impossible to produce the plays billed upon the boards of the Academy. The learned chief justice said that the court had clearly no power to order Miss Mather to play at the Academy, and it came down to a question of fact upon the affidavits. In face of what was sworn to by the deponents on the part of the defendant, he could not, without discrediting them, grant the injunction. He refused the motion without costs. Miss Mather will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening.

Charlotte Street Rink,

Stretching the Cable.

The following notice was pasted on the pole at the corner of Simcoe and George streets to-day:

"This 200 wire cable was made by the Edison Company for the Ontario Telephone Company. Vote for the Edison by law to-day."

The cable referred to was being stretched from the Ontario Company's offices on Simcoe street to the east side of Water street. The cable is a thousand feet long and weighs three thousand pounds. Another similar cable will be run to the top of the Telephone Co's building to gather in the 200 wires centered there.

To-night! To-night!

The Lost is Found.

Col. Poole brought a four-year-old child, poorly dressed and without a coat, to the police station last night. The lad had applied to him for shelter, and he thought it better to hand the boy over to the police for protection. Chief Ross, on questioning the boy, learned that his name was Bobby Oglestone, and that he came from Kinmount. He is the boy about whom his mother wrote to the chief some time ago. He left his home in June, and had not since returned. The lad looked sun-burnt and threadbare after his travels, and was taken to the gaol to be cared for until his mother sends for him. The boy says he ran away from home because he was abused.

Dancing by Highlanders,

Harvest Thanksgiving.

The annual harvest thanksgiving service at St. Luke's will be held on Tuesday evening next at 7.30 p.m. The Rev. A. Sprague, B.A., Rector of Cobourg, will be the preacher. The above gentleman has only been appointed rector of his present parish for a short time and so far as we know it will be his first visit to St. Luke's. The thanksgiving service has always been an important event at St. Luke's since the establishment of the parish, and this year it will be as marked as usual. The church will be tastefully decorated and the music will be an especially attractive feature.

Music by the Band,

A Woman in the Case.

This was "Hebrew" day at the police court. Two McDonel street women were at variance, and several more were interested in the case. One woman accused the other of using abusive language boasting her (the neighbour's) children and throwing stones. The defendant denied everything, and then a general hubbub followed. All the women of course, possessed the gift of gab to an unlimited extent, and they talked so fast and furiously that the Mayor could scarcely be heard. He discharged the case with a warning to the defendant, against whom he had heard frequent complaint.

Fancy Drill by Canton,

Compulsory Registration.

At the police court this morning the case against Mr. H. Legrandeur, for neglecting to register a death, was disposed of, the Mayor accepting the defendant's plea of ignorance of the law and making the fine ($1 and costs) as light as he possibly could. Mr. Stevenson pointed out that the law was very strict in this particular, and it was every one's duty to register births and deaths.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION

The Show in Full Swing.

All the Exhibits Placed—This Morning's Attendance Small—Beautiful Weather—Notes of the Fine Show of Stock—The Agricultural Implement Exhibit—A List of Lucky Exhibitors.

Magnificent weather graced the second day of the Central Exhibition. The attendance in the morning, when our report closed, was small, but just after noon the grounds began to fill up, this afternoon's programme, including the horse racing, proving a drawing card. So far, only one cherub has been entered for competition.

THE OUTSIDE EXHIBIT.

This was chiefly devoted to the implements for the use of the farmer and was the object of attraction to hundreds of agriculturists.

MR. PETER HAMILTON'S EXHIBIT.

Mr. Peter Hamilton is on hand as usual with his magnificent display of farming implements including the most improved specimens of almost every implement required for use on the farm. The display, which is in charge of Mr. A. Nicholls, consists of the Hamilton Light Steel Binder with a new and improved knotter, more simple and more effective. These knotters were first used this season and give the best of satisfaction. The Crown Mower also was much admired, as a most simple and strong mower. The old favorite the Daisy Seeder, the Tiger Horse Rake, Spring-tooth Cultivator. The improved ensilage cutter, which has stood the test of several years, is provided with chain carriers for elevating the cut ensilage. This cutter is operated by hand, steam power or horse power. It meets a want which is yearly increasing. These cutters have met with ready sale and have given the greatest satisfaction; the Hamilton Sulky Plough so popular with advanced farmers; a turnip pulper and slicer combined — cuts a bushel of roots a minute. No. 3 straw cutters, for hand work or horse power, a most excellent machine for general use; two furrow gang plough; scuffler for corn and potatoes; two-drill turnip sower; five different kinds of ploughs. Combination and X L, No. 4, Champion and No. 7; spring tooth harrow, steel frame, warranted to stand the severest strains to which it may be subjected. Diamond tooth harrow, as good as the best seed harrow in the world.

Mr. George McWilliams, Peterborough, has a large exhibit, comprising the Champion Fanning Mill, force pumps, the Superior (force or lift), the Cone, the Daisy cistern pump, and the Cone cistern pump set in a well and in operation, showing their excellent pumping qualities.

Mr. C. C. McDonald exhibits the Frost & Wood binder, and horse rake and ploughs, also two styles of sulky ploughs, a collection of the Champion Fanning Mills, Eagle Sulky Harrow and a cultivator.

Mr. A. Cook, agent, shows two of Percival's ploughs, made at Merrickville, with tilting coulter and chilled mould board.

Mr. E. E. Bowie shows three Cockshutt (Brantford) riding ploughs, one a two-furrow plough, and steel scraper.

Mr. H. Owens shows two pumps in operation—force and lift. They both work easily and rapidly.

Mr. W. P. Yourex exhibited the Ruttan hay and grand unloader, and

Mr. John Johnson, North Monaghan, the Oshawa hay and grain unloader, with iron rack.

MESSRS. FITZGERALD & STANGER.

Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger exhibit a fine collection of vehicles, comprising two phaetons, one Gladstone, eleven buggies, top and open, in different styles, and road carts. The material, finish, style and upholstry are all of first-class character.

MR. T. FITZGERALD'S EXHIBIT.

Mr. T. Fitzgerald has a large and excellent collection of vehicles of all kinds, including the Timkin, McLaughlin and Buffalo road waggon, buggies, leather top phaeton, with automatic gear concealed when not in use by a neat device. In cutters are shown the Bailey Portland, Peterbourgh sleigh (Mr. Sam. Fitzgerald's own design), the Gladstone sleigh, the Solid Comfort pleasure sleigh, other cutters and sleighs, and two of the celebrated O.B. & S. road carts. The collection was completed by a coal waggon, Mr. Fitzgerald dealing in that staple with a deer bearing the label, "2,000 lbs to a ton."

TURNER'S TENT AND AWNING DISPLAY.

Mr. J. J. Turner, whose workshops and office are at the corner of George and King streets, shows a large collection of tents, the largest and most attractive display on the grounds. His exhibit includes the Indian tent (an idea of Major Balsam, Lakefield), square tents, palmetto tents, Nor'-West tents, fancy lawn tents, and all sorts of camp furniture, including new design of camp beds, swinging chairs, new design, oil cloth goods, binder covers, rubber goods, coats, flags, ensigns, hammocks, etc.

Mr. George Noble, plumber, shows a milk aerator and milk cooler—made in Tweed.

THE LIVE STOCK EXHIBIT.

The exhibit of live stock this year, though numerically inferior to that of last year, comprises a large number of magnificent animals in all departments. The numerical differences holds good of all classes, but sheep and pigs, which are more numerous, especially the former, than any previous year. In other departments, fine arts are an improvement, and the competition for the special prizes is keener than last year.

ROADSTER HORSES.

In this class there was a fine exhibit. Dr. J. K. Fraser shows a mare and foal and a foal of 1890; Mr. John Coughlin, a stallion; Mr. H. Shields is represented by a mare and foal and a foal, and Mr. F. Birdsall, a two-year filly; Mr. John Cruise shows mare and foal and colt of 1890; Mr. Jas. Baptie, Springville, a stallion, "Boxer"; George Berry, a two year old colt, and William Rutherford, a mare and foal, a one year old filly and a colt of 1890. Mr. Robert Waterman exhibits a mare and foal and a colt of 1890; Mr. H Hutchinson, a mare and foal and colt of 1890; Mr. T. Hooper, a two-year old colt; Mr. Wm. Collins, a mare and foal and a one-year old entire colt; Mr. Peter Drummond shows a two-year old filly and also a one year old; J. W. Caldwell, a colt of 1890; Dr. King exhibits a two-year filly, and Mr. Alex. Paterson, a colt of 1890 and a mare and foal. Messrs. Dundas & Grandy, a mare and foal; M. Bolton shows a mare and foal and colt of 1890.

COACH AND CARRIAGE HORSES.

This class is well represented by the following exhibits: A. Humphries shows a single carriage horse under 15½; Dr. J. K. Fraser, horse under 15½; Mr. John Garbutt, mare and foal, foal of '90, and horse under 15½; Mr. John Coughlin, horse under 15½; Mr. Geo. McKee, pair horses under 15½; Mr. G. A. Reid shows single horse over 15½. Geo. McKee, pair horses 15½ and over; John Fawcett, two year old entire colt and single horse under 15½; Mr. H. W. Elson, pair horses 15 1-2 and over, and a pair under 15 1-2; Mr. M. B. Williams, pair carriage horses over 15 1-2; Mr. F. Birdsall, two-year old filly; Mr. J Causey, a single horse under 15 1-2 and Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, a horse 15 1-2 hands and over; Mr. J. W. Cruse, shows a mare and foal; Mr. Geo. Berry, single horse under 15 1-2; Mr. R. Walker, single horse under 15 1-2; Mr. Wm. Rutherford, shows a mare and foal, a one year old and a colt of 90; Mr. Robb, Waterman shows a mare and foal and one year old colt; Mr. Sandy Matchett, two-year gelding and one-year filly; Mr. T. Smith, pair horses 15½ and over; Mr. H. Hutchinson, mare and foal, colt of 90 and horse under 15½; Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, two single horses, over 15½ and one under 15½; Mr. H. C. Garbutt, horse under 15½; Mr. Joe. Barnard exhibits a colt of 90; Mr. S. Wallace, pair horses over 15½; Mr. John Dickenson, a saddle horse, and Mr. H. Owens, a single driver. Mr. H. Reid shows a mare and foal, Mr. R. Braden, single carriage horse, and Mr. W. Collins, mare and foal and one year entire colt. Mr. Andrew Faulkner shows a mare and foal, and single horse under 15½ and one over 15½; Mr. Peter Drummond, a two-year filly and a one-year filly; Mr. J. W. Caldwell, single horse under 15½ and a pair under 15½. Mr. S. Staples shows a single horse under 15½, and Dr. R. King a two-year filly; Mr. John Coughlin, a stallion. Thos. Watson shows a pair under 15½, Mr. Robert White, a similar pair, and Dr. King, a single horse over 15½.

TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME.

For the Free for All Trot there are entered:—F.Q.F., owned by Smith, Cannington; Minnie Moore, owned by Dickson, Toronto; Maud S, and Jimmy, owned by Curtis, Lindsay. All are good goers and this race will be well worth seeing.

To-morrow all the departments of the exhibition will be open, and the speeding in the ring events will be continued.

The horse races will be continued—the unfinished events concluded and others run off in their entirety. Several of the best races will take place to-morrow.

A grand parade of the prize animals will take place at one o'clock.

Sergt-Major Randle will exercise a select squad of infantry from the 57th Battalion in exhibitions of physical and military drill. This will be an enjoyable feature of the programme.

The band will be present all day.

THE INTERIOR EXHIBIT.

In numerical extent the interior exhibit was perhaps short of the exhibit of last year, but in quality of the articles shown was in many respects greatly superior. There was a splendid collection of grain of all kinds, including some specimens of the finest white winter wheat ever shown on the ground. In the grain department there was keen competition. In roots and garden vegetables the display was not very extensive, but here again the good quality is a compensating circumstance. The department of domestic manufactures contains some very creditable specimens of home made flannels, blankets, rugs, socks, stockings, etc. In the dairy department there was a fine exhibit of butter and home-made bread cheese, etc., as well as well as of preserved and canned fruit and vegetables, pickles, etc. Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Springville, has a very fine display of honey, a trophy containing about one thousand pounds very neatly and effectively arranged by Mr. Rassel, who is in charge of the exhibit, as he is of the bee colony of Mr. Baptie, which consists of about 113 hives. Mr. W. J. Mason shows a beautifully arranged trophy of honey containing about 1,500 pounds of honey in comb and extracted. The Manitoba and North-West exhibit of the Canadian Pacific Railway is in charge of Mr. W. C. Murray, and comprises a very full and very tastefully and effectively arranged exhibit of grains, grasses and general products of Manitoba and the North-West, including a large variety of native grasses, wild vetches and wild hops, the latter growing in abundance, and having about the strength and quality of the cultivated hop. This exhibit gives a very complete idea of the agricultural capabilities of the great North-West and of its desirability as a place of residence for farming purposes.

On the first floor is found Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men, occupying their usual space, and to better advantage than ever. This space has been filled by Mr. James A Tully with a splendidly arranged and displayed exhibit of "specimen bricks" of the great ready-made clothing stock of this live firm. The exhibition exhibit consists of about 100 ready made men's suits, about 50 boys suits, about 50 overcoats and scores of pantaloons, etc., etc.

Mr. D. I. Hendricks makes a good display of sewing machines.

The ladies department contains a good many fine specimens, but the articles on exhibition are not so numerous as they might be. In this department is shown a very neat and tastefully built miniature cottage built of pebble, and, from a glimpse through the curtained windows, completely and elegantly furnished. The maker is Miss Mabel Throop.

The display of cut flowers was very creditable and the collection of flowers was of considerable merit. Mr. Percy Hamilton is the most numerous and, as the prize list will probably show, one of the most successful exhibitors.

The fine arts department contains a variety of exhibits, some very good and some very bad. Some very creditable samples of mechanical drawing neatly and correctly done are shown by Mr. J. F. Robertson.

A very ingenious collection of cedar work was shown by Mr. Errett Griffin.

In this department the show of fruit was not forth. The extent of this exhibit is meagre but the compensating feature of quality again comes in. Apples are the chief fruits on exhibition.

The Governor Can't Be Seen.

He Decides to Remain in His Private Car While in Peterborough.

His Excellency Lord Stanley, Governor-General of Canada, will not make any lengthened stay in Peterborough to-night. The local St. Andrew's Society extended him an invitation to attend the promenade concert in the skating rink to night, but his reply states that he is unable to be present. The following correspondence will explain matters:—

PETERBOROUGH, Sept. 24.

Lord Stanley, G.C.M.G.-Gen. of Canada, (care J. A. Barron, M.P., Lindsay):

Learning that you will pass through Peterborough this evening, the St. Andrew's Society respectfully request the honour of your presence at their concert this evening.

W. MENZIES,
Secretary.

To which the following reply has been received:—

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.

W. Menzies, Sec'y St. Andrew's Society, Peterborough:

His Excellency much regrets being unable to avail himself of your kind invitation. He is obliged to return to Quebec to night to meet engagements there.

E. STANLEY
Acting per Secretary.

His excellency will arrive from Lakefield at half-past eight to night and proceed at nine o'clock to Port Hope, taking the trunk line eastward.

The Birchall Trial.

prisoner cast his eyes down and never once looked up. The detective related the circumstances leading to Birchall's arrest. Becoming suspicious Sunday he placed prisoner under surveillance and subsequently arrested him in bed at Baldwin's boarding-house, finding in his possession the gold pencil case produced engraved "Conny, Sept. 15, 1890," receipts for 1 trunk and 1 box, dated Feb. 14, 1890; a gold pen and a number of letters; also the keys produced which afterwards were found to fit Benwell's baggage. When the effects found on the prisoner were placed on the table at the boarding house prisoner rescued out his hand to lift them up, but witness remarked, "I will take charge of those."

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he cautioned prisoner from saying anything, as it might be used as evidence against him. This was after Detective Murray had seen him. Witness believed that Mr. Murray also cautioned prisoner against talking. Mr. Blackstock read the evidence of Detective Murray given at the coroner's inquest, in which he admitted that he had persistently endeavored to secure a statement from Birchall and asked: "You would not have acted in the way Murray did, Mr. Young?" and was rather non-plussed by the reply, "I rather think I would."

James Flynn, Grand Trunk station agent at Niagara Falls, testified to the passing of Birchall's baggage and his statement that the boxes in the custom house were in his charge and would be passed in a few days. Nothing new was elicited.

Introducing Expert Testimony.

Mr. Osler put in a number of letters from J. R. Birchall to D. R. Pelly, the agreement between Birchall and Pelly, and the four letters produced by Mr. Baldwin, for the purpose of laying the foundation for the introduction of expert testimony. After Douglas Pelly had told of seeing in Birchall's possession a stamp for making impressions similar to that produced and to seeing prisoner using it and to seeing him purchase two or three ink pads in New York, the expert testimony was called.

Connor O'Dea, writing master for 18 years at the British American Business College, Toronto, who had made a life study of writing, testified that every man had his peculiarities and he could detect whether two distinct documents had been written by the same man. He positively identified the letter sent to Col. Benwell and signed by Birchall as being in the same handwriting as those sent by prisoner to Pelly, as well as the writing on the passenger list of the Britannic and the telegrams sent from Niagara, in some of which witness said "An attempt had been clearly made to disguise the hand."

Court will open at 9½ a.m. commencing to-morrow.

Has Proved a Failure.

It is said that the casting of the bronze statue of General Grant, to be erected in Lincoln Park, Chicago, has proved a failure and will cause a delay of several months. The loss will be considerable to the contractors who have undertaken the job. The great contract for supplying this broad Dominion with package dyes is now in the hands of the proprietors of the celebrated "Diamond Dyes," who turn out immense lots every week for every city, town and village from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. The manufacturers of "Diamond Dyes" have never known a failure to result when their dyes are properly used. Ladies throughout Canada have the most implicit confidence in their great possibilities. Makers of inferior dyes use every means to introduce their crude and common preparations to the public, but without much result. The public are so wedded to the reputation of Diamond Dyes that seldom is a package of any other make sold. Ladies, do not be deceived by imitators, see that you get Diamond Dyes, and thus avoid trouble and loss of time.

That Tell-Tale Letter—How Did the Writer Know That Benwell Was Dead?

The Two Men's Journey From the Falls to the Swamp Traced Mile by Mile—The Return Trip of One.

Alice Smith's story—John Crosby Says "That's the Man There"—Some Positive Identifications—Several Witnesses Badly Broken Down on Cross-Examination and One Faints in the Box.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 25.—This has probably been the most important day in the great Birchall murder trial since it opened last Monday morning. The crown put several of its strongest witnesses in the box and, as I intimated last night, the day was devoted to tracking the alleged murderer from Buffalo right into the western entrance of the swamp of death, across the fields between the Eastwood railway station and the fatal spot, and back again to the Niagara Falls telegraph office, where the mock Knight "Birchall message was sent to Tully at the Star and House. The evidence on these points, as adduced to-day, was very positive, and the cross-examination so severe as to the shadow of a doubt that Birchall was at the Eastwood station on Monday, Feb. 17, the day that Benwell was presumably murdered.

The crown officers are not worrying in the least about the prisoner's guilt by reason of the breaking down of a few witnesses on the witness box. They still rest their case upon the circumstantial evidence, which, they contend, proves beyond question that Birchall is guilty of the murder of Benwell, and that the body was conveyed to the swamp by his slayer. Of course the crown does not pretend to say that anyone but his murderer was an accessory after the crime, and this, the defence will no doubt urge for its interests, and a strong appeal will be made to give the prisoner the proverbial "benefit of the doubt."

One chronological fact seems to be settled, and that is the date of Birchall's and Ben Benwell's arrival.

Mr. Osler, with the permission of the court, at this stage read the Montreal and other important correspondence which was introduced in evidence. Mr. Osler, in his address, read the same fatal letter which has been in the possession of the crown for five months, written by Birchall to Ed. Benwell three days after he is supposed to have been murdered.

Mr. Blackstock urged that as there was no evidence connecting Mallerish with Benwell, it was unfair to the prisoner to put these letters in evidence.

The court allowed the correspondence, which has already been printed, to be read as evidence.

Following Up the Trail.

William B. Reder, operator at Buffalo of the Postal Telegraph Company, the U.S. connection of the C.P.R. Telegraph Company, produced the telegrams received by him for transmission to Niagara Falls.

Conductor W. H. Poole testified that he ran Grand Trunk trains between Niagara Falls and Windsor. He explained that a man could leave Buffalo by either the Erie or New York Central in the morning and connect at the Falls with the express on the G.T.R. for Detroit. To reach Eastwood a passenger would require to board this express and journey to Hamilton, where he would have to alight and board No. 7 train, leaving the Falls at 4.05, which has no connection with Buffalo but is passed by the Buffalo express at Hamilton. Witness had charge of No. 7 train on Feb. 17 and left Hamilton at 5.45, 5 minutes late, arriving at Eastwood at 11.12, the time card reading 11.1, consequently the train was 4 minutes ahead of Mr. Blackstock went out to Hawood Mill a few days ago in a carriage. They wore cape coats, and when witness was asked to say about the visit of the gentlemen he said he recollected it perfectly well, but he did not know who his visitors were, nor did he see any of them in court. He did not know whether they wore cape coats or not, although one of the principal reasons why he recollected one of the young Englishmen was because he wore a cape coat.

The court took recess for 50 minutes.

Two Tickets for Eastwood

Louis Drego, Grand Trunk ticket agent at Niagara Falls, was put in the box after lunch to prove, if possible, the sale of two railway tickets from that point to Eastwood on the supposed day of the murder—Monday, Feb. 17. Mr. Drego produced the book of the office and a foil of stubs, which showed that between 6 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 15, and 6 o'clock Monday, Feb. 17, two tickets were sold for Eastwood, but he could not swear to whom they were sold or who by, by himself or his assistant, George Crumb. The booking day at the ticket office is from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mr. Osler here intimated that he would at once subpœna Mr. Crumb, and he will be here in the morning.

John Crosby, a young farmer of the 2d concession of Blandford, testified that he first heard of the murder on Friday night on the previous Monday, Feb. 17, about 10 o'clock, he started out from his farm, and when near Robinson's blacksmith shop, on the Governor's road, or about ¾ mile from home, he met two men. They were going east and he was driving west. One man had on a dark overcoat and a cape attached to it. The other had on a dark overcoat and no cape. He could not say whether the man was dark, with black moustache and dark eyes. He thinks it was between 11 and 12 in the morning.

[illegible]

Q. Have you seen either of them since?—A. Yes, I saw one of them at Princeton Cemetery. It was the same person (Benwell) whose body was buried. The face of the dead man was that of the person who wore the cape and eye-glasses.

Q. Have you seen the other man since?—A. Yes, I saw him in the Woodstock jail when I was taken there for the purpose of trying to identify him.

Q. Is the prisoner at the bar the man whom you saw on the road on that date and subsequently at the jail?—A. Yes.

Q. How were the roads on that days?—A. They were frozen in the morning and muddy in the afternoon.

The witness then almost fainted and he had to be given a chair. He turned deadly pale.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he saw photographs of Benwell before he viewed the body, but could not identify the man from the picture, but recognized him in the coffin.

Ruth Ferguson, Archibald Emiston and William Oldham testified to seeing two men walking along the road on Feb. 17 and gave particulars tending to identify them with Benwell and Birchall. Thomas Perry and his son Samuel, John Fellow and his son of the same name swore they saw the tracks of a man on the roadway between Eastford and Bleibeim who was going west. He wore a checked coat and his pants were turned up. He had on what witness took to be a Persian lamb cap. He had never seen the man before but picked him out from among others in Woodstock jail since. There were about 25 persons there and witness picked out Birchall.

Mr. Osler: "Have you seen him since?"

Witness: "That is the man in the dock whom I saw on the road."

Asked to describe how some of the prisoners in jail were dressed witness said he could not.

Mr. Blackstock: "And, although you cannot do this, you claim to be able to describe the clothing worn by the man you passed on the road."

Witness: "I do."

Witness was cross-examined as to the kind of clothing worn by prisoner. He was shown the mackintosh and undercoat found on the body of the dead man, but stated that although they were checked goods, as were also the coat and vest of prisoner, they were not the same.

Q. Why not?—A. That sprouting to the mackintosh is an overcoat. The man I saw had no over coat on.

Charles Buck, farmer, 2d concession Blandford, visited Woodstock on Feb. 17 and started for home at 1 o'clock, driving. When about five miles from Woodstock he met a man on the road going east. Witness continued: "The hour was between 1 and 2. The man spoke to me before I got to him. He had just turned the corner to go south. I did not hear what he said and stopped my horse. The man asked me if he was on the right road to Golden, stating that he wished to go to Woodstock. I told him that if he wished to go to Woodstock he should go to Eastwood, which was close by, and take the train. He replied that he wished to go to Golden station."

Q. Who was that man?—A. That's the man there sitting in the box.

Q. Have you any doubt of it?—A. No sir; not the least.

[As witness turned and faced prisoner the latter dropped his eyes and put his hand up to his forehead.]

Witness testified that he had identified prisoner after the inquest in jail, and stated that he fixed the date that he saw prisoner by the circumstance that he had paid his subscription to a local paper on Feb. 17.

A Lively Bout With Blackstock.

The cross-examination of this witness was the liveliest since the court opened. Witness said he had heard that two men named Baker and Caldwell had been mentioned in connection with the murder, but denied that he was particularly interested in Baker, who was his friend.

Miss Elizabeth Lockhart.

Birchall wore a coat with a cape, similar to that produced. His head was bare, from him and witness could not see his face. This man, who was behind, picked up a piece of snow and made a "pass" at a cat.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he knew a man named Buck and had told a Sentinel-Review reporter of a conversation he had with Buck. This latter did not tell witness that he had met two men but that he had met one. Witness thought he had mentioned at his prior examination the fact of having identified prisoner as Somerset. He had spoken to prisoner on one occasion and had seen him several times in Woodstock and consequently was able to readily recognize him. After they passed him on the road witness entered the house and told his "woman" that two Old Country gentlemen had gone past to Mr. Patterson's, he supposed. Witness admitted that he "swore like a trooper" when some persons called to ask him what he knew about the case, and told them he would relate the story in court. He explained that he had become tired of being quizzed by people. He explained the discrepancy between his statement at the coroner's inquest that he was 200 feet away and his sworn statement of to-day that he was 15 feet distant by stating that he had measured the distance since, and before only made a rough guess.

This witness was examined as to visits of counsel for the defence and local residents to the place and was asked to describe the dress of the different parties with a view to shaking his testimony as to the recognition of the clothing worn by the two men who passed his place towards the Governor's road on Feb. 17. He was unable to describe the clothing worn by any of the men mentioned by Mr. Blackstock, but was positive as to the incident of Feb. 17. Haywood said his eye sight was not extra good.

Q. Can you see a man standing in the gallery?

Witness looked in the direction indicated, where good-looking Thomas Midgley was standing on the second seat. Haywood said he could see a man there but not sufficiently clear to recognize him.

Mr. Blackstock: "Do you know Thomas Midgley?"

Witness: "Yes, very well."

Mr. Blackstock: "And yet, although you know Midgley well, you cannot recognize him standing in the gallery. You wish the jury to believe that you recognized Somerset nearly 200 feet away on Feb. 17 last. That will do."

Midgley was standing in the gallery about 25 feet away from the witness. This part of the room is some darker than the forward part, being in a kind of shadow, but anyone with fairly good sight could easily recognize an acquaintance in any of the four rows of seats.

The cape coat, a checked Mackintosh, which was found on Benwell's dead body, is playing an important part in the matter of identifying one of the men on the train and in the roads leading from the Eastwood Station to the swamp. Witness Haywood remarked that the reason he thought the men who passed his house were "young Englishmen on their way to Mr. Patterson's" was because of the cape coat and other portions of their clothing. Mr. Blackstock, it is understood, intends to try this witness' evidence up. It is said that James Sutherland, M.P., Mr. Hendmith and Mr. Blackstock went out to Hawood Mill a few days ago in a carriage. They wore cape coats, and when witness was asked to say about the visit of the gentlemen he said he recollected it perfectly well, but he did not know who his visitors were, nor did he see any of them in court. He did not know whether they wore cape coats or not, although one of the principal reasons why he recollected one of the young Englishmen was because he wore a cape coat.

The court took recess for 50 minutes.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he saw photographs of Benwell before he viewed the body, but could not identify the man from the picture, but recognized him in the coffin.

Ruth Ferguson, Archibald Emiston and William Oldham testified to seeing two men walking along the road on Feb. 17 and gave particulars tending to identify them with Benwell and Birchall. Thomas Perry and his son Samuel, John Fellow and his son of the same name swore they saw the tracks of a man on the roadway between Eastford and Bleibeim who was going west. He wore a checked coat and his pants were turned up. He had on what witness took to be a Persian lamb cap. He had never seen the man before but picked him out from among others in Woodstock jail since. There were about 25 persons there and witness picked out Birchall.

Mr. Osler: "Have you seen him since?"

Witness: "That is the man in the dock whom I saw on the road."

Asked to describe how some of the prisoners in jail were dressed witness said he could not.

Mr. Blackstock: "And, although you cannot do this, you claim to be able to describe the clothing worn by the man you passed on the road."

Witness: "I do."

Witness was cross-examined as to the kind of clothing worn by prisoner. He was shown the mackintosh and undercoat found on the body of the dead man, but stated that although they were checked goods, as were also the coat and vest of prisoner, they were not the same.

Q. Why not?—A. That sprouting to the mackintosh is an overcoat. The man I saw had no over coat on.

Charles Buck, farmer, 2d concession Blandford, visited Woodstock on Feb. 17 and started for home at 1 o'clock, driving. When about five miles from Woodstock he met a man on the road going east. Witness continued: "The hour was between 1 and 2. The man spoke to me before I got to him. He had just turned the corner to go south. I did not hear what he said and stopped my horse. The man asked me if he was on the right road to Golden, stating that he wished to go to Woodstock. I told him that if he wished to go to Woodstock he should go to Eastwood, which was close by, and take the train. He replied that he wished to go to Golden station."

Q. Who was that man?—A. That's the man there sitting in the box.

Q. Have you any doubt of it?—A. No sir; not the least.

[As witness turned and faced prisoner the latter dropped his eyes and put his hand up to his forehead.]

Witness testified that he had identified prisoner after the inquest in jail, and stated that he fixed the date that he saw prisoner by the circumstance that he had paid his subscription to a local paper on Feb. 17.

A Lively Bout With Blackstock.

The cross-examination of this witness was the liveliest since the court opened. Witness said he had heard that two men named Baker and Caldwell had been mentioned in connection with the murder, but denied that he was particularly interested in Baker, who was his friend.

two men in a field on the elder Perry's farm which were made between 12 and 1 o'clock on Feb. 17.

Saw Them Enter the Swamp.

There was a ripple of expectation throughout the crowded court room when the name of Miss Ellen Fallon was called. This lady is about 30 years of age and very slight. She was dressed in deep black with a black straw hat. Miss Fallon, the crown claims, is the last person, except his murderer, who saw Benwell alive. Miss Fallon lives with her mother in a small house 288 feet from the second concession and just about 300 yards west of the entrance to the swamp. Contrary to expectation she was kept in the box but a few moments, but it is likely she may be recalled. She testified that the house was only a short distance from the swamp, and the nearest to the swamp except a small hut occupied by Mr. Stroker. She remembered Feb. 17 from the Dake House mail at Princeton that night. She was seated at the window knitting when she saw two men passing east along the road. The first gentleman wore a cape overcoat and was a short distance ahead of the other man. They were walking on the right hand or south side of the road and in front of witness' house crossed over to the north. [The swamp where the body was found is on the north side of the concession.] Witness stated that it was after dinner, she thought about 1 o'clock.

Mr. Osler did not ask the witness to identify the prisoner in the box as one of the men who passed her house.

To Mr. Blackstock witness said the house was about 280 feet from the road and that the window at which she was sitting was in the east side. She would have to look in a southeasterly direction to see the spot where she observed the two men. The rail fence and some bushes obstructed the view a little. The entrance to the swamp where the body was found can be seen from Rabb's house, which is east of the swamp.

The Man Who Heard Shots in the Swamp.

George Fridenberg, a cheesemaker, who resides southwest of the swamp on the concession road, remembered Feb. 17. He was out hunting in the swamp on the afternoon of that day, entering the swamp on the northside of the concession at 12½ and remaining until late in the evening. His dog started a rabbit, and witness' attention was attracted between 1 and 2 o'clock by two reports in succession, not very far apart, which he took to be rifle shots. They were certainly not reports of a shotgun. The shots sounded 20 to 25 rods away in a southeasterly direction towards the road.

Witness told Mr. Blackstock that he worked at the Blandford factory until a month ago.

Mr. Blackstock: "What are you doing now?"

Witness: "Standing here."

Mr. Blackstock: "Don't be so sharp."

Witness explained that he meant no offence and thought that was a proper answer to the question. He testified that John Hickinson and George Macdonald were with him hunting.

Q. How many shots were fired by your party in the swamp that day?—A. I did not fire at all, but one of the boys with me fired twice and the other three.

Witness stated that the place he was standing when he heard the shots was within 300 yards of where the body was found.

George Macdonald, blacksmith, corroborated the evidence of Fridenberg as to being in the swamp with him and John Hickinson on Feb. 17. He heard two shots between 1 and 2 o'clock which attracted his attention for the reason that he had never heard similar shots in the woods before. He made some remark about it at the time. Witness thought they were rifle shots. They were near the road in the swamp known as "the hunters trail" and close to Mud Lake. He thought at the time that the shots were fired on the concession.

John Hickinson, the third of the hunting party who heard the shots, said they sounded like rifle or pistol shots. The party were then quite a distance south of the lake, and he thought at the time they were within 20 rods of where the shots were fired. Hickinson was the man who conversed with Macdonald, and repeated his story as to the number of words which passed between them after the first shot and before the second.

To Mr. Blackstock witness said he lived in Nevada, where he worked on a stock ranch near Austin. He arrived here ten days ago in response to a request by letter from County Attorney Ball and a telegram from Detective Murray, after receiving Mr. Ball's letter, dated Aug. 24, 1890, asking him to come and offering to pay his expenses to and fro and at the trial.

Mr. Blackstock: "And this didn't satisfy you?"

Witness: "No, there was nothing in it for me."

Mr. Blackstock: "No dividend for you, eh?"

The crowd gave way to a burst of hilarity and Judge MacMahon said: "I'll instruct the sheriff to open the door and turn everyone out if that occurs again. This is a place of amusement, and those who come here for that object had better stay away. Don't let it be repeated, or I shall have no compunction in clearing the room again. A man is on trial here for his life, and I cannot understand how any one with any feelings can be guilty of such unseemly conduct. This is the last warning, I shall give."

The examination of the witness was then proceeded with, and Hickinson produced a copy of a letter he had sent in reply to the letter of Detective Murray, in which he stated his terms, and which set forth the same rate of wages as he received on the stock ranch in Nevada.

Back From the Swamp.

The next witness was the prisoner from the swamp to Alexander Lester, of Princeton, a resident on the Governor's road, who, in company with [illegible] and Mr. Osler, visited the scene of the murder on Feb. 17.

Witness identified the hat found near Benwell's body in the swamp as similar to the one worn by the man who accompanied prisoner on the train.

Miller Haywood's Sight Tested.

Alfred Haywood of Eastwood, an old man, who said he was a miller at present, remembered Feb. 17. There was snow on the ground that day and it was sloppy, while the gravel road was muddy. Witness described to the jury that his mill was located on a private road which runs north and south across the Governor's road, north of Eastwood station. Witness saw two men between 11 and 12 a.m. in the road in front of his mill. The men had previously walked direct from the station prompt on the arrival of the train and were going north. Witness was about 115 or 130 feet from the men. He identified one of the men, who was in advance of his companion, as a party who had formerly lived in Woodstock and was then known as Somerset, and who came to witness' house driving a four-horse team in the spring of 1889, and he spoke with the man. Mr. Haywood pointed out the prisoner as the same man. He could not describe the clothing worn by prisoner at the time except that he had on a short coat. The man who was with Alfred Haywood.

Birchall wore a coat with a cape, similar to that produced. His head was bare, from him and witness could not see his face. This man, who was behind, picked up a piece of snow and made a "pass" at a cat.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he knew a man named Buck and had told a Sentinel-Review reporter of a conversation he had with Buck. This latter did not tell witness that he had met two men but that he had met one. Witness thought he had mentioned at his prior examination the fact of having identified prisoner as Somerset. He had spoken to prisoner on one occasion and had seen him several times in Woodstock and consequently was able to readily recognize him. After they passed him on the road witness entered the house and told his "woman" that two Old Country gentlemen had gone past to Mr. Patterson's, he supposed. Witness admitted that he "swore like a trooper" when some persons called to ask him what he knew about the case, and told them he would relate the story in court. He explained that he had become tired of being quizzed by people. He explained the discrepancy between his statement at the coroner's inquest that he was 200 feet away and his sworn statement of to-day that he was 15 feet distant by stating that he had measured the distance since, and before only made a rough guess.

This witness was examined as to visits of counsel for the defence and local residents to the place and was asked to describe the dress of the different parties with a view to shaking his testimony as to the recognition of the clothing worn by the two men who passed his place towards the Governor's road on Feb. 17. He was unable to describe the clothing worn by any of the men mentioned by Mr. Blackstock, but was positive as to the incident of Feb. 17. Haywood said his eye sight was not extra good.

Q. Can you see a man standing in the gallery?

Witness looked in the direction indicated, where good-looking Thomas Midgley was standing on the second seat. Haywood said he could see a man there but not sufficiently clear to recognize him.

Mr. Blackstock: "Do you know Thomas Midgley?"

Witness: "Yes, very well."

Mr. Blackstock: "And yet, although you know Midgley well, you cannot recognize him standing in the gallery. You wish the jury to believe that you recognized Somerset nearly 200 feet away on Feb. 17 last. That will do."

Midgley was standing in the gallery about 25 feet away from the witness. This part of the room is some darker than the forward part, being in a kind of shadow, but anyone with fairly good sight could easily recognize an acquaintance in any of the four rows of seats.

The cape coat, a checked Mackintosh, which was found on Benwell's dead body, is playing an important part in the matter of identifying one of the men on the train and in the roads leading from the Eastwood Station to the swamp. Witness Haywood remarked that the reason he thought the men who passed his house were "young Englishmen on their way to Mr. Patterson's" was because of the cape coat and other portions of their clothing. Mr. Blackstock, it is understood, intends to try this witness' evidence up. It is said that James Sutherland, M.P., Mr. Hendmith and Mr. Blackstock went out to Hawood Mill a few days ago in a carriage. They wore cape coats, and when witness was asked to say about the visit of the gentlemen he said he recollected it perfectly well, but he did not know who his visitors were, nor did he see any of them in court. He did not know whether they wore cape coats or not, although one of the principal reasons why he recollected one of the young Englishmen was because he wore a cape coat.

The court took recess for 50 minutes.

Two Tickets for Eastwood

Louis Drego, Grand Trunk ticket agent at Niagara Falls, was put in the box after lunch to prove, if possible, the sale of two railway tickets from that point to Eastwood on the supposed day of the murder—Monday, Feb. 17. Mr. Drego produced the book of the office and a foil of stubs, which showed that between 6 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 15, and 6 o'clock Monday, Feb. 17, two tickets were sold for Eastwood, but he could not swear to whom they were sold or who by, by himself or his assistant, George Crumb. The booking day at the ticket office is from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mr. Osler here intimated that he would at once subpœna Mr. Crumb, and he will be here in the morning.

John Crosby, a young farmer of the 2d concession of Blandford, testified that he first heard of the murder on Friday night on the previous Monday, Feb. 17, about 10 o'clock, he started out from his farm, and when near Robinson's blacksmith shop, on the Governor's road, or about ¾ mile from home, he met two men. They were going east and he was driving west. One man had on a dark overcoat and a cape attached to it. The other had on a dark overcoat and no cape. He could not say whether the man was dark, with black moustache and dark eyes. He thinks it was between 11 and 12 in the morning.

[illegible]

Q. Have you seen either of them since?—A. Yes, I saw one of them at Princeton Cemetery. It was the same person (Benwell) whose body was buried. The face of the dead man was that of the person who wore the cape and eye-glasses.

Q. Have you seen the other man since?—A. Yes, I saw him in the Woodstock jail when I was taken there for the purpose of trying to identify him.

Q. Is the prisoner at the bar the man whom you saw on the road on that date and subsequently at the jail?—A. Yes.

Q. How were the roads on that days?—A. They were frozen in the morning and muddy in the afternoon.

The witness then almost fainted and he had to be given a chair. He turned deadly pale.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that he saw photographs of Benwell before he viewed the body, but could not identify the man from the picture, but recognized him in the coffin.

Ruth Ferguson, Archibald Emiston and William Oldham testified to seeing two men walking along the road on Feb. 17 and gave particulars tending to identify them with Benwell and Birchall. Asked to describe how some of the prisoners in jail were dressed witness said he could not.

Q. Who was that man?—A. That's the man there sitting in the box.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1890.

HER MAJESTY'S MOUTHPIECE,

Lakefield's Citizens Hob-Nob with Vice-Royalty.

An Enthusiastic Reception to Lord Stanley — The Citizens Unite in a Hearty Demonstration — Decorations and Addresses in Honour of the Queen's Representative.

Loyal Lakefield extended a warm welcome to Her Majesty's representative Thursday afternoon. As soon as it became known for a certainty that the Governor-General of Canada was to spend an hour or so in the village Thursday afternoon, the good people of Lakefield set to work to prepare a suitable reception for His Excellency, and a right royal reception it was. Considering the short time at their disposal, the villagers fairly excelled themselves. Wednesday afternoon it was learned definitely that Lord Stanley and party would arrive the next day about five o'clock, and preparations were hurried forward with a celerity that did not in the least mar their elaborate success. All classes of citizens entered heartily into the work, imbued as they were with a unanimous spirit of active loyalty, and, as a result, before five o'clock on Thursday, Queen street wore a gala appearance. Four arches were erected, the houses and stores gaily decorated, and the town hall converted into a beautifully ornate reception hall and lunch room.

A special meeting of the village council was held Wednesday night, and it was decided to divide the work, Reeve Casement acting as general overseer, Dr. Bell taking charge of the town hall, and Messrs. Ludicrap, Richardson and Moore undertaking to look after the street decorations. These gentlemen performed their different duties well.

THE DECORATIONS.

The first arch was erected at the entrance to Wharf street, by Mr Gordon, the canoe builder. It represented the canoe industry, and was built of canoes, paddles, etc., the top surmounted by a tent profusely decorated with flags which at night was luminous with the rosy refulgence of a roaring camp fire. At the St. Lawrence Hall was the oft-time arch, composed of evergreens and gay with bunting. A little further down was a banner hung across the street, bearing the inscription, 'Lakefield welcomes our Governor-General.' Next was an arch representing the flouring industry, built of bags and barrels by Mr. D. McLean, of the Trent Valley Roller Mills. At the town hall was the fourth monument of Lakefield's loyalty and enterprise, in the shape of a solidly built arch of lumber erected by the Lakefield Lumbering Company. It was ornamented with bundles of lath, shingles, saws and other tokens of the milling industry, and surmounted by a miniature steamer in full sailing trim.

The ladies did their portion of the work most excellently. Their tasteful hands quickly converted the town hall into a combined reception hall, dining room and dressing room. The rear end of the firehall was curtained off, and made into an elegantly appointed dining room. The table was spread with an admirable lunch. The ladies who had charge of this department were the Misses Bloomfield, Miss Graham, Miss Crickmore and Miss Nelson. Alongside of the dining-room a dressing room had been prepared where the distinguished guests might remove the stains of travel. The public reception room upstairs was handsomely decorated by a number of ladies under the superintendence of Mrs. (Dr.) Bell. Dr. Bell placed the resources of his fine conservatory at the disposal of the ladies, and the effect was beautiful. The platform was gay with a profusion of flowers and foliage, a large portrait of the Queen being framed between Union Jacks against the wall, behind the seat of honor. The windows were also arched with evergreens and otherwise ornamented, while at the rear of the hall the words, "Canada Our Home," were embazoned in variegated maple leaves.

THE COUNTY'S CONTRIBUTION.

While the honor of receiving the Governor-General devolved upon the citizens of Lakefield, the welcome extended was intended also to include the County of Peterborough, whose energetic Warden resides in and is Reeve of the village. The short stay His Excellency would make in Peterborough town precluded all possibility of a formal reception there, so it was decided to incorporate the two welcomes at Lakefield. An address was prepared by Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., Reeve of Ashburnham, which was beautifully engrossed by Mr. Harry Grundy, and presented to the Governor-General at Lakefield. The county was represented by Mr. W. H. Casement, warden.

HIS EXCELLENCY ARRIVES.

Everything was in readiness for the arrival of the vice-regal party by five o'clock, and the villagers anxiously awaited intelligence from Young's Point notifying them of the passage of the Governor-General through the locks. It was not, however, till half past six o'clock, as the shades of evening were settling over the village, that the welcome message came. By that time all the citizens were out on the streets and gravitating towards the wharf, where the band entertained them with music. Reeve Casement (minus his official gown and cap) was to the fore with the scroll in his hand. About half-past seven o'clock the lights of the steamer appeared in the distance, a cheer went up from the crowd, and as the steamer pulled into the wharf the applause was repeated with enthusiasm. The Evelyn, preceded by the Undine and followed by the Empire, was, like the other vessels of the vice-regal fleet, bright with strings of flags and evergreens. The Esturion had left Lindsay in the morning with a large party on board. Besides Lord and Lady Stanley and Hon. Edward Stanley, there were Mr. Wm. Boyd and wife, Mr. J. A. Barron, M.P., and wife, Mr. Riddell, of the G.T.R., ex-Mayor Walters, Mrs. Dean, Mrs Kent, Miss Knowlson and Miss Edwards, Lindsay; Messrs. R. C. Strickland, P. W. Strickland and D'Arcy Strickland, Lakefield; Mr. R. B Rogers and Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., Peterborough; besides a number of others. On the way down the party wiled away the time in observing the beautiful scenes in nature passed en route, and in dancing to the splendid music of a Toronto orchestra provided by Mr. Moscem Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, who had also placed the steamer at the disposal of the distinguished visitors.

While at Bobcaygeon a reception was tendered His Excellency by the modern exponents of the Good, the True and the Beautiful who make that village their home, Reeve E. Bottum acting as spokesman and reading an address.

THE VILLAGE WELCOME.

After the Esturion had been moored to the wharf, amid the plaudits of the assembled hundreds, and the playing of the National Anthem by the band, the Governor-General, chaperoned by Mr. R. C. Strickland, stepped forward to the edge of the deck, and the following address was read by Reeve Casement:—

To His Excellency the Right Honorable Baron Stanley, of Preston, G. C. B., Governor General of Canada.

We, the Reeve and Councillors of the Village of Lakefield, on behalf of ourselves and its inhabitants, give to your Excellency and Lady Stanley and suite a most sincere and hearty welcome. We are delighted that you have reached us by the waters of the Otonabee, and we fondly hope that your trip from Lindsay through the beautiful scenery of Stoney, Clear and other lakes, all tributary to the water of this river, has been to you a most interesting and a pleasant one.

Although we are unable to entertain you as we would desire, we gladly invite you to drive about our village, and to look at its several industries, and then partake of the humble repast our ladies have provided for you.

W. H. CASEMENT,
Reeve.
ALEX BELL,
Lakefield, Sept. 25th, 1890. Clerk.

LORD STANLEY'S REPLY.

His Excellency, wearing a long overcoat and a Christy hat, listened attentively to the address, Lady Stanley and the other members of the vice-regal party standing in a group and observing the demonstrations of loyalty with evident gratification. Lord Stanley replied as follows, in a pleasant voice:—

MR. REEVE, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—I thank you for your kind and loyal address. I assure you it is a source of sincere pleasure for me to visit this municipality and meet with that same loyal reception that I have elsewhere during the last ten days. And especially has it been a pleasure for me to see one of those great waterways which will, I hope, in the near future be conveying the commerce of your county towards the sea. (Applause.) I only hope that it may be so. But this is a matter that rests, not with me, but with the executive government. I have seen enough to-day to show me what great importance they possess, what advantages are to be derived from them and what use has been made of them. One has only to think of what the place was forty or fifty years ago, when Mr. Strickland's father came here, to realize what energy and enterprise can do. I will have to put off to a future opportunity the drive which you so kindly invited me to take through your streets. I would like to have seen the country and truly hope the opportunity may again come to me. I will take care that the Queen knows that here as elsewhere Her representative has been received with every mark of loyalty, and I am sure she will feel that gratitude towards you for which I am now the unworthy mouthpiece. I thank you again for your loyal welcome.

After the loud applause had subsided, His Excellency and party were escorted to cabs which were in waiting and, preceded by the band, the procession moved through the densely populated streets to the town hall, passing beneath the brilliantly illuminated arches. When passing under the banner indicating Lakefield's welcome, His Excellency raised his hat in token of his appreciation of the compliment. Upon arriving at the town hall, which was crowded with people, the Governor-General and his suite were ushered into the main hall, where a number of people were introduced to Lord and Lady Stanley by Mr. Strickland. Among those who were honored with a grasp of the hand and smile of recognition from Lord and Lady Stanley, were Mrs. Traill and Miss Traill, Mrs. Sheldrake, Miss C. Strickland, Miss Nina Sherin, Miss Bella Graham, Miss Bloomfield, Miss Clara McEwan, Miss May Nelson, Miss Barlee, Miss Julia Strickland, Miss Atwood; Rev. J. McEwan, Rev. Mr. Johnston, Mr. R. Graham, Mr. C. F. Bloomfield, Mr. F. Barlee, Mr. C. Atwood, and others. It might here be mentioned also that while passing Young's Point, Mr. P. Young and Mr. C. Young, the live and loyal representatives men of the village which bears their name, were presented to Lord Stanley.

ON BEHALF OF THE COUNTY.

After the presentations were through with, Lord Stanley mounted the platform and took a seat, the other members of his suite following. A good view could be obtained of His Excellency by the public. Lord Stanley is of about the same build as Mr. R. C. Strickland, beard trimmed the same, and slightly bald. He has a benign manner, and listened to the addresses with an air of interest and deep concern. His Excellency's wife is a portly middle aged lady, plainly dressed, with a decidedly aristocratic cast of features. She scarcely ceased smiling during the entire proceeding. Lady Stanley, like her husband, evidently enjoyed the welcome and was pleased to meet the Canadian subjects who delighted in doing honor to the Queen's representative. Without further preliminary, the following beautifully engrossed address was read by Mr. Casement, Warden of the county:—

To His Excellency the Right Honorable Baron Stanley, of Preston, G. C. B., Governor-General of Canada.

May it please your Excellency.

The Municipal Corporation of the County of Peterborough on behalf of the citizens of the County, desires to take this opportunity to give expression to their loyal welcome to yourself, the representative of their Most Gracious Sovereign Majesty Queen Victoria, and to emphasize their appreciation of your personal presence amongst them for the first time since your assumption of the Vice-Regal functions, which have been discharged to the satisfaction and benefit of both the Mother Country and Canada, and to the credit of an illustrious lineage, whose statesmanship finds brilliant record among the annals of the Empire.

They have noted with great pleasure the intelligent interest you have manifested in the growth, prosperity and material development of the resources of this country; and in connection therewith they are sure that the magnificent possibilities of the great arc h of waters (forming part of the Trent Valley Cana) through a portion of which you have passed to-day, cannot have escaped your notice, and feeling this, they leave the more confidence in drawing your Excellency's attention to the immense importance the completion of the Trent Valley Canal is to this district and to the more northern districts, whose development depends to such a very large extent upon the utilization of this great waterway, and which will afford the shortest route by which the products of the far west can be brought to the sea-board. They trust that your Excellency's first visit to this vicinity may prove a precedent which will give them the hope of a similar honor on a future occasion, and form a pleasant reminiscence of your Vice-Regency.

W. H. CASEMENT,
Warden County of Peterborough.
ERIC PEARSE,
Clerk County of Peterborough.
Peterborough, 25th Sept., 1890.

MR. WARDEN, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—I thank you sincerely for the kind address with which you have presented me on behalf of the municipality. As the representative of our Sovereign lady the Queen I thank you for the honor which you have paid here as elsewhere to the mention of her name. And I am sure it will be a source of satisfaction to her to know that that loyalty which we are proud to think is characteristic of the Dominion, is found here as much as in any of the great centres of Canada. I thank you sincerely for your kind and hospitable welcome. I only wish that circumstances had admitted of my arriving in time to see more of your thriving town. I think already I can boast having seen something of its industries, for in the sketches which you have been good enough to erect, I see evidences of three of the staple industries which are helping to build up our trade. I look forward to the day when the lumber and flour from a greater area may flow down through this line and form part of that great traffic which must ever tend from the new to the old world. Great as are the changes which have taken place since the old settlers first came here, it is a source of pride and satisfaction to me to have the honour of being introduced to a lady whose name is known on both sides of the water, who is known in England as well as here, and who herself is able to testify that, in the lifetime of one generation, these results have been achieved. When I speak of Mrs. Trail you will understand that honour is due to such a name. I cannot help foreseeing, if such results have been achieved in such a short time, what may be accomplished in the future. I believe I am the first who has held this honourable position who has been among you here. I have left a pleasant task for my successors, for each one of them you may be good enough to invite to follow the charming tide I have taken, will in his turn be able to congratulate you on your increasing prosperity, and wish you, as I do most heartily, health, success and prosperity for the future. (Applause.)

Little Silver Strickland, daughter of Mr. R. C. Strickland, then stepped forward and presented Lady Stanley with a handsome floral basket. Lady Stanley accepted the gift with evident pleasure.

The vice regal party and their friends then adjourned to the lunch room, where they enjoyed the toothsome edibles provided by the ladies.

Then the Governor General and his party were escorted to the station by the citizens and band and given a farewell hearty cheer, and despatched on their way to Peterborough.

TOPICS OF INTEREST FOR GENERAL READING.

Froude, the Historian—A Rich Editor—An Heir of Greece—Craze in French High Life—David Christie Murray As Actor.

At a great banquet recently served at a London house we introduced a new scheme in flower decoration, which promises to be the keynote of the coming season's fashion. The dinner was served on one round centre table, seating from fourteen to sixteen persons, and four smaller ones, each accommodating eight guests. All these tables were decorated with the same flower, but each in a different color. Roses of the deep red garden variety made the central table resplendent, while those about it were heaped with tastily pink or softly crimson hothouse beauties. If carnation shall be chosen for a similar decoration one table would be in scarlet, another is yellow, and another is pink.

Mr. J. A. Froude, the eminent historian, was a personal friend of Cardinal Newman in the Littlemore days; but it later years they became divided on account of Mr. Froude's fierce antagonism to the Catholic Church. It is a curious fact that Dr. Froude, who was a clergyman of the Anglican Church seceded from it. But instead of following Newman and Cardinal Manning, he became a broad thinker, and the historian of that epoch in English history when the contest between Rome and England was at its highest, and when Elizabeth, guided by Burleigh and Walsingham, reluctantly emancipated the English Church from the rule of the papacy.

Mr. Gladstone has arranged to visit Dundee on October 29, for the purpose of opening the Fine Art Exhibition. He has consented to accept the freedom of the city on the same day. His visit will it is stated, be non political. Acknowledging in article which appeared in the Dundee Courier, descriptive of his first visit to Dundee, in 1836, when his father contested the constituency in the Conservative interest, he explains that there is not the slightest foundation for the idea that the recollection of the hostility displayed towards him at that time, have kept him away from Dundee.

Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, is reported to be one of the richest newspaper men in the United States, his fortune being estimated at from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000. He has three daughters, but no son to succeed him in the latter instance, to be long up. The son, a five years of age, and spends from eight to ten hours a day in the Tribune office.

Cardinal Lavigerie of Paris, who has taken great interest in the slave trade of Africa, has offered a premium of $800 for the best romance treating of the traffic.

Old Dr. George F. Root has just celebrated the seventieth anniversary of his birth in Chicago. He is the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys," written on the morning after President Lincoln's second call for troops and also of about a hundred other famous songs.

The Greeks are overjoyed now that the Crown Princess, the Duchess of Sparta has given birth to a son. The little heir has been christened Constantine, after his father. There is an old Hellenic prophecy to the effect that Constantinople will be reconquered for the Greeks "by the son of a prince named Constantine having a Lorraine spouse called Sophia." It happens, simply enough, that the father in this instance is Constantine and that the mother is fair-haired and named Sophia. Therefore it is not surprising that the superstitious Greeks had the arrival of the royal heir with every demonstration of delight.

The young Duke of Newcastle has just sold his fine country seat and estate at Worksop Manor to a Mr. John Robinson, bootmaker and liquor dealer of Nottingham. Early in the century, an ancestor of the present Duke of Newcastle bought the estate, when he could ill afford it, merely in order to prevent any parvenu of a merchant or manufacturer settling in the neighborhood. Into the charmed region of "the Dukeries" of Clumber Park and Welbeck Abbey, of Thoresby Hall and Hardwicke Hall and Rufford Abbey, the unbending representative of the old English would allow no lesser being than a peer to intrude. Yet, on the bankruptcy of the late Duke, the family seat itself, Clumber Park, passed into the temporary possession of Mr. Fox, the umbrella maker; and now Worksop Manor and its beautiful park of 2600 acres passes into the hands of a man who owes his position solely to beer and betting.

According to the Auckland newspapers, the reports to the effect that the missing English novelist, David Christie Murray, is at Samoa with the author of "The Master of Ballantrae" are untrue, and it would seem that he has not yet left New Zealand. He has apparently abandoned literature for the stage, and is now travelling with the "Mr. Magic" Comedy company and playing the part of Baron Hartfelt in "Alma the Penitent." It is his intention to devote himself to dramatic work and to appear in his own pieces. He has written a comedy which he has named "Chums." It was produced for the first time on any stage at Auckland and met with a very favorable reception. It is, notwithstanding a weak play, with a badly constructed and somewhat commonplace plot. Mr. Murray, however, is excessively fecund of it, and has presented the manuscript to Sir George Gray, to be deposited in the Auckland Public Library.

The latest craze among those individuals of the "high life" of Paris who aspire to lead the fashion is the fin de siecle waistcoat (the correspondent of the London Daily Graphic says). I have just seen a large assortment of them at one of our most fashionable tailors, who tells me that they are to be worn next week at one of those brilliant soirees which now and then enliven the present dull season. I am bound to submit that these waistcoats are very marvellous contrivances and while some of them are decidedly gorgeous—according to English ideas—and some very eccentric, others evince a high development of art. One specimen was of scarlet satin, beautifully adorned with cornflowers, embroidered in silk; another was of steel-gray silk, with sporting devices—horse-shoe, whip and racer. Most people are of opinion that only a very limited number of Parisians, with fin de siecle proclivities will patronise this latest development in the waistcoat line, for the prices charged are terribly high. There was one with fleur de lys decorations and gold buttons, which the tailor told me he could not afford to sell for less than £50.

BRITISH TRAITS PREDOMINATE.

English Country Houses in the Nitrate Deserts of Chili.

After seeing the backward and semi-barbarous conditions of life in the Pacific ports, one is agreeably surprised to find in the pampa the refinements of a London drawing-room and the amusements of an English country house. No more striking example could be found of the English faculty of transplanting a bit of England into the midst of the desert than the houses in the pampa of Tamarugal. In the pampa the manager of an oficina and his assistants, almost exclusively Englishmen, are lodged in a house provided and kept up by the proprietors whether individuals or companies, and form together a more or less numerous family, comprising very often two or three ladies and some children. Some of these houses are handsomely furnished, lighted with electricity, provided with every comfort that an exacting Englishman can demand, and adapted for offering ample hospitality of visitors, who are always welcome. In the drawing-room the ladies exercise the same refining influence as they would at home; in the dining-room the table is served with English correctness; in the bedrooms a stock of novels with the familiar stiff board covers and sensational pictures of passionate heroines offers a soporific to the uneasy sleeper; other illustrated papers and magazines and the ubiquitous Punch are seen lying in handy places; indeed, if Mr. Du Maurier happened to be banished to the pampa of Tamarugal he could still continue to find types and incidents for his drawings; athletic Englishmen wearing clothes that fit them, and young ladies who play lawn-tennis in provokingly coquettish costumes, and ride like Amazons across the dusty plains to pay visits to neighboring establishments. Certainly life in the pampas is far from being gay, but nevertheless these healthy and strong willed English exiles of industry seem to be quite happy, a fact to which the delightful climate doubtless contributes not a little.—Theodore Child, in Harper's Weekly.

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

PEARS' SOAP! an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most refreshing and agreeable of balms to the skin."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,328	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,056,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	5,470,620	10 66
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1890.

THE EDISON BY-LAW.

By reference to another column, where the figures are given in detail, it will be seen that the voting in the Edison by-law resulted in its adoption by a very large majority. Apart from the abstract fact of the town thus securing great solid advantages the adoption of the by-law has most encouraging features. It shows that the spirit of enterprise and progress practically animates the great majority of our citizens, and that we may count upon the popular assistance in future enterprises having a tendency to upbuild the town in the most beneficial manner. To the EXAMINER the result is naturally gratifying. From the very beginning of the enterprise, its influence and advocacy were placed at the disposal of the interests of the passing of the by law. The power of the press was shown by the fact that the claims it advanced, the arguments it presented, the facts it made public, practically silenced factious opposition, and very largely contributed to the overwhelming majority by which the by-law was carried. It is pleasing to add that the adoption of the by-law will bear immediate fruit. The contract of the company with the town has been duly signed, the railways are in conference with the mayor respecting the construction of the railway sidings to the company's premises, and the plans are completed for the building, to be constructed this fall, upon which work will be begun at the earliest practicable moment. We shall have pleasure from time to time to recur to this subject, and shall keep our readers well informed as to the progress of operations in connection with the enterprises of the Edison Company; for such information is due the public. The new enterprise is in a sense their enterprise—their votes have brought it here. And now it behooves the council to vigilantly guard the public interests in the matter, to see that the public interests are properly protected. If they fail in this, they may rest assured that they will appeal in vain to the popular franchise in favour of any similar by-law that may hereafter, as will doubtless be the case, be submitted to the vote of the people.

Apples for the Editor.

The EXAMINER thanks are due to Mr. Thos. Bradburn for some beautiful samples of the product of his orchard. He favored the office to-day with a trio of large, luscious apples, any one of them big enough to furnish refreshment enough for a small family. Mr. Bradburn is evidently as successful at fruit-growing as he is at everything else he undertakes.

Preliminary Steps.

Mr. Henderson, assistant engineer of the C.P.R., is in town to-day for the purpose of conferring with the town council upon the question of laying down sidings to the Edison Company's works, when they may be erected. It is proposed to save trouble and expense by making one siding connect with both the G.T.R. and C.P.R. Mayor Stevenson and Councillors E. H. D. Hall and K. S. Davidson are looking over the ground this afternoon with Mr. Henderson.

Tusked by a Boar.

On Thursday at the Exhibition Grounds Mr. George Berry was badly torn in the thigh by a boar whose pen he had entered for the purpose of feeding. The tusk of the animal—by the way the first prize Berkshire—made a deep rent about an inch and a half in length. The boar was probably irritated by the obtrusive attentions of visitors during the day, and vented his spleen upon the first available object. On Friday morning the animal attempted another similar assault on the opposite limb of Mr Berry, but he made better use of his legs than for pig feed and escaped with torn trousers.

Blythe Flouring Mills

The attention of the former is strongly directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow in another column. Since the brief time that this enterprising firm has been in operation, their business has enjoyed a large expansion, due, in no small measure, to the excellence of the flour produced and the fair dealing that characterizes their business methods. Having made important additions of new machinery, they are now more able than ever to cater to the wants of the public and to give farmers especially the best of satisfaction in every respect. Farmers will consult their interests by giving a careful study to the advertisement of Messrs. Hilliard & Peplow.

The second day of the Central Exhibition was a great success. The weather was superb, and the people turned out in great numbers. During the morning, of course, in he absence of special events, the attendance was small, but the afternoon brought compensation.

AGRICULTURAL HORSES.

This department is also well represented. Messrs. Morris & O'Brien show a stallion, and Mr. John Garbutt a two-year filly. Mr. W. S. Snelgrove pair horses in harness, and Mr. Geo. E. Elliott a mare and foal. Mr. Levi S. Bowles exhibits a mare and foal and a one-year filly; Mr. John Mounsey, mare, a foal and colt of 1890. Mr. John Hooten shows a mare and foal and colt of 1890; M. Sullivan shows a mare and foal, two-year-old colt and colt of 1890. Mr. John Barnard shows a mare and foal and a one-year filly; Mr. T. Hooper a two-year colt; Mr. A. Faulkner, team of horses, mare and foal, and one-year filly. Mr. J. A. Caldwell shows pair horses in harness, and Mr. George Harvey a stallion.

HEAVY DRAUGHT HORSES

In this class there is a good exhibit. Messrs Dundas & Grandy have a fine exhibit of two colts of 1890, and pair of horses in harness. Mr. Levi S. Bowles shows a stallion, and a one-year-old colt; Mr J. Mounsey, mare and foal and colt of 1890; T. Smith, team of horses in harness; M Sullivan a two-year-old colt. Messrs Dundas & Grandy show two mares with foals, 2 two-year colts and a one year colt.

For Mr. James' special prize for foal of Boxer of 1890, Messrs. Dundass & Grandy and Mr. M. Bolton, Dr J. K. Fraser, H. Shields (2 colts), James Davidson, J. W. Cruise, Robert Watchman have some splendid colts in the boxes.

THE CATTLE EXHIBIT

The show of cattle was a good one although the number of animals on the grounds was not as large as in former years.

In Durhams, Mr. W. J Miller shows an aged bull; Mr. John Garbutt has a fine herd consisting of a two year old bull calf, two cows, a two year and a one year old heifer, heifer cow and an exhibition herd. Mr. F. Birdsall shows a two year old bull and bull calf, a cow giving milk, a two year old heifer, two calves and an exhibition herd. Mr. Sandy Matchett shows a two year old heifer, a cow, three one year heifers and calf. Mr. John Mounsey shows a yearling bull, two two year heifers and two one year heifers; and Mr. Hugh Davidson a bull. Jos Redmond has a splendid exhibit of the bovine residents of Elm Grove Stock Farm, consisting of a two year and a one year bull, three calves, three cows, two two year heifers, three one year heifers, three calves and a herd.

In Ayrshires, Mr. Adam Humphris shows a yearling bull cow and heifer.

The distinctive but sterling Jersey was represented by the exhibits of Mr. F Birdsall, with a cow, bull and two year heifer, Mr. Robt Walton, bull and one year bull, two cows, two heifers two years old, one yearling heifer, two calves and herd; Mr S. Matchett, cow heifer two years old, three one year heifers and calf; Mr. E. Sanderson, bull and two cows.

In Holsteins the exhibitors were, Mr. A Cameron, bull aged; Mr. S. Matchett, one year heifer; Geo. Howson, one year bull bull calf, and two year heifer; Thos. Stothart, aged bull and two cows year heifer and one-year heifer. Grade stock, was represented by John Garbutt: fat cow; Jas. Davidson, cow and heifer calf; John A Fowler, yoke of oxen; Jas. Baptie, cow giving milk, two two-year heifers and fat cow; S. Matchett, one-year heifer and calf; Jos. Barnard, cow, one-year heifer and calf; Jos. Redmond, one-year heifer and fat cow: M E Sanderson, bull and two cows, and H. C. Winch, two fat cows.

SHEEP.

The following gentlemen were exhibitors in the several classes:—

LEICESTERS.—Messrs. John Fairbairn, A. Cameron, James Wood, H. C. Garbutt, Robt. Holdsworth and A. Humphries.

COTSWOLDS.—Messrs. A Humphries, Robt. Vance, F. Birdsall and S Matchett.

SOUTHDOWNS. Messrs. John Garbutt, A. R Kidd and Robt Holdsworth.

SHROPSHIRE DOWNS.—Messrs. Brown Bros., W J. Miller, Robt. Vance and Jas Fairbairn.

OXFORD DOWNS.—Messrs. John Stothart and F. Birdsall.

FAT SHEEP (any breed).—Messrs. Brown Bros., Robt. Holdsworth and A. Patterson.

SWINE.

The chief exhibitors of swine, of which there was an excellent exhibit, were:—

BERKSHIRES.—Messrs Brown Bros., A. R. Kidd, R Vance and Geo Barry.

SUFFOLKS.—Messrs. Robert Goolsie, S. Matchett and Robert Holdsworth.

SMALL BREEDS.—Messrs. Brown Bros., A. R. Kidd, John Chastie, J Clancy, George Barry, Jos. Redmond and H. C. Winch.

LARGE BREEDS.—Messrs. John Chastie, J. Clancy, S. Matchett, Jos. Redmond and E. Sanderson.

POULTRY.

This department was well filled, the following being the chief exhibitors:—Messrs. Brown Bros., F. Walton, A. R. Kidd, Thos. Weir, Jacob Doupe, Jas. Baptie, Harold Baptie, R. Walton, T. Walsh, J. Mounsey, Alf. Sanders, John Hooten, John Bell, G. W. Fitzgerald, H. C. Winch, E. Sanderson, R. Holdsworth, Dr. King and Willie Strain.

SECOND DAY—THURSDAY

During the early hours of the afternoon the crowds began pouring into the grounds, till about three o'clock there were at least four thousand present. The centre of attraction was the race track and the campus enclosed by it. Near the grand stand had been erected a broad platform for the Highland dancing and other events for which it was suitable. The first event was a Highland reel danced by four brawny Canadian Scotchmen in costume, which was very cleverly done to the lively shriek of the bagpipes.

In another part of the field the more athletic games of the Caledonian competition were taking place.

SERGEANT-MAJOR RUNDLE'S CRACK SQUAD.

The next event was the illustration of the new style of physical drill adopted in the British Army, by a squad of stalwart young fellows of the 57th, in command of Sergt.-Major Rundle. The first exhibition was the physical drill without arms, and the precision and mathematical exactness with which the various movements were performed, elicited loud applause from the multitude. Nor was was the work more indifferently done when the same motions with arms were gone through with the same exactness and perfection. When after completing the movements, the squad broke, the cheers with which they were greeted showed how highly the public had appreciated their beautiful and interesting performance. The second exhibition was the manual to music, which was in general excellently performed, one man, however, failing to keep to his work in time, rather spoiled the general excellence, but the movement being repeated, was performed with rare perfection. During a heat of the races the squad was put through skirmishing drill with blank cartridge, advancing and firing, returning and firing, preparing for cavalry volley firing, charging, and all the motions and evolutions of a mimic battle. The exhibition of Sergt-Major Rundle and his squad drew the crowd and formed one of the most attractive features.

THE CITIZENS' PRIZE TROT.

The next event called on was a trot for the Citizens' Purse of $80 for single horse in harness best three in five. The entries were R. Howden's "Gypsy Maid, G. Mitchell's "Livery Maid, R. Croft's "Billy C., and Connors "Mattie B." After a good deal of scoring, the horses were sent off. On the start "Mattie B took the lead, shooting across the track from fourth to first place, a position she had to the finish, with "Livery Maid 2nd and "Billy C. 3rd—time 2:39.

The second heat was a rather tame one. "Mattie B. took the lead and won easily, the only race being between "Livery Maid" and "Billy C." The latter overhauled the mare, on the last stretch but broke, before reaching the wire and came in a close third. "Mattie B. 1st, "Livery Maid 2nd, "Billy C." 3rd; time 2:40. The third heat went again to "Mattie B," "Billy C," second, leaving "Maid" third, "Mattie B" winning in three straight heats. "Livery Maid" was set back for running in this heat. Time of last heat 2:36 1-2.

THE NOVELTY RACE.

This event brought out out four entries. The conditions were: walk one-half mile, trot one half mile, and run one-half mile. The entries were: J. J. Bickle's "Nettie," J. W. Fitzgerald's "Moose," Job Dickenson's "Lexington," and J. J Bickle's "Favorite." Bickle's "Nettie" and "Favorite" took first and third, and "Moose" second. The second heat of this race was finished in the same order as the first, the race being won thus: "Nettie" first, "Moose" second and "Favorite" third.

This finished the events in the speeding in the ring contests. Simultaneously with them, and generally alternately, other attractions and amusements were presented. The large concourse of persons present must have been well pleased with the fine programme of amusements offered. The events were well managed and brought on with good judgment, so that at no time were there any tedious waits, with the people wondering what would come next, but the ball was kept rolling and the afternoon proved a big day of enjoyment for the big crowd that was in attendance.

The dancing platform was a flat failure. The orchestra played their most entrancing strains, but the people were obdurate—not a single foot could be found to trip its toe fantastically.

The Caledonian games were a fine attraction, and a full report of the results will be found elsewhere.

THE BABY SHOW.

While the outside show was booming the palace had its great attraction in the spirited competition for the prize offered by Gough Bros., the great clothiers, for the finest baby. As the time of the exhibition came on there was a tremendous crush. At the appointed time four lusty infants came up smiling—or otherwise. While the faces of the cherubs reflected a variety of emotions under the circumstances, the faces of the proud mothers wore a shade of anxiety, which, however, only partially masked the expression of conviction each face bore, that, no matter what the dunderhead judges might decide, her own baby was the prettiest yet. The judges who bravely dared the risk of making the momentous selection of the handsomest baby were Mr. Robert Shaw, reeve of Harvey; Mr. J. Johnston, North Monaghan, and Mr. S. Bennet, Oshawa. After a due consideration of the points of the four cherubs on exhibition, the judges awarded the prize to the twin boys of Mrs. A. Allison. The award only gave satisfaction to the matter of the lucky twins, of course; the other mothers were unanimous in declaring the judgment an outrage, especially when coupled with the fact of the palpable unfairness of two against one. The duplex Allison cherubs begin commercial operations early. It is not often that boys, before they can walk, clothe their parent. But the proud father and mother can wear the handsome dress and suit of clothes, respectively, while the twins can bank their five dollars and have an accumulating treasure, and the first words learned from their grateful parents will be praise of the enterprise and liberality of Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, whose name will in that home, as it is in thousands of homes in this district, be forever a household word.

AMONGST THE IMPLEMENTS.

On the grounds we found a fine display of the Manson Campbell's famous Chatham fanning mills, which no doubt our farmers have been supplying themselves with since introduced during a few years past in this locality, as well as at the present time, and we are informed that our most important and skilful farmers have bought them. No doubt the mill is a good one and Mr. Campbell will continue to do a large trade with our farmers. As a fanning mill is an article that cannot very well be worn out, therefore, while many farmers present mills may be sound and without a break it will not do for them to continue to use such mills while it would through the use of such fanning mills cause them to lose more than the price of a good mill, such as Mr. Campbell claims the Chatham Fanning Mills are, every year or two according to the amount of land. Say 40 to 80 acres are sown, as explained to us by those who have a knowledge of preparing such grain, as it is pretty well understood now by many farmers. Clean seed grain is not considered sufficiently prepared for seed. The bagging attachments to these mills are beyond doubt the most complete yet produced, and has only to be seen at work to convince a farmer that he cannot shovel his grain as cheaply any longer while a bagger as attached to Manson Campbell's fanning mill can be had. We learn Mr. McDonnell is agent for this vicinity, and no doubt will be well patronized.

The Caledonian Games.

Scotia's Sons on Track and Field—The Drawing Feature of the Fair.

Our local St. Andrew's Society made its first venture with Caledonian games at the Agricultural grounds on Thursday afternoon. Never before has these grounds held as large a crowd as it did during the competition for these events on the field and track. The grand stand was jammed, and the crowd surrounding the athletic ring and dancing platform was several deep. Conspicuous among the crowd were to be seen Scotia's brawny sons dressed in their Highland costums. By three o'clock there must have been over four thousand people present.

As to the games, which were open to both amateurs and professionals, they were very successful, well contested, and ran off smoothly and without an unpleasant jar. The summaries of the events are as follows:

RUNNING HIGH LEAP.—Archie Moore, silver cup; 2 A. Milburn, silver medal. Six entries.

THROWING HEAVY HAMMER.—1 Archie Moore, gold medal; 60 ft. 6 in. There being only two entries for this event, no second prize was awarded. Mr. R. Harrison, a professional athlete of Toronto, gave an exhibition throw of 66 ft. 6 in. One of the judges, Mr. Robt. Innes, warmed up with recollection of his own previous exploits at similar Scottish games, took a hand at the big sledge and threw it with a knack of familiarity known to professionals.

HALF MILE RACE.—1 W. J. Hendren, Lakefield, silver cup; 2 Archie Moore, silver medal. Nine entries.

VAULTING WITH POLE.—1 A. Milburn, 8 feet 5 inches, silver cup; 2 W. J. Hendren, 8 feet, silver medal. Nine entries.

HIGHLAND FLING.—1 William Johnston, Toronto, gold medal; 2 R. Harrison, Toronto, silver medal. Five entries.

TWO MILE BICYCLE RACE.—1 Ed. Roy, silver cup; 2 Jas. A. McGill, silver medal. Four entries.

HIGHLAND SWORD DANCE.—1 R. Harrison, gold medal; 2 William Johnston, silver medal. Five entries.

WALKING MATCH.—1 J. McCabe, silver cup; 2 W. J. Hendren, silver medal. Five entries.

BEST DRESSED HIGHLANDER.—1 R. Harrison, Toronto, gold medal; 2 John McKay, Toronto, silver medal. The judges had awarded first prize to William Johnston, of Toronto, but a protest was entered and the prizes were subsequently given as above.

TOSSING THE CABER.—1 R. N. Harrison, Toronto, 34 feet 11 1-2 inches, gold medal; 2 Archie Moore, silver medal. Three entries.

ONE MILE RUN.—1 Geo. Jeffrey, Cavanville, gold medal; 2 Jas. McCabe, silver medal.

PUTTING THE STONE.—1 R. N. Harrison, Toronto, 39 feet 6 inches, silver cup; 2 L. J. Squires, 31 feet 10 inches, silver medal. Three entries.

BAGPIPE COMPETITION.—1 Chas. Munro, Toronto, $10; 2 William Johnston, Toronto, $5.

JUDGES.—Messrs. Robt. Innes, J. L. Gower and S. Cuthbertson (Toronto).

STARTER.—Mr. R. M. Roy.

GENERAL COMMITTEE.—Messrs. Chas. Cameron, G. B. Nobie, W. Battisby, Thos. Gemmell, Jas. Munro, R. M. Dennistoun, treasurer, and W. Meenzies, secretary.

The officials and general committee are to be complimented for the painstaking efforts they made to have everything pass off so satisfactorily.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The Birchall Trial.

Q. Did you not say that Birchall had on a pair of moccasins when you met him?—A. I did not.

Q. How dare you trifle with me? You know you did.—A. I said I thought he wore a pair of rubbers.

Q. Of course you did.—A. Moccasins are not rubbers.

John Foster proved the date of the Dake ball as Feb. 17, and produced one of the tickets of a limission.

John M. Rabb, a son of the famous owner of the house east of the swamp, was at Dake's ball and established the fact of it having taken place. To Mr. Blackstock witness said on the Tuesday or Wednesday following the ball he saw Baker and Caldwell. They told witness they had been at Drumbo and Baker said they had been out all night. They were on a spree. Young Rabb said the swamp was thick and it would be practically impossible for a man to carry a body through it, and also testified that he could see his father's house from the concession line opposite the spot where the body was found. Re-examined, witness said that Baker and Caldwell were on an ordinary spree.

At Eastwood station.

There was another great stir when "Alice Smith" was called. The evidence of this prepossessing young woman was of the most conclusive character. She is small of stature and was dressed in black. Miss Smith testified that on Feb. 17 last she was living with her grandfather, George Haywood, at Eastwood, but was now living with Mr. Zybach at Niagara Falls. She knew the prisoner, as he had come to her grandfather's place several times. The first time prisoner came there he was with witness' uncle and aunt and Mr. Dudley. He called several times afterwards with Mrs. Somerset and Dudley. Witness used to speak to him when he came, and she knew him quite well. He went by the name of Somerset and Lord Somerset.

Q. Did you see the prisoner on Feb. 17?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see him?—A. At Eastwood station.

Q. Have you any doubt about that?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How did the conversation arise?—A. Prisoner came up to me and shook hands and said: "How do you do?" He laughed and said: "Don't you know me?" I thought it was Somerset, but said: "Is it Somerset or Dudley?" and he said "Somerset." Prisoner then told me that he had been in the Northwest on business with some horses and was going to Hamilton for his baggage and he would return and see the "governor" (meaning my grandfather), whom he used to call governor. Prisoner had a cigar in his finger, but it was unlit. I accompanied prisoner into the station, where he bought a ticket for Hamilton, and then walked out on the platform with me. I saw Ida Cromwell, Mary Swazie, Harry Jones, Stationmaster Dunn and James Haywood at the station. I went to the station to mail a letter. After mailing it I went to Mr. Haywood's store and left 4 dozen eggs there.

Q. Have you a passbook with you containing an entry of the date you delivered the eggs?—A. Yes, sir, (producing book).

Q. What is that date?—A. Feb. 17.

Q. What condition were his boots in that day?—A. Very muddy.

Q. And his trousers?—A. Turned up.

Some Cruel Questions.

Mr. Blackstock: Where are you living now, Miss Smith, and who with?—A. At Niagara Falls with Mr. Zybach, photographer.

Q. When did you go there?—A. Last May.

Q. And do you live in Zybach's house?—A. Yes.

Q. Who else lives there?—A. Miss Tucker.

Q. Zybach is separated from his wife, is he not, and you and Miss Tucker live there with him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you are 17 past: How long past?—A. I am not 18 yet.

Witness said that she had talked a good deal about the case. She denied that Dudley was a particular friend of hers.

Q. Was Dudley never with you alone?—A. No, he was not.

Q. But he used to pay a good deal of attention to you?

His Lordship: "Unless there is something very important in the question I don't think it should be asked."

The crowd showed a disposition to applaud, but the slight stamping was quickly suppressed. Mr. Blackstock then repeated the question and prisoner answered "No."

Q. Were you not in the kitchen with him?—A. All were in the kitchen.

Q. This statement of yours with respect to the baggage and the Northwest story has never been mentioned before. How does that happen?—Silence.

Q. Now, I ask you this question: Have you not spoken to Dudley in Woodstock and Eastwood?—A. I have bade him good-day and knew him well.

Q. Now, then, there is not the slightest resemblance between Dudley and prisoner, is there?—A. No.

Q. And yet when you met prisoner you said: "Are you Somerset or Dudley?" That will do.

To Mr. Osler: Miss Smith explained that she was staying at Zybach's with the consent of her betrothed husband, Night Policeman Brunton, Niagara.

His Lordship: "There cannot be anything improper in a young woman going to Toronto or Niagara Falls or elsewhere to secure [illegible]"

Promenade Concert.

The Promenade Concert on Thursday evening in the skating Rink under the auspices of our local St. Andrews Society and Canton Peterborough proved a very successful event. About eight o'clock a procession composed of the Canton, the Highlanders and band of the 57th Battalion paraded down George street to the Rink, and drew an immense crowd in their wake. As soon as the Rink was opened between six and seven hundred people passed in, and were entertained with the following novel and interesting programme:

Music	57th Batt. Band
Fancy Drill	Canton Peterborough
Music	57th Batt. Band
Presentation of Prizes, (Caledonian Games)
Bagpipe	By Pipe. Munro and McKay
Scotch Reel	By Highlanders, Johnston, Howson, Smith and McKay
Reel of Tullock	By the same
Sword Dance	By W. Johnston
Scotch Trowis (Gaelic for short pants)	R. N. Harrison
Highland Fling	By D. W. Johnston
Sailor Hornpipe	By W. Johnston
God Save the Queen	57th Batt. Band

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, on behalf of St. Andrew's Society, announced the names of the successful competitors at the Caledonian games, and the prizes awarded each. Miss Sophie Cameron, daughter of the worthy president of the society, presented the prizes. Mr. Dennistoun made a few appropriate remarks on the fitness of the occasion, and the laudable object of encouraging such manly sports as had been held that day. The Canton drill was a pretty display of fancy movements, for which the gaily-uniformed chevaliers received the well merited applause of the audience.

Opera House To Night.

The inhabitants of Peterborough will have a rare dramatic treat to-night. Miss Margaret Mather, unquestionably the foremost American actress since the retirement of Mary Anderson, will appear in her great conception of Juliet at the opera house. It is not always that we are so blessed as to be fortunate enough to witness a first class performance of the beautiful love-tragedy "Romeo and Juliet" by a great artiste. However, the opportunity has at last arrived and admirers of all that is beautiful, pure and sweet in human nature will no doubt be delighted. Miss Mather is universally acknowledged to be the greatest Juliet on the stage to-day. No actress since the palmy days of Neilsson, excepting Miss Mather, has possessed that depth of true feeling and dramatic intensity. She has the temperament of what she is—a genius. Her nature particularly fitted her for the idyllic part. Shakespeare's Juliet is a child of impulse—a veritable daughter of nature. Like nature, with its sunshine, winds and rain, Miss Mather, too, has a complex nature in which laughter, love and tears are combined. She is supported by the leading young actor of the country to-day—Otis Skinner. In addition to this she has an excellent company, all with great reputations. While in Montreal, Prince George of Wales was so delighted with Miss Mather's performance that he personally complimented her and wished her success during her Canadian tour, and furthermore assured her of royal patronage if she ever appeared in England.

Police Paragraphs

Five stray cows were taken off the streets last night and placed in the third ward pound.

Chas. Wren, of Hastings, came to the fair yesterday and as a preparatory measure made himself so drunk before starting that he became a nuisance on the train. Chief Kozzal placed him in the cells, where he spent the day and night, and was this morning allowed to go on promising to return home at once.

Wm. McLean, a grizzly bearded farm hand from Rice Lake, was arrested last night in a copperish stage of intoxication. As an act of charity the police gathered him in and took charge of the $40 in his pocket. Mr. McLean is probably $40 ahead as a result of the official kindness, for no doubt if left to himself the man would have been stripped of his wad and he would not have been able to pay the fine of $1 and costs (in all $5.50) which was fixed as the price of his liberty. But Mr. McLean considered himself to be an injured man, and handed over the money with a growl of distant station.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. But the master of most intense, absorbing interest to all ladies is the question of tea, that delight of feminine hearts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros.' teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

The Final Farewell.

It was nearly nine o'clock before the train, which had been held for His Excellency, left Lakefield, connecting at Peterborough with the express for Port Hope, which had also been detained. Lord Stanley's private car was attached without loss of time, and His Excellency was whirled away without any of the big crowd of people who were assembled at the station being able to see him.

The Great Trial Ended.

The jury met again at the usual hour this morning, when several witnesses were examined, also the testimony of several experts being taken in the matter, the verdict of jury, experts and public in general being that W. J. MORROW'S teas, sugars and groceries cannot be equaled by trying competition. dw

Ingenious Theories of the Defence.

WHEN WAS BENWELL MURDERED?

An Attack Upon the Evidence as to Identity. Why Grocer Millman Was Called. Hopes Based Upon a Possible Disagreement of the Jury. The Prisoner's Anxiety. A Keen Critic. The Addresses of Counsel and the Summing Up to Take Place on Monday—The Candy Butcher's Story. How Baker and Caldwell are Made to Figure.

WOODSTOCK, Sept 26. —The Crown occupied most of the afternoon in presenting its evidence in the famous murder trial, opening at noon on Monday and closing this afternoon. The following is a synopsis of the testimony given to-day:

Q. Did you see prisoner again after leaving the local at Niagara Falls the night of Feb. 17 prior to the train you saw in the N.Y. on Feb. 18? A. Yes, about 8 p.m.

Q. Why did you take notice of the shots?—A. Because hunters told me that when they got lost in the woods they would fire off their guns to notify me and I would "holler" to them and if they did not hear would get the old gun and fire it off.

Q. What followed the shots?—A. I was coming from the barn to the house and stayed at the gate to see if the men would come and as the willows were black and the snow white I saw two men come out of the swamp, one ahead of the other.

Q. What space was there between the shots?—A. About half a mile.

This is the answer which caused the laugh for which the audience came very near being turned out of the court.

Witness then explained that he meant he was half a mile away. One shot was fired right on to the other.

Rachel Schultz, an elderly German lady, testified that she lived across the road from Rabb's. She remembered the fact of a body being found in the swamp on a Friday, and also to hearing the sound of a firearm about 7 p.m. of the previous Tuesday.

John Freidenerg of lot 1, Blenheim, about a mile distant from where the body was found, was next called and testified that on the Monday preceding the finding of the body he was teaming logs for Mr. Kipp, who resides on the Governor's road. Witness was drawing logs from near Overholt's mill to Mr. Kipp's.

Q. Did you meet any men that day?—A. Yes, two strangers, who were going in an easterly direction, and I overtook them. They asked me for a ride and I invited them to get into the wagon, which they did, and they rode with me ¾ of a mile, to the place where I was getting the logs. I turned in at the south side opposite Perry's, and the men alighted and proceeded east on the Governor's road.

Q. Had those men overcoats on?—A. Yes, both of them.

Q. Had they mustaches?—A. No.

Q. Was either those men Birchall?—A. No.

A Pair of Early Callers.

James Atkinson, a hotelkeeper of Drumbo (about nine miles from the swamp), the town which Birchall described to Polly on shipboard as a tough town generally, said that on the morning of Feb. 20 (Thursday) last, about 4 o'clock a couple of men knocked at his door. He let them in and they sat down beside a coal stove in the sample-room. They had a buggy. He gave them a glass of beer and some crackers and cheese.

Q. Who were these two men?—A. I was well acquainted with one of them. He was Robert Caldwell.

Q. Who was the other?—A. I have heard since that his name is Baker.

Q. What kind of boots did Baker have on?—A. Felt boots with rubber over them.

Q. Did the men appear to have any business?—A. They seemed to be the worse of liquor.

Q. Did you see their rigs?—A. I saw them drive away in the morning but I did not notice the rig in particular. It looked a little muddy, I think.

Q. What kind of boots did Caldwell on?—A. Common overshoe over a common boot. I remember this particularly because he made a kick at Baker and the overshoe came off.

Mr. Osler: They were apparently two men out on a spree?—A. Exactly.

Adam Oliver, farmer, 1½ miles north of Princeton, testified that on the night of Feb. 18 two men rapped at his door and said they wanted to get back to Princeton to buy horses. Witness told them they were only 1½ miles from Princeton, and to proceed on their journey and they would soon arrive there. He only saw one man, but from what he said concluded that there were two. They had a rig with them. Witness said he had been acquainted with the swamp for 30 years and had been in it often, but never saw anything of a trail leading from near the spot where Benwell's body was found to Mud Lake.

Andrew Young, farmer, ½ mile north of Princeton, had strangers at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, Feb. 20, asking the road to Princeton. They woke him up, but he did not get out of bed, and directed them on their journey. The men had rubbers or overshoes on, as he thought, as they made no noise when they opened the kitchen door, which was unlocked and walked in to the hall door. This was locked.

Baker and Caldwell at Princeton.

Samuel Stroud, son of the proprietor of Stroud's Hotel at Princeton, testified that about 10 o'clock on the day prior to the discovery of the body in the swamp two men named Baker and Caldwell came into the hotel. He had seen Baker at the inquest but had seen neither since. The men were driving and did not appear to have any business in particular.

Q. Could you say whether they appeared to have driven far?—A. I couldn't say anything about that. They told me they had come from Drumbo.

Witness said the day following the discovery of the body, about 9 a.m., he with three other members of the coroner's jury visited the swamp to inspect it and saw the tracks of two persons leading from the spot where the body was found. These tracks looked as though they had been made with moccasins. He did not think deceased's boots would make a similar track. Witness said the swamp was dense and it would be impossible for a man to carry a body through it.

The crown contended that these tracks were those made by the Elvidge brothers, who discovered the body.

After Col. Thomas Cowan had testified to seeing Baker and Caldwell drinking in Dake's hotel at Princeton on Feb. 20, Mr. Blackstock essayed to ask the witness a number of questions as to what explanation the men gave of their presence, as to the opinion he formed of them, etc. Mr. Osler objected to these questions and his objection was sustained by His Lordship, who said counsel can ask witness to give an account of what these men were doing at Princeton, how they looked and how they acted, but witness cannot tell what they said. Witness said that Baker and Caldwell told him what they had been doing but His Lordship refused to allow this as evidence.

William Lancaster, a witness whose name was on the back of the indictment but had not been called by the crown, testified that George Baker and a companion called at his place at Goble's Corners, and Baker asked the road to Drumbo. Witness told him he knew the road as well as he did himself. Baker then started scuffling with the other man.

Thought He Was a Pedlar.

James Oliver, a bartender of Woodstock, who was a witness at the inquest, where he saw the body of deceased, was next called.

Q. You swore that you recognized the body?—A. I swore that to the best of my knowledge. I recognized the body as that of a man whom I had seen at the North American hotel settling a silver polish.

To Mr. Osler witness stated that the man who was selling the polish had a light mustache and he had sworn that at the inquest.

Q. As a matter of fact you could not then and cannot now identify the body. You had only a hazy idea that the man with the polish looked like the dead man?—A. That is about it.

J. W. McKay, proprietor of the North American Hotel, Woodstock, said when he saw the body of Benwell he had said it bore a resemblance to a man who had been at the hotel with polish, only the pedlar had a mustache.

George Fowler, a farmer near Drumbo, thought when he saw the body of deceased at Drumbo that it was that of a young man who was peddling cheap clothing at Waterford.

Mr. Osler: You know you were mistaken now?—A. Yes.

Alfred Laycock, near Drumbo, also thought when he saw Benwell that he recognized it as a man who he had seen selling jewelry at Drumbo and Woodstock.

Mr. Osler: That was prior to this year?—A. Yes.

A Bad Case of Mistaken Identity.

Frederick Millman, a young grocer of Woodstock, said he knew prisoner. Met him in Woodstock between 10 and 11 a.m. in February last, about two weeks before he heard of prisoner's arrest from one of the clerks in the store. Had seen Birchall frequently when he was in Woodstock before and knew him well by sight, having lived next door to him.

To Mr. Osler: Am sure it was between 10 and 11 o'clock. I passed him in Dundas-street, and prisoner turned after he passed to look at his back. Birchall was going east.

Q. You have nothing to fix the day?—A. No.

Q. It might have been as early as January?—A. No.

Q. Or as late as the last week in February?—A. No.

Q. How was he dressed?—A. In the same clothes as he had on when he used to live in Woodstock. He wore knee breeches, with long stockings red in color, I think, and at the knee there was a white bow tied. Prisoner wore a brown sealskin cap.

Q. You didn't stop to speak to him, though he had been a long time away?—A. No.

Q. Where had you been when you were coming down that morning?—A. I can't exactly say.

Q. All this occurred at 10 o'clock in the morning and you were feeling quite well? Nothing wrong with your liver?—A. No.

Thomas Midgley testified to the fact that, although Albert Hayward had known him for 30 years, he failed to recognize him while standing in the gallery of the court house the other day.

Photographer F. A. Westlake testified that he photographed the body of Benwell and furnished Detective Murray with pictures.

Two photographs of deceased were put in by witness.

John Stewart, aged 13, son of the proprietor of the cafe in Woodstock, testified that he stood in the road on the 3d concession in front of the swamp, and while standing on the culvert crossing the road west of where the body was found could see Detective Bluett standing in front of Rabb's house. The boy stated, however, that he could not see Rabb's house from where he stood.

The boy accompanied Detective Bluett to the locality for the express purpose of proving that Rabb's house could be seen by the boy from the road.

Ida Cromwell.

Q. Had you seen prisoner before Feb. 17?—A. Yes, in the winter of 1889, when I knew him as Lord Somerset.

The witness testified further that prisoner got off the train at Hamilton and returned with a ticket Niagara Falls to Buffalo.

Q. Did you see prisoner again after leaving the local at Niagara Falls the night of Feb. 17 prior to the train you saw in the N.Y. on Feb. 18?—A. Yes, in the [illegible] at 12 p.m., but [illegible] on the Canadian side of the river.

To Mr. Blackstock: The first time I ever saw Birchall was in Woodstock in 1888. He and another man were together. My father pointed them out to me. My father said, "There goes Lord Somerset." I did not know which of the two was Somerset. The two men did not look alike. I was taken to the lockup at Niagara Falls by Detective Murray and Chief Young and I pointed out Birchall, who was then under arrest, as the man who had got on my train at Eastwood.

Here Mr. Blackstock took the witness severely to task for certain discrepancies which appear in the evidence he gave at the inquest at Princeton and the Niagara Falls investigation as to how Birchall was dressed on the train. The witness made two or three different statements on these occasions as to whether he wore "a check sack coat, a small check or a dark check, a dark stripe or a light stripe."

To Mr. Osler: "I spoke to the prisoner on the day he was on my train. He opened a conversation with me. The first time I ever saw the man was in the Woodstock streets in 1888."

He Asked the Candy Butcher to Drink.

James J. Duffy was a news agent on the G.T.R. on Feb. 17 last. On the afternoon of that day he left London at 2.30 on No. 10 train.

Q. How do you remember that particular day?—A. I went to change my lunch boxes at the Falls.

Q. Did your train stop at Eastwood?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you notice any person get on at Eastwood?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you notice any person on the train after it left Eastwood?—A. Yes, sir. I noticed the prisoner between Dobbs and Princeton.

Q. Have you any doubt as to it being the prisoner?—A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Were there many passengers on the train that day?—A. No, sir.

Witness stated that he was passing through the train with books and sold prisoner some cigars, a couple of oranges and a copy, he thought, of "The Tramp Abroad." He sold the prisoner the book between Paris and Hamilton, the cigars just before reaching Hamilton and the fruit after leaving Hamilton. Witness saw prisoner, who was in the smoking car at the time, eat the fruit and smoke the cigars.

Q. Had any conversation with prisoner?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did the conversation take place?—A. It was coming eight miles east of Hamilton.

Q. Tell us what that conversation was.—A. I can't repeat the words, but it was general—about the weather, business on the road, etc.

Q. Did he offer you anything?—A. Yes, sir, a cigar.

Q. And you smoked it?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has Judge did you remain seated with him?—A. Probably half an hour, until we reached Jordan.

Q. Did he tell you his name?—A. Yes, sir, he said his name was Smith.

Q. Did he say anything about expecting to meet any relations?—A. He said he expected to meet a number at Bridge.

Q. Where did he get off?—A. At Niagara Falls.

Witness described the clothing worn by prisoner. He had on dark clothes and a dark round hat similar to the one produced. His trousers were rolled up and his boots quite muddy.

Q. Did the prisoner offer you any thing more?—A. Yes, sir, he had a small flask of brandy and one wine, but said him I did not care. He did not say what the contents of the flask were.

Q. Who was the brakeman on your train?—A. George Hay.

Q. Was Hay in the smoking car at one time while you were talking to prisoner?—A. Yes.

Mr. Blackstock: The man who was talking to you said his name was Smith and he was going to meet a brother?—A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been a news agent?—A. Since November, 1888.

Q. You must meet a good many people during the year?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever been mistaken for anybody else?—A. No that I know of.

George Grimb, ex-land ticket agent at Niagara Falls, the witness who had to be sent for last evening to prove the sale of two tickets to Eastwood on Feb. 17 last, took the stand and produced the books of the office. He said he stamped the ends of the ticket produced, which was sold before 3 p.m. of Monday, Feb. 17. There were but two tickets sold to Eastwood from Niagara Falls on that date.

To Mr. Blackstock: There are no other persons connected with our office except Mr. Drago, the agent, and myself.

Mr. Osler: "If I arrive in the accommodation at the Bridge at 7.10 p.m., can I get a connection to Buffalo that night?"

Witness: "Yes."

Mr. Osler then arose and said: "That is the case, my lord, for the crown."

It was now just exactly 12 o'clock.

Mr. Blackstock stated that he would request an adjournment until 2 o'clock, when he would be prepared to go into the defence.

His Lordship: "Very well."

What is the Defence?

When the court met at 2 o'clock the room was packed to suffocation and hundreds could not gain admission. As usual, the ladies outnumbered the male spectators three to one. The audience seemed to think that there was something funny in the accent of the first witness called for the defence, and a lusty ripple of laughter followed one of his answers.

His Lordship: "I had occasion yesterday to suppress a similar demonstration. For the benefit of those who were not in the room then I will say that if there is another occurrence of this kind I will clear the room of every spectator. This is a court of justice and not a place of amusement."

Mr. Blackstock arose and said: "I desire to say with reference to the crown case that we entertain a very strong opinion as to the insufficiency of their case, but for obvious reasons connected with the defence, in our judgment it is not desirable to provoke any discussion of that point, and therefore we will not raise that question, but will go into the defence."

Mr. Blackstock proposed to put in a certificate of the marriage of the prisoner, duly certified under the statute, and which came from the possession of the crown, having been taken from him at the time of his arrest. The certificate showed the subscription of his marriage with Florence Stephenson, his present wife, Nov. 12, 1885. The marriage was celebrated at Croydon, in Lancashire. The contracting parties were: Reginald Birchall, youngest son of the late Rev. Joseph Birchall, Rector of Church Kirk, near Accrington, Rural Dean and Proctor in Convocation for the Archdeaconry of Manchester, and Florence Stephenson, fourth daughter of David Stephenson of Malkerley-road, Upper Norwood.

Mr. Osler asked if there was any provision in the statute for the reception of such evidence.

Mr. Blackstock said that the object of putting in the certificate was to show that Birchall was in England in October, the time when he was said to have been in the swamp hunting by the witness Ellis.

Mr. Osler said that while the crown could not admit anything the date of Birchall's sailing from England was determined by documents in the possession of the crown and would not be contested.

The importance of this point is quite manifest, as the crown contend that Birchall was quite familiar with the swamp, that during his former residence in Woodstock he made frequent visits to the locality and knew all about its position and its extent.

After further argument on these points for the sake of convenience the document was set aside for the time being.

From the tenor of the questions asked by Mr. Blackstock of the witnesses it is evident the defence is making an effort to connect George Baker and William Caldwell with the case. These two men were at first suspected, but they were never arrested. Caldwell is said to be in Chicago now. Baker is still around Woodstock. Some of the others called for the defence had been subpœnaed by the crown and then not called. "As an exhibition of weakness on the part of defence nothing was probably ever presented like it in a court of justice. There was very little in it to cheer Birchall up, as he sat in the box and looked somewhat appealingly at the witnesses."

John Rabb Takes the Stand.

John R. Rabb was the first witness called to the stand by the defence. He is the well-known German farmer who lives in the little house at the entrance to the lonely swamp on the west side. Nearly every visitor to the swamp since the murder has talked with Rabb about the crime, and he has acted as guide for hundreds of people, conducting them to the spot where the body was found, explaining things generally in broken English, and earning in a few weeks for his trouble. Rabb testified that he was a witness at the inquest on Feb. 25, prior to the date of prisoner's arrest.

Q. How far is your house from the swamp?—A. Half a mile.

Q. If a person is standing in the middle of the road opposite the swamp could you see him from your house?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you see from your house the place where the body was found?—A. Yes, clearly in winter time, but could not see it so plainly in summer time; in fact, could not see it all now.

Witness described a test made by Detective Bluett when he took a boy [illegible] with the spot where the body was found and witness could plainly see the boy from the window of his house and also the outside.

Q. Do you remember the week the body was found?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you see any strangers around?—A. No, sir. I am chopping in the woods most of the time.

Q. Did you hear two shots fired in the swamp on Feb. 18?—A. Yes, about 8 p.m.

Q. Why did you take notice of the shots?—A. Because hunters told me that when they got lost in the woods they would fire off their guns to notify me and I would "holler" to them and if they did not hear would get the old gun and fire it off.

Q. What followed the shots?—A. I was coming from the barn to the house and stayed at the gate to see if the men would come and as the willows were black and the snow white I saw two men come out of the swamp, one ahead of the other.

Q. What space was there between the shots?—A. About half a mile.

This is the answer which caused the laugh for which the audience came very near being turned out of the court.

Witness then explained that he meant he was half a mile away. One shot was fired right on to the other.

Rachel Schultz, an elderly German lady, testified that she lived across the road from Rabb's. She remembered the fact of a body being found in the swamp on a Friday, and also to hearing the sound of a firearm about 7 p.m. of the previous Tuesday.

Baker and Caldwell at Princeton.

Samuel Stroud, son of the proprietor of Stroud's Hotel at Princeton, testified that about 10 o'clock on the day prior to the discovery of the body in the swamp two men named Baker and Caldwell came into the hotel. criticism. The defence is in the time as has been several times stated in these despatches, is attempting to prove that Benwell was murdered after Monday. Feb. 17, probably Wednesday the 20th, he having been last seen in the neighborhood, and it was about that time that the body was thrown into the swamp by his slayer. The name of the latter is not yet known, Caldwell and George Baker, who were out on a spree one of the nights during the week of Feb. 17, were frequently questioned by Mr. Blackstock in the examination of the witnesses, and it appeared to be the theory suggesting the probability of their being implicated in the crime. From the evidence that was presented this afternoon it seems that these young men first appeared on the scene on the morning of Thursday, Feb. 20, at 5 o'clock. It was on that day that the body was found. Baker and Caldwell stopped at a hotel in Drumbo. They were drunk and had awakened up several farmers along the road and were trying to drive from a bottle of whiskey which they carried. The young men were noisy, loud, still drinking, at 2 o'clock on the morning at Dake's Hotel, Princeton, and later on the day at Gobles, Drumbo, Princeton and Woodstock. Caldwell was in court on Monday, and it was known by the jury—and other evidence will certainly points that way, for he was never seen alive [illegible] and the theory of the Baker-Caldwell suspicion troubles to a thousand [illegible].

Theories of the Defence.

A Woodstock grocer named Millman swore positively that he saw Birchall, with whom he was on speaking terms and lived next door to for some months in the winter of 1888-9, walking along Dundas-street, Woodstock, in January last about a fortnight before he heard of his arrest. The witness described the clothing worn by Birchall at the time, including his knee breeches with large bow knot and red stockings. Despite his positiveness, however, Millman did not see Birchall but another young Englishman living in this county who was in town that day, and the crown are fully aware of this. The idea in bringing Millman forward is to cast doubt on the evidence of identification furnished by the witnesses by showing how people can be mistaken in individuals. Nothing is more certain to belief that he saw Birchall. If a case of mistaken identity.

Nearly all the witnesses called to-day for the defence to-day were men who had given testimony at the coroner's inquest at Princeton when prior to the identification of Benwell as body to Birchall, all sorts of rumors were abroad as to the dead man being a silver polish vender, etc. Three witnesses were viewed the body and they had expressed the opinion that it was that of the pedlar in question. This testimony also is called to it much doubt on the value of evidence of identification.

To establish the claim that the man was killed Tuesday night or all John Rabb, the German farmer, and a neighbor's wife named Schultz, by appearance, who used to go over and converse in the native tongue, were called. They testified to hearing the shots, but Rabb did not prove a very important witness, as he said the shots were fired in rapid succession, and immediately afterwards he heard a man stepped from the bushes and walk away. He also swore that there were hunters in the woods every day and it was a usual thing for them to discharge their fire-arms on entering the woods. He thought the men were sportsmen.

On these presentations of facts the defence hope that the jury may disagree at least.

Birchall's Keen Sense of His Position.

The crowd was as large as usual to-day and hundreds of them stood outside in the drizzling rain clamoring for admission. The same old rule was observed, however, of seeing the ladies the preference.

Birchall wore an anxious expression on his face throughout the day, and he seemed to fully realize that there was very little in the evidence to clear him up. Neither Mrs. Birchall nor Mrs. Westwood-Jones was present at the trial.

I mentioned yesterday the fact that the prisoner on leaving the dock each night gathers up all the daily newspapers on the reporters' tables and has them with him. Junior Cameron informed me last evening he reviews and discusses the evidence and [illegible] he thinks Mr. Blackstock [illegible] in his favor or where he [illegible] has got the best of the legal battle.

The defence will probably [illegible] recess, when the court will probably adjourn, leaving Monday clear for [illegible] coming up and the address of counsel. It is not probable that the verdict will be known before Tuesday next.

It is expected that there will be a tremendous rush for admission to the court room during the addresses of counsel. Many legal gentlemen from different parts of the province will be present and the Toronto bar will be largely represented.

The Crown Closes its Case

Miss Ida Cromwell, a young lady who lives near Eastwood, was the first witness this morning. She testified that she was at Eastwood station on Feb. 17 last and fixed the date by the fact that she met some friends there. Witness noticed Alice Smith, Miss Swayze, Harry Jones, James Hayward and the prisoner there. She first saw Birchall in the lane that leads off the Brantford road to the station. He had on a short navy blue coat and a black cap similar to the one produced. She had known the prisoner before that. She was him later on enter the ticket office and the station and ask for a ticket for Hamilton. Witness saw prisoner in the jail shortly after his arrest.

Q. Have you ever seen him since? A. No, sir, not even to-day.

Q. Please point him out? A. Yes

Miss Cromwell lifted her hand and with the index finger pointed to the prisoner.

Q. Have you any doubt about that?—A. No, sir, not at all.

Witness stated that prisoner had on light pants, which were rolled up at the bottom, and his boots were very muddy.

To Mr. Blackstock witness stated that she could not give the day or date of any other visit she had made to the station, although she had been there several times.

He Knew the Date by a Draft.

E. James Hayward, a young storekeeper and postmaster at Eastwood, had a draft due on Feb. 17 last and went to the station to pay it to Mr. Dunn. He arrived there at 6 p.m. and saw Miss Swayze, Miss Smith and the prisoner there. Prisoner and Miss Smith were on the platform together talking. Witness knew he had seen prisoner before, but could not place him.

Harry Jones of Drumbo said he was formerly porter at the Grand Trunk station at Eastwood and remembered Feb. 17.

Q. How do you fix the date?—A. It was the first day the agent came on duty after being sick.

Q. Who did you see there?—A. A man whom I had known by sight as Lord Somerset.

Witness stated that Somerset was standing at the northeast corner of the platform talking to Miss Alice Smith. They remained talking until the arrival of the train at 6.45. Copy of register of train produced. I saw same man at the jail two or three months ago and picked him from among about 30 prisoners.

She Thought He was a Shrewd Young Man

Mary Swayzie, who was one of the witnesses at the inquest at Princeton, was next to the stand. Identified by Mr. Blackstock as the conversation of the witnesses, and to appear to be [illegible] suggesting the probability of it being implicated in the crime. From the evidence that was presented this afternoon it seems that these young men first appeared on the scene on the morning of Thursday, Feb. 20, at 5 o'clock. It was on that day that the body was found. Baker and Caldwell stopped at a hotel in Drumbo. They were drunk and had awakened up several farmers along the road and were trying to drive from a bottle of whiskey which they carried. The young men were noisy, loud, still drinking, at 2 o'clock on the morning at Dake's Hotel, Princeton, and later on the day at Gobles, Drumbo, Princeton and Woodstock. CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys' Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

FARMER TO FARMER—"Hello! where are you going?"

"Down to MORROW'S for a Caddy of Tea. We have been paying peddlars double price long enough, 40 and 45c., and he is selling better for 25c. James, Brown, and Billings, neighbors of mine, say they are quitters. They tried MORROW'S, it suits fine."

"Well, say, I think it pays us better to buy for cash than pay those prices. The Interest is rather nigh.

"Bring me a half chest, pay him for it and I will settle with you."

CENTRAL EXHIBITION

Closing Day of the Annal Show

Wet Weather Spoils the Last Day's Attendance—The Closing Scenes—The Finish of the Speeding Events—The Prize List Continued.

The attendance and events of the third day of the Exhibition were largely spoiled by the rain In the morning the rain fell at intervals suthiciently persistent to deter, to a very large extent, all visitors from the country, consequently there was a very small attendance of visitors. At noon, however, the clouds refrained, and the attractions of the speeding in the ring brought in a fair attendance. The first event called was the race for half mile running race, best two in three. For this there were four entries, J J. Bickle's "Favorite," and "Nettie B," J. W. Fitzgerald's "Maud F," and Job Dickenson's "Lexington" The first heat was a walk over for "Lexington," who came under the wire with a long lead, the procession following with "Maud F" next, and "Nettie B" and "Favorite" in turn. The second heat was a tame one, "Lexington" leading at the first furlong followed by "Maud F" and "Nettie B," which was the order at the finish, the horses winning first, second and third money respectively.

THE BREWERY CUP CONTEST,

THE FARMERS' TROT.

The entries for this event were, J. Cochrane's "Lapidist Chief, Jr.," R. Croft's "Easy Billy," J Mervin's "Piledriver," and J. Mitchell's "Livery Maid."

In the first heat "Piledriver" forced the pace, but quit pounding at the end of the first quarter, giving way to "Easy Billy," with "Livery Maid" on her wheel. The heat went to "Easy Billy," "Livery Maid" second, "Piledriver" third, and "Lapidist Chief, Jr." fourth.

The second heat went to "Easy Billy," with "Livery Maid" a good second, and "Piledriver" third. Time 3 51. "Lapidist Chief, Jr." did not finish the heat.

The third heat resulted as the other two, For the first half "Piledriver" fought gamely for first place with "Easy Billy," but after this he lost heart and left his feet for the first time, "Easy Billy" and "Livery Maid" coming in first and second. Time 3 02. "Easy Billy" took first money, "Livery Maid" second, and "Piledriver" the balance. The following is the summary :—

Easy Billy	1	1	1
Livery Maid	2	2	2
Piledriver	3	3	3
Lapidist Chief, Jr.	4	dis.

NOTE.—"Lapidist Chief's" owner has deposited money as a protest against the other horses in this race, on the grounds that the horses were not the property of farmers.

HOTEL KEEPER'S PRIZE.

Open to all comers. For this event there entered R. Croft's "Billy C," (Cobourg) J.E. Smith's "F O P." (Cannington,) and J F. Dixon's "Minnie Moore, (Toronto)

At the first send off "Minnie Moore', who had third place, took the pole before the first turn with "F O.P." close at hand and "Billy C" in the rear. The race was between the first two, the bay gelding making hot work on the home stretch, but the mare held her own and came under the wire winner of the heat, "F O P" a hot second and "Billy C." third. Time 2.41.

The trio were sent off at the first score for the second heat, "F O P." taking the lead, but Minnie collared him at the half mile wire, lost her lead at the three quarter, but picked it up on the back stretch, took the pole and the heat in 2.46. "F.O.P." second and "Billy C." a good third

The third heat was without incident, "Minnie Moore' leading throughout, "F O. P." second and "Billy C", who had done some neat work, third. The following is the summary :

Minnie Moore	1	1	1
Billy C	3	3	3

This concluded the speeding events. The track was heavy on both days, the first with the dry and the second with the wet. The racing events were well run off, the judges bringing on the heats promptly. The judges were Messrs. H. Crelt Case, Stapleton, and A. D. Appleby. Mr. Gus Sawyers, time-keeper. The races finished about 5 30, and by that time the exhibition building was dismantled the agricultural implements removed, the stalls emptied and the exhibition of 1890 (barring protests) over. The financial outcome of the exhibition is not yet known, but it cannot be as good as it should have been under more favorable circumstances.

Fath-ology.

There once resided in Ayrshire a man who, like Lemon proposed to write an Etymological Dictionary of the English language. Being asked what he understood the word Pathology to mean, he answered with great readiness and confidence, "Why, the art of roadmaking, to be sure." In Canada we find men engaged in a class of work they do not understand, in fact as ignorant of details, as the Ayrshire man was of Pathology. The great difficulty is, that the public often suffer, owing to the work of such men This has been clearly exemplified in the manufacture of dye-stuffs for domestic dyeing. Men have from time to time rushed into the business with little capital and a still smaller fund of ordinary ability and common sense; and the result naturally is, failure to the investor, and disgust, loss and disappointment to the users of vile imitation package dyes. The manufacturers of Diamond Dyes, now do the package dye trade of the world. Their dyes are all of uniform quality and excellence, and are known as the most reliable and best in the world. Ladies who do home-dyeing always ask for Diamond Dyes Some dealers often attempt to substitute the crude imitation dyes because their profits are larger. Ladies, look well to this, and do not be deceived.

Stained Floors Versus Carpets—Cold Baths How to Make a Wash-Bag—Manicures Dying Out—The Turban Hat—A Wonderful Story from Life.

The hardest work in a servant's routine is sweeping thick carpets. It strains more muscles, offers more dangerous dust and flue to inhale than all the other work on a floor. Rugs, if of any size, are a delusion, for a half-size Smyrna mat is heavy as a whole carpet, and the beating they get at the hands of genteel housemaids is not enough to disturb the body of dust. Inlaid floors are costly to lay and to keep in order, as they must be wiped and polished more or less daily, or they are as delightful as a piano case with the dust on. Pine floors are good enough to bear the dark paint and shellac which makes the most satisfactorily cheap finish, clear and handsome as polished black oak at the expense of sweeping with a damp mop daily, which is easy as dusting the piano lid afterward, and revarnishing once in six months at 70 cents a room. It is cheap, letting the household off so much drudgery, dust and discomfort, plus the brilliant effect. But few floors are smooth enough to be satisfactorily polished this way, and in preparing for comfort in Winter the wise housekeeper finds nothing available so warm, sonndless and pleasant in every way but one as the thick, plain cocoa rug, a quarter inch through, and looking to the foot much like elastic sole leather. If there could be some way of decorating it, in East Indian colorings for instance, dyeing it right through, in patterns, without the raw-toe left by a printed surface and without glow, it would be an ideal floor-covering. Carpets are mere dust and disease-trap, and the sooner we get rid of them the better. Cotton carpets of fast dye, firm weave, and good design would be far better than wool ones, which have a fatal property of absorbing everything they should not.

One reads and hears a great deal about the New York women who take cold baths. But I believe it. The New York women are too fond of their good looks to squander them in cold plunges.

Here is a recipe for a new-fangled "wash rag," or rather wash bag, that some can save or violet-sheep cloth, if you want an aesthetic bag, and make it four inches square with double seams to keep the contents in finely. Make a mixture of half a pound of white castile soap, five pounds of oatmeal and one pound of corn-meal. The soap must be powdered. Pour into the violet bag sew up the slit and use like a sponge. If the high priestesses of the toilet shops and bath can be believed this makes a lovely soft flesh lather, turns the water milky white, makes the skin as smooth, white and velvety as a child's and gives the flesh a delicious odor of violets. If it does not cure skin diseases as well as tan, take off freckles and cure sun rash?

There is a sudden and unexpected indifference to manicured finger nails. The queens of that profession are living from hand to mouth, shops are for sale, rents are in arrears and things are gloomy generally.

Even the tailors are building high about dress sleeves for the elegant long coats and jackets. This became necessary to accommodate the high shoulders in the dresses over which the wraps are fitted.

The jaunty, close turban hat is made for the girl with the retrousse nose, the pansy-like face and the big, mirthful, gray eyes. It looks a part of her head when it is on continuing and accentuating the lines of her face in the prettiest possible way. The upturning brim is of gray velvet knot in front. The low crown is of soft folds of gray cloth. The brim turns up sharply in the back and is trimmed with high clustering loops of gray velvet ribbon and with gray and white wing turning towards the front.

A widow charged at Vienna the other day with throwing a wine bottle at a man's head to his serious injury, appealed to the mercy of the magistrate on the ground of her destitute condition. She told the following story of her life: She said she had been called "the beautiful Emily," and was the famous model who posed for several of Hans Markart's largest mythological pictures. Afterwards she had married a well-to-do manufacturer, whom she taught to be idle and fond of luxury, so that at his death she was left penniless. She had since lived by writing letters to benevolent ladies and gentlemen describing her destitute position, which was such that she had not often a meal or fire, and never a rag to put upon her back. She was especially animated in informing the court that, while she generally obtained some sort of help, a lady had once written to her that she did not give clothes to people who had been so long accustomed to go without. The ex-beauty seemed to take this as an insult to her former profession. The Court was moved by her destitute condition to limit her sentence to one week's imprisonment.

The entomological craze in bonnet decoration increases as the season advances, and butterflies and dragon flies continue to be favorites. A large gold butterfly, with wings as fine as filigree, supported by a stiff lace butterfly behind it, forms the entire substance of a dress hat. A dragon fly all upward against a knot of pale gray chiffon, ornaments one bonnet; natural bees on a gray-green crepe ground decorate another, and wasps so realistic as to make one apprehensive quivering on a rosette of brown crepe are on a third. Fantastic lace-trimmed hats ridden with orchids have whole flocks of these butterflies quivering on the flowers' spines, and for fair hair have folds of green velvet under the brim.

A delicacy received by many is the tomato omelet, which is made as follows: Peel two or three tomatoes, cut them into slices and fry them in butter, adding a little salt and pepper. Beat eggs enough for an omelet, heat some butter in a frying pan, pour in the eggs and after mixing in the tomatoes, cook as pan omelet.

The new goods are crowding the shops. Large oval spots, shaded cubes, and pastilles of any device as soft as silk are woven in the new camel's hair goods, sometimes in lighter shades than that of the ground, again in blacks, and often in a prettily contrasting color—golden brown on green, turquoise on dahlia, gray or blue, and suede on chestnut brown. Medieval designs and heraldic figures copied from old tapestries are of raised brocha weaving done in the Jacquard looms, or else are smoothly woven, and appear to be sunken in the fabric. The black touch is most effectively given in light flecks of high black threads appearing irregularly in brown, green, dahlia, or gray camel's hair. Little figures and flower branches are woven in of flaky threads in homespuns, and petit pois spots are grouped in high colors or set in rows in stripes.

On the Death of a Poet.

Priest of nature, poet sage,
Heroic molder of an age!
In his mental fire the gold
Of the new and of the old
From the drowsy refuse fell
As by a sudden miracle;
His magic touch the simple thought
Into flower of beauty wrought,
As the sunbeam in the clod
Smites to life a thought of God.

Age of quest and high emprise,
Restlessness and enterprise,
All your other triumphs dim
Burn beside the soul of him—
The birth-gift of uncounted years
Of faiths and doubts and hopes and fears—
To the molding of whose heart
Ran all the centuries of art.

Sorrow not as for the dead
With heavy heart and drooping head,
Rise unto his faith sublime.
The high muse of his lofty rhyme
Make thine own, and, as a breath
That breaks the mirror of the lake
A moment's space, so do thou take
The harmless incident of death.

THEIR BOAT CAPSIZED.

Three Young Men Drowned Near Sandridge—One Body Recovered.

SUNDRIDGE, Sept. 24.—This morning about 9 o'clock three young men named Arthur Bowyer, Charles Mcdonald and Hugh Roney went out in a sail boat intending to cross Stoney Lake, a distance of about three miles. This afternoon men on the other side of the lake discovered the boat tying on its side and after reaching it found Arthur Bowyer hanging in the rigging drowned. The other two are missing and are supposed to have been drowned also. The recovered body was brought to the village this evening and will be forwarded to relatives at Bracebridge by to-morrow morning's train. Efforts are being made to find the others.

Mr. Bowyer was one of those who so miraculously escaped from the Queen's Hotel fire a month ago and was only recovering from injuries received there.

Fire at Odessa, Ont

ODESSA, Sept. 24.—Fire broke out at 11.50 in T. W. Milsop's general store and dwelling on the north side of Main street. Within 40 minutes the store and dwelling, together with Bond's drygoods and general store and Murphy & Son's boot and shoe store, were totally destroyed. The fire spread rapidly, threatening to wipe out the entire town, which has no fire protection. The citizens worked heroically but primitively with pails to save property.

At 12.40 a.m. C. W. Emmons' dwelling and butcher stall was in flames and past saving. The fire is barging eastward.

Later.—Emmons' butcher stall to the east and dwelling by hard work is saved, but A. W. Baker's dwelling and butcher stall are gone. The fire is confined now between Watts & Jones' carriage factory west and Emmons east, and no further damage is anticipated.

The losers are: A. W. Baker, house and shop with contents, total loss, insured in Agricultural, Watertown, N.Y. Murphy & Son, shop, dwelling and stock, total loss, insured $700 in Imperial. Embarking Milsop's general store and dwelling, total loss with stock, insured in Agricultural, Watertown, N.Y. Bond, dry goods and general goods, loss on buildings, $1000 on stock in the City Mutual, London, Ont.

The total loss is estimated at from $10,000 to $12,000.

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

Mr. Reuben Knight, of Morris, Man., states that he was troubled with a rash all over his body, which was cured with less than one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. He highly recommends it as a blood purifier of the greatest efficacy. 2w37d

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be found. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its leading unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

will be soon on hand, I wish to inform the public that I have imported from England and Belgium, a fine lot of double-barreled breech loading guns, from $10 to $60. Also a lot of single barrel breech loaders equally cheap, all of the best makers, such as James W. Richards, R. Richards, Clarborough, Bonahill and Greener.

I am selling single and double muzzle loaders at cost. Rifles of different makers on hand at the lowest figures.

In the Revolver line, I have nearly 50 different makers, all of the best quality.

I continue to do all kinds of new work and repairing in the best style of workmanship, also altering old gun locks into rebounders, and chilk-boring barrels. All these works are done in the best possible manner and warranted.

Gun Stocking also done in style to suit customers.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase, $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $218 204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurances in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,984,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 94
Citizens	2,097,956	28.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while each companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Diseases Cured Without Medicine by the New (Orificial Surgical) Treatment.

DR. WM. E. BESSEY

Consulting Physician, Orificial Surgeon, and Specialist,

192 KING ST. WEST, TORONTO,

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Chronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

The Effect of Lightning.

Mr. Joseph Byers, of South Monaghan, had several head of cattle pastured at Campbellstown all summer, and until two weeks ago, when he went after the cattle, he was not aware that two of the animals had been killed by lightning during the recent storms. The cattle had evidently sheltered under the tree where they were found, the tree being shattered by the electric fluid.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. But the matter of most intense, absorbing interest to all ladies is the question of tea, that delight of feminine hearts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros.' teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

A Successful Appeal.

Miss Edith Ferguson, daughter of Mr. Wm. Ferguson, George street, has been awarded a second class teachers' certificate by the Department. She wrote at the July examinations, and though having to her credit a hundred marks over the necessary number, was announced as "failed" because of a trifling shortage in one subject. An appeal was entered, with the result stated above. Miss Ferguson is to be congratulated.

For Thanksgiving Day Evening.

The choir of George street church have in preparation a programme to be given in the church on the evening of Thanksgiving Day. Several numbers of the programme will include glees and quartettes, and probably selections on the organ. Further particulars will be given, and the occasion may be looked forward to as a very enjoyable one.

Signed, Sealed and Delivered.

The contract between the town and the Edison Company arrived to-day from New York, signed by the officers of the Company. The Edison Company's Works now become secured to Peterborough. In the contract the town council undertakes to supply 30 acres of ground, provided with railway connection and sewerage, and exempted from taxes; the Edison Company on their part agreeing to immediately begin the erection of buildings, to cost at least $30,000 and employ not less than 200 men at the commencement of their works. As previously stated, according to the plans of the buildings proposed to be erected by the company, they will cost fully $60,000.

He Served his Country.

A few days ago the EXAMINER called the attention of all survivors of the '37 rebellion in Canada, to the efforts being made by Mr. Geo. Merrill, of Belleville, to gather as complete a list as possible of the veterans yet alive, with the intention forwarding their names to the government and urging the establishment of a pension fund for their benefit. There appears to be only a few of these old campaigners in this section, the only one heard from so far being Mr. Patrick Leinster, of the township of Smith, who at the first call to arms enlisted when only fifteen years of age in Capt. Huston's company of the 46th Batt. Mr. Leinster then lived in Monaghan. He served all winter, being stationed at Coborg and Port Hope with his regiment awaiting orders to march to the battle field. But the command never came, and the following spring the regiment was disbanded. Mr. Leinster knows of two other veterans of the '37 war in this district —two living in Monaghan and one in Victoria county.

"Running Wild."

This company of comedians and vocalists has been secured for one night only, Thursday, October 2nd, through Manager Bradburn, and special attention is called to the great cast,—all favourites: H. J. Philips, whose drollery and convulsive humor have placed him fairly at the top among his contemporaries, Harry L. Kean, the young impersonator and vocalist, Frank Howan, whose name among eccentric character actors time cannot efface, Ed. E. Matthews, who long acquired distinction by exceptionally clever work; and oh! the girls, such a bevy of pretty faces! Miss Jennie Pryor, who cannot make a move that is not funny if she tried, Miss Madeline Mills, whose fame extends throughout the length and breadth of the land, Lillian D'Alor, whose singing and dancing has electrified the world, Helen Feltham, whose sympathetic voice astonishes all, and a host of others making three hours of pure unadulterated fun. Secure reserved seats at Greatrex's drug store. 1d

A Clergyman's Narrow Escape.

Rev. P. C. Parker had a narrow escape this forenoon from serious, if not fatal, injury, through the foolhardy recklessness of a countryman. Mr. Parker was walking briskly along Water street, and, when passing the gateway of the Kennedey house yards, was struck by a team of horses and knocked aside, striking against the side of the sheds. It seems that the farmer was driving at a high rate of speed in order to get in the yard ahead of another man, who was approaching from the opposite direction, and in the excitement of the race did not notice the pedestrian. He never slackened his pace, but scurried over the sidewalk at an illegal speed. Mr. Parker was fortunately not very much hurt. Drivers ought to have sense enough to be more careful in crossing the crowded streets of a town than they are accustomed to in the country. They are guilty of a breach of the law in not slowing speed when crossing streets.

Bad Accident to a Horse.

At the exhibition track on Friday there was a collision between two horses and vehicles, that may possibly cause the death of the beautiful roan single driver of Dr. J. R. Fraser, Lakefield. The horses were speeding in the contest for single driving. Dr. Fraser's horse had gone round the course and was returning under the wire to go to the horse ring inside the track. Mr. Geo. Berry, who was in the contest, and had, with others, started in the heat later (the track not being wide enough for all the contestants to start abreast), was coming in at the finish at racing speed. Neither driver saw each other in time to avoid anything but a direct front to front collision. Dr. Fraser's horse was thrown down by the force of the shock, and it was found afterwards that the point of the shaft had struck the animal just behind the arm and penetrated several inches into the cavity of the chest, passing in about the fourth rib and making a large punctured wound. Dr. Robinson, V.S., attended to the injuries of the horse, which is at present at the stables, of Allin's pottery. This morning the horse is better, and its veterinary attendant thinks the case may result favorably.

The Prentice Boys' Concert.

A good-sized audience attended the Prentice Boys' gift concert in the Orange hall last night, and all went home happy and satisfied with the entertainment provided. Mr. John Sowers made a most efficient and affable chairman. The programme was lengthy, but the audience got to their homes at a reasonable hour. During the intermission the drawing for the china tea set took place. Mr. Wm. Burdick was the lucky man. Following is the programme:—

PART 1.

Address	Chairman
Instrumental Solo	Miss Jamieson
Solo	Mrs. W. Bowman
Song	J. J. Turner, jr.
Recitation	Miss Sanders
Tin Whistle Solo	Mr. Dick
Mouth Organ Solo	Mr. W. Burdick

Song	Prof. Pearce
Recitation	Mr. John Nugent
Song	Mr. J. Flannery
Accordion Selections	Mr. Wm. Fraser
Mouth Organ Solo	Mr. W. Burdick
Vocal Duett	Miss Turner and Master Turner

In conclusion, votes of thanks were passed to those who had contributed to the programme, all of whom did exceedingly well in their respective numbers. After the singing of the National Anthem the highly successful concert was brought to a close.

News Nuggets.

—Thos. Tully was before the beak this forenoon on a charge of having neglected to pay his statute labour tax. He was given fifteen days to pay the $2.

—The Globe of Thursday announced that the previous day's $25 prize offered by the Canadian Queen for word contests, had been won by Miss Eva L. Denne, of Peterborough.

—Mr. A. E. Byers, of Omemee, has been appointed general agent for the Federal Life for Victoria county, the Post says. He will take up his residence in Lindsay if he can buy or rent a suitable house, or he would purchase a lot and build. Mr. Byers has the push and enterprise necessary to make a successful insurance agent.

Personal.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., East Peterborough, attended the Central Exhibition yesterday.

The Lindsay Post says:—Mr. George A. Cox, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, attended the banquet to Lord Stanley, and spent a few hours in town yesterday morning looking about, accompanied by Mr. F. C. Taylor. Mr. Cox was very much gratified at the growth of Lindsay.

Monday morning last a very pleasing event took place at "Newaham," the family residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, in the midst of a large assembly of relatives and friends, being the marriage of Agnes, third daughter, to Mr. R. E. Scuthby, second son of Rev. R. W. Southby, of Clifton, England. The bride and bridegroom are enjoying an extended honeymoon tour in Europe.

Mr. A. P. Melrose, representing the New York Dye-wood Extract Chemical Co., a former resident of Peterborough but latterly of Lanark, has returned to town and will make Peterborough his headquarters. He resides on George street north. It is 17 years since Mr. Melrose left town, and the many friends of that former period are pleased to have him amongst them again. The town gains a good citizen in Mr. Melrose.

Presbytery of Peterborough.

Meeting at Cobourg—Local Church Matters Disposed of.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Cobourg on the 23rd, September. There were fifteen ministers and five elders present.

Mr. Hay was chose moderator for the next six months.

A call was sustained from Bobcaygeon, to Rev. Wm. Anderson, of Oakville. Arrangements were made for the induction of Mr. Anderson, on the 21st October, at 3 o'clock, Mr. Hyde to preside, Mr. Jones to preach, Mr. Torrance to address the ministers and Mr Ewing the people; Mr. Ewing was also appointed to shake the polity of the church.

Centreville congregation was disjoined from Millbrook and constituted an independent charge. Steps were taken to unite Millbrook and Garden Hill.

Reports were received from nearly all the mission fields within the bounds. The reports showed encouraging progress in the fields heard from. It was resolved to suspend services at Rush Point in the meantime.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Paul's church, Peterborough, on the 3rd Tuesday of January, 1891, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Bennett was appointed Moderator of the Session of Centreville, and Mr. McWilliams of the Session of Millbrook during the vacancies.

Mr. McEwan gave notice of motion regarding the holding of Sabbath School Institutes within the bounds.

The Committees appointed to strike Standing Committees gave in their report.

The following are the names of the Conveners of these Committees:—

HOME MISSION AND AUGMENTATION.—Jas. Cleland

SABBATH OBSERVANCE—John Hay.

SABBATH SCHOOLS—John McEwan.

TEMPERANCE.—D Sutherland.

SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.—C. S. Lord.

STATISTICS.—W. Bennett.

SUPERINTENDENCE OF STUDENTS.—Jas. Carmichael.

STATE OF RELIGION.—Peter Duncan.

The Theatrical Season Opened.

Miss Margaret Mather at the Opera House—An Incident not down in the Play.

The theatrical season in Peterborough was opened on Friday night by Miss Margaret Mather, one of the first actresses on the American stage, and an excellent company, in the great Shakesperian tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet." Miss Mather is said by competent critics to be without a peer in this role, and her performance last night certainly justified the expression of the same opinion on the part of the Peterborough audience. There was not as large an attendance as there should have been. Such a dramatic treat is very rarely obtainable here, and those who missed Friday night's entertainment may not have a similar opportunity again for a long time to come. Manager Bradburn deserves unanimous thanks of the play-loving public for the enterprise he has displayed in bringing an actress of Miss Mather's calibre to Peterborough. He has secured a splendid series of attractions for the winter, and the fault will lie with the people if this is not the most successful theatrical season.

Needless to say, Miss Mather and her company of artists delighted everybody with their rendition of "Romeo and Juliet." Every character was well taken, Miss Mather as Juliet and Mr. Otis Skinner as Romeo, being of course the central figures. The special scenery, rich and elegant costumes and superior acting all combined to gratify the senses. Mr. Butcher's orchestra added completeness to the performance by supplying a variety of music. The orchestra is hardly in shape for the season, but Mr. Butcher promises before long to have an organization worthy of the town. Their selections last night were well rendered and most enjoyable.

THE DANGEROUS DAGGER.

Few if any of the audience were aware that the curtain rang down upon what was nearly a real tragedy. A kind providence protected Miss Mather from serious injury in what might easily have been a fatal accident. In the closing scene, when the fair Juliet plunges a dagger to her heart and dies upon the bosom of her already defunct Romeo, Miss Mather inflicted a wound upon herself which was very painful. It seems that she has been accustomed to using a trick dagger, the blade of which, by a spring, attachment, flies back into the handle when struck against the body. This harmless weapon was lost at Kingston night before last, and its place was supplied by a genuine sharp, steel dagger, belonging to a member of the troupe. Miss Mather was warned to be careful, but so engrossed was she in the part she was playing, that everything but the intense crisis of the moment was forgotten. When she snatched the dagger from Romeo's belt and cried "Oh, happy dagger! This thy sheath; there rust and let me die," she accompanied the words with a vicious stab. Miss Mather gave vent to a suppressed shriek as she fell to the floor, and at once the members of the troupe, knowing that she was not in the habit of screaming at that point, surmised that an accident had happened. Of course the audience took it all to be "in the play," and as Miss Mather pluckily finished her part by dragging herself over to where Romeo lay, no suspicion of anything unusual was aroused. As soon as the curtain rung down Miss Mather was taken to her dressing room and a physician summoned. An examination revealed the fact that the point of the dagger had penetrated the clothing and corset and struck against the sixth rib, about an inch below the heart. Only a slight flesh wound was made, but the shock of the steel against the rib left a very painful result. Had the stroke been an inch higher or true, if not fatal, injury would have resulted. That much maligned article of feminine wearing apparel, the corset, served a useful purpose on this occasion by breaking the force of the blow. Miss Mather was somewhat alarmed at first, fearing that the wound would prevent her fulfilling her engagement at Gananoque to-night but when the physician told her there was no danger, she smiled and breathed easier. The company left town this morning for Gananoque.

Miss Mather will next year play "Juliet" to the famous Sara Bernhardt's "Romeo" in a tour through America.

BIRCHALL'S TRIAL.

James Hood, liveryman, swore that George Macdonald, one of the young men who gave evidence yesterday as to the shots in the swamp, had told him some time ago that as near as he could tell the shots were fired between 2½ and 3 o'clock, and that there was an intermission of between four and five minutes between.

Mr. Osler: He just said it in a casual sort of way, did he not?—A. Yes.

The Judge Will Give all Necessary Time.

Mr. Blackstock then announced that the next witness would likely occupy the attention of the court some time, and he would prefer an adjournment now. He explained that it would be impossible, beyond all question, to complete the case this week, and while he did not like the idea of having the jury locked up, the immense amount of evidence which had been offered had rendered it impossible for him and his associates to as yet arrange to combat it.

His Lordship: I will allow all the time necessary. As for myself it makes no difference, being compelled to remain over Sunday; but of course I would prefer to let the jury go to-morrow night if possible. If, however, you say that it is in the interests of your client to adjourn now I will close.

Mr. Blackstock: I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that, Your Lordship. I think you will see from the value of the evidence that it is so.

The court was thereupon adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THE M'KINLEY BILL.

Report of the Conference Committee Presented to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The conference report on the tariff bill has been submitted to the House. Mr. McKinley has offered for reference a resolution for the final adjournment of Congress on Tuesday next at 2 o'clock.

Mr. McKinley said the bill as it would be printed contained all the changes which had been recommended by the Conference Committee.

In many of the principal features of the bill the points of disagreement had been perfectly understood for weeks, and it was as perfectly understood what the Conference Committee had recommended. It was late in the session. Gentlemen on both sides were anxious to get home, and he must insist upon the consideration of the report to-morrow. This was agreed to.

The date when the bill is to take effect was made Oct. 6. Feb. 1 next is fixed as the ultimate date upon which goods deposited in bond before Oct. 1 may be withdrawn at the old rate of duty.

The conference agreed to the Senate reciprocity and retaliation amendment, making but one change, which was in the date—made Jan. 1, 1892, instead of July next.

On glucose the House rate of one cent per pound is retained. The sugar schedule and bounty provision take effect April next. No. 13 sugar may be meantime refined in bond without duty.

Fresh or frozen fish from American fisheries made free by both Houses. Must be caught by American vessels in fresh water. Other fish are dutiable at ½c per pound. On binding twine the rate is fixed at 7-10 per cent., but on the Manilla cordage the rate is advanced from 1¾ cents to 1¾ cents per pound.

All the paragraphs inserted by the Senate providing for a "customs commission" were stricken out.

The conference estimates the total reduction of revenue made by the bill at $66,000,000.

Slavin Knocks Out McAuliffe.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The long-talked-of and much-postponed fight between the Australian, Slavin, and McAuliffe, the American, came off here this morning in the Ormonde Club and resulted in a genuine surprise, the Yankee completely collapsing after fighting only 7 minutes and 35 seconds.

At 4.55 the rules were read and time called for the first round. The fighting was severe at the outset and heavy blows were sent in by both men. McAuliffe fought desperately at the opening of the second round, but two of Slavin's sledge hammer blows on his head knocked the American over the ropes. He refused to respond to the call of time and Madden threw up the sponge in exactly 7 minutes and 35 seconds after the men began the battle.

Clean the Back Lanes and Alleys!

At this season of the year the public health should be as carefully looked after, as at any other time.

Many of our Aldermen and Councillors in Canada believe that because the hot weather is over, they are therefore at liberty to relax their efforts in the health department, and rest quietly until next summer.

This is criminal negligence, and accounts in a large measure for the great amount of sickness that now exists. The cool Autumn should be the healthiest season of the year in all the large towns and cities of Canada.

On great source of trouble and disease is the large amount of decayed animal and vegetable matter that is allowed to accumulate in back lanes and alleys.

The hot weather has dried up this decayed matter, and the strong winds carry it over city and town in all directions, when it is inhaled and swallowed by our citizens in their daily walks; it even enters our stores and dwellings.

The result is that hundreds who are not constitutionally strong are poisoned and laid up by Typhoid fever and Diphtheria and other malignant diseases.

To guard against danger of this kind, let us sound a note of warning to every man and woman in Canada, who does not enjoy perfect health and strength. Those who are weak, nervous, irritable and sleepless; as well as all who are ailing from Dyspepsia and Indigestion are always the first to be attacked. Men and women who have sluggish circulation and impure blood, stand on dangerous ground and require immediate attention.

The great armour of defence, and the people's strong rock of safety, is that infallible remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. It is the only preparation known to science which can thoroughly build up the nerve and brain power as well as strengthen the body by continually keeping the liver, kidneys and bowels in a healthy state. Paine's

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. —U. S. Government Report, Aug 17, 1889.

Celery Compound as an Autumn cleanser for the system is far ahead of all the drug known to science.

It is quick and gentle in its action; it is safe and sure; and can be used by all with perfect confidence. At this season every family should have a bottle near them, and use it occasionally, and thus ward off disease.

CANALS STILL IN DEMAND.

The opponents of the completion of the Trent Navigation System, including (at heart) the members of the Dominion Government, base their opposition upon the alleged superiority of railways over canal carriage. Yet, even in England, which is supposed to know what's what in matters of traffic, there is practical belief in canals. For some years the people of Birmingham have been considering schemes for obtaining access to the sea independent of the railways. One proposal was to connect the city with Hull by means of the Trent system and a canal; another proposed route terminated at the mouth of the Thames, and a third at the mouth of the Severn. But the scheme most in favor just now is to connect Birmingham with Liverpool by constructing a new waterway from Birmingham to Winsford, and thence by the Weaver Navigation and the Manchester Ship Canal to the Mersey. The cost of construction is estimated at 3,000,000 pounds, and the promoters report that 2,000,000 tons of goods will be carried outwards every year. The building of canals has been carried on with great vigor ever since 1755; and the excellent system of internal navigation afforded by the rivers, supplemented by the canals, is one of the secrets of the industrial progress of England. In view of this fact, the advisability of the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal becomes more marked, and the benefit of this great waterway more worthy of advocacy. But if ever anything real is ever done the matter must be taken from the hands of the present Government, who are hostile to the scheme, and only regard it with favor in so far as they are able to turn it to account in electing political supporters in the district to be served by the canal.

REGEN. advices state that the prospect of the Irish potato crop is not so dismal as it was some time ago, fine weather having improved the chances. But there will be a serious shortage in some parts of the country. The government has looked forward to providing employment by railway construction, and it is asking one of the companies, on the authority of legislation of last session, to begin work.

ONTARIO exported $7,589,014 worth of native products last year, of which $23,030,479 worth went to the United States. Yet we are told that the American market is of no value to our producers, and our restrictionist politicians want us to throw away this market and select a market three thousand miles away, where addled eggs are at a discount and Canadian barley is not wanted. The United States is our natural market. Since the doubtful blessing of high taxation was extended to Canada, our export trade with the United States has nearly doubled. In 1878 our exports to the United States amounted to $7,662,000 and in 1889 to $14,437,000.

THE following table, recently published, showing the ship-building of the world, is an interesting document:

	1888 — No. vessels	1888 — Tonnage	1889 — No. vessels	1889 — Tonnage
United Kingdom	1,271	776,903	1,156	1,180,429
United States	132	139,418	154	250,982
Germany	35	30,591	39	101,264
France	14	10,021	22	13,925
British Colonies	68	17,107	75	27,308
Denmark	31	5,541	20	1,406
Norway	104	11,143	34	15,040
Netherlands	31	5,536	10	11,033
Italy	8	1,589	21	7,802
Sweden	134	1,088	24	7,094
Greece	17	3,088	17	7,319
Austria	9	3,038	6	1,845
Russia	5	1,764	7	1,830
Other Countries	12	3,877	5	1,531
Total	824	967,473	1,146	1,627,381

That is, Great Britain, which carries the flag of free trade at the mast head of the ship of state, last year built a good deal more than half the ships launched in 1889, and the total tonnage of the British ships was nearly three times greater than the combined tonnage of all the vessels turned out by the world. Britannia has a confirmed habit of ruling the waves, and the above record indicates that that lady has no present intention of retiring in that respect. Principle is at the back of the commercial and maritime supremacy of Great Britain, while many other would be rivals who rely upon expediency, stay behind in the race with consistent regularity.

Chemong.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE INDIAN EXCURSION.—The excursion which went from Bridgenorth and Chemong station to Burleigh Falls was pretty well crowded. About 300 went and they had a grand, good times. I heard one of the good old ladies from Snith say eg that it was well worth putting another 50 cents on top of the half dollar she had paid to hear the concert that was given by the celebrated Crowe family. They are coming next year, then we will arrange the excursion better. We could have had far more on board if we had not started so early. We will connect with the train next year, as the "Maple Leaf," the steamer, can easily do it. We were only about 3½ hours going to Burleigh, and we remained there 2½ hours to give the parties a chance to look around. We had the pleasure of "tramping" which is the prettiest view on these waters and the safest.

BASEBALL NEWS.—In the last issue of your week y we read that the Northern Star club was not very well pleased with our umpire. Those who always find fault with their brethren, are the ones who will do it. We find in the New Testament, "Do all things without murmurings, and disputings, and be ye kind one to another." When they come we are going to get the secretary to be the umpire.

The Peterborough junior baseball club was to have come up to Chemong and played, and about 40 or 50 Chemong people went down to the wharf to welcome the Peterborough, but we were badly disappointed. If me Injun say "I come, I go; me tell no lies. And if me frail, I let you know me no come.

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. LORD BRASSEY.

One of the Great Recruiters of England's Navy.

Lord Brassey, who, together with his charming wife who wrote the famous "Voyage in the Sunbeam," have left us so many delightful pictures of travel, has recently started a scheme for training boys for the mercantile marine service. "A mercantile marine," says Lord Brassey, "is the foundation of the naval power of the country. Take away the mercantile marine and naval power is an artificial plant. It has no basis—nothing to support it. Whether you look at the material or the personal of the fleet, the mercantile marine is its foundation."

LORD BRASSEY.

Lord Brassey has inaugurated a new system of apprenticeship, beginning at thirteen and finishing at nineteen, by which a man may complete his "professional education for the sea" for about $1,500, having at the end of that time a position as an officer and earning a small professional income.

From that point on a fine career is open if a man has the strength to grasp it. The captain of the Teutonic, remarks Lord Brassey, gets $4,500 per annum.

Lord Brassey's system is intended to apply only to men destined for officers. He means, in fact, to create a great nursery of future commanders for the mercantile marine.

Some years ago Lord Brassey succeeded in securing the enrolment of a second-class naval reserve, for which the fishing population would be eligible in time of war. Thus he added 10,000 men to England's naval fighting strength.

PERSONAL AND PERTINENT.

Geronimo, the Apache, having been baptized, the people who know his history by experience are wondering what the harvest will be.

A letter-carrier in Bridgton, N. J., found a snake in his mail box recently, which he stamped and despatched with remarkable promptness.

The commission of Justice Miller of the Supreme Court of the United States, was signed by President Lincoln, and he has been on the bench 28 years.

Ex-Headsman Clarkson must have smiled in a contemptuous way when he heard that the Sultan of Morocco had beheaded eighty of his fellow-citizens.

Simon Wise, a colored man, and one of the oldest settlers of Brewer, Me., is just dead. To the last he was "true to the dreams of his youth," and kept a smudge of chips burning all the time in front of his door "to frighten off the witches."

Stanley is to deliver his first American lecture in Boston in November. The intrepid explorer has been kept so long on a banana diet in Central Africa that he may be pardoned for wishing to renew his acquaintance with beans and culture at the earliest opportunity.

John Raymond, of Athol, Mass., has gathered from his hens 18,000 eggs so far this year and raised 473 chickens, and his wife, besides attending to an extensive dairy-business, has sold sixty canary birds of her own raising. And yet some people wonder how New Englanders manage to thrive.

The Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, brother of the great Brooklyn divine, has been passing an extended vacation in the far West, where his long gray hair, his white slouch hat and his general appearance made him pass for a ranchman. He made the trip up Pike's Peak and said it was one of the events of his life.

A Michigan parson has acquired considerable notoriety as a breeder of fast horses. Instead of shocking his parishioners they turn out and cheer him when he speeds his favorite nags in public. Religion and horse racing is an odd mixture, but the Michigan parson's penchant for good horseflesh has one redeeming feature. He can easily make himself scarce on the approach of a donation party.

All one has to do in order to cross the Atlantic without an abdominal pang is to produce artificial seasickness on shore previous to making the passage. For two weeks before going to sea it is necessary to take continual doses of some approved emetic—say ipecacuanha. The system thus becomes habituated to a constant condition of nausea, and when, after a fortnight of this process, the patient goes on board a steamer and ceases to take his emetic his stomach seems to be quite at home.

Troubles in the Labor World.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 28.—The unions offer to agree to freedom of contract to-day on boycotting and to arbitrate the present disputes.

Wool-shearing in New South Wales, as in Queensland, is about finished. A large number of shearers from New Zealand are ready to come to Victoria if the shearers in this colony go on strike.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Sept. 28.—A crowd of strikers to-day attacked the drivers of a number of vans loaded with non-union wool. The police dispersed the mob.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A crisis is impending in the Scotch iron trade. The masters have given notice to the men of a wholesale lockout on Oct. 4, unless an amicable settlement of the disputes is effected in the meantime—of which there is no prospect at present. The fires in a number of furnaces are already out. The threatened stoppage in the production has caused excitement in the iron market here.

BRADDOCK, Pa., Sept. 28.—All boys under 16 will be discharged from the Edgar Thomson and the Homestead steel works. This order is an idea of Andrew Carnegie, who has always opposed youth labor. The order will affect many widows who depended upon their sons for support.

CALAIS, Sept. 28.—Eighty lace factories here have been closed in consequence of the strike. At a meeting of 2,000 lace workers here to-day it was unanimously resolved to continue the strike until the manufacturers accept the terms of the strikers.

His Certificate Suspended.

HALIFAX, Sept. 27.—The decision of the Court of Enquiry into the loss of the steamer Ulunda at Briar Island, Bay of Fundy, Aug. 26, was rendered to-day, Capt. Clark's certificate being suspended for three months from date of wreck. None of the other officers were dealt with.

ROYALTY AND PRINCES.

THE VISITS MADE BY ILLUSTRIOUS PERSONAGES TO CANADA.

Prince George of Wales is the Last one—The First Visitor was the Royal Duke of Clarence Who Came One Hundred Years Ago.

His Royal Highness Prince George of Wales is the second son of the Heir-Apparent to the English Throne. He may some day be King of England, as his elder brother is stated has a poor constitution. Like his uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, Prince George has been bred and brought up to the sea. He is now commander of H. M. S. Thrush, attached to the North American Squadron under Admiral Watson.

His visit to Canada, although really his second visit, he having been here with the Princess Louise, when a midshipman on board the Canada, is practically the first which he makes in a semi-official or public character. The visit has naturally awakened interest in previous royal visits, which, all things considered, have not been as numerous as they might have been if the loyalty of the Canadian people manifested on such occasions is to be taken into consideration. In all, eight members of the reigning House have visited Canada in four generations, the Dukes of Clarence and Kent representing the first, the Prince of Wales and Princes Alfred, Arthur and Leopold and Princess Louise the third, and Prince George of Wales the fourth. Of these but seven came up as far as Ontario Taree, the Dukes of Clarence and Edinburgh and Prince George, came as naval officers; two, the Dukes of Kent and Connaught a soldiers, one on an official mission; the Princess Louise as wife of the Governor-General, one as Heir Apparent to the Throne, and one simply as a tourist, Prince Leopold. The second visit or last passage of the Duke of Connaught also partook of that character he visiting a large portion of Canada for the first time. The first visit of a member of the Royal House of Guelph, that of the Duke of Clarence, was confined to Quebec and Sorel. The Duke landed at Quebec in the summer of 1789, twenty-eight years after the conquest and twenty-five years after the treaty of Paris when Canada ceased to be of Great Britain having created a field marshal on arriving and de Salaberry accompanied the Duke to the West Indies, serving in the 4th Battalion of the 60th Rifles. The Duke seemed to be unpopular with George IV, who kept him at a distance, or, as he himself remarked in the West Indies, "to kill him off."

The fourth royal visit and by far the most important ever made to this country was that of the Prince of Wales in 1860. The presence of the Heir Apparent had the effect of binding the country still more closely to the Mother Country. The reception which the Prince received is said to have surpassed anything ever seen in Canada, as far as warmth and genuine enthusiasm was concerned. The visit coincided with great events, such as the opening of the Victoria Bridge and the laying of the corner-stone of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. The visit was brought about in this wise: On May 4 1859, the last day of the session of Parliament at Toronto, the Hon. P. M. Vankoughnet, Commissioner of Crown Lands, introduced a resolution into the Legislative Council, which resolution was submitted to the Assembly by Hon. Mr Cartier, then Premier, inviting Her Majesty to visit Canada, to open the Victoria Bridge and to see for herself the great strides made by the people. An invitation was also extended to the Prince Consort and other members of the Royal Family. Hon. Henry Smith, Speaker of the Assembly, was deputed to pass in the address. On January 30, 1860 the Duke of Newcastle, then Secretary of State for the Colonies, replied in a lengthy communication,

CONVEYING THE QUEEN'S THANKS

and her regrets at not being able to come, but stating that the Prince of Wales would come in her stead. The announcement created the deepest satisfaction and immediately, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and even the West Indies petitioned that the Prince should visit them. President Buchanan addressed the Queen, inviting the Prince to visit the United States, stating that he would be glad to welcome him at Washington. The Queen replied that the Prince would go to the United States as Lord Renfrew, dropping all royalty on leaving Canada. The Prince, accompanied by the Duke of Newcastle, Secretary of State, Earl of St. Germains, Lord Chamberlain, and a numerous suite, sailed from Plymouth on July 10, 1860, on H. M. S "Hero," which was accompanied across by the "Ariadne." On July 23 the ships entered the harbor of St. John's, Nfld., and on the following day he landed. From that moment his march was truly royal, at St. John's Nfld.; Halifax, St. John, N. B.; Charlottetown, Quebec, Toronto, and every other point in Canada and the United States, until he sailed from Portland on his return to England on October 20th. The number of addresses read to him and his replies were counted by the dozen. There were processions upon processions, the houses were decorated and illuminated at night, and there were arches and balls, levees and receptions, and in fact everything people could think of.

Prince Alfred visited the country twice, once in 1861 for a brief season, and again in 1878, coming as far as Halifax on the occasion of the arrival in this country of H. R. H the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne.

In 1878, Canada received the first Princess in the person of the Princess of Louise. The receptions tendered to her husband are still fresh in the minds of the public, as well as the pleasant impressions she created in this country during the few years she remained here. The interest she has ever since taken in Canada its welfare shows that she was also well impressed with the country and its loyal inhabitants.

The Duke of Albany, then Prince Leopold also visited Canada and remained for a time at the Citadel at Quebec with the Marquis and Princess. The Prince did not mingle much in public proceedings owing to his health, which was already in a precarious state. The last member of the family to pass through Canada was the Duke of Connaught and the reception which he was tendered is still in the minds of all.

PRINCE GEORGE OF WALES.

He Had Enough.

I was sitting in the rare end of a Chicago street car, and on the platform were the conductor and a young man of 20, says a correspondent of the New York Sun. I wasn't looking at either particularly when I saw the young man slide his hand down into the conductor's sack-coat pocket, where he kept his change. The conductor had his head turned away, but of a sudden he dropped his right hand, caught the other man's wrist and, with a move that seemed the easiest thing in the world, he bent the fellow's arm back and broke it with a snap. As the bone broke, the victim's clenched hand opened and a lot of silver was scattered on the platform.

"Got enough?" asked the conductor, as he let go.

"Yes."

"Then git."

And the thief, who never even cried out, but whose face was white with the pain, dropped off the step and was lost to view.

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

Rash Knight.

Mr. Reuben Knight, of Morris, Man., states that he was troubled with a rash all over his body, which was cured with less than one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. He highly recommends it as a blood purifier of the greatest efficacy. 2w37d

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

FARMER TO FARMER—"Hello! where are you going?"

"Down to MORROW'S for a Caddy of Tea. We have been paying peddlars double price long enough, 40 and 45c., and he is selling better for 25c. James, Brown, and Billings, neighbors of mine, say they are quitters. They tried MORROW'S, it suits fine."

"Well, say, I think it pays us better to buy for cash than pay those prices. The Interest is rather high.

"Bring me a half chest, pay him for it and I will settle with you."

"All right, good day."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase: $1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $218,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48 664.376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,056,527	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,917	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 84
Citizens	2 097 956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5 723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644 285	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 40 per cent of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is readily probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wishbone becoming more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive contracts a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it must suffer from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that the percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their feelings were wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

Do the Old Grow Irritable?

Shelley says that old age is the most miserable corrupter and blighter of the sweetest charities of the human heart; and he seems to think that people must of necessity grow irritable as they grow in years. This is a mistake. Old persons whose blood is pure and whose livers remain active, are generally the most delightful persons we can meet. And there is no excuse for any one having impure blood or a torpid liver when they can procure Burdock's Pills. w404

Two Charges.

Timothy Conroy was arrested Saturday upon an old warrant for his apprehension in connection with a row at the Kennealy House the 16th of August. Conroy was said to have been the instigator of the fracas, and was charged with disorderly conduct. The evidence of acting constable Moore went to show that the prisoner was the victim instead of the bully of the broil, and he was discharged. He was immediately re-arrested upon a Scott Act warrant, dating from the 27th of February, 1889. Conroy had been fined $100 and costs for a breach of the Scott Act, but had cleared out and never paid it. The old warrant was to-day executed, and having no money Conroy went to gaol for two months.

The friends of Mr. Geo. Stethem will deeply sympathize with him in the severe trials he is called upon to endure. For months his family has been afflicted with an unusual amount of sickness. His daughter Trixie (Catherine Beatrice), a bright girl of 16 years, on Sunday succumbed to an attack of scarlet fever, with which two other children are still very low. Mrs. Stethem is also dangerously ill and it is feared her daughter's death may have a serious effect. Altogether Mr. Stethem is just now bearing more than his share of trouble. His burden will be somewhat lightened by the warm sympathy of the community.

This company of artists known as the "Running Wild" Comedy Company, will appear for one night only, Thursday, October 2nd, at the opera house. They have caught on greatly everywhere, giving the highest satisfaction. The Philadelphia Ledger recently said of one of the company, "Miss Helen Feltborn is a painstaking artist and all she does is done well. Her exuberant flow of life and spirits finds vent in frolicsome antics and bubbling good nature and a spontaneity of vocalism that captures all hearts. This wonderful play was written to make you laugh, and its mission has been achieved. Don't fail to see it. Seats at Greatrix's drug store.

An Ashburnham Runaway Accident.

On Saturday Mrs. H. C. Rogers and Miss Rogers started out for a drive from the front of their residence, Lake street, Ashburnham. In descending the hill going northward, some part of the vehicle or harness struck the animal's heels and started him on a run. Being unable to stop the horse with the reins, Miss Rogers at Calcutt's brewery, turned the ho se up Robinson street thinking the steep grade would stop him; but he kept on his way, and near Mr. Calcutt's residence ran into a post, the shock throwing both ladies out. Mrs. Rogers was thrown on the hard road, and sustained very severe injuries, being very badly bruised over a great portion of the body, though it is thought that there are no bones broken. Mrs. Rogers is unable to move, and is of course confined to her room. Dr. Burnham rendered the necessary professional attendance. Mrs. Rogers condition is improved to-day.

The Stone-Throwing Nuisance.

A stone-throwing epidemic appears to have struck the small boys of Peterborough. Every day the police receive complaints from people whose houses or persons are assaulted with stones and the young scamps usually manage to escape. This morning a Queen street youth named Sam Choate was arraigned on a charge of throwing stones at Mr. W. L. Johnston, an old gentlemen who lives at the corner of Hunter and Queen streets. According to his statement Sammy is a second edition of Peck's bad boy. There is no end to his mischief, and he continually annoyed Mr. Johnston and his wife. The other day Mr. Johnston narrowly escaped being struck by a stone which he distinctly saw young Choate fling at him. The Mayor talked to the boy and threatened him with the Reformatory, as it appeared the lad's mother could not control him and he was running wild. However, he was let off with a slight punishment, six hours' confinement in the cells. It is to be hoped the lesson will not be wasted upon Sammy and other boys of like disposition.

TAKEN FROM THE PALACE.

The following articles were taken from the exhibition building by mistake or otherwise: A set of pink table mats and some other colored crochet lace. These articles may be left at the secretary's office in Mr. W. J. Green's store, Hunter st. A woollen shawl was taken by mistake and returned. On Saturday a girl's cloth cape and a lady's pocket book were found in the building. These are also at the secretary's office.

Church Chimes.

Principal Grant, of Queen's University, delivers a lecture upon his voyage around the world in St. Paul's church to-morrow night.

Rev. G. H. Davis preached in Charlotte street church Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Shorey in the evening.

The old building upon the site of the new St. John's chapel to the south ward, is being torn down. Work on the new structure will probably be begun to-morrow.

Rev. R. F. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, was suffering from a severe cold Sunday, and his pulpit was taken in the morning by Rev. S. J. Shorey, and in the evening by Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Minden.

Rev. S. J. Shorey, the esteemed pastor of the Charlotte street church, arrived home from the Montreal conference Saturday night. About the only business transacted of local interest was the adjusting of Bowmanville and Uxbridge circuits to the Bay of Quinte Conference. The motion to annex the Bay Conference to Toronto was defeated, the former instead being enlarged.

Sunday was review day in the George Street Methodist Sunday school, and an hour was occupied by the Mission Band. Miss Griffith read a most encouraging report of the progress made during the past year, and Mrs. Kentley and Mrs. Locke made interesting addresses. There was singing by the primary class and Miss Cope recited a piece. The Mission Band is an active adjunct to the church work, and its prosperity is an indication of the growth which is taking place in every department of the church.

The services in the Baptist Church Sunday were conducted by Rev. Wm. Peer, of Norwood, the pastor, Rev. P. C. Parker, being in Dummer, where he preached the opening sermons of the new 9th line Baptist Church. This building was recently purchased from the Methodists, and a Baptist congregation established—the third in that district through the efforts of Rev. Mr. Peer during his four years' incumbency. The Baptists of Norwood and vicinity are flourishing.

The musician in St. Peter's Cathedral was opened Sunday morning at 10:30 with mass and a sermon by Rev. Father Wissel, C.S.S.R., rector of St. Patrick's Toronto, who, with two other Redemptorist Fathers, Rev. Father Thumel, and Rev. Father Zinzen, both of Annapolis, Md., conduct the mission for one week. There was a very large attendance in the morning, but in the evening at 7:30 the church was crowded, there having been present at least 1600, the full seating capacity of the church. The series of services are as follows: 5 a.m., mass and sermon; 9 a.m., mass and sermon; 7:30 p.m., Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and sermon. French parishioners will have a sermon delivered in that language in the sacristy at the same time as the other sermon. The services will be in common.

A MAN'S wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and use Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a new person person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too! dw

Peculiar Epitaphs.

The Unique Inscriptions on the Tomb stones of Joe Beef and his Family.

Mr. W. H. Wrighton has received from a friend in Montreal the following interesting copy of the epitaphs upon the tombstones of the celebrated "Joe Beef," and members of his family:

MARGARET McRAE,
(and her baby),
A native of Quebec, and wife of Charles McKiernan, generally known as Joe Beef.
Died September 26th, 1881,
Aged 25 years.

She leaves a wife and 4 small children to mourn her loss, besides a kind mother, and six loving sisters, one in particular her bosom friend Mary.

Here I lie at rest,
With my darling babe upon my breast,
Free from all earthly care.

I leave a husband and 4 orphaned babes to mourn their mother's loss, who will never return, but let that tree which you see be the tree of liberty, and in its stead never let the seed of bigotry be planted between them and me, for when I die here I wish them all to lie. It's a mother's prayer, for they were once a mother's care.

MCKIERNAN, FRED,

Born, Feb. 14th, 1878, died 20th July, 1881, aged 3 years, 6 months and 12 days.

Freddy, dear, are you here alone? Johnny wants to know from little Joe where do you now stay, or with what little boys do you play? for the little iron cap poor mother bought still waits for you at home.

CHARLES MCKIERNAN,

Better known as "Joe Beef," born in Cavan, Ireland, Dec. 4th, 1835; died in Montreal, Jan 15th, 1889.

Such was the departed one we mourn, dear to us all, cherished be his name; eternal pleasure reigns where he has gone; our loss is great, but oh how great is gain.

Full many a man of wealth and power has died and gone before,
Who scorned to give a poor man bread, when he stood at his door.
But Joe took in the great unwashed, who shared of his humble fare;
He made their life a merry one without a thought or care.
Their eyes are dim for loss of him, their grief is quite sincere;
He housed them from the winter blast, and filled them with good cheer.
And when the day of reckoning comes, as come it does to all,
Such sincere mourners they'll not have behind their funeral pall.

ERECTED BY HIS WIFE.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Wm. Smart gave a very thoughtful and practical address at the young men's meeting Saturday evening. It was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mr. F. G. Saunders led the consecration meeting Sabbath morning. The power of the Spirit was upon all for service.

The open air service in the Central Park yesterday afternoon was attended by a very large crowd, who by their orderly conduct showed their interest in the Gospel addresses given by Mr. Wm. Smart and the General Secretary. Owing to the illness of Mr. Major the band was not present to lead the singing, but all present greatly helped.

The Gospel and song service last evening was a season of blessing to all, the hall was filled. Messrs Wallbrook and Smart gave earnest and thoughtful missionary addresses which made a marked impression on all.

The Ladies Auxiliary will resume their meetings on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All ladies interested in our work invited.

Fire in the North.

A Large Portion of the Village of Kinmount Destroyed.

LINDSAY, Sept. 27.—About 9 o'clock last night a request came from the village of Kinmount to send up the Lindsay firemen and engine, as a disastrous fire was raging. The fire brigade promptly reported, but arrived too late to be of any great service. The fire started in Dunbars Hotel, and in a few hours the entire business portion of the village was destroyed, only two hotels and one store being left. The buildings destroyed were all frame. It is feared that there is little insurance, as a report is current that the insurance companies cancelled all their policies on the district burned some time ago.

News Nuggets.

—Police Magistrate Edmison this morning gave judgment in the assault cases of Hane and Vaughan vs. Frith, of Ashburnham, fining the defendant $2 and costs.

—A union meeting of the Young People's Association takes place in the George Street Church to-night at eight o'clock. Topic, "The way of sin."

The Misses C. B. and E. Sanderson have presented the Association with their booklet "Helpful Words." It is all its title implies, and we thank them very much for it.

—Walter Stocker, the city bill poster, lost a small bunch of keys on the street Saturday. He would be greatly obliged if the finder would return them.

A farmer left a bag of apples at the police station Saturday for the owner. A lady had paid him for them and he could not find her residence afterwards to deliver them.

More than Conquerors.

"Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
And he but naked, though locked up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted."

So said the immortal bard of Avon, and so it will be to the end of the world. Imitators, and common package dyes are quarreling among themselves in their vain endeavors to make their dyes popular, while "Diamond Dyes," invincible, powerful and popular, are quietly pursuing their way, and doing satisfactory work in every household. "Diamond Dyes" are honest, truthful, reliable and never disappoint.

THE SHORT-LIVED HUMORIST.

Robert J. Burdette Thinks His Fame Is Rather Transient.

So scarce is the funny man that you must seek for him when you want him. He is not nearly so numerous as his reputation. He loves life and light and warmth, and is as vivacious in his mere enjoyment of life that possibly he sometimes multiplies himself to one's irritated imagination, as one high winged, restless fly, child of the summer seems to be a hundred or a thousand to the wise man, bent upon improving his mind and tempting germs by reading the "Encyclopedia Britannica." The "send man" is a May fly, living in the sunshine for one happy day and then forgotten. In a semi critical paper a few months since Mr. Luken mentions by name about 250 American humorists who have made merry with their friends during the past 200 years. It is a pathetic record of strangers. Read it and underline the names whom have a familiar sound to your ears.

Blot out the names you cannot remember to have read or heard before, and if you are under forty years of age the condensation of the paper will startle you. The people have not been led into the wilderness of frivolity by the end man. Sometimes the funny man, in a moment of madness, consents to lecture two nights in succession. The second lecture is almost invariably a dismal failure. "One consecutive night" is the limit of the funny man's course. But people do like to be amused a little, and so the end man is usually put on. Frequently he is informed—and the unconscious seriousness of the committee man who so informs him is funnier than anything in the lecture—that "we have had the very best lecturers in the country on our course this winter, the strongest minds and the greatest thinkers in America, and now our people want a little change."—Robert J. Burdette in Forum.

The easy quiet way in which T. A. Sicom's Oxygenized Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil has won its way into public favor speaks volumes for its merits. At the office of the company, Toronto, Ont., can be seen valuable testimonials, while any druggist will tell you that for all pulmonary difficulties it stands unrivalled. w40ws

End of the Tariff Conference — Congress Adjourns To-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The tariff conference report has been adopted by the House.

Mr. McKinley made the closing speech in advocacy of the amended tariff bill. It was not, he said, a bill of retaliation or a bill of diplomacy; it was a bill for the people of the United States to supply them with the necessary revenue to meet the current expenses. The committee had so discriminated in the adjustment of the tariff as to give protection to our people, a defence to their industries and a compensation to make up the difference between the prices paid labor in Europe and prices paid labor in the United States. For it was the pride of this country that it paid more and better wages to its workmen than were paid anywhere else on the face of God's earth. [Applause on the Republican side.] The future alone would vindicate or condemn this bill. The mere words of the gentleman from Tennessee, or of other gentlemen, were only the words of the press of England or of other countries. Gentlemen had said that this bill did not increase the demand for a single grain of wheat or of a pound of corn. He would say to these gentlemen that when this bill became a law 50,000 men would be employed to provide the people of this country with tinplate, which would be consumed by the farmers of the west. Already they had begun making tinplate in St. Louis. This bill, if it became law, would put upon the free list one half of all the products which the United States imported—the like of which was never known in any tariff bill passed by the Congress of the United States.

Regarding reciprocity, Mr. McKinley said: We consented to the reciprocity provision put into our bill by the Senate, a provision perfectly understood by both sides of the house. We have accepted the Aldrich amendment, and we indulge the hope that, in accordance with the expectation and belief of so many distinguished men all over the country, this will enable us to open up great fields for the products of our farmers.

In conclusion he said: The domain of debate has passed. The time for action has come, and he therefore demanded the previous question. The previous question was ordered: Yeas 151, nays 79.

The conference report was then agreed to: Yeas 152 the Speaker voting in the affirmative), nays 81.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—When the Senate meets to-morrow morning the report of the Conference Committee on the Tariff bill will be ready for presentation and will probably be taken up at once for consideration. How much time will be consumed in discussion cannot be accurately stated, for the rules of the Senate do not permit limitation of debate except by unanimous consent, but leaders on both sides were confident on Saturday that a vote could be reached by Tuesday at the furthest. If that proves to be the case final adjournment will come the day after the report is disposed of. So far as known Mr. Carlisle and Mr. McPherson, if he be well enough to talk, are the only Democratic Senators who will make speeches on the report. On the Republican side Mr. Aldrich, who will submit the report, will probably answer them. Mr. Ingalls had not decided to-night whether or not to make a speech. Some discussion of the report by the Republican Senators who are not satisfied with its recommendations is anticipated, but how wide a range it will take or how extended cannot be foretold.

English Comments on the Bill.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Standard's Vienna correspondent says: "Some of the amendments to the McKinley bill accepted by the Conference Committee were the result of an agreement between the French Government and Hon. Whitelaw Reid, the American Minister at Paris, in order to facilitate the entry of pork into France and wine and objects of art into America. Mr. Phelps, the American Minister at Berlin, was instructed to enter into similar negotiations with the German Government. Pourparlers were also begun here, but were without result, because there is no restriction on the entry of American pork into Austria."

The Standard says: "The McKinley tariff is much less alarming than it looks. It may diminish our trade with America, but it will aid us immensely to spread it in other quarters. A number of English merchants and manufacturers have looked forward with dread to the time when America would enter the markets of the world to compete with us on the free trade basis. Their alarm will now disappear. To our own colonies, to the new fields in Africa and to all countries desirous of developing their foreign trade the continuance of the high tariff in America will be an excellent bit of good fortune."

The News says: "We are happily old hands in contests of this kind and will not be driven by any provocation to the suicidal policy of resorting to either reciprocity or retaliation. The enterprise of our traders will find in one corner of the globe—in Asia, Africa or on the continent of America—more than sufficient to compensate for this incredibly foolish measure. The great loss will be to the United States. The earlier tariff has already paralyzed the export trade in manufactures and the McKinley bill may kill it. The true danger to England's industrial supremacy will begin only when free trade opens to these intelligent and powerful rivals the markets of the world."

A Man of Enterprise.

"Want to buy a wheelbarrow, madam?" demanded the aggressive-looking man at the front door of a dwelling near Jackson Park the other day.

"What in the world do I want with a wheelbarrow?" said the astonished woman of the house.

"Sold twenty-seven in this neighborhood since yesterday morning," he retorted, "and most of them to people who are among the very best in this part of Chicago."

"I don't see why——"

"Pardon me. You are aware that the World's Columbian Exposition is to be held within half a mile of this house?"

"Yes, but what has that——"

"Pardon me again. You have relatives who will visit you during the Exposition. Very good. All of us have. Each of these relatives, or the great majority of them, will bring a trunk. The ordinary charge of an expressman for taking a trunk to or from a railway station is 25 cents. Owing to the great increase in business that year, or to the probable formation of an expressmen's trust, the charge will be 50 cents. The Exposition will last six months. You will have an average of one relative with a trunk for every week during all that time, and of course you will have to pay for taking that trunk to and from your house. The relative will protest mildly against your looking after the trunk, but you'll do it. You'll pay $1 for drayage on every trunk that comes to your house and goes away from it while the Exposition lasts. That will bring your expenses for that item alone up to $26. Now mark! The wheelbarrows I am selling will cost only $1.50 each. They are strong, serviceable, light, and just the thing for knocking out an extortionate expressmen's trust. All you have to do is to pay a boy 10 cents for wheeling the trunk. Cost of wheelbarrow, $1.50. Expense for boy, twenty-six weeks, $2.60. Total, $4.10. Saving effected by adoption of wheelbarrow plan, $21.90—enough to buy a good hard-coal stove. I'm selling by sample, madam, you understand. I take your order now and deliver in the spring of 1893. Expect to sell $10,000 of them before that time James, bring that wheelbarrow inside the gate, so the lady can see it."

"He needn't do it," said the lady. "I don't want it."

"I assure you, madam, $1.50 is the very lowest figure at which you can buy the kind of wheelbarrow I am selling, and if I didn't get it at a big discount from manufacturer's price on account of the quantity I expect to order I could not——"

"I don't want it, sir."

"Possibly you see no necessity of paying a boy 10 cents for each trip. There are boys, I admit, who will do it for five, if promised a regular job. Or you may have a boy of your own. In that case you save the entire 10 cents. Total saving effected by wheelbarrow plan——"

"I have several boys, sir, I also have a husband——"

"Ah!"

"Who is in the expressing business himself. Owns three or four wagons. Expects to make a good thing hauling trunks in 1893.

"You ought to have told me this when I began, madam," said the man, as he backed down the steps. "I have wasted enough sound argument and good English on you to have sold three or four of these machines to any ordinary customer. James, come along with that wheelbarrow over to the next house. Steplively, now, confound you!"

PELLY'S NARROW ESCAPE

A Solemn Scene in the Woodstock Court Room.

THE PRISONER'S DEMEANOR.

Eloquent Addresses by Osler and Blackstock The Jury Out an Hour and a Half—A Terrible Ordeal for the Prisoner—"I Am Not Guilty of the Crime, My Lord"—The Prisoner Back in Jail Before One and Put in Charge of the Death Watch Precautions Against Suicide.

Woodstock, Sept. 29.—The fate of John Reginald Birchall was solemnly sealed in gravely midnight to-night, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of the wilful murder of Frederick Cornwallis Benwell in the lonely Blenheim swamp on Feb. 17 last. It had took the jury 7 hours to make up their minds, although it was supposed by many when the court room was finally cleared at 10 o'clock that they would remain out for three or four hours. The jury were unanimous on the first ballot, but they discussed the matter for over an hour before coming to their final decision. The court room itself was utilized for the purpose of considering the verdict, and the big crowd were bundled out into the chilly atmosphere with very little ceremony by the posse of constables. Birchall when the room was cleared was whirled away to the jail. At 11, precisely Deputy-Sheriff Perry trudged across the square to the O'Neill House where Mr. Justice MacMahon was in waiting in his room. The deputy informed the judge that the jury had agreed and in two minutes His Lordship was back in his seat on the stage. There was a rush for places in the court room after His Lordship entered the room. Although it was somewhat the witching hour of midnight a good Indian could not get enough to squeeze into the room among the 40 or so of men.

Birchall was brought back to the room at exactly 12. He was escorted himself-ed to Constable Marshal And ison. When he sat down in the dock it took the constable nearly five minutes to remove his ni fitting mossy. The prisoner's face was white and bleached and he seemed to realize that it was all over with him. After the names of the jury had been called Clerk Canfield, amid a death-like stillness, said: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon your verdict?"

George Christopher, the most intelligent-looking man on the jury and who is a retired farmer living at Ingersoll, had been chosen foreman and he immediately arose and said: "We find the prisoner guilty of the murder."

Mr. Holmuth asked to have the jury polled and this was accordingly done. At each of the twelve names being called Mr. Lordship enquired: "How say you? Is John Reginald Birchall guilty of the offence charged?" Each one of the twelve answered "Guilty."

Mr. Hellmuth: "Your Lordship, in the absence of Mr. Blackstock, who is unable to be present, I mean that the crown reserve the question because of the introduction of the Mulloch letter."

His Lordship: "I see no reason to reserve the case."

Mr. Osler: "I move for the sentence of the court."

All eyes were turned towards the doomed man, and in a solemn voice the judge commanded the prisoner to stand up. Birchall complied, his face becoming ghastly pale, but he did not appear to tremble a muscle. He fixed his eyes steadily on the judge, who returned the glance as he leaned over on his table and prepared to pass sentence. His Lordship spoke on, but with scarcely a tremor in his voice. It was Justice MacMahon's first death sentence. His Lordship then asked: "What have you to say, John Reginald Birchall, why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced on you for the felony of murder that you have committed?"

The prisoner looked more intently if possible at the judge and said in a loud, clear voice: "Simply that I am not guilty of the crime, my lord."

The audience looked on with something almost akin to paralysis.

His Lordship then addressed the prisoner as follows: It is part of a solemn and painful duty cast upon me to pass upon you the sentence of the court for the felony of which you have been convicted. I can only say I fully concur in the verdict which has been returned by the jury on the indictment against you. You have been defended with great ability, and there has been no point connected with the offence that has not been fully brought before the jury and pressed upon them with all the fervor and all the ability that human nature could command, and while I say that I may say also that the inevitable conclusion that has been reached in the minds not only of the jury but of almost every one who has listened to the trial was that you conceived and premeditated and carried out the murder of a young man who had been entrusted to you by an aged father. It was your duty and your bounded duty to have looked after and protected him. Notwithstanding that, account any compunction on your part, you proceed to take his life and to reap the insurance reward that you thought was to be obtained by asking the payment of the large money which you would get by the draft that was to come from England and the property which you immediately took possession of. It is melancholy to think that, along with the education you possess, with opportunities which no doubt you must have had to further your own material interests you should so far have forgotten yourself as to pursue the course which you have pursued and you should have prepared to dip your hand into the blood of your fellow man. It is melancholy to think that after such a short period after you became a married man and became connected with an estimable and respectable family you should have brought this trouble and disgrace upon them. I can hold out to you no hope whatever of any commutation of the sentence I am about to pronounce. There is, I may say to you, but a short time in which you can be permitted to live, and I earnestly implore you to take advantage of every hour that remains to make your peace by supplicating the Throne of Heavenly Grace for forgiveness of the sins committed by you in the flesh.

The Sentence of the Court

upon you, John Reginald Birchall, is that you be taken hence to the place whence you came, and that there within the walls of the prison between the hours of 8 o'clock in the morning and 9 in the afternoon on Friday, Nov. 14 next, you be hanged by the neck until you are dead, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Birchall did not stagger, nor did an audible sylable escape from his lips. He sank back easily in his chair in the dock, while the spectators flocked around his box or peered over the top of the rail at the doomed man. He did not look to the right nor to the left, but simply gazed ahead of him. Mr. McKay and Mr. Hellmuth walked over to him and he shook hands with both of them, adding a few words: "Thank you gentlemen."

[illegible] to clear the court room. The jurymen mingled with the spectators and seemed glad once more to breathe the air of freedom after their eight days of confinement.

Fifteen minutes after midnight Birchall found himself back in the jail with the death watch placed upon him. It was whispered throughout the crowd that he would commit suicide, but ample precautions have already been taken at the jail to prevent that.

Mrs. Birchall had long since retired, having been given a powerful opiate by her physician to quiet her nerves. But the awful news was subsequently broken to her by Mr. Hellmuth.

Thus ended this court chapter in this awe-inspiring scene.

FEATURES OF THE DAY.

Some of the Visitors to the Court Room—Some Sympathetic Scenes.

Among the early arrivals at the court room were Dr. MacMahon, M.L.A., for North Wentworth, and brother of the presiding judge. The doctor reached town at 6 o'clock this morning, coming from the West.

Mrs. Blackstock arrived from Toronto at an early hour and was present all through the long session of the court.

The addresses occupied five minutes more than 11½ hours in delivery. Mr. Blackstock spoke for 5 hours and 10 minutes, Mr. Osler for 4 hours and 10 minutes, and His Lordship for 2 hours and 15 minutes. The speaking lasted from 9.55 a.m. to 9.55 p.m., with a short intermission for lunch.

All through these long and anxious hours the prisoner sat with his eyes riveted on the speaker, as the case happened to be, or on the jury. Only his head was visible above the top of the rail of the dock, and his face wore an anxious and frightened look all through the lengthy ordeal. For an hour at a time he sat with a statue-like pose of the head, appearing at intervals as if he were attempting to memorize the views of good men and true. Very few of them, however, returned Birchall's anxious stare. They sat nervously in their chairs, drank copious draughts of water handed them by the constables and seemed loth to nothing of it but the words that fell with measured pace first from Mr. Blackstock, then from Mr. Osler, and last of all to the stern judicial phrases of His Lordship. After the shades of night had gathered over the court room the gas was lighted and still the incessant recital of the remarkable circumstances surrounding the case went dramatically on. Outside in the square there was a dense crowd, and they howled and yelled themselves hoarse in revenge for not being admitted to the already crowded room. Their unseemly disturbances did not in the least appear to disturb the judicial serenity of Mr. Justice MacMahon at his court, for it was while His Lordship was speaking that the throng usually yelled their loudest.

Occasionally Mrs. Birchall and her sister Mrs. West-Jones were in the court room during the speech of Mr. Blackstock and they sat immediately behind his chair. They, however, left the room when the gentleman had finished his speech. Mrs. Birchall, haggard, looking at all times gave way to the melting mood when Mr. Blackstock seemingly and pathetically referred to the garland of widely devotion that invested all her actions towards the accused man since his arrest seven months ago. The scene in the crowded court room during the recital by Mr. Blackstock of this touching reference to the unfortunate woman for whom can say that she is not unfortunate, was pathetic in the extreme. Many of the ladies in the room looked from the fair woman and her sister with involuntary and proffered sympathy, but the poor creature heeded them not. Her thoughts were God only knows what—probably they were cast in a once happy home in far-off England, perhaps in her husband's lonely cell, perhaps the black shadow of the gibbet filled her soul with horror and dread. No one in the room seemed to more thoroughly appreciate the situation than Mr. Blackstock and the legal gentlemen who so ably assisted him in the defence, Mr. Hellmuth and Mr. G. S. McKay.

No counsel ever went into the task by explaining away to a jury the iron chain of circumstances with more earnestness, with more genuine wholehearted expression in his countenance, than did the young advocate from the Queen's city.

In strange contrast was the expression on the countenance of Mr. Osler. He seemed like an old warrior who was about entering a battle which he had already won, like a race horse who looked with contempt on his fellow-competitors. But, withal, Mr. Osler was not harsh or spiteful in presenting his facts and backing them up with the experience of an old campaigner.

The judge, it was remarked from the outset, while he no doubt spoke to the jury as a teacher would to a class of pupils acted as it was a foregone conclusion and that to him the fact was clear that the strong arm of the law had descended upon the right person, and that it was his duty to so impress the jury and Canadians ought to be extremely thankful that they had no more to do with this terrible crime than bringing the guilty man to justice.

Farmer Costan Gets a Seat in Court.

At exactly 9 o'clock Mr. Justice MacMahon came out upon the stage and took his seat upon the bench. The chairs which had been placed so conspicuously to the left of that of His Lordship had been removed, and the favored ladies who occupied these places formerly had to seek seats in the body of the court-room. Therefore the court had the whole stage to itself, with no one else to share the limelight, if there had been such an adjunct to this theatrically-set scene.

His Lordship, turning to Mr. Blackstock, said: "Any evidence?" "Yes, my Lord," was the reply. "John McMaster."

A Canadian Pacific telegraph messenger boy stepped into the witness box and testified that he delivered the telegram from the Stafford House, Buffalo, to Birchall, saying there was a letter and telegram for prisoner to Mr. O'Neill, clerk of Bamfield's Imperial Hotel.

Mr. Blackstock said that since Saturday a new witness had appeared on the scene. He (my) an address by Mr. Hellmuth to the effect that James Costan, a farmer living a mile from Princeton, could give some evidence in the case. His Lordship said he might be called and he was sworn. Costan was a farmer near Princeton. He recollected the circumstance of the body being found in the swamp. On Tuesday evening of that week a young man, apparently about 20, a stranger and well dressed, called at his house and asked to remain over night. He said he came from Brantford and wanted to go to Woodstock. Witness told him he could not stay. Prisoner said he had applied at many of the houses along the road and they refused to accommodate him. He also asked if there were any woods near. He afterwards saw the body of the man found in the swamp, but he did not bear any resemblance to the man witness saw.

It was quite apparent that Farmer Costan had resorted to this ruse to gain admission to the court-room and get a good seat. Mr. Osler did not deem it necessary to cross-examine the witness.

George Patterson, who took the depositions at the Princeton inquest, was called to prove these. To Mr. Osler he said he did not take question and answer, but wrote it in narrative form, and necessarily had to put down his own interpretation of the evidence as given by each witness.

The register of the Metropolitan Hotel, New York, was put in, which showed that on Feb. 15 last, Birchall, his wife, Pelly and Benwell were all registered at that house, written, as stated by Mr. Blackstock, in the prisoner's hand writing.

The Effort of His Life.

Mr. Blackstock, although he seemed to be laboring under a great load during the first hour of his address, gradually became easier in the presentation of his facts. Everyone who listened to the address admits it should go down as the effort of his life before a jury. He did not enter into theories, as he frequently remarked that he would not, but he explained away, one by one, according to his views, the strong links of the circumstantial evidence. Mr. Blackstock's address throughout was of that strong and intense kind. He fastened his eyes constantly on the jury, very seldom looking towards the prisoner or around the court room. Birchall followed his counsel's remarks with the keenest of interest, and his eyes were rivetted on the stalwart young advocate who was engaged in the task of saving his neck from the rope was never diverted for an instant. Mr. Blackstock's face was pale and he looked careworn, like one who had sat up for a couple of nights preparing his herculean effort, but he exhibited no signs whatever of fatigue during the whole time of his address, which lasted exactly 5 hours and 10 minutes. He did not close without paying a clever compliment to the ability of Mr. Osler, who, he said, was always found on the side of defending prisoners, and it was worthy of remark that he should now be engaged on behalf of the crown. His Lordship, too, was pained to the jury as a gentleman who had made his mark at the bar, both as a prosecutor and as a defender, and he bespoke from the bench every fairness and consideration for his client. There was not a stir in the court-room during Mr. Blackstock's telling speech. There was no effort at applause, for, no doubt if there had been, it would have been promptly suppressed. Mr. Blackstock took occasion to roast detectives generally, and John Murray in particular, not because of the way that he had worked up the case, but evidently because of the thorough manner in which that officer had worked up his case for the crown lawyers.

Mr. Osler's address was just one hour shorter than that of Mr. Blackstock.

Mr. Osler, who is such a familiar figure before juries all over the province, adverted to his old practice of getting directly opposite the 12 good men's line and talked all through those long hours to the jury and the jury alone. He appealed as sympathetically for the prisoner's conviction, as he has on many occasions pleaded for an accused man's acquittal of some serious crime. As in his opening address, Mr. Osler carefully went over the whole circumstance of the crime, its motive, how it was committed and how an effort had been made to cover up all tracks of the dead.

Mr. Osler also took occasion to defend Detective Murray from the onslaught made on him by Mr. Blackstock, holding that the Government officer had worked up the evidence on behalf of the Crown in a clever and astute manner. "The hatred of Murray by the prisoner was reflected through his counsel," declared Mr. Osler.

The crown prosecutor told the jury emphatically that he had no doubt of the prisoner's guilt and he asked for his conviction on the overwhelming chain of circumstances presented by the crown.

His Lordship's address was a general review of the evidence, during the course of which he fully instructed the jury on points of law.

THREE STIRRING ADDRESSES.

Mr. Blackstock Holds the Floor for Over Five Hours.

Mr. Blackstock then arose to deliver his address to the jury. He said: However feeble and inadequate my own capabilities may be I have every hope of receiving your indulgent sympathy during the ordeal. A solemn and imposing scene is being enacted; you are participating in the gravest, most responsible and most awful function which civilization presents to the human being, you are debating the question of life and death. Society, for its own protection, has said that under certain circumstances it has the right to step in and anticipate the messenger of death; that though God gave life man has no right to take it. There are in this community, as well as in many others, a large faction who maintain that under no circumstances should society have the right to forfeit human life, and many states have abolished capital punishment. We live in a country where the law still enforces the death penalty, and while we should uphold the law the only justification for the existence of which be the highest necessity founded upon the strongest proofs. A vast proportion of the evidence submitted was such as could only be challenged upon oath in the box, but the prisoner was quite there was a dense crowd, and they howled and yelled themselves hoarse in revenge for not being admitted to the already crowded room. Their unseemly disturbances did not in the least appear to disturb the judicial serenity of Mr. Justice MacMahon at his court, for it was while His Lordship was speaking that the throng usually yelled their loudest.

AS THE Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys' Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

"No Cross; No Crown."

(From the Lindsay Post.)

Amongst the devices for illuminating purposes in connection with the Governor-General's visit were several crowns, and as every intelligent person knows, these crowns had crosses similar to the cross on the imperial crown. The large crown on the Kent-st-set arch had a cross, of course, and when it was in place quite a ripple of excitement spread over town amongst certain people who regarded the cross as another instance of popish agression. Well-informed and sensible people were much amused at the exhibition of prejudice which may be set down as a result of the teaching so severely condemned by Judge Rose on a recent memorable occasion. It was supposed the feeling would pass away, but it did not, and some time Monday evening the crown was torn down and the cross broken off. The act of vandalism excited general indignation. The crown was replaced Wednesday in time for the illumination. A reward should be offered by Mayor Smyth for the apprehension and conviction of the perpetrators of the outrage.

Agitation Regarding the Covering of the Montreal Reservoirs.

This important question is now agitating the public mind in Montreal, and the City Council has already discussed the matter. Some of the aldermen strongly advocate the complete covering of the reservoirs at once, and all the citizens and tax-payers will without a dissenting voice say, "Amen, so let it be."

It is an undeniable fact that all such reservoirs are often the dumping place for much decomposed matter; and often become for a time, the resting place for innocent babes, as well as the suicide. It is not advisable that our Canadian people should become a nation of alarmists, but when millions of lives are in a great measure dependent on pure water, then it is time to cry aloud, and say we must be protected, no matter what the cost may be. Has it ever occurred to the average citizen that notwithstanding all the care that may be bestowed on reservoirs and aqueducts, that a vast amount of sickness and disease is caused by the many impurities that come even from the fountain head of all reservoirs. Still it behooves the authorities of all cities and towns to make the water supply as nearly pure as possible.

While absolutely pure water cannot prevent the vast amount of sickness and suffering we see in our midst, it can to a large extent ameliorate the condition and help to lessen the amount of disease. No amount of the purest water will ever give relief to the restless, sleepless and irritable man or woman. It cannot calm and quiet the unstrung nerves, and soothe or ease the worn-out brain.

The best and purest water that Heaven has ever bestowed cannot take away that wornout and languid feeling under which many are burdened; it cannot enable the stomach and bowels to work harmoniously, so as to avoid that terrible Dyspepsia and Indigestion; it cannot either restore the proper functions of the Kidneys and Liver when disordered.

Although water is a God-given gift to man and that without it man could not exist, still it is an acknowledged fact, that something more potent and possessing wonderful curative and strengthing powers must be looked for to eradicate the diseases above mentioned, and to give to the weak body and brain, vitality, steength and vigor.

Hers Paine's Celery Compound comes to the rescue of those who suffer. Being a highly scientific vegetable preparation designed especially for giving tone, strength and vigor, the weakest and most depressed mortal need have no dread if this great remedy is faithfully and honestly used as directed. It is accomplishing wonders every day when other remedies are found useless, and where physicians fail, and give up the patient as incurable.

Paine's Celery Compound has no equal in the sick room, and every household should be provided with a bottle, especially where the drinking water is not pure. A small dose taken once or twice a day by even healthy people, will safely guard them from the bad effects that are often felt from drinking impure and badly filtered water

RARE RELICS OF ANTIQUITY.

Recent discoveries among ancient tombs in Etruria unmistakably show that dentistry was practiced as far back as six centuries before the Christian era. Several of the skulls examined had false teeth, carved from those of some large animals, while many of the natural teeth had gold filling

The British Museum has recently become possessed of a Chinese bank note issued from the Imperial mint three hundred years before the circulation of paper money in Europe, or in the first year, or one of the first years, of the reign of the first Ming Emperor. The first real bank in Europe was that of Barcelona, established in 1401.

A coffin inscribed with the date 1761 was recently opened in a grave-yard of St. James' Church, Clerkenwell, and, to the surprise of the workmen, there was little about the corpse to show that it had been buried a hundred years and not a few days. The flesh seemed to have turned into a kind of wax. The body was that of a finely formed woman of thirty five. The features were perfectly distinguishable, the teeth were in place, and the lines of the body were firm and clear.

Near Somerset, in Perry County, O., is an ancient ruin, whose wall's, inclosing forty acres, were built of undressed stone, now lying in confusion. They have been estimated sufficient to build a wall seven feet high and six feet broad around the whole forty acres inclosure. One gateway between two large rocks opened into the country and was defended by a huge bowlder. The inclosure contained a large stone mound. No skeletons have been found and the inclosure was certainly used for other purposes than habitation or sacrifice.

Honeymooning in a Furniture Van.

A novel method of spending a honeymoon has recently been added to the list of unique wedding journeys in coaches, on house boats or yachts. A young Viennese bridegroom procured for the trip a new furniture van with three horses and a driver. The interior he fitted up in a most daintily luxurious way with every comfort and convenience dear to the feminine heart. Just how the light was supplied is not easy to conjecture, for the ordinary furniture van has no windows. Possibly electricity may have diffused its soft radiance from depending globes of roseate hue, or the isolated lovers may have lived only in the soft light of each other's eyes. The cooking problem would also arise to any one but lovers, but whether the driver united the culinary art with that of handling the reins, or whether the young woman herself was a cooking-school graduate, is not known. Anyway, the pair expect to spend a two months' honeymoon at a cost of little more than $100 per month, rambling about the country in their own private conveyance with buffet accommodations.

An Interesting Find.

It is reported from Maine that, buried among the shell mounds at Casco Harbor, the Peabody Historical Society recently found some rare and suggestive reminders of prehistoric times. Bones of the deer, porpoise, beaver, fox, woodchuck and some smaller carnivorous animals, birds of several kinds, including a well preserved specimen of the wing bone of the great auk, now wholly extinct, were picked up. Fragments of pottery were numerous, as well as chips of stone broken off in the manufacture of stone implements. Of implements, half a dozen perfect and some incomplete were discovered. Only one piece of worked bone occurred, a broken awl.

BIRCHALL GUILTY.

—a letter written two or at the outside three days after the death—a letter that you cannot study too much. That letter was written by a man who had not shown himself a fool in any other correspondence. That letter was not written to be followed by another from the son in a day or two, stating that there was no business, no farm—that he had been defrauded. Take it, gentlemen, and read it between those lines, and the word you read, gentlemen, between those lines is MURDER. The man who wrote that letter knew that the right hand of Col. Benwell's son would never more communicate with his father; he knew that that son was cold and stiff in death. In that letter it states Benwell had inspected the books. Where are the books? It says he had consulted a lawyer in London. Where is the lawyer? It states that prisoner had introduced Benwell to several persons. Who are these persons? Why is there no explanation given?

He Could Have Drawn the Money All Right.

He met the argument of Mr. Blackstock that, inasmuch as Birchall in his letter requested Col. Benwell to send the money to the firm he would be unable to get the money if Benwell was dead, by pointing out that the letter requests the money to be sent to the firm of Birchall & Benwell, so that either member of the firm could get the money without the presence of the other. On this correspondence, coupled with the return of prisoner to Buffalo accompanied by Benwell, with that telegram in his own handwriting signed Bastell, he claimed that he would have a right to ask for a conviction of this man without the slightest evidence as to the journey and as to the prisoner's identification. The burden is upon the prisoner to show where he was on Feb. 17. Where was he? Why, gentlemen, my learned friend said that the prisoner's mouth was closed. My learned friend knows that at the close of the case the prisoner has a right to stand up in the dock and make an explanation of the circumstances, to tell the jury any plausible tale he likes and I cannot cross-examine him. He cannot, although his life is trembling in the balance. He prefers to remain silent and seek to discredit the evidence of the crown, consequent upon little disagreements. It was open to him to show whom he met, with whom he dined; but in all that Niagara country he cannot find a man who will come forward and say "I saw him." He made an arrangement to send a telegram at 2 o'clock.

And now as to the identity? If you believe any one of these witnesses as to prisoner having been identified in any spot it covers the whole journey. The crown does not have to trace him all along the journey. Can you say to yourself that Miss Lockhart and Miss Choate are mistaken and that Conductor Poole is wrong? Do you take the responsibility of rejecting their oaths? Then as to Alfred Hayward, whom Mr. Blackstock has particularly selected out for criticism. What interest has he in the matter except to tell the truth? And yet because he could not pick out a grey constable with a nondescript face from the gallery, rendered indistinct by a cross-light, the defence claim that his story reconguizing a man whom he knew as Somerset is false. Could any of you gentlemen pick out your own wife or daughter from the near seats in that gallery? Mr. Osler next referred to the testimony given by the various witnesses who saw the two men going eastward to the swamp. Let's see how the time-bill of these witnesses will agree. The journey would take 1 hour 45 minutes to reach the swamp. So that if we start these men from Eastwood at 11.14 and allow them 3½ miles per hour, which is a fair pace, they could not reach the swamp till 12.39, 21 minutes to 1. Presuming that the prisoner left the swamp in time to catch the train if it was on time, the latest he could leave was 2.4, so that he had a margin of time of 1 hour and 36 minutes. There may have been some of that time taken on the going journey, some of it was used in the swamp, and he may have lost some time in the return journey. But there is that margin for the devil, for the cutting of the clothing and for the return. Now we come to the return journey, and we have the evidence of two witnesses positively identifying the prisoner. Why should they be disbelieved? What interest had they? Now there is a peculiar value in the evidence of Alice Smith. Did she signal under the influence of fright, my learned friend? Did she give you the impression of a girl who was not telling the truth? It is more than identification by a passing glance. It is the identity of the individual by conversation. She knew the man but she mixed the names. Six months before she knew which was Dudley and which was Somerset. This is just one of the little things by which it can be told the witness is telling the truth. If she was made up the story she would have no preliminary doubts.

Then as to the weather. The fall of rain on Wednesday night the 19th was so slight that the water-gauge at the Woodstock observatory would not catch it, but the coat sleeve of the victim caught it all or enough to make a solid cake of ice therein. On the Monday night there fell 45-100ths of an inch of rain with the air below freezing, and that filled the sleeve and inside the coat with ice. There was no blood in the snow or ice. But the crust had to be broken through, and there was the testimony of the dead written by nature itself raising herself up in testimony against the assassin.

The Judge's Summing Up.

His Lordship began his solemn charge to the jury at 4.29 precisely.

At exactly 9.55 his Lordship gave the case to the jury and the court room was cleared to allow them to consider their verdict.

CURRENT NOTES.

An offer to bet may be a fool's argument but it makes the wise man shut up.—Elmira Gazette.

She—"Is Miss Bond engaged to Prince Samson?" He—"Not exactly. He has an option for ninety days, I believe."—Hoosier.

Teacher—"How many work-days are there in the week?" Bobby—"Well, I dunno; that depends on Sundays, holidays, half-holidays, and days when you're wrastlin' for 'arbitration.'"—Puck.

He—"What are you crying for, love?" She—"Over papa's wedding present!—boohoo." He—"Why, what is the matter with it?" She—"It's nothing but a receipted bill for the gas we used up during our courtship."—Burlington Free Press.

Capers—"I don't see why Chadband, the minister, should have two months' vacation every summer. I'm sure his work is easy enough." Smiley—"Of course, his sermons are not hard to write, but just think of all the afternoon teas he has to go to." Capers—"That's so. He ought to have three months."—America.

Old Fuzzleton, M. D., docum tenens for the parish doctor—"Tut, tut! Dear me, you was a complete change—perfect quiet and seclusion, regular hours, muscular exercise and a strict dietary scale." Bill Sikes—"What! Why, Guv'nor, I don't want to be run in again—only come out a' Tooesday."—Funny Folks.

Lady—"You say, professor, that tobacco is an aid to thought and a stimulant to the reasoning faculties; but Prof. Greathead says that tobacco is in every way injurious. How do you account for that difference." The Professor—"Easily enough, madam, Prof. Greathead does not smoke, and consequently he can neither think straight nor reason correctly."—New York Weekly.

Unbearable Agony.

Nobility.

True worth is in being not seeming;
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good—not in the dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.
For whatever men say in blindness,
And spite of the fancies of youth,
There's nothing so kingly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our mete as we measure—
We cannot do wrong and feel right;
Nor can we give pain and gain pleasure
For justice avenges each slight.
The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bush for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And straight for the children of men

We cannot make bargains for blisses;
Nor catch them, like fishes, in nets;
And sometimes the things our life misses
Help more than the things which we get.
For good lieth not in pursuing
Nor gaining of great nor of small;
But just in the doing, and doing
As we would be done by, is all.

Thro' envy, thro' malice, thro' hating,
Against the world early and late,
No jot of our courage abating—
Our part is to work and to wait;
And slight is the sting of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth:
For he who is honest is noble,
Whatever his fortune or birth.

ELECTRICAL VISION.

An Apparatus Proposed With This Object in View

It is said to be possible that modern electricians may succeed in constructing a device that will do for the sense o sight what the telephone does for the sense of hearing, but the prospects fo such an achievement are not particular le bright. The possibility has been de monstrated experimentally but the prac tical difficulties in the way of carryin out the idea are very great. It is wel known that certain salts of copper an silver, for example, generate electric cur rents when exposed to the light; and, con versely, electric currents will make it these salt changes corresponding to thos made by light. If a strongly illuminat ed object is placed in front of a trans mitter covered with such a salt electrica currents will be generated which will vary in intensity according to the intensity of the light falling on different parts o the surface. If, now, these various cur rents were carried to a receiver similar to the transmitter, they would produce on its surface changes like those wrough by light on the surface of the transmitter According to the Electric Record, an ap paratus has been proposed based upon the property peculiar to selenium that its electrical resistance changes with th intensity of light. For a transmitter th selenium cells are arranged in square like a checker board. The greater the number the more efficient would the ap paratus be. Each of these is connecte with an electro-magnet in the receiver The latter is composed of a mirror con structed of thin strings of steel, to each of which several of the electro-magnets are attached. A strongly illuminate body being placed in front of the sele nium transmitter, the electrical resist ance of the various cells varies according to the intensity of the light, as in the case of the salts of the copper and silver. The various currents affect the electro magnets in different degrees, the result being that the strips of steel are bent ir regularly, turning the mirror into an ag gregation of surfaces, very slightly warp ed, which will throw an image on a screen. The main difficulty in the way of the realization of such an idea as see ing by electricity lies in the newly com plexity of an apparatus which shall enabl innumerable points in the transmitter and receivers to be actuated simultane ously in perfect independence, and also in perfect correspondence; but it is quit possible that further experiment wil bring into actual use what might be something more than a mere plaything In defensive war a telescope of indefinite length would certainly be of value With buried wires and concealed visors general might watch his adversary's movements at times when this would mean victory instead of defeat.—Iron.

Where Presidents Got Their Names.

"When in London recently I paid several visits to the home of Minister Lincoln," said R. L. Withrow of New York at the Leland Hotel this morning. "Bright boy, his youngest is. On the occasion of my first visit, I struck up an acquaintance with him. I asked him if he knew the names of all the presidents of the United States, and upon his replying in the negative I wrote them down for him with the advice that he learn them, which he promised to do. On the following Sunday I dined there and during a silence in the conversation about the board I asked him if he had learned the list of presidents. 'No all he said.' I started in all right until I saw that they were all named after the streets of Chicago, and then I gave it up." Chicago Post.

Numbering Houses in the Country.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: A plan of numbering houses in the country has just come into operation in Contra Costa county, California. Every road in the country has a name, and each mile is divided into ten blocks. To each block there are two numbers, one for each side, and the houses are given the same number as the block. Should there be more than one house in the block, they are distinguished by letters, as 10A, 10B, 10C, &c. As there are ten blocks to the mile, No. 100 denotes a house ten miles from the point of starting, and so of any other number.

Testing The Water.

Visitors at holiday resorts who are doubtful about the quality of the water should put some in a bottle and leave it corked for a time. Then shake it thoroughly and remove the cork and smell. If there is the least musty or unpleasant odour, have the water analysed before more of it is drunk.—The Hospital.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Learning to Ride Horseback.

William Hunt, the eccentric artist, has a habit of saying wise things unconciously, in his vigorous, off-hand way, to the pupils who came to his studio in Boston "You want to learn to draw? Well, then —draw. Anywhere, everywhere, with anything that comes to hand—brown paper, scrap of envelope, pen and ink, stick on the ground. Don't stand higgling over proper materials: the old masters made their own materials. Go ahead: do the best you can; draw something, paint something; then there's something to work on, something to show you your faults."

One is reminded of this sound, sensible advice many times in the undertakings of life, but its application comes with force frequently in the matter of horsemanship for men, and surely when the subject presents itself for women. The question of the proper mount, the tailor made Melton habit, the stylish hat, the natty crop, seems to stand in its magnitude and perplexity an insuperable barrier between the would-be rider and the actual fact. The exhilaration and virtue of the exercise itself are too often forgotten with the elevation of minor details and the indulgence of personal vanity and pride is more thought of—with pity be it said—than the development of health and physique. "My dear, it seems to me you have everything except the 'habit' of good riding," said a quaint old dame to her granddaughter, who was displaying with great pride her London outfit as a horsewoman, and yet had but small courage with her horse.

The Southern or Western girl, sweeping across the plains of her father's ranch or through the broad fields of a Southern plantation, would smile at the idea of being "taught" to ride. She learned doing. With some sort of a stuff skirt, long enough to hide the feet and ankles, a soft woollen hat like her brother's she is put in the saddle, with the double charge to "stay on" and "not be afraid." And she does stay on, her father's companion, following as he rides "over the crops," though the way lies over deep gullies and ditches where the cows and cattle clamber up the steep banks, or through the almost impenetrable cane brake, where one hand must press back the long, sharp, blade-like leaves from her face, or push aside the low-hanging vines of the muscadine, with its dark, purple clusters overhead. But she rides, she "stays on," fearlessness is her first lesson. She is one with her horse. She learns to know his force and his power, but she is able to control it, and in time holds both him and herself well in hand. The limitations of the horsewoman in the city would be a revelation—the circle of the academy, riding to music under the gas-light; the class in prim, and proper form under the eye of the master in Rotten Row or Central Park—yet all the same, in spite of these necessities of circumstances, she would whisper to her fashion-loving sister, "The methods are the same everywhere: think more of yourself, if you would be a true horsewoman; pleasure, abandon, and grace come only so."—Emma Moffett Tyng, in Harper's Bazar.

To avoid catching cold, many plans have been suggested. Probably if one never went anywhere or did anything out of the usual routine of life, they would be free from many of the ailments that flesh is heir to, but this is not a satisfactory solution of the question. People must have recreation and enjoyment, and frequently catch cold in the pursuit of them. Wilson's Wild Cherry will cure a Cough or Cold in the shortest possible time, and by its tonic effects, strengthen and invigorate the system at the same time. Sold by all druggists. dw

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $316,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,898	6.31
Ontario Mutual	13,571,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,617	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.66
Temperance and General	2,994,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.13
London Life	1,844,296	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Great Was the Fall Thereof.

A writer says that the falls of the Congo, in Africa, are 389 feet of a drop. It was down these falls that Gough Bro.'s prices of the Kidd bankrupt stock tumbled. That is the reason that the prices for these splendid goods are so low. dw

A Runaway.

Mr. Benjamin Vincent, market gardener, North Monaghan, met with an accident today. His horse ran away on Aylmer street, upsetting the load of vegetables, and throwing Mr. Vincent out, though he was fortunately not much hurt. A shaft of the wagon was broken, and the horse's heels cut.

Attained their Majority.

The prosecution in the milk cases have "attained their majority," so to speak, twenty-one convictions having already been made so far, in every case upon the admission of the defendants. The fines so far imposed amount to $420—a tidy sum for the county treasury. And still there is more to follow.

Round the World.

Principal Grant, of Queen's University will deliver his famous lecture on "Round the World by the Cape of Good Hope," in St. Paul's (Presbyterian) church, on Tuesday evening, 30th September, at eight o'clock. Admission 25c. This will be a rare intellectual treat. Don't miss it. d-tf

POSTPONED.

Owing to unavoidable circumstances, the Auction Sale of Mr. P. H. Pearce's household furniture, announced for Wednesday afternoon, is postponed until further notice.

Trixie Stethem's Death.

The lamentable death of Miss Trixie Stethem, which occurred Saturday evening, was not caused by scarlet fever, as stated, but by heart disease. The paragraph also conveyed the impression that the other children were ill of fever. This is also an error. There is no scarlet fever contagion in the house whatever. The paragraph did the family an unwitting injustice which we sincerely regret.

Two Arrests To Day.

This forenoon a young man named Alex. Wallace, whose parents formerly lived in Peterborough, was arrested on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from in front of R. Neil's store yesterday, and a razor from Al. Haskell, barber. Wallace was wearing the boots when arrested and carried the razor in his pocket. Geo. Eady, a companion, was arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, Wallace also being charged with the same offence. Their trial was to take place at four o'clock this afternoon.

A Proposed Steel Works.

After the meeting of the town council last night a committee meeting was held for the consideration of a proposition from a Pittsburg man for the establishment of a company for the manufacture of steel castings and railway car and other springs. The gentleman has been in negotiation with the council for some time and last night made a definite proposition. He is a practical man, at present engaged in the business, and he wishes to establish a new company. His terms were considered, but no action taken. He agreed, for one thing, to spend $50,000 in wages in six years. The council are still considering the matter.

Peterborough's Prospect

The tone of the discussions amongst the town councillors last night was most cheerful. They all appeared to be of the opinion that a substantial, healthy boom had already resulted from the anticipated location of the Edison Electric Co. in Peterborough. Town properties were said to have advanced considerably in price. Mayor Stevenson stated that the rise was already greater than the amount of the bonus, and that three vacant stores on George street were yesterday leased to parties about to embark in business. These he considered good indications of prosperity, and he thought if one industry could do so much for the town there was every prospect for Peterborough to become a still more flourishing city, as the council had a number of other manufactories in view and would very probably succeed in securing some if not all of them.

Gone to Edinburgh.

The Rev. Orr Bennett, who for the past year and a half most efficiently discharged the duty of pastor of the Minden, Haliburton, Eagle and Allans stations of the Presbyterian church, left Minden on Tuesday morning last, having completed the term for which he was assigned to that mission field, and sails on the 9th October for the Old Country, where he purposes taking the Divinity Examinations of Edinburgh College. "Mr. Bennett," the Echo says, "leaves a host of friends behind him, both in his own church and among the other denominations. He has discharged his clerical duties most efficiently and conscientiously, and his gentlemanly, unobtrusive manner won for him the esteem of all with whom he came in contact. We are very pleased to learn that at every station in his mission the full amount of the stipend promised him has been paid promptly and cheerfully. We congratulate our Presbyterian friends on this fact, and sympathise with them in the loss of so valuable a pastor."

Veterans of '37.

A few days ago the EXAMINER published a paragraph referring to an effort that is being made to secure pensions for the veterans who took part in the rising of 1837-8. It seems that but few of these sturdy patriots survive. On Tuesday the EXAMINER had a call from Mr. John McDonnell, of the township of Smith, who enlisted in Peterborough in the early part of the winter of '37-38. Others volunteered from Peterborough to the number of about fifty. They were removed to Toronto, where a regiment was organized, and a company of about thirty was stationed on the lake Erie front at a point about midway between Fort Erie and Point Abino. In the same company with Mr. McDonnell were Mr. James Kearney, of Young's Point, and Mr. Patrick Lynch, of Smith. They were disbanded at Chippewa in the spring of '38, at which time Governor Sir Edmund Bond Head assured the volunteers that their services would be substantially recognized, but the recognition has not yet come. Mr. McDonnell still has his discharge in his possession. These veterans are certainly entitled to a pension. Their services in severe winter weather were not of the lightest and their fare not of the best. They were paid $8 per month, but the most of this went for their subsistance, the ration being a pound of meat and a pound of bread per day, the volunteer having to provide everything else out of his pay. The call of Mr. McDonnell and the other names mentioned above are through the effort of Mr. L. Fobert, Bridgnorth, who has greatly exerted himself in the interest of the veterans.

Charged with Seduction.

A young man named Fred. McNamara, who practices dentistry, and who worked in a local dentist's office here for a month in midsummer, was arrested in Toronto on Saturday charged with the seduction of a girl named Ellen McIntosh, of Peterborough. McNamara met the girl while in Peterborough, and it is claimed, accomplished her ruin under promise of marriage. Ellen McIntosh was a native of Westwood or vicinity and was employed at different houses in town as a domestic. McNamara was given to drunken habits here and was once arrested for the offence. He left town about a month ago, and the girl must have shortly after followed. The Mail says: "Frederick McNamara was charged with the seduction of Ellen McIntosh at yesterday's session of the Police Court. A second count in the indictment charged McNamara with the offence of procuring or inducing the girl to come to Toronto for immoral purposes. The court was cleared, and then the girl, who is a pleasant looking lassie about nineteen years of age, told how she had been lured from her home near Peterborough, ruined by prisoner, brought to Toronto and kept for about a week as his wife. Then her box was seized by the landlady, and having no money she appealed to McNamara for assistance. He took her to an alleged house of ill fame on Edward street, telling her she could earn plenty of money by leading an immoral life. In cross-examination by Mr. Bigelow, the girl admitted that she had borne a child to another young man and that the prisoner knew all this. The Magistrate remanded the case till to-morrow, admitting prisoner out on bail. The girl seemed in a very weak state during the time she gave her evidence. The Matron of the Salvation Army Rescue Home attended the court and is looking after the welfare of the girl."

Christian Endeavor Co-operation.

A Successful Meeting in the George Street Methodist Church.

A union consecration meeting of the several Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor of the various churches of the town was held in the George street Methodist church on Monday evening.

A very large attendance was present from the four Societies—St. Paul's, Baptist, Methodist and St. Andrew's. Mr. A. McCallum, of St. Paul's Society, took the chair. The subject for discussion was Temperance —"The wages of sin is death."—Rom. vi, 19 to 23. After responsive reading of the lesson, led by Dr. Scott, President of the Union, the subject was opened briefly by Mr. McCallum. He spoke earnestly on the evil of intemperance, not only in the use of intoxicants but in our daily life in all things, and urged the hearers, as members of the Christian Endeavour Societies, that every effort be put forth to further the cause of temperance. Mr. Alfred Johnson spoke on behalf of St. Paul's Society, and dwelt on the terrible temptation young men were subjected to through the use of intoxicants. He spoke earnestly in condemnation of the treating custom, which was the first step downward for so many. Two very instructive papers were read on the subject, one by Miss Ella Stratton, of the Baptist Society, and the other by Mr. A. E. Scott, of the George Street Methodist Society. "The wages of sin is death"—lets each Christian Endeavourer, therefore, shun evil and live so as not to receive the wages of sin, but rather the wages of righteousness. The meeting was then thrown open and a large number took part by short addresses, verses of Scripture or a hymn. The attendance was so large that all had not an opportunity of speaking, but until 9.15 the meeting was carried on enthusiastically a pause seldom occurring, and it is hoped the next union meeting will be as well attended and that more young men will be there.

Was not Favoured.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 29, 1890.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR—In your account of the reception of the Governor-General at this village you mention me as one who was honoured with a grasp of the hand, &c. This is incorrect. I was not one of the honoured few.

Yours,
CHAS JAS. BLOMFIELD.

With reference to the above, it may be stated that Mr. Blomfield's name was given the reporter among the others mentioned, by a member of the committee after the reception had taken place. The reporter accepted the information in good faith.

News Nuggets.

—Patrick Kelly was fined $1 this morning for being drunk last night.

—St. Luke's Harvest Home festival services takes place this evening.

—The first regular battalion drill of the season will be held to-night.

—The charter incorporating the Ontario Telephone Company of Peterborough arrived this morning.

Mr. George Baker, Ashburnham, has returned home after a long absence in Detroit and Chicago.

Harvest Thanksgiving.

The Harvest Thanksgiving service at St. Luke's will be at 7.30 p.m. The church has been prettily and appropriately decorated with grain, vegetables and flowers. The choir has been practising special music for some time past and no doubt will render a hearty service. The Rev. Alfred Spragge, Rector of Cobourg, will be the preacher. A large attendance is expected.

Kellogg Opera Company.

Holders of subscription tickets for the Kellogg Opera Company entertainment Wednesday evening, Oct 8th, are advised to have their seats marked at once, as the plan is filling up so rapidly that they may find themselves before long too late to secure seats. This popular company cannot fail to fill the Opera House.

PASSED WITHOUT A HITCH

The Edison Co. By-law Finally Adopted.

The Agreement Signed by the Mayor and Clerk—The Brooks Co.'s Bonus Satisfactory—Five Thousand of the Money To be Paid at Once.

Mayor Stevenson and Councillors Hartley, Kendry, Langford, Rutherford, Moore, Dawson, A. Hall, E. H. D. Hall, Kelly, Winch and Davidson were present at the special meeting held Monday night for the purpose principally of passing the Edison by-law.

After the reading of the minutes, Mr. Rutherford complained that at the last special meeting general business had been taken up contrary to rules, and among other business transacted was that with reference to electric lights, in which he, Mr. Kendry and Mr. Cahill were interested; but they were away from town, not expecting the meeting. He held the principle was decidedly wrong, to transact general business on any but regular meeting nights, and protested against the minutes as read.

The minutes were approved.

The clerk began to read the accounts, but Mr. Rutherford and Mr. Kendry objected to dealing with any business but that for which the meeting was specially called.

THE BY-LAW FINALLY PASSED.
